

GOVERNOR AT HOME

Dictating Letters to His Many Correspondents.

APPOINTMENTS WILL COME

Some Time Next Week to the Lucky Ones.

Governor-elect Stanley has not decided upon any of his appointments, at least he is not ready to announce any, but may do so the first of next week.

A special to a Kansas City paper states that Warren H. S. Landis, of the state penitentiary, has given some of his Populist associates to understand that he will try to hold on to his job under the Stanley administration.

Landis talks altogether different now from what he did two years ago. The day he was installed as warden Captain Zolner, then a member of the board of directors of the penitentiary, was at the prison.

"How does that come?" Landis asked of Eckert. "You have a year yet to serve."

"I know, but I am one of those who believe that the victor belongs to the spoils, and I have no desire to be associated in any way with the Leedy administration or stand in the way of its carrying out its policies," replied Eckert.

"You show the proper spirit," replied Landis. "Two years from now, if the Leedy administration is turned out of power, its successor will not have to bring any charges against me like it did against Dick Chase in order to make a vacancy in the warden'ship. I will step out on the day Governor Leedy dies."

Eckert has written Landis calling his attention to the conversation at that time and advising him to rescind his present intention and stick to the one made two years ago. "By doing so you may save yourself considerable humiliation," said Eckert. "You will lose the place anyhow."

It is being generally discussed in political circles in and around Topeka that the system of selecting subordinate employees at the various state institutions under the Stanley administration will be entirely different from that of Governor Leedy. It is well known that Governor Leedy dictated all of the appointments. He decided who should have the places and then the boards were instructed to announce the selections, which they did. The boards had no voice whatever in the selection of appointments.

It is thought that it will be Governor Stanley's policy to name the very best men in the state for members of the boards, and then hold them personally responsible for the management of the institutions, and give them full power to name all the subordinates, with the exception of the very best portion of the state police, by the distribution of offices. This would be an excellent plan and would have the effect of enabling the boards to maintain discipline among the employees.

At present as discipline can be maintained at any of the institutions. If the board or a superintendent discharges a holder or patron, he appeals the case to the governor, and in every instance, so far, the governor has overruled the board or the superintendent and ordered the discharged man reinstated.

The strongest Democratic organization of the state will deliberate the Democratic members of the various boards under the Stanley administration. There are a number of boards which the law Evidence Which is Right to the Point and Reliable. Judge Frank Lee of District Court of Crookston, Minn., says: For some time I have used Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets with seeming success. With few exceptions I have not been free from indigestion in twenty-five years.

George W. Roosevelt, U. S. Consul at Brussels, Belgium: Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, safe, pleasant to take, convenient to carry, give keen appetite, perfect digestion.

Mr. M. D. Tomlin, mechanical engineer, Smith, Minn.: One box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets has done for me, and I am again gaining flesh and strength.

O. E. Hanson, Hixsonville, Ky.: I was distressed and ailing for two or three years with throwing up food, often two or three times a day, had no certainty of retaining a meal if I ate one. After trying several tablets from my druggist he furnished me. I find them pleasant to take, convenient to carry.

Rev. G. D. Brown, Mondak, Wyo.: The effects of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is simply marvelous; a quiet healthy dinner of broiled beefsteak causes no distress since I began their use.

provides shall contain at least one of another political power than the one in power. Probably the best place of this kind is on the state board of railroad commissioners.

Secretary of State-elect George A. Clark has named Miss Belle Hollingshead of Garnett as charter clerk and stenographer in his office. Mr. Clark will endeavor to get the legislature to increase his office force.

Secretary Brown of the Republican state committee, today addressed a letter to each of the Republican state and congressional officers, calling their attention to that provision of the election law which requires them to file a statement of their election expenses with the county clerk of the county in which they live within thirty days after the election.

"There is no doubt but what all of the officers-elect are conversant with that provision of the law," said Mr. Brown. "But for fear that some of them might possibly overlook the matter I have issued the warning. The law provides that if such a statement is not filed the officer-elect shall be deprived of taking his office. The state committee does not want any trouble of that kind to arise."

The question of insurance commissioner is attracting considerable attention. The Emporia Gazette says: "The esteemed Wichita Eagle—the best daily newspaper printed on Kansas soil—says that Stanley should appoint a man for insurance commissioner who will take for granted that the insurance companies should be 'knocked up' about every thirty days. This saying of the Eagle has some truth in it, but it contains the seeds of an important error.

Stanley should appoint a man insurance commissioner who will make it a point to earn his salary and keep his eyes off the grant stand. The trouble with Webb McNeill is not that he doesn't earn his salary; it is that he keeps playing to the grand stand and too often forgets the equities and goes in for what will look fine in print.

"There is absolutely no doubt but that there are radicals in the insurance business just about as many as there are in any other business, and they need 'knocking up.' But it is probable that the business of the insurance commissioner is like that of the dry goods merchant or of the banker or of the printer, and it may be expedient by standing around and causing and damning everything in sight in eight different languages, but rather by going upon the assumption that one's fellow man is honest and is trying to do the square thing until he has proved the contrary. Mr. McNeill has talked too much to reporters; he has run to the public with every smart aleck letter that he has written; and the purpose of the letter was not to adjust the differences between the companies and their patrons, but to get a bouquet for Webb McNeill. He has proved himself inordinately vain, and in so much as he has been vain he has been useless. If he had spent more of his time trying to convince the companies that it pays to be genuine, and less time to convince the voters that Webb McNeill is a little tin god, the people would have more substantial results of his regime.

McNeill had a good many first rate ideas, but he forgot all about them in trying to keep his name in the papers. No one thinks for a minute that he was thought of on his high against the Jackson rate book. He simply got to thinking what a smart man he was and forgot all about his war on Clarkson. But the man whom Stanley appoints must have no strings to him. He must not be tied up as the friend of the insurance companies. He must owe his appointment to the fact that he is a capable, conscientious gentleman, who knows it, ever in mind that he is drawing a salary from the state of Kansas, not from insurance companies. If the next insurance commissioner, for insurance, happens to think that the Clarkson rate is a bad thing, he must have the governor of Kansas behind him to make a fight on that institution which will drive it out of Kansas. He needs it as if it were the newspaper, but he must accomplish results.

"That is the thing the people are looking for, and that is the thing they have a right to expect. Governor-elect Stanley does not owe his election to the fact that he has a right to demand a change in the insurance commissioner; he owes his election to the decent, respectable business men of Kansas. It is those men that he must satisfy, with a man of their kind."

The New England dinner to be served today at 18 North Main street will consist of chicken pie, pork and beans, potatoes, salad and pumpkin and mince pies that are warranted to be just as your mother used to make them.

A very successful operation was performed yesterday morning at the Wichita hospital by Dr. Purdon. The patient was Mrs. A. R. Zook of Wellington. Last night she was being very nicely and restfully comforted.

PIGSKIN IN PLAY

University Team Downs and Puncts High School Team.

SCORE STANDS 6 TO 0

Gridiron Was Kept Hot From Start to Finish.

Kim! Zip! Zuh! Boom! Boom! Bah! Friends' University, Wichita! One of the finest games of scientific football ever witnessed in this city was played at the fair grounds yesterday afternoon. The game was between the High School and Friends' University eleven.

The game was a magnificent contest from start to finish. The weather was first class for football, but yet very disagreeable for spectators. The sun shone very brightly on the canvas-backs as they came out upon the field, but the grounds were in horrible condition, being very muddy and partially covered with snow.

At ten minutes after 3 o'clock the teams took their positions on the field. The High School players were lined up on the south goal, the University making the kick-off. The University ends made a magnificent dash down the field and Parker, the University left end, secured the ball on the High School's 25-yard line.

Both teams then lined up for a scrimmage, and by rapid bucking and tackle formations, first around one end and then around the other, the University made steady gains, 4 ways for several yards. Then the ball was carried down to the High School's 4-yard line, when Boyle carried the ball through for three yards. Here only one yard remained between the ball and the High School goal line.

The University took the ball to the High School. After two trials at advancing it, they were forced to punt. Rogers, the High School fullback, made a beautiful punt of thirty yards and the ball was secured by Torrey, of the University, who advanced it to the High School 15-yard line. The ball was then advanced several yards for scrimmage.

After ten minutes' intermission the teams were called out again by the referee. The University defended the south goal and the High School kicked off for thirty yards. Here a fool play on the part of a University man caused them to lose the ball, and the High School lined up on the University's thirty yard line for a scrimmage. After some unsuccessful attempts to advance the ball they were again forced to punt. Torrey secured the ball and advanced it to the High School territory.

The ball was then carried to the center field, and the High School kicked off for thirty yards. The ball was caught by L. Alexander, who returned it by a 25-yard punt. WICHITA LIGHT COURIER. Mary Louise Clark with the Helpless Grand Concert Company at the Auditorium Tuesday evening, will be the first really noted contralto that has appeared in this city for years, and it is very doubtful if ever there has been one in this part of Kansas who has the reputation of Miss Clark. The following are a few of the excellent press comments printed last night.

A great deal of the interest in the evening program centered in the appearance of Miss Mary Louise Clark. She is a woman of commanding appearance and marked personal charm. Her voice is a rich, robust and healthy; that is, fresh, robust and healthy; full of force and showed themselves superior in team work.

The Andrews Opera company, which opened a short season of English opera at the Columbia last evening, presenting "Martha" is certainly entitled to all the flattering notices which it has received in other cities. The soloists were without question the best that have ever been heard in years and the choruses showed the effects of careful selection and training of voices.

Miss Catherine Lee, as Martha, made much of a most successful part and won the sympathy of the audience from the start. She has a strong voice, pure and full, and this coupled with a charming personality made her a favorite at once. Each of the other principals is possessed of a well cultivated voice and in their hands the various characters were portrayed with strength and fidelity.

Tonight there will doubtless be an immense attendance, the excellence of the company having been well advertised by a notice present last evening—North Adams (Mass.) Evening Herald.

The Andrews Opera company will be at the Crawford Grand on Monday and Tuesday next, presenting "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Mikado Monday, "Martha" Tuesday night, and "The Bartered Bride" Tuesday afternoon. Sale of seats opens to subscribers this morning.
