Herman & Hess

Interesting to all Who Wear Trousers.

It has been the costly experience of every one in the past to have been disappointed in the purchase of this necessary garment. Indeed, more so in this than any other article of wearing apparel. They either did not hang well, were not shaped properly, or were so poorly put together, that after a few days wear they were a wreck, ripping in the seams, bagging at the knees, and in short, looking as poorly—if not more so—than the pair just discarded.

Especially is it rather was this so of medium priced pants, until Herman & Hess put on sale their French cut waist band, "All Wool" trousers at $2.50. They are perfection in fit and finish, and the best value ever offered in Wichita for the money.

To help our patrons enjoy this delightful weather and adorn their home, we give them free a solid comfort lounging chair or a life size crayon portrait, with frame complete for hanging.

ready possess, to the end that you may better fill the niche in life for which you were created—fill it with great satisfaction to yourselves, to your friends and the world. In conclusion, whatever may be your lot in life, quit yourselves like men and women, make the most of life and its grand possibilities. Be honest with your Maker, yourselves and the world, so that in the setting sun of your career, you may look back with the pleasing and comfortable assurance that the world has been made better by your lives, and look forward with ever brightening hope to the enjoyment of the grand realities of the life to come. You have been recommended by our superintendent and your principal as worthy of the honors we have bestowed upon you, and acting for the board which I represent, now present each one of you with a diploma, a witness to the world of the attainments you have reached.

After the presentation Dr. Winters of the Presbyterian church invoked the blessing, and the vast audience broke up. A reception was held on the stage and hundreds extended their congratulations and presented bouquets. Many fine and expensive tokens were received by the members of the class. Among the most expensive and beautiful was an elegant gold watch and chain to Miss Zella Snyder from her father and mother of Iowa. Miss Minnie Dewey received an elegant diamond ring.

Bouquets of flowers were distributed with a lavish hand. The parting scenes in many instances were very affecting and tears welled in eyes, and sighs filled the throat as the last goodbyes were said and these young people went forth to their homes—some far away, maybe never to meet again. Miss Mary Randall goes to Iowa, as does Miss Belle Snyder; but these young ladies will ever cherish the sweetest recollections of Wichita and their happy school days.

Wichita is proud of these young people and the class of the Normal school, who this week go out from her institutions to bless and cheer the world.

SNAP SHOTS

Taken With a Penell Kodak at the Graduating Exercises Yesterday—Some Things Heard in the Audience.

It was a pleasing relief to see a variation from the old idea of white in graduation dresses, yesterday. Pink, blue, yellow and other colors lent an attractiveness to the stage, lacking when all the dresses are white, which is a trifle funereal. As one of the graduating misses, in her essay, said: "When two complimentary colors are put together both are brightened."

In the twenty-seven essays read yesterday six references were made to Napoleon, five to Edison and three to Washington. It is very difficult for a class of graduates to present new ideas in their commencement essays and addresses. The class of 1892 departed farther from the old subjects than any class that has ever graduated from the Wichita High school.

It was an excellent innovation to have an English class motto, instead of some Greek or Latin phrase that no one in the audience would have known the meaning of.

This was the first class that ever graduated from a public school in Wichita where the boys had half a show. Usually the girls have predominated in numbers, but this time the masculine sex made an equal showing.

There was many a woman in the audience yesterday, when she got home, could not for the life of her tell the subject of each girl's essay, but there was not one who could not exactly describe the dress that each had on.

Professor B. D. Hammond was among the spectators yesterday. He was professor when the first class graduated in Wichita. It was in 1879, and the class consisted of four—Will Throckmorton, Miss May Throckmorton (Mrs. C. L. Davidson), Miss Grace Pope and Miss Clemmie David on.

There is nothing in such positively bad taste as for anybody at a commencement exercise to make criticisms. Friends and relatives of the graduates are all through some fourteen years ago and was reported as being a true believer in Christ, her Lord. Her sympathies were keen and sensitive, her liberality large, her friendships strong and her attachments great. Many were those who could not but befriend her. Her hospitality hardly recognized any bounds. She was slow to know, but when known her friendship was of the purest fidelity. A great circle of relatives and friends mourn their loss. A large concourse of people, though her death occurred at the busiest season, assembled at her funeral to pay tribute to her life and to bid adieu to her dear friend.

Mr. S. Wood of St. Louis and Miss Minnie Barnett, of this city were united in the holy bonds of matrimony on Wednesday evening, at the home of the bride's parents in North Wichita, at 8:30 p. m. Rev. William Bayless of Leon officiating. The handsome home was brilliantly lighted and finely decorated with flowers. In the west parlor of the home was a beautiful floral arch, under which the happy couple stood. The bride was attired in tan colored silk, trimmed with flowers and was the picture of grace and loveliness. A large number of invited friends and relatives were present, among whom were: Mr. and Mrs. Rev. Bayless of Leon, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Barnett of Horton, D. B. Crewson of Horton, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Mathey, Mr. and Mrs. James Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. J. Spelman, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Adams, Misses Lucia Gray, Lillie Jackson, Emma Gibson, Bertia Kelly, May Watson, Mrs. Watson, Messrs. H. C. Rison, J. M. Mathews, V. O. Bateman, G. G. Nordmark, James Dunn, and a number of others whose names could not be obtained.

The ceremony was brief but beautiful and very solemn, and was concluded with a beautiful prayer by Rev. Bayless. After the ceremony with many warm congratulations by all the guests, after which all repaired to the spacious dining room where the large table was loaded down with the best of all that could be procured. The table was sumptuously decorated with fruits, flowers and delicacies of the season.

Mr. Wood was a resident of Wichita about two years ago, at which time he formed the acquaintance of the beautiful young lady who is now his bride. He has a large circle of acquaintances and is now a trusted employe of the St. Louis Car company. Miss Barnett has many accomplishments and has resided here the past four years in which time she acquired an extended acquaintance and hosts of friends, who will miss her very much. The newly married couple received many handsome, valuable presents, most of them being table silverware, etc.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood left yesterday morning, via the Frisco, for their home in St. Louis, and were accompanied to the depot by a large number of friends, who wished them Goodspeed.

The best wishes for a happy and prosperous and long life follow the happy pair to their new home, by their many friends.

Quite a surprise.

Last night R. C. Stewart, one of the enterprising brothers of the Stewart Iron Works, had his home on North Topeka avenue stormed by the employees of his establishment, who presented to him with all the dignity and eloquence, characteristic of honest labor, a fine gold headed cane, the best that money could buy in Wichita. The occasion for this presentation was the thirty-first anniversary of his birth. The storming party was headed by the Stewart Iron Works, all of whom are good musicians who were inspired by the occasion and their respect for their genial employer to put more life than usual into the notes they sounded before his door. Mr. Stewart was completely taken by surprise but when he recovered he invited the party to spend the evening with him and to make their visit as pleasant for them as their mission was to him. Mr. Stewart bustled himself in a short time and had an impromptu spread prepared for them that would tickle the palates of as many princes. Music and singing were the other features of the happy event. It was nearly 12 o'clock when the industrial family circle parted and on the employees returning they kindly remembered the editor of the Eagle by telling at his home where they serenaded him with music and a good hearty cheer such as only true knights of industry can give. It may not have been generally observed, but it is a fact, nevertheless, that there is more melody in the hearty cheer of honest hardworking laborers, than there is in all the musical instruments in Christendom combined. It is very refreshing to see such a bond of sympathy and love existing between employer and employed, as was manifested under the hospitable roof of Mr. Stewart last night.

IN MEMORIAM.

On Tuesday morning, May 24, 1892, just as the spring sun was lifting his crown of golden light above the eastern horizon, and the early birds began to hop from branch to branch, from bow to bow, and between springs to warble a note of joy, the spirit of Sarah Hunt Sullivan took wings more ethereal than those of birds, and soared to glory and to God. One night gave her pain even to unconsciousness, the morning opened to her the gates of a rapturous joy and her entry the sunlight of God's love. At 5 o'clock on that May morning it was whispered softly about her bedside, "She has gone." Then came the storm of grief for her family that knew no abatement.

On the previous Monday at about 6 o'clock in the afternoon she had ridden to the fair grounds and had been accompanied by George G. Sullivan, where she had intended spending the night with her sister. Not long after her arrival she conceived the idea of walking down to Mr. McMarley's, a family connection, a mile or more distant. Just as she was about to turn into the yard she fell under an apparent stroke of paralysis. Friends came to her relief, assisted her into the house, whence she was carried upon a bed by kindly hands to her sister's room. She died at 11 o'clock on May 24, 1892. She was the mother of one child, Willie, who made lamentations over her death. She joined the Methodist Episcopal church
