SALVAGE OF BIG FISHES.

A STRANGE BUSINESS THAT FLOURISHES IN CHICAGO.

How Silks, Woollens, Groceries and Cigars That Are Saved from Fires Are Rejuvenated and Sold as Good as New to an Unsuspecting Public.

There is but one house in the city, or in fact in the country, that makes a business of rehabilitating the salvage of great fires, and that is the house of the Chicago and North-Western railroad. It is a business that is not generally known, but it is an actual fact that Mr. Lincoln gave Schenck the credit of first naming him for the presidency. In September, 1859, the former addressed a meeting at Dayton, O., on the political issues of that period. Allusion being made to the rescue of the next presidency, Mr. Schenck suggested that if an honest, sensible man was wanted, it would be well to nominate the distinguished gentleman from Illinois who had just addressed them. However, if the beginning of Schenck's military career was as glorious, either through lack of experience or want of opportunity, he showed conspicuous gallantry and ability later on. At the second battle of Bull Run, while in the thickest of the fight and urging his men forward, a ball struck his right wrist and his sword dropped from his hand. Says one of the historians of the war: "Soldiers still enjoy telling of the general's rage and fearful imprecations at the loss of his sword." He refused to leave the field until he had recovered the sword. The wound permanently injured his right arm, and for the remainder of his life Gen. Schenck wrote with his left hand.

When minister to England Gen. Schenck became the target of a good deal of adverse comment because he was reported to have published a book on the subject of the use of the English aristocracy. "Polar Bob," as he was afterwards called by his opponents, never took the trouble to deny the charge, but his friends claimed that he simply wrote out the rules of the game in compliance with the request of a lady. She had the manuscript put in type and issued a few copies of the pamphlet for private circulation.

Gen. Schenck spent the last years of his life in absolute retirement. He gathered about him a few old friends, but cared to make no new ones. As one of his biographers says: "His enemies spoke of him as selfish; his friends called him whole souled, generous, big hearted, hospitable."

Speaking at supper given to him in Liverpool recently, Toole, the celebrated comedian, said that once when playing in Edinburgh the part of the Artful Dodger, in which he wore a pair of trousers that were quite a history, he met a Scotch gentleman to whom, in course of conversation, he recounted the fact of having a pair of trousers which had been worn for nearly forty years. The Scotchman ejaculated: "Glad—! What's your tailor?"—Morning Journal.

His Scheme. "Watcher grinster shoot dat wine fur? Why doater knock him in de head wid er ax?" "Eas his too po' to sell fur pork—so I've winter him full er shot, an' den sile him fur pig iron."—Once a Week.

Grandma's Glasses. "Freddy, have you seen my spectacles?" "Your good rimmed glasses, grandma?" "Yes." "What you wear on your nose and see through?" "Yes, where are they?" "The glasses that gramma gave you?" "Yes." "For a Christmas present?" "Yes, tell me where they are." "Are they the glasses that you read the Bible with, grandma?" "Oh, yes! I'm getting impatient, Freddy. Get them for me." "Oh, you read about David and Gerlish with, and the three children in the fiery furnace?" "Yes, the same glasses. Tell me where they are, and you ask asking so many questions." "Do you want to read with them now, grandma?" "No, I want to sew." "What are you going to sew, grandma?" "I want to hem a few handkerchiefs." "For me?" "No, for grandma. Where are those glasses, you little rascal?" "You can't see with the glasses, can you, grandma?" "Of course I can. I can't see without them." "I thought you sewed with a sewing machine, grandma." "Oh, you aggravating boy! Look right at me! Now tell me where those glasses are." "Dunno." "Haven't you seen them lately?" "None."—William H. Siviter in Paek.

A NEW RAILROAD.

Mr. C. Bismeyer, of Halstead, wired Senator Bentley yesterday that the citizens of this city have called a railway meeting for this evening to discuss and encourage the building of the Halstead Belt Line railway from Halstead to this city via Bentley, on the Kansas Midland railway. Substantial aid will be given by the city of Halstead and the intervening townships. It is desired to make this line not only a connection of the St. Louis & San Francisco railway but also a connection with the Union Pacific railway at McPherson. From Bentley the line is about fifteen miles long. The citizens of Halstead are extremely anxious for a direct connection with this city and its rapidly developing live stock interests. This line taps the finest portions of Harvey and McPherson counties. The country along the proposed line is settled by the thrifty Monmouth farmers, and they have an abundance of lands and cattle.

YOUNG ANGLIAN WILKES.

Mr. H. R. Forman's gray pinto mare, Dolly, foaled a handsome bay filly colt last night, sired by Anglian Wilkes, 2x2, and he prophesies that 2:29 will be no limit of her speed. She has been named Lady Spray in honor of the great Spray yeast manufactured by his firm. May Lady Spray go to 2:07.

Loaded with impurities, your blood needs cleansing with Ayer's Sarsaparilla.
