THE CLOSING EXERCISES AT WICHITA UNIVERSITY.

Wichita university has just closed the most successful school year in the history of the school. The closing exercises began on Sunday, June 4, when Rev. S. A. Alt preached the baccalaureate sermon in the Reformed church in this city. On Tuesday evening Rev. Bruner delivered a very able address before the literary societies, and on Wednesday evening the graduates held their class-day exercises. This was an occasion for the graduates to have a good time. They did not intend to deliver themes to entertain an audience, but it was their day to have some fun among themselves. On Thursday evening the twentieth recital of pupils in the musical department took place. The university chapel was crowded with an appreciative audience. Those who pretended to enjoy classic music had their vanity gratified, and those of us with less pretensions, who enjoy the music in nature, and in whose souls there is a response to the meaning of the winds, the murmuring of the brook and the chirping of the birds, were equally well pleased.

Friday evening the commencement exercises were held. The largest class that ever completed any of the literary courses in the university graduated from the academic department. There were also a number of graduates from the commercial and musical departments. The productions of the graduates were not, as is usually the case, taken from some books, but they were original, and showed a grasp of thought and culture of mind far beyond that of the ordinary students who have completed such a course. After the graduates, trustees and professors had taken their places on the stage the Rev. Dr. Fleming led the audience in prayer. After the graduates had delivered their productions, President A. S. Miller, in a few well-chosen and appropriate words, introduced W. H. Busch, Esq., who delivered the annual address to the graduates on the subject of "Culture and Education as a Factor in Success in Life." Mr. Busch is an entertaining speaker, and he showed his grasp of the problems that confront those who are about to enter upon the active duties of life. The address was full of good advice, couched in the most eloquent language.

Mr. J. C. Egan, in a very able address, presented the diplomas to the graduates. Mr. Rutan spoke substantially as follows: By authority of the state of Kansas, of the board of trustees of the Wichita university, and by request of the faculty, in the absence of the president of the board, it becomes my duty and it is also my pleasure to present each of you with a diploma. These parchments in themselves will not help you to win "victories in the battle of life," so beautifully referred to just now by our legal friend, but they bear testimony to the fact that you have in a satisfactory manner completed the prescribed course of studies in the various departments of this institution in which you were matriculated.

"As you have gone through the academical studies with honor to yourselves and satisfaction to your teachers and friends, should you pass directly to the higher departments of this institution, or should you leave these halls and familiar scenes and seek freedom in the great universities of other states or other lands, or should you pass directly into the activities of a busy business life, my prayer, the prayers of the trustees and faculty and the prayers of these your friends, will be that you may obtain a still larger measure of honor and success in the new fields that you may enter. May God bless and keep you all!"

Michael Flaherty of San Francisco, California, arrived in the city yesterday and returned last night with his son John who has been detained during the past week in the city prison here on the grounds of his insanity. He is a respectable old gentleman and seems to be a very loving father. John Flaherty is the man who jumped from a Santa Fe train and afterwards jumped into the river about a week ago with suicidal intent. The old gentleman stated that the derangement of his son's mental faculties was due to an unusually close application to the study of law. Law and the law absorbing interest for him that a love story would have for a silly girl or a dime novel for the romantic young American. For weeks at a time he would worm through the pages of Blackstone and Kent and on many occasions he refused to surrender to sleep all for several nights. His father realized that the study of law was injuring his mind and in order to turn his attention away from it he purchased a violin for him and secured him instructions from the best music teachers in Frisco, but to no purpose, for he returned to his law books after a few days. He finally conceived the idea to send him on a visit to a Texas state in order to get him away from the books, but when he left he put a dozen books in his valise and took them with him. It is from the relative's ranch that he came here and barely avoided killing himself. Hopeless as his lunacy seemed to be when he was taken out of jail yesterday and brought up town he remarked that Wichita was as pretty a city as he ever saw and would like to live here.

Concerning the late D. W. McCalla the Salem, Ohio, Herald has the following to say after the interment of the remains in that city: Mr. D. W. McCalla, the subject of this sketch, was born at Berlin Center, Mahoning county, Ohio, November, 1832. He afterwards came with his parents to Salem, where he remained until 1848. In November of that year, he married the accomplished daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Brown of Stanton, Iowa. For some time they lived in Stanton, Iowa, and finally settled in Wichita, Kan. Reaching there just at the beginning of the great boom, he went into the real estate business with Will McCalla and another Salem boy. He gathered a rich harvest from the prosperous season of Wichita, and was worth some forty to fifty thousand dollars at one time, and was considered a careful and successful dealer. He was a man of upright character and sterling qualities. He died surrounded with friends who loved and respected him, and with all of the comforts and many of the luxuries of life. His death is a sad bereavement to his aged mother, he being the last remaining member of the family. Mrs. McCalla has the sincerest sympathy of many friends, who are grieved that so sad a blow should again fall to her. It is only a little more than a year ago that another son died in Portland, Ore.

Mr. Homer Reynolds is at home again after a very pleasant ten days' visit at Topeka. The street railway company is elevating its tracks to the grade of the asphaltum pavement. The removal of a house which Dr. Kirkwood is bringing in from the suburbs interfered with the continuous run of the streetcars on the Topeka avenue line for about an hour yesterday. J. P. Mulkey a railroad man of Herington was in the city yesterday. It is reported that the short train from the south end at the Union depot about 2 o'clock will soon be discontinued.

THE REED CASE. The latest chapter in the Reed-Hopper tragedy at Wellington. The case of the state vs. Judge Reed, the slayer of Isaac Hopper at Wellington some time ago, has been fully disposed of so far as the inferior courts are concerned. The Winfield Courier gives the latest chapter of the tragedy as follows: Today was set for the last act, as far as the district court is concerned, in the Reed murder case, the court overruled the motion for a new trial yesterday and this morning sentenced the defendant to twelve years in the state penitentiary. The court room was crowded with anticipation of the event, and the proceedings throughout were watched with great interest by all present. The county attorney of Sumner county, M. J. Peckham, who, in the opinion of many, represented the interest of the state, the defendant being present in person and represented by counsel. Judge Reed, when asked by the court if he had any legal cause to show why the judgment of the court should not be pronounced at this time, replied in the affirmative. The verdict of the jury, addressed the court in a ten minute speech, protesting his innocence of the charge upon which he has been convicted, and stating that his vindication would appear in the next world, if not in this. He was quite overcome with emotion at times, and with difficulty said what he intended to say. In concluding his remarks, Judge Reed said: "I have tried to demean myself so as to compare with the conduct of the defendants of those with whom I come in contact. I have no words except those of commendation for the treatment I have received at the hands of the court, and the jury, which is a part of it. I believe they have acted honestly and candidly and with the sole desire to do their duty, and the mistake that has been made is that of the heart, and not of the head. As I said before, sixteen years ago I came to this country, filled with ambition and courage, and with that ambition and courage I have broken down. I bow to receive with resignation such action as the court shall see fit to take, knowing upon the final day of judgment that if before, when I appear before the Great Judge, who is able to search the heart and read the motives and thoughts and intentions of men, I shall be acquitted of this crime, and the fact that I will say nothing further except to ask your honor in administering justice, that which you deem to be right that you will temper judgment with mercy."

At the conclusion of Judge Reed's talk Colonel Peckham requested the court to defer passing sentence until such time as the transcript in the case could be perfected and the defendant admitted to bail by the supreme court. Judge Reed, in his objection was made by the state, and Judge Jackson declined to postpone the case until a future date, saying that in connection, however, that if satisfactory arrangements could be made between counsel in the case for the defendant to remain in jail until the amount fixed in the Patterson case by the supreme court yesterday, the offense being the same in both cases (murder in the second degree), and the term of punishment also the same, viz. twelve years. It was stated by counsel that Judge Reed had arranged to give the bail as soon as the amount was fixed upon, his father perfecting arrangements to that effect.

AT DODGE AVENUE CHURCH.

Sunday at the Dodge Avenue Methodist church was set apart as Children's Day, and the exercises were not only very interesting, but had a strong influence for good on their youthful minds. Prizes and flowers made up the decorations which were profuse. To detail every feature of the exercises would involve too much space, but a good idea can be obtained from the following program: ANTHEM. Voluntary. Choir. Responsive Scripture Reading. Prayers. Introductory address—Ollie Hill. First Guard—Jess Laves. Sammy Tillman. Flower song by four little girls. Fourth Guard—Good Citizens—Walter Stover. Fifth Guard—The Sabbath School. Song by the infant class. Address to Children—Pearl Bellish. Columbia's Response. Song by the infant class. Fifth Guard—Sacred Sabbath. State Guard—Patriot's Song—Bessie Smith. Columbia's Response. Hanging of the Scales. "My Country, 'Tis of Thee"—By the School. Benediction.

AMONG THE BUSINESS MEN. Frank Blackburn of South Ida avenue is now head salesman in Pat Herron's grocery house and is regarded one of the best rustlers for trade there is in the fratercity. He has been out of the business for years, but he still has the knack of making himself pleasing to customers. The merchants of the north side of Douglas avenue are complaining of a shortage of trade since the street has been torn up, but when it is completed they will more than make up the loss. The traveling men representing Wichita wholesale houses all agree in saying that up to date their trade is much better than that of last year, notwithstanding the altered conditions. New potatoes are now selling for 35 cents a peck, and the old ones have been relegated to the rear. Grocersmen say that vegetables promise to be cheaper this year than for several years previous. There is an abundance of every kind.

AROUND THE CITY BUILDING. Officer John Fisher succeeded Office Neff as night clerk at headquarters last night. Councilman Caswell is trying to make a treaty with the Salvation Army to pause in their attack on evil and sin during the business meetings of the council. If they do not concede any more than stopping the beating of the drums he will be satisfied. Business in the police department was quiet all day yesterday and only a few offenders were run in. The preliminary hearing of the case of the state against Sutton to be held before Justice Keenan yesterday morning was postponed till this morning on the application of the prosecution. Theodore Reed, the janitor of the city building, was reappointed by Mayor Cox and unanimously confirmed by the council.

GOODS-IN-MACY. June roses are not content to cease until they were added fragrance into more bridal homes. A merry company of relatives and friends gathered, June 11, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Macy, on South Lawrence avenue, to witness the plighting of the troth between Annie B. Goodin, the eldest daughter of the home, and Mr. Charles E. Goodin of this city. The bridegroom was led by the groomsmen and bridesmaid, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. McPherson. After the bride party had advanced to the altar reserved for the marriage service the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Thomas W. Minnis amidst a tender silence, and a much better than the usual one. The bride and groom were given into the arms of two lives are woven into one. After the ceremony the friends followed the bride pair to the dining room where a very pleasant wedding dinner awaited the guests. Mr. and Mrs. Goodin have a new home, 1859 South Lawrence. Earnest good wishes for future joy will follow the wedded couple.

A DELIGHTFUL RECEPTION. The ladies of the First Baptist church gave a reception last evening in honor of a former pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. I. W. Reed. The very spacious and pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Pittenger on Topeka avenue was thrown open to the large and select gathering of friends, and the perfume of flowers and hearty greetings of old acquaintances, the hours passed very pleasantly and the hearts of the former pastor and wife were made glad by the evidences of regard manifested upon this, their first visit since leaving for their present in Seattle, Wash., four years ago. The record and recollection of the day will give rise to the entertainment, and at a reasonable hour, the good byes were said today Mr. Reed leaves for his distant home, while Mrs. Reed and her mother, Mrs. Vaughn, remain a few days to enjoy the society of old friends before continuing their journey to the New England states and other points enroute.

WHAT ADVERTISING DOES. Robert Jacks, the well known and popular clothier of North Main street, is one of the Wichita business men who has had a thorough appreciation of the real value of the EAGLE as an advertising medium. Sunday morning he put in a half page advertisement on the first page and he had done on any one day for over a year. The store was absolutely crowded this morning with customers, and very few sales were made although there were at times five customers for every attending clerk. Mr. Jacks says it was all on account of the EAGLE advertisement. The fact of the matter is Mr. Jacks had bargained for him in an attractive form to thousands of readers. For a time around his place of business it looked like a circus-day crowd.

RECEPTION. Last evening the ladies of the Baptist church gave a reception party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pittenger, 257 North Topeka avenue in honor of Rev. I. W. Reed and wife who are here visiting from Seattle, Wash. Rev. Reed was formerly pastor of the church in this city, and the reception given him last night was one to make him proud. Over a hundred guests were present, and Mrs. Pittenger had the rooms embellished most beautifully with flowers. The hours sped by too rapidly so joyous and delightful was the social enjoyment. Refreshments were served from 9 to 10 o'clock, and guests were still coming to enjoy the occasion.

MISS MARY E. BOWE, principal of the City Normal school, together with her mother and sisters, this morning were on an extended eastern trip. They will stop in the world's fair, after which they will visit friends in Cleveland, O., Hagerstown, Md., Washington, D. C., Roanoke, Va., and Columbia, O., returning to Wichita about September 1.

A JERSEY OPINION OF KANSAS.

A New Jersey man, who owns 12,000 acres of land in Southwest Kansas, and says it is not for sale at anything like prevailing prices, writes to the Buffalo American Investor: "As an outsider, the greatest need of Kansas in my judgment is a good healthy fool killer, and have him enter upon his duties and follow it up until there is a large amount of vacant land left for men who are willing to farm, and not be statesmen."

BOARD OF TRADE. Regular meeting of the directors of the board of trade this (Tuesday) evening at 7:30 o'clock. A full attendance of the members is earnestly requested. By order of the president, F. A. DAVIS, Secretary.

ST. JOHN'S RECEPTION AND SOCIABLE. The ladies of St. John's church will give their first general reception in the new stone church, corner of Third street and Topeka avenue, tomorrow evening, June 14. From 8 to 10 o'clock Shaw's orchestra will disclose its sweetest notes. The auditorium of the church will be decorated with flowers and foliage. The members and attendants of the church are all invited, orally and by written invitation.

COURT HOUSE NOTES. An appraisal of the real estate belonging to the estate of Daniel Murphy was filed, and a report of the sale was also filed and approved. Deed ordered and approved. Petition of guardian of Maudie Reiser to sell real estate was heard. The real estate was ordered sold at private sale, and at not less than three-fourths of its appraised value. Hearing of a motion to remove H. W. Riple as guardian of Henry W. Davis, minor heir of Nelson Davis.

ODIN ANSWERS. The remains of M. G. Wright were shipped to Norwich yesterday for interment. Several Wichita wheelmen will participate in the festivities at Fort Scott on July 4. The tables were turned on the iron posts of the electric street railway that have proved themselves to be much harder than men's heads, Sunday. A street car jumped the track near the Occidental hotel, and smashed one of them into smithereens, Good for the street car.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Daniels have returned from a visit of six or seven days to the world's fair. They had a very pleasant time and enjoyed the sights very much. A well-known citizen of the first ward killed three rattlesnakes on the bank of the river near the Wichita and Western railway bridge Sunday. This shows parents the safety of keeping their children away from the river banks these hot days.

The second ward Republicans will hold a meeting at Justice Tucker's court room this evening at 8 o'clock. Twenty head of horses were at the stock yards yesterday. Mr. Horner of Kingman had a load of hogs at the stock yards yesterday. Some very handsome colored glass windows are being put in place in St. John's Episcopal church having the picnic in charge will meet at 2:30 this afternoon at the hall.

Mr. J. M. Moore of the Fourth National bank entertained Rev. and Mrs. I. W. Reed at dinner on Sunday after morning services together with Mrs. Vaughn and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Plummer, with whom the former pastor and wife have been making their home during their stay in the city which has been greatly prolonged by reason of Mrs. Reed's severe attack of quinsy. Cards are out announcing the approaching marriage of Miss Hattie Horner of Whitewater and Mr. Overton Earle Louthan, the date being fixed on Wednesday, June 21, and the place at the residence of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Horner, of Center View farm near Whitewater. The young couple are announced to be at home Thursdays after July 1 at 607 Sixth street, Englewood, Ill.

The 10-year old son of Gideon Cheney, who lives not far from Greenwich, was kicked on the forehead by a mule, late Sunday evening, and it was thought for a while that he was killed, but after an hour's manipulations the boy's breathing was restored and he returned to partial consciousness. He sustained a frightful contusion across the forehead over the right eye, and his escape from instant death was almost a miracle. "My dear, can't we have some sweetmeats for dinner?" I am thinking of this baker's pie," remarked a newly married Harlequin man as he rejected a piece of sole leather pie. "Yes, darling, I'll order some tomorrow." Next morning she went to the butcher's and asked for four pounds of sweetmeats—Texas Sittings.

"Allie—They say Pomeroy is using glasses." "Allie—Yes." "Allie—How peculiar they will look with them perched upon his nose!" "Allie—Not at all." "Allie—Why not?" "Allie—The glasses he uses never get any farther than his lips.—Truth." Cause for Joy. "Why is my little wife so cheery this evening?" inquired Mr. Pottles of Mrs. Pottles. "Because," replied Mrs. Pottles, "she has just received a letter from her mother-in-law, and she says she is coming to see me." "How to Live Well on $70 a Year." "Because, dear, I've just got the butcher's bill for the last month and it's only $180."—Chicago Record.
