HYPATIA. The club will resume work again on Monday, the 29th inst., at the residence of Mrs. H. G. Toller, 431 Waco avenue. Papers on Egyptology are the principal features of the program.

In some parts of England snails are still eaten, not as ordinary articles of diet, but at stated feasts. We have in bygone days, when living on the borders of the mail making districts of Staffordshire, seen men filling paper bags with snails to make soup, and we remembered being told that they were excellent eating. The English prejudice against snails is singular, since from time immemorial considerable quantities have been collected round London and on the Kent pastures for export to France. In the latter country there is no question as to the value of snails, they are regarded as a delicacy and are not only indulged in frequently. In Covent Garden the common small snail often appears for sale; the purchasers, however, are almost exclusively members of the French, Austrian and Italian colonies in London.—Scottish Review.

Cholera morbus can be easily checked in nine cases out of ten by the use of the following, which any druggist can fill: Tincture capsicum, laudanum, tincture of rhubarb, spirits of camphor and essence of pepper, of each two drams; mix and take from fifteen to twenty drops every half hour until relieved. This has been known to cure some of the worst cases in a short time.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Edwin Booth has earned a quarter of a million dollars by his acting the three last years. "Execution by Electricity" is said to be the title of a play that will go out this season.

Two late London plays bear the respective titles of "Baby" and "Welcome, Little Stranger."

A furnace upon the stage is one of the realistic sensations of the scenic effects in the melodrama "Master and Man."

Manager J. H. McVicker, of Chicago, whose office was recently destroyed by fire, has decided, on account of his advance in years, not to rebuild.

"Lead Me Your Wife" is the peculiar title of a comedy adopted from the French by Dion Boucicault. Roland Reed plays the leading part, that of a steamboat captain.

The uncertainty of real stage babies has induced a London manager to invent a stuffed baby that yells by phonograph, the screams of a genuine infant being recorded on a rubber placed in its little incisors.

The asp used by Mrs. Potter in Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra" is said to have died from lack of nourishment. Fanny Davenport states that her asp will be trained by Sardou himself, who recommends that it be applied to the arm.

Twenty-seven patents cover the great horse race scene in "The County Fair." The platform on which the horses run weighs $300,000. Three thoroughbred horses are now running at full speed. The cost of perfecting the apparatus was nearly $2,000.

The actors in the employ of Charles Frohman now number 178. When the new play, "The English Rose," is cast there will be over 225 players on the Hayman and Frohman roster, probably the largest list under any one management in the United States.

In the fourth act of "The Bottom of the Sea," William A. Brady's big spectacular production, an actual view of the descent from the top to the bottom of the sea is shown. It will be done in nine successive changes. In this scene a diver is seen to fight with a huge octopus.

Louis J. Colla, a young Colorado author, has written a melodrama called "The Counterfeit," in which there runs a strong vein of comedy. The scenes are laid in Italy and the plot is the story of a stolen child and a father's sacrifice. It is written somewhat on the lines of "Jim the Penman."

To dream of finding much money of any kind is lucky, but if a few pennies only are picked up, hard luck is certainly in store for the dreamer.

To dream of a wedding means disappointment in love affairs; so, too, does a woman's dream of kissing a woman or a man's dream of kissing a man.

To dream of barking dogs means a repulsion of enemies, and, in fact, the appearance of a dog in a dream in any shape, even though it appears to bite the dreamer, presages good luck.

To dream of passing the contribution box and receiving liberal donations is a sure sign of getting a handful of money, but if little or nothing is received that is a sign of very bad luck indeed.

To dream of anything pertaining to a funeral means that one will soon see distant relatives, unless it is of funeral services in a church, in which case the dreamer will surely attend a wedding.

The very aroma of good luck is to dream of a shark without being frightened at it. One dreams of being frightened at the shark he is likely to lose the good luck when it is just within his grasp.

To dream of going alone to an empty church is sure that an unmarried dreamer will remain single for a year, while the dreamer, if married, is going to lose the life partner within that time, either by death or desertion.

To dream of birds, particularly large flocks of white or bright colored birds, means a great change for the better in one's condition of life; but to dream of a single black bird of prey, like a raven or a crow, or a buzzard, is an ill omen.—New York Sun.
