

FIVE ARE ARRESTED

Material of Every Description Found in a Fence.

HAVE BEEN SUSPECTED

Wholesale Arrests of a Family and Others.

Probably one of the biggest hauls ever made in this city was made by the police and county officials last night. Five persons have been so far arrested and placed in the county jail. They include the family by the name of Mr. and Mrs. George, their daughter, a girl of 18 years, named Carrie, and a boy of 14 named Bert, and another boy, Roy McDonald, who are all supposed to be connected with one of the worst fences ever conducted in this city.

Last night a boy was seen standing in a doorway next to E. W. Daniels, 22 North Main, and seen after to slip a ball of dress goods into a gunnysack and immediately rush across the street to the fence. Word was telephoned to police headquarters, and Harry Sutton, detective, responded. A description was given to him and in one hour the thief was caught, and a story told by him was followed up and other arrests made. A further search for goods uncovered the concealing place of over 60 yards of dress material, valued at close to $100. That was identified by R. W. Daniels as taken from his premises in bolts that had never been opened. He had been missing goods for some time and could not account for their disappearance. This discovery led to further investigation by the officers, and there was found in boxes and trunks, besides in every corner of the shack, silverware, hardware, hair combs, new nickel-plated revolvers, dress materials, hats, caps, and the search was still in progress when the Eagle reporter left. Other arrests will follow, and the gang of shoplifters who have been disposing of their spoils will soon be behind the bars.

Some of the goods still retain the tags and trade-marks of the various firms of the city, and the police do not hesitate in saying that they have for a long time been on the lookout for the shoplifters who have been baffling them for some time past. Merchants in this city have been continually missing goods from their stocks and it has been a mystery to them what could have become of the goods.

Detective Cairns said he had been on the verge of arresting the parties caught last night, for a long time, but felt that there might possibly be a mistake, and he did not want to break up a man in a small business through any error of judgment on his part, though he had been keeping a close watch on the place, as there was a suspicion that the family was progressing very rapidly for a man whose stock in trade was limited in capital when he first struck the town.

The man George, who was arrested last night by Sheriff Simmons, claims to have come from South Dakota, and owns a motorcycle from there, and had started their business here with a view of paying off a large mortgage, and from all accounts seemed to have been in a good way to have accomplished their purpose.

There has been on this post a private watchman and who was recently appointed a regular police officer, whose name is Len Asey, that last night that he had been watching the place very closely at night during the time he was on private watch, as he had often observed the place as a suspect of suspicious characters. But there did not seem to be sufficient evidence at night for him to make arrests as a private officer.

Assistant Chief Mamey says the place has been under surveillance for a month past, and it would have been on ya matter of time when they would have made an investigation.

Today R. W. Daniels will appear before the county attorney and swear out warrants for all the prisoners, and says he will prosecute the whole outfit to the fullest extent of the law.

REASONS FOR VICTORY

General Cunningham Tells of Republican Success. Hon. Harper S. Cunningham, attorney general of Oklahoma, is in the city attending the twenty-second semi-annual meeting of the Southern Rail. He is very jubilant over the result of the late election. When asked to what causes he attributed the big Republican majority, he said: "First, it was free homes. Second, we had a united Republican party, everyone working in harmony for the success of the ticket. Third, the people wanted to endorse the administration of President McKinley, and fourth, with Republicans at the helm it is more than probable that Oklahoma will be admitted to statehood."

JENNIE HOOKER GONE

Run Away from Home After Repeated Attempts. Miss Jennie Hooker, who has on several occasions tried to run away from her home, has succeeded. It is thought that she is in Arkansas City working in a hotel. She wanted to get married, according to her version, and her parents would not let her, so she claimed. If she can be located she will be brought back to Wichita. Only a few days ago her mother had a warrant sworn out for her and it was the intention then to send her to a reformatory for girls. It seems that her mother abandoned her first intention and that the girl went home but has now run away.

Eloquent Interpretation of Riley's "King's Mill". It was worth the price of a ticket to the whole Lyceum course to hear Alva Heywood recite "King's Mill" at the Auditorium last night. James Whitecomb Riley came nearer to the eloquence of Purifying the Blood with Hood's Sarsaparilla Effects a Cure.

All troubles that are due to impure blood yield with wonderful promptness to Hood's Sarsaparilla, which thoroughly eradicates all scrofulous taints and makes the blood rich and pure. Read these words:

"I have been troubled with very painful ulcers on my ankles the greater part of the time for about ten years. I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and when I had taken two bottles I could see change for the better. I have now taken four bottles and the ulcers are well. I am able to attend to my work about the house without any pain, and I can rest well at night. I regard Hood's Sarsaparilla as an excellent medicine." MARY A. WELLMAN, Winfield, Kansas.

every-day life than any poet who has ever written. To see Alva Heywood's interpretation of the Riley pictures, is to forget that Riley wrote. It is to sit among the Hoosier scenes; to see the life of the people as it is, as Riley saw it. "King's Mill" by Mr. Heywood, is the eloquence of pathos, the highest of art, because it is nearest nature. Any time Heywood will recite in Wichita he can get a big hearing. Every member of the Heywood company is an artist. Mr. Debra was honored. Miss Dresser's violin solos were great. Mr. Scott Heywood's cornet playing was skilful. Miss Riedmer's piano playing was a source of much pleasure to the audience. They are all pleasant people and Wichita endorses the company and its general manager, Dewey Heywood.

TWENTIETH KANSAS VOTE

Stanley Gets Three to One More Than Leedy.

Late advices from Honolulu, by way of San Francisco, state that the Twentieth Kansas regiment had an opportunity to vote at Honolulu before the Indiana, the transport which carried them, and which touched there enroute, sailed for Manila. The soldiers voted as follows for the principal state officers:

For governor—Stanley, 35; Leedy, 14. For associate justice—Smith, 33; Allen, 11.

The vote on the rest of the ticket ran about the same. All the Republican candidates for congress, with the exception of Rieder, received a majority. The count had not been finished when the Indiana sailed and the result will be cable from Manila.

IS A SURE GONER

Board of Pardons Doomed to Pass Out of Existence.

APPLICANTS FOR OFFICE

Gov.-Elect Stanley Will Take Up Preliminaries.

Since the meeting held in this city Tuesday night ratifying the election of a fellow citizen, W. E. Stanley, as the successful candidate of the Republican party for governor of the state, the city has been filled with politicians and aspiring office-seekers. Over 200 applications for appointments have been received by the governor-elect in the past few days for all the offices from railroad commissioner, seal of inspector, state penitentiary warden and member of board of charities down to the minor offices within the gift of the new administration. As far as is known, there is no scramble for places on the board of pardons, as it is a well-known fact that Governor-Elect Stanley is opposed to the continuance of this useless and obnoxious board, whose duties have become more of a court of review or appeals than for the purpose for which the law was originally intended. As passed by the legislature, it is safe to say that this body of appointive officers will soon pass out of existence, other by the expiration of the terms of the present board or by the enactment of the legislature abolishing the law entirely from the statute of the state.

The appointment of private secretary to the governor is, of course, out of the question of application, as there is an office wherein the governor will exercise his own judgment in whom he will select as his closest associate in the office of the chief executive of the state. He has as yet not made the appointment.

In Sedgewick county alone there are almost enough applicants to fill every office in the state, and while the governor is easy of access, even more so since his election than before, the men who come and go, as ten rush continues, will realize that the governor cannot give office to as many as one in twenty, or even more.

Governor-Elect Stanley has been occupied with a case in the district court for the past three days, only appearing on the streets in passing from the court house to his office during the usual noon recess. He is besieged by men from everywhere. Some want to have a confidential chat for five minutes; others, grasping his hand in congratulation, while others will line up near to his elbow and accompany him along the way, to get a chance word in at opportune moments.

The governor is feeling very jubilant. He chats pleasantly with everyone he meets, has a pleasant word for his old-time neighbors and business associates, and anyone, to see him as he strolls along through the streets of his home city, would observe that he had just returned from an extended European trip and had come back in excellent health and with lots of good stories of his recent travels abroad, which in this instance happens to have been extended over the big state of Kansas.

The governor will go to Topeka today,

MICHIGAN MILITARY ACADEMY

BOYS RECEIVE OFFICIAL RECOGNITION

25 Per Cent of the Officers of the 33th Michigan Volunteers are Orchard Lake Boys.

A much larger standing army will be organized. West Point cannot supply the officers. They will be selected largely from graduates of the best private military schools.

COLONEL HEYL, U. S. Army Inspector General, in his report for 1898, says: "This Academy still maintains its place as a leading military institution of the country, outside of West Point, and in all its details it is the most complete and thorough school of the kind I have ever inspected. The State may well be proud of Orchard Lake Military Academy, and the young men it graduates, as they will be the material on which the country can rely for officers in the event of war."

The military department of this institution stands pre-eminently without a peer among all of its class.—Capt. J. M. Lee, U. S. Army Inspector, Report to War Department, 1894.

The Michigan Military Academy at Orchard Lake has, by the high grade of scholarship and its strenuous efforts for the best success, achieved a place second to none in the country.—Extracts from Contributions to American Educational History, 1892, Bureau of Education, Washington, D. C.
