

American Telegraph

VOL. I—NO. 14. WASHINGTON: TUESDAY AFTERNOON, APRIL 8, 1851. PRICE 2 CENTS.

AMERICAN TELEGRAPH

PUBLISHED EVERY AFTERNOON, (EXCEPT SUNDAY), ON 7th st., opposite Odd-Fellows' Hall, BY CONNOLLY, WINNER & MCGILL, At Ten Cents a Week, or TWO CENTS A SINGLE COPY.

To subscribers served by the carriers, the paper will be furnished regularly for ten cents per week, payable weekly. For mail subscribers, $3 a month; $25 for six months; $1.25 for three months; 50 cents a month. No paper mailed unless paid for in advance, and discontinued when the term paid for expires.

CIRCULATED SIMULTANEOUSLY IN WASHINGTON, GEORGETOWN, AND ALEXANDRIA. CASH RATES OF ADVERTISING. Half square, (6 lines or less), 25 cents for each insertion. 1 square, 1 insertion, 50 cents; 1 month, $1.00; 3 months, $2.50; 6 months, $4.50; 1 year, $8.00. For 3 insertions 1 00 1 do 3 months 1 00 1 do 1 week 1 75 1 do 1 month 1 00 1 do 2 weeks 2 75 1 do 1 year 10 00

To Hotel Proprietors and others. THE DATE Y 25 25 18 75 18, MORAN & SICKLES, PHILADELPHIA. It is desired extensively among the Merchants of that city, and elsewhere, that in all the Hotels, Restaurants, and Refreshment Saloons, the names of the proprietors, and a correct list of the names of the persons arriving at the principal hotels, daily, and consequently in the morning, be published in the American Telegraph, and other cities can have for extending their business among the traveling public.

The New York and Liverpool United States Mail Steamers. The ships comprising this line are—ATLANTIC, Capt. West. ARCTIC, Capt. Lee. ADRIATIC, Capt. Grafton. These ships, having been built to contract, expressly for Government service, will be found to be unequalled for speed, and their accommodations for passengers are unequalled for comfort.

PHILADELPHIA AND LIVERPOOL LINE OF PACKETS. Selling from Philadelphia on the 24th, and from Liverpool on the 25th. Ship SHERAZADE, Capt. Wm. H. West; Ship ZEPHYRUS, Capt. William McDowell; Ship MARY ELIZABETH, Capt. Anthony McDowell. The above named ships are built of the best materials, and commanded by experienced navigators.

PARKVILLE HYDROPATHIC INSTITUTE. A meeting of the Board of Managers of the Parkville Hydropathic Institute, held on the 15th inst. 1850. Joseph A. Water, M. D., was unanimously elected Resident Physician in the place of Dr. Dexter, resigned. Having made various improvements, the Institute is now prepared to receive an additional number of patients; and Dr. Water's well-known skill and practical experience in Europe, (acquired under Vienna, Prussia, and the Faculty of the Hydropathic Institute, in the city of Philadelphia, where he has had many patients), the Managers believe that he will be able to add an additional number of patients.

TO COUNTRY MERCHANTS. FANCY AND BLENDABLE DRY GOODS. MOUTON & CO., Successors to J. Mouton & Co., 64 Cedar and 25 Pine streets, N. Y., invite merchants visiting New York to their immense stock of Foreign and Domestic, Fancy and Staple Dry Goods. Their stock is entirely new, and, in addition, still received by every steamer new and elegant styles, confined exclusively to this house, consisting of every variety of Dress Goods to be found in the French, German, English, and American markets, and at prices that will defy competitors.

NEW YORK JOURNAL OF MEDICINE and the Collateral Sciences FOR MARCH 1851. The number of this well established journal is now before the public, containing original communications from the following talented writers of the Medical Profession: W. H. Van Ruyven, M. D., case of ovarian tumor, in which death resulted from entero-peritonitis arising from a novel cause, illustrated by a plate; remarks on tetanus, by Ezra P. Bennett, M. D., of Connecticut; reports of hospital cases, by J. Knickerbocker, M. D., reports of hospital cases, by F. D. Lewis, M. D., and others of much interest by Drs. Sewall, Church, and Star.

TO COUNTRY MERCHANTS. FANCY AND BLENDABLE DRY GOODS. MOUTON & CO., Successors to J. Mouton & Co., 64 Cedar and 25 Pine streets, N. Y., invite merchants visiting New York to their immense stock of Foreign and Domestic, Fancy and Staple Dry Goods. Their stock is entirely new, and, in addition, still received by every steamer new and elegant styles, confined exclusively to this house, consisting of every variety of Dress Goods to be found in the French, German, English, and American markets, and at prices that will defy competitors.

NEW YORK JOURNAL OF MEDICINE and the Collateral Sciences FOR MARCH 1851. The number of this well established journal is now before the public, containing original communications from the following talented writers of the Medical Profession: W. H. Van Ruyven, M. D., case of ovarian tumor, in which death resulted from entero-peritonitis arising from a novel cause, illustrated by a plate; remarks on tetanus, by Ezra P. Bennett, M. D., of Connecticut; reports of hospital cases, by J. Knickerbocker, M. D., reports of hospital cases, by F. D. Lewis, M. D., and others of much interest by Drs. Sewall, Church, and Star.

NEW YORK JOURNAL OF MEDICINE and the Collateral Sciences FOR MARCH 1851. The number of this well established journal is now before the public, containing original communications from the following talented writers of the Medical Profession: W. H. Van Ruyven, M. D., case of ovarian tumor, in which death resulted from entero-peritonitis arising from a novel cause, illustrated by a plate; remarks on tetanus, by Ezra P. Bennett, M. D., of Connecticut; reports of hospital cases, by J. Knickerbocker, M. D., reports of hospital cases, by F. D. Lewis, M. D., and others of much interest by Drs. Sewall, Church, and Star.

To Persons out of Employment.

AMERICAN GIFT BOOKS FOR 1851.—Agents are now ready to receive orders for the new and beautiful PICTORIAL HISTORY OF CHINA AND INDIA; with a descriptive account of those countries and their inhabitants, from the earliest periods of authentic history to the present time. In which the editor has treated not only of the historical events, but also of the manners, customs, religion, literature, and domestic habits of the people of those immense empires.

THRILLING INCIDENTS OF THE WARS OF THE UNITED STATES; comprising the most striking and remarkable events of the Revolution, the French war, the Tripolitan war, the Mexican war, the war with Great Britain, and the Mexican war; with three hundred engravings! Retail price, $2.50 per volume. Orders respectfully solicited.

THE BALTIMORE AND PHILADELPHIA STEAMBOAT COMPANY. (ERICSSON LINE) Have resumed their operations, for the year with increased means of accommodation. The trade between Philadelphia and Baltimore, in the expedient and commodious manner, and at their former materially reduced prices, being, on dry goods, hardware, &c., only 10 cents per 100 pounds, and half the price charged elsewhere.

INDIA RUBBER CLOTHING. Consisting of Coats, Caps, Ponchos, Pants, Overalls, Leggings, Boots, Caps, &c., now so extensively worn by farmers, physicians, drivers, sea captains, sailors, &c. Manufactured and exported by the India Rubber Clothing Co., No. 19 South Wharves, above Chestnut st.

INDIA RUBBER CLOTHING. Consisting of Coats, Caps, Ponchos, Pants, Overalls, Leggings, Boots, Caps, &c., now so extensively worn by farmers, physicians, drivers, sea captains, sailors, &c. Manufactured and exported by the India Rubber Clothing Co., No. 19 South Wharves, above Chestnut st.

INDIA RUBBER CLOTHING. Consisting of Coats, Caps, Ponchos, Pants, Overalls, Leggings, Boots, Caps, &c., now so extensively worn by farmers, physicians, drivers, sea captains, sailors, &c. Manufactured and exported by the India Rubber Clothing Co., No. 19 South Wharves, above Chestnut st.

INDIA RUBBER CLOTHING. Consisting of Coats, Caps, Ponchos, Pants, Overalls, Leggings, Boots, Caps, &c., now so extensively worn by farmers, physicians, drivers, sea captains, sailors, &c. Manufactured and exported by the India Rubber Clothing Co., No. 19 South Wharves, above Chestnut st.

INDIA RUBBER CLOTHING. Consisting of Coats, Caps, Ponchos, Pants, Overalls, Leggings, Boots, Caps, &c., now so extensively worn by farmers, physicians, drivers, sea captains, sailors, &c. Manufactured and exported by the India Rubber Clothing Co., No. 19 South Wharves, above Chestnut st.

INDIA RUBBER CLOTHING. Consisting of Coats, Caps, Ponchos, Pants, Overalls, Leggings, Boots, Caps, &c., now so extensively worn by farmers, physicians, drivers, sea captains, sailors, &c. Manufactured and exported by the India Rubber Clothing Co., No. 19 South Wharves, above Chestnut st.

INDIA RUBBER CLOTHING. Consisting of Coats, Caps, Ponchos, Pants, Overalls, Leggings, Boots, Caps, &c., now so extensively worn by farmers, physicians, drivers, sea captains, sailors, &c. Manufactured and exported by the India Rubber Clothing Co., No. 19 South Wharves, above Chestnut st.

INDIA RUBBER CLOTHING. Consisting of Coats, Caps, Ponchos, Pants, Overalls, Leggings, Boots, Caps, &c., now so extensively worn by farmers, physicians, drivers, sea captains, sailors, &c. Manufactured and exported by the India Rubber Clothing Co., No. 19 South Wharves, above Chestnut st.

INDIA RUBBER CLOTHING. Consisting of Coats, Caps, Ponchos, Pants, Overalls, Leggings, Boots, Caps, &c., now so extensively worn by farmers, physicians, drivers, sea captains, sailors, &c. Manufactured and exported by the India Rubber Clothing Co., No. 19 South Wharves, above Chestnut st.

INDIA RUBBER CLOTHING. Consisting of Coats, Caps, Ponchos, Pants, Overalls, Leggings, Boots, Caps, &c., now so extensively worn by farmers, physicians, drivers, sea captains, sailors, &c. Manufactured and exported by the India Rubber Clothing Co., No. 19 South Wharves, above Chestnut st.

AMERICAN TELEGRAPH

For the American Telegraph. BISHOP WHITTINGHAM'S LETTER. It is certainly a matter of regret with liberal minds, that our good Bishop should have written so strange a letter as that which he lately addressed to the editor of the Baltimore Sun, on the subject of the Baltimore lottery-vendors. The opinions advanced in the letter are only worthy of a darker age. One of the most useful institutions that blesses our country is the Life Insurance Company. The benefits of fire and marine insurance are familiar to all persons. The Life Insurance Company has proved itself beneficial, in more than one instance, to the bereaved families of deceased clergymen.

For the American Telegraph. YOUNG ERNEST. Young Ernest appeared in our village awhile. His carriage was graceful, enchanting his smile; The eloquent language that flowed from his mouth Was ardent and warm, like his own sunny South. He told me he loved, though I secretly believed— And had I confided, I had been deceived— For alas he has proven the words of his mouth, And wedded a maid from his own native South.

HON. MR. CORWIN. The present administration is justly regarded as an embodiment of all those great political principles which are essential to the stability of good government. Devoted to the best interests of the entire country, it contents itself with the promulgation of doctrines of a high national bearing, and leaves to factious demagogues all that is meritorious in those wild schemes of selfishness which aim at nothing higher than blind attachment to local prejudices and sectional dogmas, at the expense of the general weal. I wonder not that in the Democratic ranks, as well as among Whigs, there are found multitudes of ingenious spirits throwing off the shackles which bind the ignominious and unpopulous adherence to the whims and caprices of party, and endeavoring to convince the laudable approbation around the brow of such men as Millard Fillmore, Daniel Webster, Thomas Corwin, A. H. H. Stuart, Charles A. Conrad, Wm. A. Graham, N. K. Hall, and J. J. Crittenden.

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

AMERICAN TELEGRAPH

For the American Telegraph. BISHOP WHITTINGHAM'S LETTER. It is certainly a matter of regret with liberal minds, that our good Bishop should have written so strange a letter as that which he lately addressed to the editor of the Baltimore Sun, on the subject of the Baltimore lottery-vendors. The opinions advanced in the letter are only worthy of a darker age. One of the most useful institutions that blesses our country is the Life Insurance Company. The benefits of fire and marine insurance are familiar to all persons. The Life Insurance Company has proved itself beneficial, in more than one instance, to the bereaved families of deceased clergymen.

For the American Telegraph. YOUNG ERNEST. Young Ernest appeared in our village awhile. His carriage was graceful, enchanting his smile; The eloquent language that flowed from his mouth Was ardent and warm, like his own sunny South. He told me he loved, though I secretly believed— And had I confided, I had been deceived— For alas he has proven the words of his mouth, And wedded a maid from his own native South.

HON. MR. CORWIN. The present administration is justly regarded as an embodiment of all those great political principles which are essential to the stability of good government. Devoted to the best interests of the entire country, it contents itself with the promulgation of doctrines of a high national bearing, and leaves to factious demagogues all that is meritorious in those wild schemes of selfishness which aim at nothing higher than blind attachment to local prejudices and sectional dogmas, at the expense of the general weal. I wonder not that in the Democratic ranks, as well as among Whigs, there are found multitudes of ingenious spirits throwing off the shackles which bind the ignominious and unpopulous adherence to the whims and caprices of party, and endeavoring to convince the laudable approbation around the brow of such men as Millard Fillmore, Daniel Webster, Thomas Corwin, A. H. H. Stuart, Charles A. Conrad, Wm. A. Graham, N. K. Hall, and J. J. Crittenden.

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

BY THIS MORNING'S MAILS.

New York, April 7—9 p. m.—The steamship Georgia, Capt. Forten, arrived this evening from Havana, bringing the California mails and sixty passengers brought by the steamer Falcon. The Falcon left Chagres on the 29th of March, and owing to the non-arrival of the mails at Chagres, she left before all the passengers got across. There were a large number of vessels at Havana loading with sugar.

THE "AMERICAN TELEGRAPH" is the title of a new paper that has lately made its appearance in Washington, D. C. It is sold at two cents a copy and issued as an evening edition several numbers have reached us which give evidence of tact, talent, and enterprise on the part of its proprietors, Messrs. Connolly, Winner and McGill. From the personal acquaintance we have with Mr. Connolly, we risk nothing in saying that "TELEGRAPH" will prove, under his management, as spirited and popular a paper as has ever been published in the District of Columbia. Its independent character should commend it to the liberal patronage and support of the public. It has our best wishes for its success.—Louisville Courier.

By the reports of the debates in the British Parliament, on the Papal aggression, we find that in the course of debate, Mr. Henry Drummond, member for Surrey, got so excited that he poured forth the most gross and vulgar epithets on the Roman Catholic religion. This naturally excited the members professing that creed, and a scene of turbulence ensued which the London reporters have faintly described. The House was in a perfect uproar, and it was feared that a personal conflict might ensue. The Speaker had to call upon the House to assist him in maintaining order. It is not improbable that the affair may result in a challenge to Mr. Drummond from Mr. Gratian, the member for Meath, Ireland. Mr. Gratian is a crack shot, and is of the duelling stamp, but Mr. Drummond may not be equally disposed to try the powder-and-ball argument. The laws in England against duelling are very severe, and this may also serve to check the passions of these honorable gentlemen.

MUNICIPAL VISIT TO HARRISBURG.—The mayor and city council of Baltimore, in acceptance of an invitation from the President and Directors of the Baltimore and Susquehanna and York and Cumberland Railroads, will leave Calvert station, in an express train, at half-past eight o'clock this morning, arriving at York at eleven o'clock, a. m., and at Harrisburg at one, p. m. The party will dine at Harrisburg, and remain there till after breakfast on Wednesday morning, when they will return by the eastern bank of the Susquehanna, via Columbia and Wrightsville, to York, where they will spend an hour or two, and then pass on to Baltimore, arriving at six, p. m.—Balt. Sun of this morning.

JUDGE JOHN C. LEGRAND, having been suggested as a Democratic candidate to represent this district in Congress, publishes a card, respectfully declining to allow his name to be one of those from whom a selection is to be made.

THE REV. WILLIAM J. CLARKE has resigned the rectory of Christ Church, Williamsport, Lycoming county, Pa., and is about to take charge of a female seminary in Washington, D. C.—Id.

THE REFORM CONVENTION.—We learn from Annapolis that there was not a quorum of the members of the Reform Convention present yesterday; consequently those present adjourned to this morning.—Id.

A WOMAN'S VENGEANCE.—A woman in Boston went to the lamp manufactory of Mr. Wm. Carlton, and inquired what time a young female employed in the shop of Mr. Carlton in polishing brass work would return from dinner. Soon after, the girl inquired for made her appearance. The strange woman immediately confronted her, and demanded the contents of a bottle of sulphuric acid (oil of vitriol) in her face, destroying her eye-sight, and peeling the skin and flesh completely off her face.

A DUTCHMAN'S REASON.—Some ten years since an old Dutchman purchased in the vicinity of Brooklyn a snug little farm for nine thousand dollars. Last week a lot of land speculators called on him to buy him out. On asking his price, he said he would take "sixty thousand dollars—no less." "And how much may remain on bond and mortgage?" "Nine thousand dollars." "And why not more?" replied the would-be purchaser. "Because der place ain't worth any more."

NOBLE AND WITTY REPLY.—In 1661, Philip 1st sent the young Constable de Castille to Rome, to congratulate Sextus the Fifth on his advancement. The Pope immediately said, "Are there so few men in Spain that your king sends me one without a beard?" "Sir," said the fierce Spaniard, "if his majesty possessed the least idea that you imagined merit lay in a beard, he would have deputed a goat to you, not a gentleman."

BEAUTIFUL DEVIATION.—There is a tradition that a tribe of Indians fleeing from an enemy through the forests of the southwest, reached a noble river flowing through a beautiful country, when the chieftain of the band struck his tent-pole into the ground, exclaiming, "Alabama! Alabama!" signifying, "Here we rest! Here we rest!"

AREA OF THE UNITED STATES.—In 1800, the area of the United States was only about 1,000,000 square miles. It is now over 3,250,000 square miles. In 1800 the population was 5,305,925. It is now over 23,000,000.

GOD'S WORK PERFECT.—It is a striking fact that the largest ocean steamers bear precisely the same proportion in length and depth that existed in Noah's ark. After all the experiments since the deluge, ship-builders have to return to the model there given them.

A Quaker said to a gunner, "Friend, I counsel no bloodshed; but if it be thy design to hit the little man in the blue jacket, point thine engine three inches lower."

AMERICAN TELEGRAPH

For the American Telegraph. BISHOP WHITTINGHAM'S LETTER. It is certainly a matter of regret with liberal minds, that our good Bishop should have written so strange a letter as that which he lately addressed to the editor of the Baltimore Sun, on the subject of the Baltimore lottery-vendors. The opinions advanced in the letter are only worthy of a darker age. One of the most useful institutions that blesses our country is the Life Insurance Company. The benefits of fire and marine insurance are familiar to all persons. The Life Insurance Company has proved itself beneficial, in more than one instance, to the bereaved families of deceased clergymen.

For the American Telegraph. YOUNG ERNEST. Young Ernest appeared in our village awhile. His carriage was graceful, enchanting his smile; The eloquent language that flowed from his mouth Was ardent and warm, like his own sunny South. He told me he loved, though I secretly believed— And had I confided, I had been deceived— For alas he has proven the words of his mouth, And wedded a maid from his own native South.

HON. MR. CORWIN. The present administration is justly regarded as an embodiment of all those great political principles which are essential to the stability of good government. Devoted to the best interests of the entire country, it contents itself with the promulgation of doctrines of a high national bearing, and leaves to factious demagogues all that is meritorious in those wild schemes of selfishness which aim at nothing higher than blind attachment to local prejudices and sectional dogmas, at the expense of the general weal. I wonder not that in the Democratic ranks, as well as among Whigs, there are found multitudes of ingenious spirits throwing off the shackles which bind the ignominious and unpopulous adherence to the whims and caprices of party, and endeavoring to convince the laudable approbation around the brow of such men as Millard Fillmore, Daniel Webster, Thomas Corwin, A. H. H. Stuart, Charles A. Conrad, Wm. A. Graham, N. K. Hall, and J. J. Crittenden.

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."

For the American Telegraph. A CHURCHMAN. In his character of Thomas Corwin you may find all the elements of true greatness, in a high state of perfection. In his countenance are visible all the splendors of a great intellect; and in his heart are found those kindling charities of our nature, which, to use the metaphor of Coleridge, illumine the gloom of adverse fortune by "flashes of lightning."