THE CAT SAVED THE TRAIN.

Now It Was Done, as Related by the Honest Young Fireman. As the train was about to pull out of the Broad Street station I recognized an old friend in the engine.

"That's a wonderful cat," said the youthful fireman, "and thereby hangs a tale. Do you want it?"

"Well, about a week ago we—Dick and me—were making the run between Philadelphia and Trenton. It was a dirty, black night—cold and a driving rain, and we were—that is, Dick and me—making the run for the first time."

"Suddenly there was an awful crash directly in front of me, splintering of glass in the cab window, and this came tumbling in. My heart got right up in my throat and I thought I'd choke. I saw Dick turn pale, and terrified as I was, I remembered being glad of it. He didn't lose his head, though. He never despaired, but reversed the engine, and when the train was stopped we—that is, Dick—got out to investigate. And what do you think? There was a rail misplaced within a dozen feet of where we had stopped. The flagman at the switch had secured, and had stationed himself up the track, and he had a cat with him that followed him wherever he went. When he heard us thundering down upon him his lantern went out. He laid it down to right it; a spot of wind caught it and it rolled down the embankment. Here was a state of things. The flagman was quick to act, however, and grabbing his faithful cat by the tail he hurried it at the cab as we rattled by. Here is the cat that saved our train. Didn't you, Dick?"

"Shades of Mount Vernon! What a liar that fellow!" said Dick to me in a whisper. "He has the reputation of being the biggest liar on the road. He'd finish first in a race with Tom Ochiltree. That cat story is his latest 'saved the train' business. I saw him fish that cat out of a ditch two days ago."—Philadelphia Inquirer.
