NEW PICTORIAL WORKS, Just published by H. BEARS, and for sale at No. 128 N. 3rd St., New York.

AMERICAN GIFT BOOKS FOR 1851.—Agents are wanted to circulate the following new and beautiful works, (retail price, $2 50 per vol.) A new and complete HISTORY OF CHINA AND INDIA, with a descriptive account of those countries and their inhabitants, from the earliest period of authentic history to the present time. In which the editor has treated not only the political events, but also of the manners, customs, religion, literature, and domestic habits of the people of those immense empires.

The embellishments are about two hundred, and of the first order. Illustrations whatever is peculiar to the inhabitants, regarding their dress, domestic occupations, their mode of agriculture, commercial pursuits, arts, &c. They are accurate, and each one has been made expressly for the work.

The volume forms a large octavo, containing between five and six hundred pages, printed in the best style, and on good substantial white paper. It is furnished to agents, handsomely bound in muslin, gilt, or leather, as the purchaser may prefer, at a very liberal discount, when quantities of not less than twenty copies are ordered at one time.

THRILLING INCIDENTS OF THE WARS OF THE REVOLUTION, THE FRENCH WAR, THE TRIPOLITAN WAR, the Indian war, the second war with Great Britain, and the war with Mexico, &c. &c. &c. A new and complete set, $2 50 per volume. Orders respectfully solicited.

BEARS' PICTORIAL FAMILY PUBLICATIONS are decidedly the best books that agents can possibly employ, they being so well adapted to the people of the United States. They are valuable for reference, and should be possessed by every family in this great republic. There is not a city or town in these United States, not even those remote and thinly settled, but contains many families to whom these works are indispensable. They are adapted to the literary wants of the Christian, the statesman, and the mechanic, and are not only such books as will sell, but are such as an agent of good principle will feel free to recommend, and willing to see the purchaser again and again they have been bought.

Our PLAN.—The plan the publisher has so successfully carried out for several years, is the obtaining responsible agents in every section of the country, and their own, and villages, and have time and disposition to circulate good and instructive books among their neighbors and friends, by personal calling to embark in the enterprise will risk little in sending $25 or $50, for which he will receive an assortment as he may direct, at the wholesale price.

IRISH EMIGRANT SOCIETY.

Office, No. 1 Rouse Street, New York.

IN consequence of the great number of complaints which have been made by emigrants, of the want of funds committed upon them in the sending of money to their friends in Ireland, and to aid and protect the Emigrant, the Irish Emigrant Society established a fund, deposited in the Bank of Ireland, upon which they draw drafts, payable at sight, at any of the branches of the Bank. Persons residing out of the city, by enclosing in a letter the sum they wish forwarded, with the plainly written direction to whom and where it is to be paid, will have the same remitted.

There is a great advantage in purchasing the Society's drafts; that the Bank has a branch in each of the principal towns in Ireland, and thus the losses by discount, and otherwise, are avoided.

The Society keeps an office at No. 22 Spruce street, to which Emigrants can apply to obtain situations for which they are fitted.

Orders from employers in the country, stating the services required, the wages, and the cheapest modes of conveyance, and giving a respectable reference, will meet with prompt attention.

The Society will be thankful for all circumstantial and early information of any fraud, imposition, or outrage committed on Emigrants, and will endeavor speedily to apply a remedy.

AMERICAN TELEGRAPH

For the American Telegraph. Hope and Peace.

Will those gnawing cares forsake me? Will brighter moments dawn? My hope, shall I exult in thee? I, dispirited—forsaken? Peace, I know where thou hast hidden; Peace, reclused far from thine; Grieve my fast—for ye are hidden; Come! you're welcome at my door!

Hope, thou varied, varied spirit, Why chide me! Ah! return—I am young, and might inherit, Through thee, that for which I burn! Peace, reclused far from thine; Could I come where thou hast shown, I, maybe, might weave in ditties Wisdom, merit, all should own!

Peace, thou'lt leave me, late, to wander Undirected by thy smile; All my sorrows I've been dreading, Fondler still of Pleasure's ill: Bubbles on the tide of chance, Scarce we clasp them ere they're gone; Cheating still the changing fancies— Unsubstantial every one!

I have wept—and I'm waiting For my guardian angel two; All my sorrows I've been dreading, Fondler still of Pleasure's ill: Come! I feel that you're returning— Come! we'll tread the even path! Guided by your keen discerning, Man avoids a world of wraith!

WASHINGTON, Aug., 1850. [From the True Democrat.]

The Family Tyrant. His wife may have money, but must ask him how and where she may spend it; she may dress well, but never consult her own taste; she may have servants, but always of his selection; and servants, but they must suit him; and she may train up her own children, but just as "Pa" says, or he will train her. She must say "You are right" when she knows he is wrong, and never speak her own independent sentiments before him, nor throw off a certain restraint of manner in his presence. And the children, who are perfectly conscious they have a "good father," and all that, must not forget that "Pa" is an absolute monarch. No danger, poor things! how could they forget, if they would; as well forget the eternal presence of a loaded cannon! He was never guilty of taking a child upon his lap but once, and then "the help" had gone to church, and he did take the sick baby while his wife got him a "clean dickey"; and he was never seen kissing the children; not he, such familiarity would have destroyed all family government.

When he enters the parlor, the children make excuse for going to the dining-room; and if he chance to follow to the dining-room, they drop off one by one to the kitchen; and when they get all cleverly ensconced in the kitchen, if any one, in the full enjoyment of freedom from restraint, happens to cross too loudly, the door is sure to open, and "less noise," spoken in a deep base voice, sets the matter at rest for an hour.

We cannot say he does not love his family, for in many respects he is very kind to them, requiring no hard tasks, and educating and maintaining them handsomely; but he is too stern in his goodness, too selfish in his kindness—in a word, he is just such a husband as makes an independent woman miserable, and such a father as children respect more than love.

He is the home tyrant; and in every act of his, we are reminded that he is the man, the head of the family—the kingfish in that school of fishes, and the woman and children are the "lesser fry." He has laws about every thing, from the exact manner in which babies must be nursed, to the tying of shoestrings, and the hanging up of tin snippers. We to the child that breaks a plate, upsets a tumbler of water, or spills a drop of gravy in his presence!

"You careless boy! or careless girl!" is uttered in a tone so deep and guttural, and full of horrors, that the frightened child forgets the dinner, and cries until his head aches about an imperator and brier. If a little boy is afraid at night, he is sure to conjure up some errand and send him out when the darkness is so thick that he mistakes a poor innocent post for some tall "robber," and the white clothes upon his mother's clothes-line for a long row of beheading "ghosts."

If a pudding be underdone, or a cake overdone, he starts first at that, then at his wife, then at that again, until the offending vind is in danger of being transformed into sourrot, and the wife into a mango-pickle by the acidity of his countenance.

But words and looks are not his only agents for preserving order in his domestic Eden; the rod, that old barbarous corrector of faults, that should visit every human back just once, to show the superiority of modern over ancient custom, gives very impressive advice on all more important occasions; for his "Pa"-ship has pondered much upon the text about "sparing the rod and spoiling the child." The most fearful feature of this case is, that the boys brought up under the frown and the lash will inherit the idea that "might makes right," and make very lordly rulers of their own households.

This is a fancy sketch; but unfortunately nature has made many such fancy sketches before us; and they are living, breathing pictures, in many a home that might be an earthly paradise, but for the unconscious selfishness of one heart. E. A. W. H.

It is said that the cost of the late Three Days' Jubilee, in Boston, will not exceed $40,000. The cost of the dinner on the Common, exclusive of the tent and decorations, was about $4,000; of the refreshments furnished for the Aquatic Excursion, exclusive of the Champagne, &c., seventy-five cents per head. For the excursion one hundred baskets of Champagne were furnished, and seventy-five drams. As to the demijohns of brandy on board the different vessels, there must have been in the neighborhood of fifty.

CONSUL OWEN.—It is said that Mr. Owen, our Consul at Havana, who stood by and fifty Americans butchered by the Spanish authorities, and made no effort to save them, or any intercession for delay, is a native of Wales, and what is more, is largely interested in property in Cuba which he holds under title from the Crown of Spain. No wonder his soul did not burn with patriotic fire; the men who were butchered were not his countrymen. [Pittsburg Post.]

The Wall Street Panic—Art Union—Public Amusements—A Strange Exhibition—G. W. Cutter—Fire Annihilator—The Humboldt.

New York, October 6, 1851. New York is ever in a blaze of panics and excitements. The last few days have been so many blue Mondays to Wall street speculators; but confidence is restored, and few are the shaven victims of the "crisis."

The gratuitous exhibition and unusual attractions of the paintings, together with the approaching period of their annual distribution, daily fill the spacious halls of the Art Union with spectators. Every American artist of celebrity is represented. We feel proud of the triumphs of their pencils, and advise every visiting stranger possessed of a cultivated taste for the fine arts not to fail in seeing them.

In the Drama and Song, it is rare to find, at any one season, an equal concentration of talent. Among the distinguished of the profession, who have recently closed successful engagements, are Forrest, Booth, and Miss Charlotte Cushman. The present candidates for applause are Miss C. Hayes and Miss L. Addison, both of whom have but recently followed their fame to our shores, and are nightly receiving undoubted evidences of their appreciation.

There is a number of minor entertainments and exhibitions, as usual; but one, from its sheer novelty, I must mention: the exhibition of a California lioness, which, to ensure success, the enterprising keeper regularly feeds upon living bull-dogs, charging an extra admission fee at banquet times, when, of course, the arena is filled with "astonished natives."

Another pen has appeared from the pen of G. W. Cutter, entitled "The Song of the Fire Annihilator," fully equal to his former master productions, "The Song of Steam," &c. It seems the bare prospect of relief from the ravages of fire has "stirred up" an excitement seldom equalled in the history of the country. It pervades every class and condition of men. The vast amount of business daily transacted by the company at their office, in Warren street, in the disposal of territorial rights, is an evidence of this. Numerous States and districts have been sold on the most profitable terms to purchasers, and "the work goes bravely on."

Nothing of the Humboldt—now in her twelfth day. J. H. P.

The Christiana Outrage. Reply of Rev. J. S. Gorskuch to Attorney General Franklin.

WASHINGTON, October 6, 1851. Sir: I am sorry that the errors and charges contained in your pretended reply to my letter to Gov. Johnston compel me to appear again before the public.

My first letter was erroneously dated the 17th. It was finished early on the morning of the 16th, and mailed at nine o'clock the same day. The editors of the Baltimore Star noticed its reception in their paper of the 17th. It is, therefore, not true that I went to Christiana, and wrote it after first seeing you. Nor does your reference to the dates "give you the desired clue."

When we assembled in the court-house at Lancaster, on Tuesday, the 16th ultimo, the State's Attorney told us that he was alone, and that he desired aid. We went and secured counsel to assist him. When the case was about to be opened, you came into court, was introduced to us, and took your seat upon our side; but you had not "considerable conversation with me on the subject," nor did you do anything that proved to me that you were much interested in the matter. It was after leaving the court-house that I learned, upon good authority, that you did nothing toward securing or hastening the arrest of the murderers; nor has it yet appeared that you did. And although you say "it was upon consultation with Gov. Johnston that all the steps have been taken, and consequent upon the lamentable affair," you will not say it was at the Governor's instance that Mr. Thompson and Mr. Reigart went to the scene of the rebellion. As for yourself, you took two steps—very safe ones, too—and those, I suppose, were the steps counseled.

You say "I give credit to the public authorities for doing every thing necessary to bring the transaction to light, and the offenders to justice." That I did not include all the public authorities of the country in that remark, you too well know. I meant especially the State's Attorney and the Alderman; for until they reached Christiana nothing had been done in issuing writs and making arrests.

My course, you say, has been "extraordinary."
