WASHINGTON, December 15, 1851.

With last Saturday's issue of the American Telegraph the connection of the undersigned...

THOMAS C. CONNOLLY.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15, 1851.

Congress To-Day.

SENATE.—Mr. SEBASTIAN appeared to-day Mr. BELL presented the credentials of Mr. JONES, of Tennessee.

Petitions were presented and referred.

Mr. HUNTER, from the Committee on Finance, reported a bill establishing a branch mint of the United States in California...

Mr. HUNTER introduced a bill to establish a Board of Accounts.

Mr. FOOTE's resolution, declaring the compromise acts a definitive settlement of the slavery question, was then taken up.

Mr. BUTLER addressed the Senate upon the subject of those acts, and in reply to Mr. FOOTE, giving way repeatedly in explanation to the latter gentleman.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

On motion of Mr. BAILY, of Virginia, it was resolved that the President of the United States, so far as it may be compatible with the public interests, communicate to the House any information in the possession of the Executive respecting the imprisonment, trial, and sentence of J. S. Thrasier, and his right to claim protection as an American citizen.

On motion of Mr. ROBINSON, the resolution of the Senate, extending, in the name of the people of the United States, a cordial welcome to Louis Kossuth to the capital of the country, was taken up and passed under the operation of the previous question—yeas 181, nays 16.

Mr. SMITH, of Alabama, asked and obtained leave to make a personal explanation with reference to the resolution he sought to introduce a few days since, requiring the Secretary of State to furnish Kossuth with a copy of the laws defining treason and misdemeanors. He said that he had been assailed, and wished to vindicate himself. He proceeded to speak of the many attentions which had been bestowed upon Kossuth; he did not esteem him to be an unfortunate exile, but a happy man; said that the resolution of welcome had been passed by both branches of Congress, who had yielded to the outside pressure, and asked, Was this deliberate legislation? legislation without the popular control. He had not gone far with his remarks before there were frequent calls to order.

The SPEAKER having decided that Mr. SMITH had not wandered from the limits prescribed for explanation—

An appeal was taken, and the decision of the Chair was sustained—yeas 122, nays 68.

Mr. SMITH resumed, and in the course of his remarks, spoke against the kind of non-intervention which Kossuth proposes, and in favor of that proclaimed by Washington. He also said that he wished to avoid, in future, results similar to those which took place in consequence of the Cuban invasion.

The motion to reconsider the title of the joint resolution was laid upon the table.

Mr. FITCH asked leave to introduce a resolution to the effect that the declaration of the House of Representatives, on the third of July, 1848, that the Mexican war was unconstitutional and unjust, was a stigma on the dead and a reproach to the living, and unfounded in fact, and that the act of a majority of that Congress. Leave was not granted.

Several resolutions of inquiry were adopted.

Mr. MADEE offered a resolution, which was adopted, calling on the President of the United States for information in relation to the treaty between France, England and Spain for the protection of Cuba.

GENERAL BUTLER, OF KENTUCKY.

It is said—with what truth, we do not touch—that F. P. Blair, after spending some time with Mr. Van Buren, went to Missouri; and that he and Col. Benton had a meeting in Cincinnati with Gen. Butler. It would seem that the purpose of that meeting was to confer on the plans for bringing Gen. Butler before the country as a candidate for the Presidency; for we find that the partisans of Col. Benton in Missouri have announced their purpose of supporting him. We place these facts for our record for future reference.

THE FAIR now being held at the Lutheran church, corner of Eleventh and H streets, deserves to be patronized. The object is to pay off the debt of the church; and so far the members have met with much encouragement. The Fair room presents a most pleasing appearance, and the articles offered for sale are very handsome; the largest portion of them were made by the members of the church. A very great inducement is offered to the gentlemen in the display of beautiful ladies who seem determined to make themselves agreeable with their bewitching smiles and happy conversation; besides, the Eberbach Children have kindly given their services for three nights this week, and will enliven the scene with their charming music. The admittance to the Fair is but 12 1/2 cents.

ALABAMA.—The election of United States Senator, in Alabama, has been postponed until the fourth Monday in January.

Kossuth and England.

The executive organ, commenting upon Kossuth's proposed alliance between England and the United States, says:

"By this time, we think, he must have perceived that almost insuperable difficulties exist in relation to this fundamental point. He must have learned that here, at the very outset of his scheme, obstacles present themselves which neither logic nor eloquence can surmount. Talk as we please about the common language, laws, literature, and interests of the two nations, the fact is indisputable that our progress and prosperity are the causes of endless manifestations of narrow-mindedness and ill-will on the part of the leading presses of Britain, as well as of its aristocracy; and that the bickering thus created and nurtured are at present fatal to everything like an alliance of the kind proposed. The events, that have just transpired in Central America, are of themselves sufficient to excite distrust, and, in the hands of wily politicians, will doubtless be converted into material to increase the anti-English feeling, which always has existed among certain portions of our population. Commodore Stockton's speech in the Senate on Wednesday may be taken as a fair sample of this feeling as it is found in high places, and the action of the New York mob, who, on the same day, compelled the host of the Irving House to pull down the British flag, is a very significant illustration of its intensity amongst less enlightened classes.

"We do not allude to these circumstances to exult over them, or to aid in perpetuating them. They are unfortunate in themselves, and deeply to be regretted. But their existence is too palpable to be ignored or explained away to serve the purposes of any theory, warlike or pacific."

We quote the Republic thus at length, that we may put that print on record, as admitting the fact that the public sentiment of the country is opposed to any such alliance with England as that which is proposed by Kossuth, and at the same time give another and a better reason for that "anti-English feeling," which the Republic says is found in "high places" and in the "mobs" of New York. Yes, it does exist, but it is attributable, not so much to the narrow-mindedness and ill-will of the British press, as to the measures and policy of the British government, and to the fact that our people know that these have been, now are, and ever will be, hostile to us and to our progress.

Why did Kossuth go to England before he came to the United States? Was it not because he knew that he was liberated from captivity in Turkey by the interposition of England? And does he not know that England interposed for his liberation, because England is jealous of Russia and wishes to strengthen Hungary and Turkey as barriers to the progress of Russia towards India? When did England exert her influence, or expend her sympathy, but with a view to advance her own selfish purpose of dominion or profit? Did not Kossuth himself, in one of his speeches in England, allude to the fact that England was interested in arresting the progress of Russia, because, unless England does interpose, Russia will send her Cossacks to India?

Now, we ask the Republic, why intimate that Commodore Stockton is a "wily politician?" Why insinuate that the declarations, which electrified the Senate and all who heard him, were not the sincere promptings of a virtuous independence—of an earnest and patriotic purpose to protect the honor and interests of his own country against the intrigues and diplomacy of England? Why assimilate his speech in the Senate to "the action of the New York mob?" Why thus characterize the multitude who, having assembled to honor the principle of liberty, refused to recognize the British flag as one of its symbols? Was it because Commodore Stockton has been named as one of those, who may be nominated for the Presidency, and because those who regulate the Republic fear that the people will contrast his fearless advocacy of the honor and interests of his own country with the known and admitted subserviency of their candidate to British policy? Is it because they fear that the people of the United States will prefer his "anti-British," American feeling to Mr. Webster's craving for British commendation? We ask these questions because the Republic has taken more than one occasion to disparage Commodore Stockton, and we respect and honor that American, that "anti-English feeling," which the Republic would censure, if it dared to do so.

We present to the notice of the police of our city, and of every good citizen, a subject worthy their attention. It is the fact that Mr. Robertson (known as the editor of "The Truth") is most shamefully treated in the streets by boys and other inconsiderate and unreflecting persons. He should be protected from them, or the authorities should prevent his walking the streets at all, if they can show any reason for such prohibition. What the present persecution may lead to we know not; but it is certainly cruel and disgraceful.

The National Theatre opens to-night with Sheridan Knowles's play of the "Hunchback," and the farce of "Four Life's in Danger." We are assured that the cast is excellent, and that in every particular the Manager is prepared to gratify the tastes of an intelligent, discreet, and order-loving audience. Miss Kate Horn, whose name is announced, enjoys a high reputation in New York and other cities.

Madame Bisaccianti's Concert is to take place at Carus's on Wednesday night. Temporary indisposition occasioned the doubt of her appearing. We rejoice to learn that the cause is removed, and that we may enjoy her rich and melodious strains.

GRAND SALE OF PAINTINGS.—We would invite attention to the sale of beautiful works of art advertised by Messrs. Dyer & McGuire, at Carus's on Wednesday.

[Communicated.]

WE PROMISED a few days since that the AMERICAN TELEGRAPH should be extended and improved. That promise will in a few days be more than fulfilled.

GEN. WOOL FOR THE PRESIDENCY.—The Trojans have issued a call for a public meeting to raise the banner of General Wool for the next Presidency. The call is signed by about 160 individuals. The Budget says the list "embraces the names of members of both political parties, and appears to have been signed without any reference to party predilections."

ALABAMA.—The election of United States Senator, in Alabama, has been postponed until the fourth Monday in January.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 13.

The announcement of the departure of John S. Thrasier as a prisoner from Cuba for Spain has caused the greatest excitement in our city. Last evening, a town meeting, immensely attended, was held at the Arcade, to take into consideration his case. A series of resolutions were adopted, calling upon the General Government to demand his instant release. Enthusiastic speeches were made by both Whigs and Democrats, and the meeting was frequently interrupted by cries of "War! war!" and other like evidences of excitement and angry feeling at the course of events at Havana. The resolutions were directed to be forwarded to the President of the United States, and to the presiding officers of both Houses of Congress. A more excited meeting never convened in this city.

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 13.

The Methodist Episcopal church at East Plymouth was destroyed by fire last evening. The loss is not ascertained.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 14.

The Rev. Samuel Glover, formerly of Marshfield, died yesterday morning at the breakfast table, of disease of the heart.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Dec. 14.

The weather here is intensely cold, and navigation is entirely suspended by the ice, and will doubtless continue so for the remainder of the winter.

BOSTON, Dec. 14.

The ship Marion, arrived here to-day from Cadiz, fell in with the bark Virginia, of and for New York, from Leghorn, with a cargo of marble, in a sinking condition. With great efforts she succeeded in rescuing thirty-one of her crew and passengers.

The brig Washago, from Galveston, arrived to-day, fell in with the schooner Lynchburg, from Portland for Philadelphia, loaded with plaster, in a sinking condition, with five feet of water in her hold, and rescued her crew.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 14.

A man named Benjamin Warner murdered his brother, Christian Warner, yesterday. They had previously had an altercation concerning some money transactions.

ALBANY, Dec. 14.

The river is frozen tight, and an immense number of persons are skating on the ice and crossing the river to-day. An immense amount of produce is detained here. The barge Indiana, with ten tons of powder on board, destined for Havre-de-Grace, Md., is frozen up in the basin.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13—6 p. m.

The steam propeller Pioneer, which sailed from Liverpool on the 21st ult., is now coming up the bay.

The Home Journal, referring to Mr. Taggart's (of Roxbury) new locomotive, which he proposes to propel by the ignition of small quantities of gunpowder, thinks the invention may answer in the hands of prudent Yankees; but he fears a Western engineer, behind time, would be tempted to do with the powder what the impetuous Crockett did with his melon seed—plant it all at once!

AMERICAN GENIUS.

Harrison Winans left Baltimore a few years ago a poor boy, but with an improved mind, acquired at a country school, with genius, ambition, and enterprise.

He worked his way in Europe to the head of the machinists and engineers, and became a leading contractor on the great railroad between Moscow and Petersburg, 400 miles long. He has made over $1,000,000. On his return to Paris he married a talented, amiable, and beautiful lady, and will soon build a cage for her, in the shape of a villa for all kinds of mechanics, and a park of three acres beautifully ornamented, where rich and poor may feast their eyes on indigenous plants and rare exotics. He goes once more to Russia to fill a contract with the Emperor on the public works, by which he will bring $500,000 in gold for his mental labors.

Col. Daniel Kilgore, formerly a member of Congress from Ohio, died at New York on Friday evening.

A correspondent of the New York Tribune asks if it is true, as some papers assert, that Kossuth is a Slave; to which that paper replies that it is not true: Kossuth is by birth a Magyar, though his family was originally Slaviac.
