A REPRESENTATIVE ASSEMBLY.

The Colored Kansas Baptist Association met and dispatched work—Rev. Grant's brilliant address—Dr. Boone's sermon.

A large gathering of representative ministers are convened into a Baptist association at Army hall. They represent the Central District association. Nearly 200 delegates have arrived and still they come. Never before in the history of Afro-American organizations in the state of Kansas have a more intelligent, dignified and sedate class of gentlemen assembled as the present meeting reveals.

It is said that this is the wealthiest set of christian people among the colored people in this state, representing as they do nearly $500,000 worth of church property. Prominent among those whose eloquence, learning and wisdom place them as confidential leaders among their people, are Rev. G. W. Brown, of San Diego, Cal.; Prof. W. R. Boone, D. D., pastor Metropolitan Baptist church, Kansas City, Kan.; Rev. J. L. Dudley, Springfield, Mo.; Bishop C. C. Galus, Fort Scott, Kan., and Rev. W. L. Grant, editor of "The Historic Times," Lawrence, Kan.; Rev. A. Fairfax, the first colored member of the Kansas legislature and the brilliant orator of the "Sunny South," is moderator of the Central association. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Moderator, Rev. A. Fairfax; assistant moderator, Rev. Dr. W. R. Boone; recording secretary, Rev. J. L. Dudley; corresponding secretary, Rev. W. L. Grant; treasurer, Mr. J. S. Hale, Committees on temperance, education, home and foreign mission, etc., were appointed.

Messengers composing the Central Missionary Baptist association convened in the Second Baptist church of this city Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock with the moderator, Rev. A. Fairfax, of Parsons, Kans., presiding. Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Dr. M. D. Brown, of San Diego, Cal. The following committees were then appointed: Enrollment, Rev. P. J. Jackson, of Salina, Kans.; Rev. W. H. Garnett, of Newton, Kan.; Rev. H. E. Frazer, of Burlington, Kan.; Finance, John Jackson, of Newton; Rev. J. S. Hale, of Chanute; William Campbell, of Osage City. Following the above, the reading of church letters commenced. The order of the day having arrived for the preaching of the introductory sermon by Rev. W. L. Grant, of Lawrence, was deferred till 4 p. m., he not being present. Rev. B. G. Wynn, of Elsworth, then occupied the rostrum and spoke upon the subject of Light. Adjourned.

AFTERNOON SESSION. The association reassembled at 2 p. m. Rev. A. Fairfax presiding. After devotional exercises the reading of church letters were continued, and give great encouragement to the messengers to go forward in hope of conquest.

Rev. H. E. Frazer, pastor of the church, was called upon to deliver a sermon. He occupied the pulpit and preached a very impressive sermon on the subject of "Regeneration." Adjourned.

EVENING SESSION. At 8 p. m. a large concourse of people assembled at the church to listen to the introductory sermon which was preached by Rev. G. W. Brown, of San Diego, Cal. Many good things were said by this distinguished divine that will not soon be forgotten. His theme was "vision."

After the sermon some excellent music were rendered by the singing chorus of the Second Baptist church of this city, that made many hearts leap for joy. Adjourned to meet in the Grand Army hall, at which place the meeting will continue during the remainder of the session.

SECOND DAY—MORNING SESSION. At 9 a. m. the Ministerial and Deacon union convened with Rev. W. H. Garnett of Newton presiding. After enrolling the names of several messengers, the following topic were presented for discussion by Rev. J. L. Dudley: "When preaching the gospel, what manner is the minister to be?" The topics were received and discussed very intelligently by Revs. Dudley, Brown, Fairfax and Grant. The report of the committee on topics for the next quarterly meeting of the union was presented and adopted.

At 10 a. m. the association assembled with Rev. A. Fairfax presiding. Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. M. D. Brown, of Lawrence. The afternoon and evening journals were read and approved.

LAST EVENING'S SESSION. A large congregation was to be seen at the Army hall last night who seemed greatly interested in the work. After the committee on new churches reported the association called upon Rev. Grant to address them. Among other things he said:

"The Baptist denomination is the most powerful among the colored people of the United States; they number 1,400,000 in the southland; own and control forty-one colleges and seminaries, publish fifty of the 120 newspapers operated by the Afro-American, and support ten missionaries in Africa." Said he: "System, unity and purity combined among the clergy would force the hills and valleys to bloom and set inactive wheels in motion."

Rev. Grant is regarded as one of the most brilliant young men in the west. Today promises to be one of the liveliest of the session. The report of the committee on home mission will report this morning. An aggressive and vigorous policy will be outlined.

At 8 p. m. Dr. Boone preached an eloquent sermon on "Education." His text was: "I Magnify Mine Office." Romans, chapter 13 verse. The sermon was strong and able, and the entire assembly listened to the flow of eloquence and wisdom of Dr. Boone with close attention. The session will continue through the week.

WICHITA NOT IN IT. This office is in receipt of a letter from an extensive property owner in Kansas City who writes that: "I passed through your city last Sunday and stopped only a few hours, but long enough however, to be favorably impressed with your town and surrounding country, and if you know of any real estate agent having good city or country property to exchange for good property in this city, Kansas City, Mo., from $1,000 to $50,000, I should like to hear from him."

THE EAGLE gives our real estate men credit for having too much business sense to be caught in a deal of that kind. Not but what Kansas City is great but Wichita is infinitely greater.

BOOMING RIVER. About daybreak yesterday morning the Big River began to rise and continued to rise rapidly throughout the day. By sundown the flood had come up to within a foot of the highest it has been this year. Where the water comes from is something of a mystery. There has been no cloud of any consequence in sight up the river for a week, and such a flood could not have come from the mountains. The rise is wholly from the Big River, there being no sign of a rise in the Little River, so far.

The condition of Vermillion Harris is reported much better and he is now getting along nicely, although the hot weather makes it worse for the unfortunate boy.

NOTICE, REPUBLICAN CLUB.

On Saturday, August 15, at 9 p. m., there will be a special meeting of the Republican club of Sedgwick county in the G. A. R. building, Wichita, Kan. All Republicans are invited.

W. S. MORRIS, Pres't. THORNTON W. SAIGENT, Sec'y. BACK FROM DETROIT.

Capt. John Wallace returned from Detroit night before last and is again installed performing his duties in the county clerk's office. He reports a delightful trip. At Detroit the crowd was immense, and the streets presented a vast moving mass of humanity. About 50,000 people attended. He states that the weather was nice and cool, and that the city was full of people, the old soldiers received all the comforts they could desire. Some of the wealthy citizens of the city threw open their houses and lawns. In the lawns they put up numerous tents for the use of the veterans. Nothing was charged them for their lodging at such places. The meeting was practically over. The reunion was one of the most pleasant ever held.

RESOLUTIONS. Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God, in his wise providence, to remove from our brother and comrade, Dr. A. M. DuRand, who departed this life July 8, 1891; therefore

Be it resolved, (1) That in the death of Comrade DuRand, our brother and comrade, has lost one of its most faithful and devoted members, the city and county an honest and upright citizen and official, and his family a devoted and loving husband and father. Resolved, That the committee be directed to furnish a copy of these resolutions to the city papers for publication, and also to the bereaved family of our late comrade. JOHN A. WALLACE, JACOB M. BALDERSO, Committee.

Unanimously adopted by the field post at a regular meeting August 5, 1891. J. D. CALDWELL, Adjutant.

A FISHING PARTY.

A piscatorial party consisting of W. R. Fraser, U. S. Hoagland, Willard Douce, Charles Sharp, F. C. Mancourt, E. E. Blockley and E. J. Rogers leave Wichita this morning for the West. The gentlemen will spend several days along the banks of this beautiful stream and will try to entice the bass and other species of the finny tribe, and will at the same time enjoy inhaling the invigorating atmosphere only found waiting over the fertile plains of Kansas. The party will take with them plenty of provisions with which they will be liberally supplied by the French cook who will accompany the expedition. It is, however, a singular fact that the gentlemen constituting this party, who are avowed ladies men, that they are not accompanied by the members of the fairer sex, and their failure to do so may be the cause of their not being recognized when they meet the fish market will, undoubtedly, be over stocked next week, and lovers of this fare may prepare themselves for a banquet.

THE NORMAL INSTITUTE.

The chapel was crowded yesterday at devotional exercises which consisted in singing from gospel hymns, scripture reading by Mr. Kendrick, and the Lord's Prayer in which all the institute joined. Roll called showed an enrollment of one hundred and seventy-three. The instructor in physiology showed the "Location and Boundaries of the Zones." Butler's geography, which is used in the district schools, was the text book followed, and the teachers received some valuable instruction in regard to teaching the lessons to their schools.

The instructor in pathology showed how carbonic acid is generated by burning paper in a closed jar. The class discussed the change which takes place in the air in a closed room, ventilation of school rooms, and how to show to pupils the necessity for fresh air.

The class in grammar considered the relative importance of diagramming an analysis, and had some of the work done in the Reed and Kellogg system of diagramming. In psychology a brief review was given of the previous lessons on the presentative and representative faculties of the mind, and the discussion of memory continued; its elements and the laws which govern it.

The subject in logic organization and management was habits. The definitions given were the following: A habit is a fixed rule of action; a tendency to repeat a former act; result of repeating a certain act. Since education consists in a large measure in the formation of habit, it is the teacher's duty to inculcate in the child habits of cleanliness, punctuality, neatness, and order; habits of obedience, politeness, attention, diligence, unselfishness, honesty, grace in movements, and habits of study.

The history class is studying the history of the different administrations. Several outlines for study were placed on the board, such as teachers should present to their pupils. Also a list of dates from which the class discussed the events connected with them.

The class in book-keeping is small but perhaps they credit to intellect sufficient to make up the balance in numbers. They were busy with "stock account" and "balances."

The reading class took up a lesson in the normal first reader, and many teachers found to their surprise that it is difficult to give the proper expression to a first reader lesson. They were also given some valuable hints in regard to combining language work and lessons in observation with the reading.

It was a source of wonder to the curious what Mr. Lawrence was doing with that peculiar shaped package he was carrying around. Many teachers have expressed their appreciation of the superiority of this institute over all previous ones.

Dr. Foste will give a lecture this (Friday) afternoon at 4 o'clock in the high school chapel on the subject of Cells. His brother physicians say that he has no superior as a lecturer west of Philadelphia, and no teacher can afford to miss this opportunity to hear him. These lectures are given as supplementary to the work in physiology and will be of great value. Not only teachers but all who are interested are cordially invited to attend.

Teachers who keep in mind that they have the physical as well as mental culture of their pupils in a great measure under their care, and should themselves practice correct habits of standing and sitting. Drooping figures and inelegant attitudes are not graceful. The lady who stands erect to recite is an exception in the present institute.

The social does not seem to materialize. The girls are probably waiting for the young men to come, the latter being at present in a great minority. Since the hour for penmanship has been changed the class recites the first in the morning, and is quite large. The lesson yesterday was in movement and principles of the small letters. The class is under the efficient management of E. H. Robbins, of the Southwestern Business college, and much interest is manifested. The teachers will go out from this class with a clearer idea of how to teach this useful branch in the district schools.

E. H. Harding left for Rockford, Ind., yesterday for a temporary absence of some months.

ARRESTED FOR EMBEZZLING.

The Treasurer of the Switchmen's Mutual Aid Association is Arrested.

Word has been received in this city that John Bush, the treasurer of the Switchmen's Mutual Aid association of this city, was arrested at San Antonio, Texas, and will be brought to the city tonight by the sheriff who went after him. John Bush, the defaulting treasurer, disappeared from the city about a month ago and nothing was heard from him until the news of his apprehension by the officers of the law. The money he got away with, the exact amount of which could not be learned, had been paid in by the members here and was due the grand lodge at Chicago. The failure to pay into the grand lodge the money would have cost the members $1,000 for each accident or death which might have occurred had the embezzlement not been discovered in time. Bush was well known and of course was a trusted man, occupying a head, the position of treasurer. It is said that the books of the defaulting treasurer are in such a condition that the amount of the money taken could not be figured out.

AGAINST FUSION.

A large Alliance meeting was held in Schmitzler's hall last night at which the sub-treasury plan of the St. Louis platform was discussed. The meeting was an adjourned one from last week. These meetings composed of the different Alliance organizations of the city and county and sit with open doors. Last night after the discussion on the sub-treasury plan was concluded, the question of fusion with the Democrats was discussed. It was evident that the fusion was a fraud, this at the meeting last night the sentiment against fusion was ten to one and some hot discussions ensued, brought on by a few who favored fusion. The fusion favoring fusion favored making an organization of this congress, as it is termed. To this end the Democrats wanting to fuse labored as the only organization necessary to become a member to such an organization is to declare allegiance to the St. Louis platform—thus a large number could be run in by the Democratic faction and carry the vote for a fusion. Some of the speakers opposing were most pronounced in opposing fusion and were loudly cheered.

I. Gross, of the Golden Eagle, returned from a business trip to New York last evening. The Wichita base ball club went over to play the Wellington boys yesterday, but word was received yesterday that the victory had been won by the other fellows.

Miss Lulu Bone, of Wellington, attended the Riverside dance on Wednesday night and after visiting friends yesterday returned to her home last night.

The old man Hartough, who died of consumption a few days ago, was buried in the cemetery on the hill last evening. He had no relatives here, but a large number of old friends accompanied the remains to his last resting place.

Farmers will do well to dry the peaches which they are unable to sell now. Good dried fruit is as staple as flour and easy of transportation to any market. It is by saving his entire product that the farmer secures the best results.

Dr. James White, of Arkansas City, was in the city yesterday. The gentleman is the pastor of the Unitarian church at his city and was here visiting Dr. Stevenson. The two gentlemen were colleagues in college and graduated together.

S. S. Garber, of the West Side, has had a pretty vigorous tussle the past two or three days with malaria, though by dint of a robust physique and the aid of quinine and other anti-periodics he has about freed himself of the grip and gives it the g. d.

A private picnic yesterday at Riverside park was a pleasant affair. Mrs. Warren, of the secret societies of this city, chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star, entertained a party of a dozen children who enjoyed themselves at games, eating and boating on the Little river. All report a splendid time.

The one thing needful to fruit growers in this county is proper facilities for working up their product. Canning and evaporating establishments would not only provide a market for the entire crop but would greatly encourage fruit growing in this great valley.

Miss Millie Hollinger, of Philadelphia, is in the city on a visit to her brother, J. A. Hollinger, and family. The young lady is en route to Colorado, to spend a short time in the mountains. She will remain in the city two weeks with Mr. Hollinger, at 428 North Topeka avenue.

At a trial before the Stock Yards Exchange yesterday, a novel wording of an oath was introduced. In administering the oath the acting judge said: "Do you solemnly swear that the evidence given by you in this case shall be the truth, the whole truth and anything but the truth?"

H. N. Porter, a farmer who lives in the western part of the county, was celebrating yesterday because he had released the mortgage on his farm and that he now owned no man a cent. He became so noisy and offensive in his celebration that Officer Dunbar arrested him and had him locked up, but he was released last evening on bond.

Some complaints are made by people who have suffered at the hands of linemen of the electric lights, who mutilate trees along the route where they work. A beautiful maple tree in the parking of R. Hatfield on the West Side was mutilated in such a manner that it will probably die. Mr. Hatfield is enraged and says it is an outrage.

Although things are usually quiet at this time of the year, it is rather remarkable to note the thriving condition of some of the secret societies of this city. Despite the hot weather the work in these goes on. For instance of the flourishing condition of the O. R. T. lodge which at its last meeting voted on fourteen petitioners, the Masons three, the K. of P. five and the Odd Fellows twelve. Other lodges are reported doing likewise.

Arthur Sullivan has received word to the effect that his team which was stolen some time ago had been heard from somewhere in southern Nebraska. Mr. Sullivan will go there today or tomorrow to get the team. The horses were left at a farmer's by the fellow driving them, in a broken down condition from being overworked. The same fellow is seen, stole another pair and continued his journey the next morning. It is thought that Sprague is the thief.

The Arion des Westens is a new German organization in this city. The society is a literary one and is also a singing society. A good instructor has been secured to lead the society, which contains some of the best voices in the city. A library will also be purchased, which is designed for the use of the members. The society took its first meeting last Friday evening and its selection of officers last Friday evening. The members will meet again this evening at Seenger hall, No. 114 North Market street.

One of the largest orchestras in the world is at a prison in Pennsylvania. Here a nightly concert is given by what is probably the strongest orchestra ever known, consisting of about 300 performers, who never see one another. This prison is perhaps the only one in the world where the inmates are allowed to cultivate the art of music, and the privilege is deeply appreciated by them. The music boxes procured at 5 o'clock every evening, and ends at the stroke of 7—London Tit-Bits.

An Advantage. "The carpenters make a fearful racket laying those floors," said the madman. "That's no, my dear friend," returned the doctor. "But it has its advantages. The noise keeps the plumbers awake."—Harper's Bazar.

She Was an Heiress. "I wonder why Dick Fortunatus encourages his rich wife in dressing so much like a man?" "He wants to stand some show of finding her pocket."—Epoch.

Considerable complaint is heard from numerous sources upon the actions of the dog catcher. It seems that some of the means employed by this individual and his assistants are wholly foreign to any laws ever passed upon this subject. The intention of the law is not carried out when a man enters another's house and, in the absence of the husband and in the presence of an invalid wife, takes the dogs from the interior of the house, simply because there is no one to resist him with force. In such cases the perpetrator assumes the responsibility and must be held amenable for his actions.

H. Tatenhorst was at Conway yesterday on business.

How Hamlin Converted an Enemy. Hamlin Hamlin had a very strong political enemy at Hamden, whose political opposition was carried to the extreme of personal hate. When the rebellion had become a fact and military lines were established requiring passes to cross from the north to the south, this enemy of Hamlin found himself in a dilemma. A daughter of his lived near Fort Monroe and he was extremely anxious to visit her. He knew that he must get a pass from the secretary of war to gratify his wish. He knew nobody to whom he could apply for it except Hamlin, and he did not wish to aid the man he had done so much to injure. There was no alternative, however, so with fear and trembling he approached the then vice president. Hamlin heard his request and then said in his characteristic way:

"Jim, you know you have done everything to injure me. You forgot the old school copy that we used to write from—'It is a long road that has no turn.' How can you ask me to help you?"

"Yes, squire," was the abashed response. "I did not write it, but I have heard it." "Well, Jim," Hamlin interrupted, "I am going to do you Bible justice. I am going to heap coils of fire on your head. Come with me."

"They went to Mr. Stanton's house and the vice president procured the pass and gave it to Jim, telling him he need have no further anxiety, as he could now get his daughter up to her Maine home. Jim broke down completely. It is needless to say that Mr. Hamlin made a convert for himself by that act."—New York Times.

St. Louis Not a Literary Center. "This is a strange old city in a literary way," said a St. Louis man. "It has only a few book stores, whose proprietors I contemplate more in the light of patriots than as practical men expecting profits from a business. Very few St. Louisans buy books. They wait for the cheap editions to reach the public libraries and then make a rush for them. And the libraries of some of our homes are frightful to contemplate. Think of a library without a dictionary or an encyclopedia!"

"The average St. Louis library is made up in this order: First, a complete set of Dickens' works; second, a complete set of Thackeray's works; third, Motley's History of the Dutch Republic; fourth, Prescott's histories; fifth, Byron in several kinds of fancy binding and gilt edges; sixth, Shakespeare in ditto; seventh, Moore and Scott, ditto. Here the list practically ends, and all the rest can be classed as unrecognizable miscellany, odds and ends of old trash brought down from generations of secret societies as holiday presents."

"And the worst of it is, to the object of a library it is the ability to say we have one, for I have noticed that most of our people who have these adornments lock them up and borrow Southworth and Braeme from the public libraries. Yet we are all critics!"—St. Louis Republic.

Pneumatic Tool Driving. The application of pneumatic power to cutting, stone cutting and similar uses has resulted in a great economy of time and labor. Rotary cutting tools driven by compressed air have been used to a considerable extent by stonecutters in this country, and in England both stone cutting and the cutting of ship and boiler plates are very largely done by tools of a similar character.

For ship and boiler work a very ingenious tool is used in which the cutting tool is given a vibratory back-and-forth motion at the amazing speed of 15,000 strokes per minute. The motive power is compressed air at a pressure of forty pounds to the square inch. This acts on a plunger varying from one to three inches in diameter, according to the power of the tool, and the purpose for which it is intended, and a very rapid vibratory motion is given by alternating the admission of the air to the two ends of the plunger.—New York Journal.

An Aerobic Pig. We are not supposed to have much sense, but Mr. G. H. Music While You Eat. Several restaurants up town have small orchestras, principally of Italian performers, to furnish music during dinner time, and now the owner of a neat restaurant on Union square has placed a large music box in the rear of the dining room. It stands on a small carved pedestal raised on two ornamental domes. With one winding it furnishes low, sweet music for over an hour. This music box has proved a success, and the restaurant is well patronized.—New York Herald.

Richard Maurice, author of "Albany Stark's Revenge," who died in England nearly twenty-five years ago, left an unfinished novel. The scene in the last five chapters changes from Lincolnshire to Minnesota, where, strangely enough, his daughter now resides, and was unaware of the coincidence until a relative sent the MS. to this country.

The cause of the formation of gallstones is not known. Age and sex have something to do with it. Most cases occur after the age of thirty-five, and women are much more liable to the ailment than men. Probably high living and sedentary habits are in some way determining factors.

A great factor in human happiness is an object in life which shall be both fairly definite and unattainable. The latter is a necessary condition of its permanence.
