AGRICULTURAL AND ARCHITECTURAL CABINETS.

From Mr. Holbrook, whose benevolent efforts in behalf of the young are well known to all our readers, we have derived some facts which we desire to relate.

Two girls, of seven and twelve years, prepared some thirty or forty small collections of minerals, which they presented to as many members of Congress, shortly before the close of the last session of that body.

The offerings to science and to patriotism, thus presented by these young and generous spirits, are now distributed to a majority of the States of the Union, doubtless acting as seeds of knowledge in the various fields where they are thus scattered.

The noble example, thus set by these young spirits, is now being followed by numerous others at the heart of the nation, destined to produce pulsations which will be felt at the extremities and in every part of our republican body.

We know not what better advice we can give to our young friends, just now at the opening of spring, than to recommend the formation of Cabinets of Agriculture and Architecture, for the double object of improving themselves and sowing, broadcast, the seeds of science through the entire length and breadth of our land.

WILLIAM LYON MCKENZIE, who has been returned to the Provincial Parliament of Canada from the county of Haldimand, is well known in this country. He was the great Canadian patriot who took refuge in this land of sympathy a good many years ago, when Canada was not revolutionized, and he was, too, who found and published that queer bundle of letters relating to John Van Buren, James Gordon Bennett, and other distinguished personages.
