Special Rotices. A Word of Warning.-There If nothing more despitable than scaling the reputation of a reliable article to impose upon the community an inferior and worthlyes one, and yet it is often done. Fifteen years ago, Reimstreed Co. introduced a Hair Restorative under the name of "Inimitable Hair Coloring." Its wonderful res-torative properties made it wonderfully popular, and grey and laid heads were likely to become a thing of the past, when the country was flooded with imitations, the use of when the country was nooded with imitations, the use of which was not only useless but absolutely injurious. The original preparation is a scientific combination, made with oil and stimulating spirits, affording an agreeable hair-wash, while all the imitatious are made of water, making the hair harsh, dry and frizzy, requiring, after it dries, the use of or wash to make it look decently. We would therefore viscour readers to buy nothing but the original Inimitable Hair Coloring or Restorative, which is reliable.—[Troj W. E. HAGAN & CO., Proprietors, Troy, N. Y. A Nuisance-Its Remedy. lickens' squabbles are interminable. The entente continue between him and his publishers, Bradbury & Evans, has just come to an end, and with it a new leaf of "Box's" domestic troubles is turned to the public gaze. Searcely cooled down over the scandal of the "little arrangement" of separation from his wife, with his son he is again the subject of gossip. Dickens senior and Dickens junior have both been on terms intimate and affectionate with the Bradburys and the Evanses. For long years the senior Bickens has done all his publishing business with that firm, and, in course of time and association, the junior Dickens has gained upon the affections of the fair and blooming off-spring of the junior member of that publishing firm. Charles the first has thought proper to dissolve his relationship with the great book establishment; Charles the second sees no relationship between the business affairs of the fathers and the love affairs of the children. The senior Dickens is at liberty to leave the Bradbury, and the junior Dickens claims the same privilege of clinging to Evans. The son is bethrothed to the young lady, purely and simply on his own account, and therefore disregards the paternal order forbidding intimate relations between the families. This might have ended here quietly, but the father has sought to annoy the son in seeking petty revenge. The young man was a candidate for menghership at the Garrick Chub on his father's introduction; but on his daring to love against orders, the father scored the name out of the candidate's book. rick Club on his father's introduction; but on his daring to love against orders, the father scored the name out of the candidate's book. This has brought the affair before the public. The committee of the Garrick Club, in spite of the father's proceeding, offered to elect him; he, however, has declined. Mr. Dickens, junior, is a protege of Miss Bur-dett Coutts, and is at present in the house of Baring Brothers, prior to being launched on his own account. These Machines are warranted, and any person purchasing them can return and get their money, if after a month's trial they do not prove what we represent.

This unceasing squabbling attracts particular attention to the Dickens family. Three of the brothers are said to be either separated from their wives or suing for divorces. The trouble between the editor of Household Words and the publishers is said to spring from the latter not publishing in Punch the letter which Mr. Dickens addressed to the Times and other papers in reference to his discarded wife. Whether or no the partnership of Mr. Dickens and Messrs. Bradbury & Evans terminates next May in the proprietorship of Household Words, at that time it will be oldered for public sale. It is rumored that Mr. Thackeray will be its future editor. "The Lounger" of the Household Times says that Mr. George Augustus Sala for whose many articles "Box" has obtained all the kudos and much of the profit will not write for it again, but that it will be conducted by the Panch stalf—Messrs. Shirley Brooks, Charles Dickens, Jr., Mark Lemon, Tom Taylor, Horace Maybew, and the rest of the well-known and successful contributors to the London Chariraci, whose articles he (the Lounger) never reads.

Dickens is going to start a new publication, to replace Household Words. After much durically and many consultations with Messrs. Foster, Willes, Wilkie Collins, and Albert A. Smith, his cronies, he has hit upon All Round the Year. One of the Smiths, it is said, suggested Domeetic Broils, and somebody cles Household Rouse; but "Charles" winced, and no more was said. A White Family Redeemed from Slavery.

[From the N. Y. Evening Port, March 31.]

Henry Ward Beecher last evening delivered his regular weekly lecture in Plymouth Church, at the close of which he said he had an agreeable duty to perform. He then read a letter which he said he had received from the editor of the Washington National Era, stating that a white woman and her five children, shares belonging to the late Judge Colton, of Virginia, bad, by his will at his decease been set free; but through the compicance of his heirs, the wish of the Judge respecting the slaves was set at naught, and it was determined to turn the "niggers" into cash, and send them to a southern market. To prevent this, a gentleman of Richmond, Va., had purchased the mother and five children for the sum of $1,000—which, Mr. Beecher here remarked, at the price "niggers" were selling, was "dog-cheap." Her present owner had allowed her to come North on her parole—to raise the $1,000 which he had paid for her—to purchase herself and her children from slavery. Mr. Beecher then introduced the slave, and one of her children to the audience, and spoke at length on the "damning institution" that stamped such a woman and her children from slavery. Mr. Beecher then introduced the slave, and one of her children to the audience, and spoke at length on the "damning institution" that stamped such a woman and her children as slaves. She is of prepossessing appearance, very intelligent, seemingly about thirty-live years of age, and perfectly white. She collected about $200 in Washington, about $300 in Philadelphia, and the remaining $300, Mr. Beecher said, was to be collected in New York. A collection was then taken up, and $300 collected on the spot; the remaining $200 Mr. Beecher said he would have collected before sundown this evening.

ACCIDENT AT THE PEORIA BRIDGE.—The Sam Gaty, bound for St. Louis, left the Peoria wharf between the hours of eight and nine o'clock on Thursday evening, with an unusually large passenger list and considerable freight. There was a strong cast wind blowing at the time, and when passing through the draw of the first bridge, the stiff breeze, together with the swift current that prevails at that point carried her against the pier, tearing away her cook house, wheel house and wheel, together with much damage to the machinery on the starboard side, the loss being estimated from three to five thousand dollars. ACCIDENT AT NORTH PEPIN, Wis.—Quite a serious, shough fortunately not fatal accident happened at North Pepin, Wis., on Thursday evening last. A donation party was held at the North Pepin House, and about twenty persons were assembled in the sitting room, when the floor gave way and precipitated them into the room beneath, together with a hot stove. One end of the joists rested against the side of the building, rolling them together at one end. The windows were knocket out, and the ladies were assisted into the street through them. The trunk was split into small fragments, and splinters and bark were thrown in all directions to a distance of from fifty to one hundred feet. A window, within some twelve feet of the tree, was shattered to pieces, and, what is a little singular, all the glass fell outside.
