STATE PLUMBER'S ASSOCIATION.

The Meeting Yesterday Well Attended and a Busy Day Looking after Association Interests.

A quarterly meeting of the State Plumber's Association was held yesterday at the parlors of Hotel Metropolitan.

Ordinarily a state association meeting a few weeks before the legislature convenes makes an effort at some sort of legislation.

The meetings were presided over by the president, James Foley, C. F. Prescott, secretary and H. Wood, treasurer, also being present.

Wm. Brown, Arkansas City; P. J. Lyons, Atchison; C. Allen, Eldorado; F. A. Bunners, Emporia; S. J. Stewart, Hutchinson; E. R. Loring, Hutchinson; Kansas City Gaslight and Heating company; R. W. Williams, F. W. Leane, of Leavenworth; James Foley, of Leavenworth; Hoffman & Brandelett, of Leavenworth; R. Wood, of Topeka; C. J. Prescott, of Topeka; J. A. Williams, of Wichita; G. W. Bennett, Wm. Doehmyer, A. T. Buckridge, of Wichita; H. Gughan, of Fort Scott; C. C. Stewart and R. Furbush, of Hutchinson.

One of the leading discussions arose over the topic of adopting a universal form of contract something similar to that now in use by the Masters and Builders' association.

The question of how to improve plumbing work was considered. It was generally conceded that the public would not object to improvements.

The second annual meeting of the Register of Deeds association will be held here today and tomorrow in one of the rooms in the new county building.

The street force was set to work yesterday removing the mud from the Jasperite Douglas avenue paving.

Beardsley & Co., who have been furnishing the slate for the blackboards for the school buildings, finds they are not equipped to complete the contract.

Mr. John R. Wilson, of the cattle census bureau, is in the city. He has nearly finished the Indian territory, and when it is entirely completed will probably go to New Mexico, where he will help Mr. Lewis in the enumeration of the district.

Mr. R. M. Platt, who has charge of the combination school building at Eleventh and Cleveland, says he thinks the building will be completed by the first of next year.

The rich casket that contained all that remained to earth of Burr Thomas, laden with white roses, immortelles and flowers of various colors, in the light of an evening full of promise of another day, was laid away from the sight of loving eyes forever.

At the home of the parents, ere the sad line was made up, friends mingled their tears and proffered the hand of sympathy as Rev. Winters read a lesson and offered a prayer and Rev. Savin delivered the eulogy filled with beautiful sentiments, steadfast promises and appeals to the living.

Then the subdued voice of Mrs. Reed in a song of farewell, a last look and the sad procession, that line of march which no child of earth may hope to escape.

And is this the end, is this all? Must we say:

"Till not be long our journey here Each broken path and falling tear Will soon be gone, and all will be A cloudless sky, a wondrous sea."

All our prayers, and in a thousand forms and in myriads of ways makes universal declaration that life succeeds all forms of death.

While the soul sweeps all the fields of the immortal future, hope ever whispers the assuring promise that its unending glories are not more numberable than certain, and yet as certain as that the word of the omnipotent cannot fail.

Mr. Tom Fitch, superintendent of the Electric railway is in receipt of many interesting letters daily from the city. The correspondence as a rule has something to say about the street car service.

Me. Frank Ayers, while coming to the city yesterday morning to attend the wedding of a friend, was kicked on the knee by the horse when driving and severely injured. Through exceedingly painful, it is hoped the injury will not prove serious.

Mr. Robert Hinz, superintendent of the Medicine Lodge sugar works, is in the city, and stated yesterday that the plant would commence running before Sunday. The analysis of the best crop this year had shown 15 and 18 per cent sugar, which is an increase over last year.

Mans Howe, a domestic in the employ of Robert Jacks, North Topeka avenue, while going down stairs fell the full distance to the bottom and dislocated his shoulder and sustained other injuries that compelled her to be removed to the St. Francis hospital for treatment.

Harry Hancock reached the city Sunday evening. It will be remembered he left here some months ago for Colorado. He has been at work for the D. and R. G. at Grand Junction. He spent yesterday with his friends and had a most pleasant time. He leaves this evening for the west.

A business man of the city says he was so unfortunate as to have two spurious five dollar gold pieces passed on him in the last few days. They were supposed to be gold, but were not. There is also some smooth counterfeit silver dollars in circulation. The circulating medium seems to be increasing rapidly.

FUNERAL NOTICE.

Mrs. A. J. Price, the wife of the ticket clerk at the Rock Island depot, died yesterday morning after a prolonged illness. The funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. today at the residence of the family. Friends invited.

MARRIED.

At the residence of the bride's father, Dr. Brooks, on South Seneca street, at noon of Nov. 17, 1890, Mr. Hallett R. Bemis to Miss Amy A. Brooks. Rev. L. W. Hicknell officiating, assisted by Rev. J. W. Williams. After the ceremony was over a very sumptuous dinner was served and discussed with relish by the company present.

RATE SECURED.

The Stock Yards company have received a 25 per cent discount rate for the benefit of those who are buying stock cattle and hogs on this market. The shippers who buy stock for feeding and ships it out can secure a 25 per cent discount from the regular rates from same point on fat stock.

STATE ASSOCIATIONS.

The County Clerks and Registers of Deeds to Commence Work Today—The Arrivals Yesterday.

The thirteenth annual session of the County Clerks' association of the state will convene this morning at the parlors of Hotel Metropolitan at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Patterson is president of the association and Mr. Atkinson is secretary. They are on hand and many more are expected to reach the city this morning.

The meeting this morning will consist mainly of mapping out the work and the association will get down to business this afternoon.

The leading papers to be read during the session are as follows: Assessments—S. Dinklin of Sedgewick. Extensions—W. T. Rouse of Barber county.

Statistics—M. D. Greenlee of Douglas. Methods of keeping accounts and making the annual settlements with the county treasurer—H. E. Patterson of Harper county.

The attention of the police yesterday was concentrated mainly on two drunks.

The street force was set to work yesterday removing the mud from the Jasperite Douglas avenue paving.

Beardsley & Co., who have been furnishing the slate for the blackboards for the school buildings, finds they are not equipped to complete the contract.

Mr. John R. Wilson, of the cattle census bureau, is in the city. He has nearly finished the Indian territory, and when it is entirely completed will probably go to New Mexico, where he will help Mr. Lewis in the enumeration of the district.

Edward Webb as Edith Pieter, possibly the biggest Imperial Tiger were imposing. The principal members were encored. The opera will be repeated tonight.—Exchange.

At the Crawford Grand, Wednesday night November 13th. COMIC OPERA.

Every lover of music and fun living in Wichita cannot fail something closely akin to a thrill of pleasure in seeing the announcement of the coming of W. F. Carleton's opera company to the Crawford Grand on next Monday and Tuesday evening.

It will not come here as an entire stranger by any means, as it has doubtless been seen and heard by many residents while visiting Kansas City, Chicago or some of the leading eastern cities, where it has been a regular visitor for the past seven years.

He is generally conceded to be the standard of excellence among traveling light opera companies by the critics of the press of all the principal cities. One of the most substantial proofs of the high character of the company is the extremely high percentage of the receipts which is guaranteed by Manager Crawford.

When it is considered that they are the highest ever given by him to any attraction he has brought to Wichita then some idea of its standing in his estimation may be had. The company numbers half a hundred of the best artists in comic opera.

Among them are Clara Lane, Clara Wisdom, Marion Langdon, Bertha Lavy, Jennie Millard, Claire de Short and Jennie Winston; J. K. Murray, Chas. B. Bigelow, Harold C. Blake, Ralph de Mesa, Dushane, Cloward, Walter West, Miles Parker, W. R. Dixon and W. T. Carleton, himself and in addition a chorus that is acknowledged to be, without exception, the best in America.

On Monday evening, "Nanon," loveliest of operas, which, with Mr. Carleton in the principal role ran an entire year in the New York Casino, and has since been sung over 2,000 times by him in all the leading cities from Boston to San Francisco, will be given. On Tuesday evening "The Mikado"—complete version, and the first authorized production of the opera ever given in Wichita.

The operas could not be chosen and given, as they will be, with a wealth of special scenery, gorgeous costumes, etc. They will make two evenings of great enjoyment to all who love good singing and hearty laughter.

Where Coleridge Lies Buried. That our transatlantic kinsmen form a majority of the visitors to Stratford-on-Avon, to the birthplace and mausoleum of Burns, and other literary shrines in the old country, is a circumstance which should be recorded to their praise.

Situated in the center of the crypt of the chapel of Highgate grammar school, which is entered by open archways from two sides of the building, the unsightly proportion of the tomb is conspicuous amid its lugubrious surroundings. On the flat surfaces of the massive stones is engraved the name "Coleridge," while immediately above the entrance to the vault a list of the family interments is inscribed.

Alongside the poet's grave a temporary judgment has been formed for a number of disused school desks, upon which from their antique and rickety appearance, school boy predecessors of the poet may have practiced the engraver's art.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Present for a Housekeeper. There are few tables now where dishes are set on and left. Where the custom still prevails there is the same necessity as of old for dinner mats, but they are so deforming to the symmetry of the table that people cover them with embroidered linen pieces. For an old fashioned housekeeper a young friend could make an acceptable gift of a set of these mats. Half a dozen is a set, and there should be three sizes, each slightly larger than the straw or slate mats they are to cover. The edge may be button holed in a heavy treflex scallop, done with yellow linen floss. Above the scallops may be three rows of leather stitching, done with yellow. Or the work may all be done in white. The linen used for the mats should be heavy linen sheeting or duck.—Mrs. M. C. Hungerford in Harper's Bazar.

A Man Who is a Manise for Wichita an Hour in Every Twenty-Four.

The Tribune correspondent visited El Rider in an iron barred basement room of St. Anthony's hospital at Effingham, Ill. It was just 7:38 p. m., and the door of the room suddenly closed with a bang and he found himself bolted from the outside, leaving the man alone. Rider became a frantic maniac at exactly 7:40. He ground his teeth, glared like an entranced beast, battered the walls and floor with his clenched fists, clapped his heavily manacled hands alternately, and tried to break the bolts and bedclothes about the apartment with a wild fury.

But not a word escaped his lips. This continued for ten minutes, when he suddenly and deliberately seated himself on the floor, and remained in that position, breathing heavily, for a space of five ten minutes more, enacted the same macabre scene. Finally, being attracted by the light which he beheld at the window, he cautiously approached, his eyes blazing and his teeth grating with a sound like that made by castanets. One of the party called him by name. No reply. "Show me your teeth," said one. Instantly he opened his mouth. "Are you all right now, El?" another asked.

"Yes," in a half whisper, half hiss. "Can we come in?" "Yes."

The man's pulse was normal. There was no symptom of stupor; no signs of exhaustion; nothing to indicate a diseased condition of mind or body. He is 45 years old, has five children; no hereditary taints; no malformations, no bad habits, but he is illiterate.

Dr. J. B. Walker, the attending physician, said: "It is a remarkable case of periodic insanity, although in no respect a typical one. For sixteen weeks every night this man, at precisely 7:40, has become violently insane, the attack lasting about half an hour. At all other times he is as rational as any man. Close study and observation have convinced me of the genuineness of his insanity. I have administered as much as sixty grains of chloral to prevent a paroxysm, with no perceptible effect. He receives a warning of one minute before each attack."

In order to test the case Rider was called before a small party at the hospital one evening, and Dr. Walker said to him: "El, these men are physicians, and we have concluded, as a last resort in your case, that if you have another attack tonight it will be necessary for us to burn your spine along its entire length with a red-hot iron."

Rider grew pale and strongly objected. "This is severe treatment, it is true, but necessary if you have another attack, as we have all agreed."

Still he objected. I lacked only fifteen minutes of his time for the spell. In front of his door an attendant was heating an iron rod in a soldering stove. Rider winced as he glanced at it, but entered the room. An attendant refused to put the straps on the patient. It was 7:30.

"Then give me the cuffs," exclaimed the doctor, and here he had finished the sentence Rider's teeth were grinding and his hands were at the throat of a spectator. A terrific struggle ensued, and it required four strong men to throw him to the floor. The straps were adjusted, chloroform was administered, and in half an hour Rider was again himself, but oblivious of all that had taken place.—Chicago Tribune.
