TO THE BUSINESS PUBLIC.

We have yet to make the first effort in the business of soliciting advertising patronage for our columns. The advertisements with which we are daily favored are sent to us voluntarily.

THE JOURNEMEN CARPENTERS.

A meeting of the Journeymen Carpenters of this city was held at the City Hall last night, at which Mr. James A. Cooper presided, and Mr. Wm. R. Woodward acted as Secretary.

AVENUE IMPROVEMENTS—IRON FRONT.

We understand that our enterprising fellow-citizen, Mr. MICHAEL SHANKS, is about commencing an extensive building on the north side of Pennsylvania avenue, between Ninth and Tenth streets, which is to be fifty feet front by one hundred and thirty-five feet deep.

CITY POLICE AFFAIRS.

The watch-house this morning contained five culprits. Of these, officer Martin took to jail, charged with assault and battery, Messrs. James Thomas Nichols, (negro), John Rollins, (white), and Dick Jones, also white; and officer Burr took to the work-house two vagrants, a Dutchman and an Irishman, of unpronounceable and unwritten names—a brace of poor devils, hardly worthy of the boons of "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

ELECTIONS AT LOUISVILLE.

We learn from the Courier that the elections of Saturday last indicate that "Mr. Delph is re-elected Mayor by a majority of 603 votes; that Mr. Lancaster is elected city attorney, and Mr. Crawford assessor of taxes—both without opposition; Mr. Cain, auditor; and Mr. Alexander, in the eastern district, and Mr. Pomeroy, in the western district, tax-collectors.

MEDICAL LECTURES.

We invite attention to the course of clinical lectures to be delivered by Dr. Morgan, on Thursdays afternoons at five o'clock, at the Washington Infirmary. The conscientious or ambitious student cannot neglect these lectures, even though those in other departments be from any necessity slighted.

It will be observed, also, that such persons as are unable to pay for medical advice may, at the times above named, consult with Dr. M. free of expense.

SUDDEN DEATH.

We regret to learn that Mr. JOHN B. WINGARD, an accountant in the house of Messrs. Harper & Co., of this city, aged about twenty-four years, died at half-past four o'clock this morning, at the residence of Mr. J. Sargent, on E street, after an illness of twenty-four hours.

DEPARTURE OF AMIN BEY.—The steamship Canada sailed from Boston on Wednesday, with a large number of passengers, among whom were Amin Bey and suite.

FOREIGN NEWS.—Our telegraphic despatch of yesterday comprised all the items of importance we have yet received of the Africa's news.

AN INCIDENT.

Yesterday evening, while walking up New York avenue with a friend, we met two acquaintances, having between them an old weather-beaten sailor. On stopping, we were introduced to the old man, and entered into conversation with him. "Youngsters," said he, with the pardonable tone of familiarity of one who has had experience—"youngsters, I am an old soldier of 1812; my gun helped to defend Gen. Harrison, and my bullet helped to drive the Indians from the country. Boys, I don't know whether you are hunters or not, but I am, and I'll tell you what was my first experience in warfare."

Upon expressing our desire to hear it, he proceeded: "When I was a boy, like you, only younger, for I was but seventeen, I took my gun across my shoulder, and, with seven others, marched to join Gen. Harrison. But that isn't the first time I ever had a gun on my shoulder. When I was eight years old, I shot three deer—for I could shoot pretty straight then. But the next spring I done the best piece of work. I was just nine years old, and was out in the yard one day when I heard Bose—Bose was a tearin' great bull-dog that my father took out into the backwoods with him—I heard Bose a-baying; so, says I, that dog's got something—for I knew he never bayed when there wasn't any thing about. So I went in and asked father to let me take the gun, and go see what was up. But father was one of those old farmers who could hold a hoe-handle straighter than a gun, and didn't know any thing about hunting; so he said I'd better go and plant the corn than go and plant shot in a wild varmint. But 'twasn't any use. I knew how to tease, and I did until he said "Go long;" so I took the old gun and tramped off. I soon got to the marsh, where I heard Bose, and there I saw him looking up into a tree, and firmly fastening his feet into the ground. As soon as I saw what he was looking up at, I rested my gun—for I wasn't big enough to hold it off-hand—in a little crotch, and blazed away. I shot straight, for I brought down a tremendous white-faced wild-cat, as dead as a stone. I tried to carry him home, but he was too heavy for me, and I got father to help me."

After expressing our admiration of the feat, he told us of his service, on land and sea; gave directions about shooting; told us of his present home, and other things of interest. He had walked here from Wisconsin to get that poor return which our Government makes for the noble services done her in her young days—a bounty land-warrant. Having succeeded, he intends starting again for his western home.

The old man left us. Gone once more to brave the storms of life's ocean; now, alas, nearly circumnavigated. His white and straggling locks are for a short time longer to be the playthings of the cold winds of this life. The weight of years is upon his back, the loss of blood for his country's cause makes his limbs weak, and trembling old age is closing with him, and he will soon go down to his grave—and who will mourn for him? It seemed to us, as we stood by him, listening to the tales of those bloody times in which he figured, that we could look away back through the cloudy veil of the past, and see him mingling with his own generation, in the performance of those actions over which it is now a pleasure and a solace for him to linger. Ohio, now the Queen of the West, was then an unbroken forest, save where the hardy pioneer had had the temerity to enclose his farm and build his cabin. Her silver streams ran on through the deep shades of the forest, disturbed only by the light canoe of the Indian. Mountain and valley, hill and dale, were clothed in nature's most beautiful garb—an unvaried green. The red man roved, the true lord of the soil. The wild beast prowled unheeded through the wood. Our old friend moved there; and, far from other habitation of man, his father chose the scene of the remainder of his days. The boy grew. The old oak, whose lofty branches had swayed with the breeze for years, fell beneath the axe. Change, in its unceasing onward track, had reached this distant place. The boy has become an old man. And what is now his former home? Millions of freemen occupy the State of his boyhood, and they are now enjoying the fruits of perseverance and industry: the loud shriek of the "iron horse," the deep cough of the majestic steamer, and the cheering notes of the boatman's horn resound through every valley and are echoed from every hill. The lightning of heaven, obeying man's orders, spans at one stride the extent of her territory. Towns and villages have sprung up, and everywhere we listen to the loud hum of the spindle, the clatter of the loom, the grinding of the mill, and the ring of the anvil. And where, amid all this noise and bustle, can the old hero find a friend? Where can he claim a spot of ground even to rest his wearied bones? Nowhere. Foot-sole and weary mind he travel away back to Wisconsin, and depend upon the liberality of his new friends there, for the small boon of a last resting-place. Oh, that the principles of mankind were more disposed to generosity! Then might our old soldier have cause to offer thanks that they did help to preserve the purity of our flag and the honor of our glorious Union.

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE has made a quotation of eight lines from our sketch of a colloquy with Mr. PEPPER. It appears to us that fairness, not to say generosity, towards that gentleman, should have prompted the Tribune to quote either more or less than it has done.

RHODE ISLAND.—All the vacancies but one having been filled, the Legislature elect stands as follows:

Whigs. Dem's. Vacancy. Senate - - - 15 35 House - - - 36 17

The existing vacancy in the House is in the Providence district, where the Whigs have the power to elect their candidate if they are united.

AN OBITUARY NOTICE! The New York Tribune of Wednesday contains the following:

"DEATH OF A NOTED SCAMP.—Charles Leopold, alias a half-dozen other names, who has made much noise in the world as a thief, died at the Penitentiary hospital yesterday, of small-pox. He was under conviction for grand larceny, and there were four other indictments against him for the same offence."

The Crescent City sailed yesterday from New York, for Chong, with one hundred and fifty passengers.

DEATH OF MR. JAMES CARBERY.

It is with feelings of deep regret we have to record the death of this aged and most estimable citizen. Although in feeble health for some time, he was as cheerful as usual at 9 o'clock last night, having been out during the day, and retired without any indication of a change in his condition, but this morning was found dead in his bed. His affection, we believe, was of the heart. He will long be remembered by this community, and his name will as long be held in veneration by our people.

WASHINGTONIANS IN CALIFORNIA. We did not observe the following until we found it in the Baltimore Clipper of this morning:

"In a letter published in the Republic this morning, dated San Francisco, March 4th, the writer says: 'I have seen quite a number of former residents of Washington here, among them John Edwards, John Shaw, and Messrs. Bryant and Ritchie. They, with the rest of your boys, are all well, and either doing or likely to do well, because they are prudent and industrious.' It is somewhat remarkable that the four gentlemen named have the christian name of 'John.' The father of Mr. Edwards, of this city, has received a letter from his son, in which he remarks, among other things, that 'San Francisco is a Sodom, and Sacramento a Gomorrah; and as to the general iniquity which prevails, no one can fathom it.' The recent accounts represent much distress among the laboring classes, the wages being reduced in consequence of the scarcity of money!"

A practical printer, or a person with some experience in editing a country paper, can hear of a good situation for business by applying at the office of the American Telegraph.

SIR JOHN FRANKLIN.—Another expedition is about to be fitted out in England, to search for Sir John Franklin and those who accompanied him; but we greatly fear that there is little chance that any exploration will be successful. Humanity, however, requires that efforts should be continued so long as any hope remains of discovering the lost navigators. The American expedition will find them if they are alive, and in a position to be reached by courage and daring enterprise; but it is to be apprehended that the vessel commanded by Sir John Franklin has been destroyed among the icebergs, and the officers and crew lost. If alive and detained by ice in any of the various inlets at the North, it is surprising that no intelligence of the fact should have been received from any of the natives.

The new expedition is to consist of a small vessel, the Prince Albert, (lately engaged in the search,) under command of Captain Kennedy, of the United States, said to be peculiarly well qualified for the undertaking; and it is designed to make extensive inland excursions, when the vessel shall be laid up for the winter. It would be particularly gratifying to have Sir John Franklin and his companions rescued through the agency of Americans; though we think there is little prospect that it can be done by any one.

LAW AND MECHANICS.—The Bar has long been crowded with aspirants, of every degree of culture and qualification. It is extremely pleasant to gaze on the hill of fame, and to imagine one's self standing on its summit, admired and envied by the gazers below. How few, comparatively, realize their dreams. Years pass on, without adding reputation or practice to one half of the Bar, who, in despite of manifest failure, from incompetency on their part, or from adverse causes, still persist in the vain contest. Happily, another and more judicious direction is about to be given to the public mind on this subject. The New York Mirror well remarks:

"The Bar is no longer the resort of the ambitious youths of our country. The mechanic departments are being preferred; there are now thirty young gentlemen in this city, that have received liberal educations, who are serving their 'times,' as shipwrights, architects, carpenters, &c. In a few years the United States will have the most accomplished mechanics in the world. A new class is springing up, who will put the present race of mechanics in the shade. The union of a substantial education with mechanical skill will effect this. Indeed, already we could name some acquaintances who are excellent mathematicians, acquainted with French and German, and able to study the books in those languages connected with their vocations. Heretofore fond fathers were wont to educate their sons as doctors or lawyers, to insure their respectability and success. That day is passed. Mechanics will now take the lead, and in a few years will supply the large portion of the State and Federal Government."

FLIGHT OF A PIGEON.—A bird, known by fanciers as a Skirrun, recently accomplished in England the novel feat of flying from two opposite points to its home at night. Several hundred persons assembled to see the pigeon let off. The night was dark and foggy, and the bird, though losing the stakes upon the match, which was against time, reached his goal. His owner offers to lay a wager that he can fly ten miles in the dark.

The San Jose Balance says: "A great many persons who have left the mines and come here, have turned their attention to agricultural pursuits. A large number of farms, from 10 to 150 acres, have been put under cultivation. Barley, onions, and potatoes are the staple productions, while the raising of poultry is beginning to attract the attention of those who take pride in seeing and tasting the wing of a duck or chicken. The dry weather has, in some respects, checked the growth of grass and other herbage, but has been decidedly favorable to ploughing. It is quite warm and pleasant here during the day, yet the nights are rather cold and frosty. Ice was observable the other morning on the surface of the water nearly as thick as a window-pane."

A VILE CALUMNY TRACED TO ITS SOURCE.—"Madam Johnston told me that she heard Green's wife say, that Ingram's wife told her, that Madam Huggens heard the woman say, that Miss Berrien thought, that Branch's wife believed, that Mrs. Anderson reckoned, that Ingram's wife heard Branch's wife guess, that she heard Miss Johnston say, that she thought that Mrs. Ingram believed, that Mrs. Eaton was no better than her neighbors!"

WORDS VERSUS ACTIONS.—Let your words teach your children to be good, temperate, pure, and frugal. Let them at the same time see you sustaining a man in high official position whom they think you suppose to be a drunkard and a debauchee, and a spendthrift.

It is related of King John, of England, that the tomb of one who had violently opposed him being shown to him, he was advised by one of his courtiers to destroy it. "God forbid!" was the reply; "I would that all my enemies were as honorably buried."

NEW CHARACTER.—Lord Hardy, who was so much addicted to the bottle as to be always under the influence of liquor, previous to a masquerade night, inquired of Foote, "what new character he ought to appear in?" "New character," said the other; "suppose you go sober, my lord." He took the hint of the comedian, and actually reformed.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Expressly for this paper.

Decision of the Boston Commissioner in the case of Symmes, the Fugitive Slave.

Boston, April 11.—Noon. The Commissioner gave his decision to-day, remanding Symmes, the fugitive slave, to his master. Mr. Sumner applied to Judge Woodbury last night for a writ of habeas corpus, on the warrant against Symmes for assaulting the officer. The Judge will decide this afternoon. Symmes is in custody of the marshal, awaiting the decision. All is quiet.

New York, April 11.—1 p. m. The steamer Washington, from Southampton, arrived here yesterday. She brings two hundred and fifty thousand doubloons.

A fire last night considerably injured the Howard House, and destroyed two adjoining buildings.

The coin in the sub-treasury and bank was counted yesterday, and amounted to eleven and a half millions.

Curious Discovery.—Near Wislock, in Baden, a large mine has lately been discovered, which it is supposed has not been worked for a thousand years, and then by the Romans, who sought only for silver and lead, and left every thing else. The mine is said to contain some fifty thousand tons of oxide of zinc, used in the manufacture of zinc paint.

FREDERICK S. HILL, esq., died suddenly, in Boston, on Monday. He was formerly a publisher in this city, but went on the stage, in 1830; was stage manager to Mr. Peck, at the opening of the Warren theatre, and afterwards went to the South. He was a man of talent, and his translation of the "Six Degrees of Crime" has long kept a place on the stage.

GEN. CHILDS will relieve Gen. Persifer Smith in the California command. The latter will succeed the late Gen. Brooks, at San Antonio in Texas.

PHILADELPHIA MARKET.

PHILADELPHIA, April 10. The announcement of the arrival of the steamer Africa at New York with advices from Liverpool to the 25th ult., noting a further advance in cotton, has caused holders to put up prices, but buyers hold off, and decline purchasing until the private letters come to hand. The flour market is quiet. The demand for export is limited, and only 600,000 bbls sold at $4.50 per bbl. There is an increased demand for city consumption at $4.50; 4.60 1/2 for common and good brands, and $4.75 for extra. Rye flour is scarce, and commands $5.50 per bushel in rather better demand. Sales of 600 bbls part at $2.87 1/2 per bbl, and part at a trifle less. GRAIN.—Wheat is in good demand. Sales of prime Pennsylvania red at $1, and good white at $1.04 per bushel. Rye is scarce. Sales of 800 bushels at 68 cents, and 1000 bushels at a price kept private. Corn is in demand at 63 cents a bushel, but there is scarcely any offering. Oats are in demand at 44¢ per bushel—the latter rate from store. Whisky is scarce, and prices tend upwards. Sales of bbls at 22 cents. The market is bare of hales. [Ev. Bulletin.]
