THE cross-examination, or appearance of interest, in and over the elections of yesterday was at the Republican office. The business rooms of that journal were largely crowded by throngs of people interested in the result, and quite a number congregated in the street about the building. The election returns, however, came in slowly, and were indefinite. The only definite results from Virginia received last night were those in the adjoining county of Alexandria.

JOHN K. PORTER, of New York city, assistant counsel for the Government in the Guitreau case had a lengthy interview with District Attorney Corchill and W. D. Davidge, esp. this morning. His coming to the city was for the purpose of being in readiness to go with the trial next Monday, and to become conversant with the case. Dr. Gray, of the U. S. The house was literally packed, and hundreds of ticket-holders were turned away with the promise that the concert would be repeated on Friday evening next. The Rosebush family, Dr. Frank White and Prof. E. C. Townsend, of the adult assistants, were especially lippy in the execution of their parts. GUITEAU'S LETTERS.

Mr. Scoville Fails to Produce the Affidavit He Promised Yesterday.

It was expected that when the Criminal Court met this morning Mr. George Scoville, of the counsel for Guitreau, would make good the declaration made yesterday to the judge that he would present an affidavit from the warden of the jail to the effect that he had delivered a letter addressed to Mr. Scoville, the District Attorney, and which the latter had publicly denied receiving.

This made a direct question of veracity between the two gentlemen, and the chamber held a good sprinkling of lawyers to see the outcome of the trial. Mr. Scoville said that he had given notice to the District Attorney that he would present the affidavit this morning in regard to a certain matter, and wished to say something in explanation of the course that he had pursued, in order that there should be no doubt about the matter. Mr. Robinson, on a former occasion, had stated to the Court that since the arraignment Guitreau had written a letter to Mr. Scoville and placed it in the hands of the warden, but that he had failed to deliver it to whom the letter was addressed, placed it in the hands of the District Attorney, who refuses to deliver it up. When that statement was made in court by Mr. Robinson District Attorney was present and did not deny the truth of it. Therefore he accepted it as a fact. He had been to the jail and seen the warden and made an attempt to procure the affidavit. From some cause or other the warden appeared to be very suspicious, defective, and he could not swear to such a statement being true. He believed that he could express his view of the situation by repeating a saying that he learned when a boy, "You can bring a horse to a trough, but you can't make him drink." It should be the matter rest until the time of the trial, when witnesses on the stand telling the truth and whole truth might throw more light upon the matter.

District Attorney Corchill said that he had done all that he could, both publicly and personally, to favor his brother Scoville since he had had any connection with the case. Four or five times, and perhaps more, had something been said about papers, especially those taken from Guitreau. He wished to say, as the officer of the law, that these were evidences of the crime. He was entitled to possession of them and should so hold. He had told Mr. Robinson that while they could not have the papers they might look over them when they pleased. He had some feeling over the statement made by Mr. Scoville that he had taken a letter directed to that gentleman and withheld it from him. Such was not the case. He had done nothing of the kind. He had seen the warden of the jail and he denied ever having given him such a letter. He had no letter of any kind or description belonging to Mr. Scoville. Since the time that gentleman had taken charge of the defense the speaker had not seen Guitreau or had any communication with him. Gen. Crocker was in court and he asked that the warden be permitted to make a statement in regard to the matter.

REPORT of the Jail Physician. Dr. N. Young, physician U. S. jail, in his annual report to Warden J. S. Crocker, says the past year has been remarkable for the prevalence of malarial disease in the prison to a most unusual extent, which fact, he says, may be fairly attributed to the long continued drought laying bare the flats in the Anacostia River and exposing them to the action of a hot sun as well as rendering the surrounding atmosphere, by its dry, vegetable surface, laid down by all authorities as most productive of the poison causing these diseases. Unfortunately this may be expected in any year until the channel is cleared out and the marshes reclaimed by cultivation and put under a better cultivation. The only other diseases occurring are such as are referred to every year and produced by the vicious habits of those sent there as prisoners. There has been but one case of phthisis, pleurisy, and pneumonia—a boy who was subject of it before his commitment. All cases have yielded readily to treatment. All the sanitary means usually practiced in the prison have been most faithfully persevered in. Thorough ventilation, bathing, and every means of cleanliness, regular temperature, good and wholesome food, perfect sewerage, and such exercise as the limited resources admit of, without a wall around the prison, are a few of the features of the system. It is the opinion of the physician that the building of an inclosing wall as indispensable to the health of the prisoners. A most remarkable case of malignity occurred during the year. A colored man, a skillful burglar, died partially paralyzed for a period of eight months, commencing with a pretended attempt to hang himself. This was kept up most unremittingly during the whole period, resisting all the most active and painful applications to overcome what was known to be a typhoid fever. The case directed use of a galvanic battery overcame the control of his movements, and forced into action such muscular motions as were incompatible with a palsied condition, bringing the fall follow to an acknowledgment of his hypochondria.

THE ORGANIZED CHARITIES.

Systematic Relief for the Coming Cold Weather.

The board of managers of the Associated Charities of the District met at the Bureau of Education last night, with Commissioner Deak in the chair. After a transaction of some routine business and the election of Mrs. M. F. Walling, of Boston, and Mrs. S. A. M. Canfield to fill vacancies in the board, Secretary Emery offered the following plan for the sub-division of the city and county for winter work.

First district—Georgetown. Second district—All the territory lying between Boundary street and the Potomac River and Rock Creek and Sixteenth street. Third—Between Boundary street and Rhode Island avenue and Sixteenth street and Vermont avenue. Fourth—Between Rhode Island and New York avenues and Sixteenth street and Boundary. Fifth—Between New York avenue and B street north. Sixth—East of B street east. Sixth—The triangle formed by First street east, Maryland avenue, and the Boundary. Seventh district—The triangle formed by Maryland and Pennsylvania avenues and the eastern city limits. Eighth—the territory lying between Pennsylvania avenue on the northeast, the Eastern Branch on the south, and South Capitol street on the west. Ninth—The triangle formed by South Capitol street and Rock Creek Canal, the Potomac River and B street north. Tenth and remaining districts are all located in the county, as follows:

Tenth district—West of Rock Creek and the headquarters at Tennallytown. Eleventh—East of Rock Creek to Seventh street road, with headquarters at Mount Pleasant and Brightwood. Twelfth—East of Seventh street road to the China Chapel road; headquarters at Greeley Mission and Fort Stanton. Thirteenth—East of China Chapel road or Bladensburg turnpike, to a dividing line half way between Benning's and Uniontown. Fourteenth—Uniontown and vicinity. Fifteenth—Hillsdale, taking in all the territory to city limits back of the same.

As the above plan was not the regular report of the committee, it was received but not adopted, and the whole matter referred back to the committee in order that Major Brock, who is absent from the city, might assist in the work.

Mrs. Spencer, a delegate to the recent Conference of Charities in Boston, made a very interesting informal report and was requested to give a detailed report at some future meeting of the board.

The board adjourned to the second Monday in December, if not called in special meeting previous to that time.
