AS A CLEANSER. Of the blood, nothing sweeps as clean as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It purifies the blood as well as enriches it. The truth is, an emulsion of cod liver oil is good for nothing but to make you fat. But—just a weak stomach loathes it. Fortunately, there's even better for making healthy flesh. Pleasant in taste—effective in result. That's the "Discovery." It goes to work in the right way, by regulating, changing, and repairing all the organs of the body. When the germs of disease are round about us we do not all get them. Why? Some of us are in too good a condition. The germs of Consumption, Gripe, Malaria, and all the infectious diseases, pass you by if you are strong to resist their attack. Render yourself germ-proof by putting your blood and liver in a healthy state. "Discovery" fails to benefit or cure, if your money is returned. No other medicine of its kind can be sold so.

THE WORLD'S FAIR. CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—For a minute today it seemed as if the old days of the exposition had returned. The workmen suddenly heard shouts and laughter proceeding from the terminal station. The place was full of boys. A band began to play and a procession of youngsters marched across the plaza. Six hundred newshoes had arrived from Detroit. They came in a special train of twelve coaches as the only members of the Grand Army of the Republic. The boys had been reserved for the Columbian museum, will be given the right of the first speaker with the sight of the first parade given on the grounds since the close of the fair.

CONFUSION AND ANXIETY. Thousands of men are at work demolishing the buildings on the pleasure. In a couple of weeks the exhibits that are not reserved for the Columbian museum will be gone and the main buildings deserted. Desolation already reigns and the territory about the grounds looks like a deserted village. It has not been decided what disposition will be made of the buildings, but they are likely to stand till spring, when the exposition company relinquishes control.

MARSHAL MACMAHON. The Grand Record of the Famous French Soldier. The Part He Took in the Crimea, Italian and Franco-Prussian Wars—As a President He Was Not Much of a Success. Marie Edme Patrice Maurice de MacMahon, due de Magenta, marshal of France and ex-president of the French republic, died October 17, 1893. He was born at Sully, July 13, 1808. He derives his descent from an Irish family who risked and lost all for the last of the Stuart kings.

TOOTH CARPENTERING THERE IS A GREAT REFUGE FOR QUACKS AND IMPOSTORS. It is within living memory, says the New York Evening Post, that the dentist best known to Parisians were what was called "arracheurs de dents," or tooth drawers, who had chairs on the Champs Elysees, in which they extracted teeth in the presence of large crowds. It was the popular belief that, in order to support their proclamation that the operation was painless, as soon as the dentist put his pinners firmly fixed on the tooth, he whispered in the patient's ear: "Carnegie! If you make the faintest squeak, I'll break your jaw." The arrival of the American dentists, forty years ago, gradually banished these worthless from the public view, and gave dentistry the rank of a profession, and scientific. But dentistry is still in France a great refuge for quacks and impostors, as there is no proper legal control of the art and no diploma required for the practice of it. A writer in the Temps, speaking of this, says that he went recently to a dentist in a small town to get relief from a tooth-ache. The operator had been highly recommended to him as very skillful. When he saw him, however, he recognized him as a retired gendarme whom he had long known. "Where did you learn dentistry?" he inquired. Seizing his pinners, the ex-gendarme replied: "With this, monsieur, there is no need of study. It is a beautiful instrument. When it once takes hold the tooth has to come or the jaw gives away. Sit down and I'll show you." The sufferer promptly fled.

A Four-Story Tunnel. M. Hansenmann, a well-known Russian engineer, laid before the minister of public works at St. Petersburg recently a plan of tunneling the Neva. According to the Revue Francaise the tunnel is to be circular, its diameter being 13 m., and its length 155 m. Altogether the tunnel would reach 20 miles under the Thames. M. Hansenmann intends a four-story construction, the upper one containing ducts for electric wires; the second contains a passageway for pedestrians; the third a wagon road, and the fourth to be used for rapid electric transit.

Average Height of Man. According to Toppinard the average height of Londoners is 5 ft. 7 inches; of Danes, 5 ft. 7 inches; of Frenchmen, 5 ft. 6 inches; of Germans, 5 ft. 6 inches; of Russians, 5 ft. 4 inches; of Englishmen, Scotchmen and Swedes, 5 ft. 4 inches; of American Indians, 5 ft. 4 inches; of Patagonians, 5 ft. 2 inches.

AN UNAPPRECIATED MOOD. "Ha, ha!" said the jovial man, as he slipped an acquaintance on the back. "I'm glad to see you. I have one of the funniest stories on record, and you are just in time to hear it." "I don't care for it," was the candid reply. "You see, there is often a pathetic side even in humor. I have just been out with my architect and he showed me three of the funniest stories I ever saw. If I hadn't been paying for them I'd have laughed myself silly."—Washington Star.

RECENT RUSSIAN REGULATIONS. The latest decree of the czar of all the Russias regulates and restricts the fees that may be demanded by medical practitioners for their services throughout his dominions. The population, according to the Boston Herald, is divided into three classes, the one composed of the nobles, the capitalists, the landowners, the manufacturers, the bankers, the principal merchants and members of the civil, military and naval service. The second class comprises lawyers, persons and professional men, while class three consists of the balance of the population. For patients belonging to the first class the fee is limited to 5 rubles, or $2.75, for each consultation; those forming the second class may pay not more than 2 rubles, or $1.10, while the cost of medical advice to the masses is limited to 10 kopecks, or 19 cents. Of course patients will be permitted to pay larger fees if they wish to, but these are the largest sums that can be demanded.
