

New Fronts.—The great effort nowadays seems to be to contrive novel fronts for stores and other buildings. A wall of four or five stories, resting on a few brick, granite, marble, or iron stilts, had to us a terrific look; but when two sides of a corner house were thus sustained, it was terrible in the extreme. But hard upon this style followed several other and more fragile variations.

The iron front is the present rage, and very beautiful it is too; but we are not believers in its utility. The iron front affords no support—scarcely serves in any degree as a bond of union between the two gables—but is simply hung on by means of the fastenings required to sustain it. We think a wooden front could be made fully as beautiful, and more useful. As relates to fire, the instances are rare in which the front of a house takes fire externally, and in all other respects wood is just as safe as any other material; and should the house take fire from within, the burning away of the wooden front would hardly prove as mischievous as the turning marble to lime, cracking granite to pieces, or the expansion of iron by the heat, and its sudden snapping on the application of cold water.

Experience, however, is a safe teacher, and has well demonstrated that, of all materials of which buildings can be constructed, good bricks and mortar have yet to be improved upon. At all the great fires in New York and elsewhere, the standing walls of brick, in the vicinity of the fallen ruins of all other materials, have been monuments of this truth.

The latest "notion" on this subject is English. It is the suggestion of a correspondent of the London Builder, of the substitution of glass for stone facings; not translucent or crystal glass, the writer says, but glass ground of the requisite thickness and strength. Such a material, he adds, would not absorb the dust and smoke constantly floating in the air; but every shower would wash them off, and buildings would look as fresh and new as ever. And as glass, from recent improvements, can be moulded to any shape, almost as perfectly as if cut, the most exquisite gothic and other ornaments could be produced.

The Late Elections.—The returns come in very slowly. Even the Baltimore elections were not reported fully in the papers of this city this morning. The success of the Democratic party, however, appears very certain.

The contest in New York is closer than was anticipated. The Commercial Advertiser, of yesterday afternoon, says that it is impossible to speak with any certainty as to the State ticket, but the probabilities are, that all the Democratic candidates, with the exception of Chatfield, for attorney general, are elected. Mr. Ullmann, the Whig candidate for that office, runs above his ticket, and Chatfield far below his ticket. The Senate is Whig by two majority, and the House is also probably Whig. So far as heard from, fifty-six Whigs and forty-eight Democrats are elected, leaving sixteen districts to hear from.

The returns of Wisconsin come in slowly, but a despatch from Milwaukee says that sufficient have been received to show that Mr. Farwell, Whig, has been elected Governor by a handsome majority.

The Whigs have done well in Louisiana, though but little is yet known. In Mississippi, Foot's election is pretty certain, but not by the majority we had anticipated.

New York Elections.—The New York Express of yesterday evening says, that the large gains in Erie, Chautauque, Seneca, and Oneida, if reliable, would seem to place the Whigs in the ascendancy again, at least in regard to a portion of their ticket. If they be correct, it is probable that a part of the Whig State ticket is elected.

The Races in California.—A San Francisco correspondent of the New York Tribune alludes to an attempt made in the last legislature to pass a law prohibiting immigration of free negroes, and imposing severe restrictions on those now there; and says that "it would be extremely difficult—impossible, in fact—to enforce such a law, from the motley character of a large portion of our population, and the dubious complexion of many immigrants from Mexico, South America, the Sandwich Islands, and China. Distinctions of color cannot be maintained in this land. The Spanish, Indian, and African races have been perfectly blended in many of the old and wealthy families. A law imposing disabilities or restrictions on account of color would conflict with the domestic arrangements of legislators and others in high places." Will not continued immigration from the old States change all this after a little while?

Wonderful Pedestrianism.—We see stated in the newspapers that Ellsworth has just completed in the West the great feat of walking 1,000 miles in 1,000 consecutive hours; and that a man named T. S. Gibson commenced, on the 24th of September, at Edinburgh, Scotland, the task of walking 1,000 half miles in 1,000 successive half hours, 1,000 miles in 1,000 successive hours, and 1,000 quarter miles in 1,000 successive quarter hours—the whole to commence and be concluded without intermission; and a Miss Cushman, at St. Louis, has undertaken (we know not how successfully) some similar feat.

Now, what is the use of all this? Would any one on a journey attempt to walk in this manner? Is there any situation in which one can be placed that would call for this kind of movement? We have never heard of such a thing, and do not believe it. The wonder to be excited by the endurance of the performer is all that can give interest to the affair; and while we see nothing but foolhardiness in the performer, we think there is a very great want of humanity on the part of all persons who give encouragement to such severe, cruel, and totally unnecessary ordeals.

The Double Homicide.—That was a bloody affair in Baltimore on election day. James and Connolly were the vilest ruffians, and at once drew their knives. James was instantly killed, but Connolly yet lingers. Would that Baltimore could get rid of all such beings, but not by this means.

An Editor's Progress.—Gallaher, of Richmond, is about to open a new banking concern, to be called "The Bank of the Union," in one of the new marble rooms under the great Hotel of the Browns, in this city. We notice that his old adversary of the Richmond Enquirer remarks of Mr. G., "He is a gentleman of energy and enterprise, and has our best wishes for his success." It appears that he is not going to forsake his two popular newspapers, the Republic and the Magnolia, but that while his able associate, Mr. Baldwin, will continue his editorial supervision, the business departments will be as heretofore managed by three faithful, intelligent and persevering assistants whose interests are identified with the prosperity of the establishment. We have no doubt of the success of Mr. Gallaher in any enterprise upon which he may embark, and shall ever witness his prosperity with lively pleasure.

Bivalves.—On Saturday last, 1,500 bushels of oysters were taken from our wharves to different parts of the city. What becomes of them all? That is the question. There are, perhaps, few persons who cannot answer for the disappearance of at least a few; but a short, stout, chubby-looking gentleman, who presented himself at the box of one of our best restaurants, on Monday night, may be justly held accountable for somewhat more than a few. A dozen fine, firm, solid, white fellows had been opened for him, and swallowed, when the man with the knife proceeded to clear away the shells. "Go on," said the customer; "I'll tell you when to stop." On went the opener, and the vacant shells accumulated along the bench until the second, third, fourth, fifth, and sixth dozen had been swallowed. The gentleman then shook himself, and remarked that, if he had not just taken a hearty supper, he could put away a few dozen more. This story is solemnly vouched for by the man at the box, and, if strictly correct, serves to solve the question we have proposed.

Workmen Discharged.—The Norfolk Beacon of Wednesday states that about sixty of the employees in the Gosport navy yard were discharged on Friday for want of work, and we perceive by the Boston papers that thirty shipcarpenters were discharged from the Charlestown navy yard on Thursday, and about twenty joiners were to be discharged in a few days. "According to their usual tactics," the Beacon says, "the bitter-ender opponents of the Administration here are trying to make political capital out of this necessary measure." That will be naughty in them; but certain it is the men discharged will not increase their capital by it; and it is a very great pity the measure was necessary! The tenure of employment is so uncertain at these yards as to deprive it of profit and pleasure. Arrangements by which a uniform number of hands could be retained would also greatly promote the public interests. Such a plan is by no means difficult to devise, if the Secretary and the Commodore would only take counsel from the master-workmen on the subject.

The Light Infantry Ball.—On Monday evening next this old and favorite military company will give their sixteenth annual Ball at Jackson Hall. From the arrangements they have made, the Company calculate that they will eclipse any thing of a similar kind ever given in this metropolis of our great Union. Their orchestra will be composed of some twenty musicians, comprising their own talented band; and the quadrilles, waltzes, marches, overtures, &c., to be performed are from some of the most celebrated composers. Besides all this, when it is known by our young friends that not only a large number of military gentlemen will be present from Baltimore, but a share of Monumental beauty also, we cannot but predict a house full to overflowing.

Masonic.—At the annual communication of the M. W. Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Ancient York Masons, on Tuesday evening, the 5th inst., the following gentlemen were elected for the ensuing year, namely: B. B. French, M. W. G. M.; William Howard, R. W. D. G. M.; E. M. Cunningham, S. G. W.; Craven Ashford, G. J. W.; C. S. Fraley, G. S.; Robert Clarke, G. T.; H. N. Steele, G. Lecturer; W. A. Harris, G. Chaplain; G. A. Schwarzman, G. Marshal; S. V. Niles, G. Sword B.; and James Jack, Grand Tyler.

Brutal Assault.—Mr. Harvey, a painter by trade, in the employ of Mr. Cassell, on the Island, was waylaid and cruelly beaten a few nights ago, his jaw being broken, as we are informed. Last night one John McDevitt was arrested, charged with the offence, and committed to jail by Justice Goddard, to await a further examination on the 10th inst. The arrest was made by officers Boss and Handy.

Mr. Thrasher.—The New York Tribune says that the approaching trial of Mr. Thrasher is causing considerable excitement in Havana. It is said it will be an open one, and that the Consul Owen is making active preparations to defend him—which is very well in Mr. Owen.

Commendable.—The General Assembly of Rhode Island convened on Tuesday, and adjourned sine die on Friday of last week, having transacted the legislative business of the State in four days.

Arrival of a Great Artist.—We learn from the New York Post that Signor Latilla, an eminent historical painter, has arrived in this country, and intends to make his permanent residence with us. He resided at Rome and Florence for a number of years past. M. Latilla was at one time president of the Society of British Artists in London, where his pictures were greatly admired.

We learn that Com. Charles Morris yesterday entered upon the discharge of his duties as Chief of the Bureau of Ordnance and Hydrography, made vacant by the decease of the late Com. Warrington.

Palmer's Leg.—B. F. Palmer, of Philadelphia, did get a medal for his artificial Leg at the World's Fair, though his name was accidentally omitted in the list published in most of our papers.

Odd-Fellows' Hall has been magnificently improved, and its new chandeliers are truly superb.

The Westminster Review.—Messrs. Taylor & Maury have sent us Leonard Scott & Co.'s reprint of the October number. It is a promising table of contents.

The United States Hosiery Company.—We learn that this fine body of Philadelphia Firemen will visit Washington, accompanied by an excellent band of music, on Monday evening, the 17th instant. They will be received at the depot by the Franklin, (whose guests they will be,) and delegates from the other companies of our city. The line will form at the depot at 7 o'clock, p. m., and, headed by the band of the Washington Light Infantry, Captain Marsollet, they will proceed through several of our streets to Jackson Hall, where a ball will be given by the Franklin, in honor of their guests.

On the 18th instant, after partaking of a dinner with the Franklin, the two companies leave for Baltimore to join in the procession on the 19th, and for which occasion the Franklin have secured the services of the Light Infantry Band. We wish a pleasant trip to all.

Prosperity of the Country.—Little as we deserve it—reckless, prodigal, and wild as we are—prosperity unprecedented attends our nation.

The New York Express says: "The entire revenues for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1861, will exceed the estimates by five millions of dollars, and will reach (including the receipts at California for a part of the past and the whole of the present fiscal year) fifty millions of dollars! Of this sum, $2,000,000 at least to the Atlantic ports; and of this forty-eight millions New York will have received an enormous amount—the revenue collected here for only nine months of the year being $24,375,012! The receipts from the sales of the public lands will exceed the estimates by about $600,000, and reach for the entire year about $2,500,000! And this notwithstanding the sales through land bounties, land scrip, &c. The Land Office, some days since, had returns of sales exceeding two millions, and many heavy returns of sales were to come in."

A Revolutionary Soldier Gone.—Wm. Fontana, a revolutionary soldier under Gen. Marion, died on the 16th of last month at the residence of Mr. James Knoblock, in Florida. He was 105 years of age, and retained sufficient strength for out-door labor until about three days before his death.

In the list of passengers by the Ohio is "J. Z. Donn," believed to be intended for J. Y. Donn, of this city.

To Housekeepers.—Messrs. Lindsey & Baden call attention to their fine assortment of goods in their branch of business. See advertisement under the above head.

Messrs. Yerby & Miller advertise an extensive variety of Dry Goods, which will be found under appropriate heads.

Barnum's Present Enterprise.—Mose and some of the boys that run with 45 say "it's all gas."

Hon. William M. Gwin, U. S. Senator from California, is in Boston, stopping at the Winthrop House.

Cherishing and Good from Macon, Georgia. We have seen a despatch from Mr. Baylor, United States consul at Amsterdam, directed to a friend in this city, which states that his project of direct trade has been adopted unanimously by the convention of planters at Macon. This is all as it should be. We say to our friends in this State and out of it—to every man that has a Southern heart throbbing in his bosom—to look to commercial independence, and to work and labor for it. We say to Gov. Floyd and the Committee of the Central Southern Rights Association of Virginia, do your work like men, the country is with you.

We learn from the Georgia papers that a large crowd (about five thousand) was present, in attendance on the Agricultural Fair, and that the convention was numerously attended, ex-Governor Moseley, of Florida, in the chair. Mr. Baylor's address is represented as "one of the most luminous, convincing, and practical arguments which we have ever heard on the subject of direct trade." It was received with great applause, and drew forth a unanimous expression of approbation from the convention. The resolutions which formed the basis of action passed without a dissenting voice. A gentleman who conversed with nearly every member of the body says that their private views are only those which they embody in their public acts. The impression is strongly engraved on every mind that the system of direct trade, and the means which are now in operation to promote it, must be patronized and carried into execution by the co-operation of every Southern planter.

The prevailing sentiment at Macon was a desire to develop and patronize home manufactures, and to promote commercial intercourse between the South and the continent of Europe, as indispensable to our political safety and general advancement.

Already one house in Charleston, and two in Savannah, have been established, through the agency of Mr. Baylor, for direct trade with Holland.

Negroes in Oregon.—There is a territorial law in Oregon prohibiting the bringing or coming of negroes into the Territory. In a recent case against one Vanderpool, brought before Judge Nelson, this law was enforced, and the negro banished from the State.

The whole number of grog-shops in Albany is 756; being one to every 67 inhabitants.

Punch says—"Never send any thing to a paper 'to be continued,' unless it is a legacy or a dozen of port."

P. J. STEER is receiving frequent additions to his stock of Gentlemen's Goods, and has now in store a very complete assortment of French and German Cloths, of blue, black, brown, olive, and other shades. Also, a choice stock of fine and medium Dressings, and a great variety of new and beautiful styles of Fancy Cassimeres, &c.

Straying Cows.—The following will, perhaps, show why we have tough beef sometimes: James Sutton, butcher, was yesterday brought before Justice Smith, charged with having stolen two cows, the property of Messrs. Miller and Bell, also butchers, and was bound over to the sum of $500 for his appearance before the criminal court. It appears he had sold the hides, which had been identified. We have examined the warrant, and find upon it the following endorsement by the magistrate: "The nine witnesses examined in this case are absolutely essential to the conviction of the defendant, and, without a positive order from the Grand Jury, these witnesses will never appear before them, for I shall not send them up for examination, as the motives of magistrates have been impugned by that august body for sending witnesses to them."

Historical Tales.—We have been informed that Miss M. J. WINDLE, of this city, formerly of Delaware, will soon present to the world a volume of tales founded on events in history. From our knowledge of the taste and abilities of Miss W., and from the pleasure we have heretofore derived from the perusal of the productions of her pen, we look to her forthcoming work as one of elevated design and beautiful execution.

It will be perceived by its advertisement that Mr. P. EMRICH contemplates removing in a short time.

Anatomy.—For thirty years past, there has been going on in this city a curious process by which the bones of skeletons are dissected, purified, scraped and varnished, when they are again replaced by means of silver wires, and appear in all their pristine strength, beauty, and loveliness, braving the noon-day sun of the summer solstice, or the pattering rain or hail of more inclement seasons. Persons having good whalebone umbrellas or parasol skeletons are respectfully invited to leave them with the subscriber for resuscitation. Pennsylvania avenue, between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets. NEW BANKING-HOUSE IN WASHINGTON CITY. THE UNDERSIGNED having been induced to embark in the Exchange and Banking Business, in the city of Washington, D. C., avails himself of every opportunity to notify his friends and the public generally of the fact, and to solicit their encouragement. His institution will be known as "THE BANK OF THE UNION," and from which not one dollar will be issued, for circulation, that will not be represented by something tangible and substantial in the shape of Gold and Silver, on the United States Treasury, Northern Exchange, or Virginia Bankable Funds. By a strict adherence to a legitimate issue upon such a basis, it will readily be perceived that the public are protected, and the Bank itself made to stand on the surest foundation. This enterprise is entered upon after the most matured deliberation, and it is gratifying to know that it meets with the approval of experienced and sagacious financiers of NEW YORK, WASHINGTON, and RICHMOND. In addition to the issue of notes for circulation, "THE BANK OF THE UNION" will collect drafts on the Government, and on the principal cities of the United States, and will negotiate the purchase and sale of Government Bonds of State, Guaranteed Bonds of Canal and Railroad Companies, and other good securities. Any business connected with the different Departments of Government, in Washington, will be attended to on liberal terms. RO. H. GALLAHER. Richmond, Va. Oct. 1861. nov 7—14*
