Pinar Del Rio Not Peopled by Brigands.

WELCOME TO AMERICANS

What General Davis Found on His Tour to the West.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.) Pinar Del Rio, Dec. 19.—The reconstruction of this great tobacco raising, sugar growing province has begun. Absolute peace exists, and the people are at work. General Davis, before he left Havana, was told that brigands would probably overrun the province; that petty dictators were taking the villages; that insurgents had occupied the towns and would not yield paramount authority to the Americans, and that he would be infinitely vexed by obstacles in every step toward the restoration of civil order among a restless people.

When General Davis with his staff, a battalion of the 29th New York and a signal corps company, reached the borders of the province in the journey by train from Havana, they were received at Santiago de Las Vegas by a colonel and 120 Cuban horsemen, armed near the station. Afterward behind them were 125 young Cuban women on horseback. Around and behind this cavalcade townspeople gathered, shaggy-haired old men, women in black, troops of children with flowers and small Cuban and American flags. As General Davis and his staff appeared on the platform there was a passionate burst of "Viva," and bare chests flashed in the midst of colors. The cheering was so prolonged and genuine that the Americans were moved by it. The colonel placed himself and his men at General Davis' disposal. The alcalde of the town made an address. The general, who knows some conversational Spanish, but not enough for a public speech, said through an interpreter that the Cuban people had been through great trials and sufferings, and that the Americans were there to aid in securing their liberty.

Surgeon Major W. J. Kneeder had become separated in the crowd from General Davis, and a committee of privates began to read him an address of welcome, thinking the doctor was the general. Major Kneeder, who at first did not perceive the drift of the address, was unable to find an opening to stop the parade before the welcome had been concluded.

The doctor then, through a Cuban, who could speak Spanish, said that as one of the Americans with General Davis he regarded the Cubans as men and brethren, and that in all his travels he had not been in so fine a country. The Americans then swept on through wide spaces of deserted country. From the train they could see occasionally the blackened walls and tall chimneys of ruined sugar centrals.

At each of the towns the senior Cuban officer made known his allegiance to the proposed order of things under the American protectorate. Pinar Del Rio city gave a reception as enthusiastic as that given at Santiago de Las Vegas. The Cuban commander turned over the municipal arms provisory belonging. General Davis has communicated by letter or by messenger with the important towns in the province. Not an incident of brigandage or injury to personal rights has been reported. The most flagrant crime has been the disappearance of some chickens. The Spanish residents, some of whom are the wealthy men of the city, had lived in the interior before Spanish evacuation and American occupation unharmed.

The people near Pinar have torn wire from the trenches and have enclosed yards and fields with it. The principal store keeper has painted advertisements on two of the forts.

The town is well fed on chickens, fresh beef, fruit and vegetables. The country is exhausted, but the revitalization has begun. Palm huts are building on wasted farms. The country people are now living chiefly on radishes, sweet potatoes, sugar cane and chicken or quail shot or trapped in the thickets.

Pinar del Rio city has many pretty houses. The population was 12,000, of which number 7,000 have been buried. The women are all in black.

Following General Davis' instructions, the American army and privates are careful to return the salutes of the Cuban soldiers, who, armed and unarmed, are coming and going all the time.

They subsist largely on gifts of food. Some, forced by necessity, have sold their rifles. Manners captured from the Spaniards are selling for $5 or $6. In Havana

Address, Dr. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

They were approached by defendant and her husband and a quarrel ensued over the case, which resulted in Fred Frank jumping out of the wagon, setting a board and elaborating the husband over the head and arms.

Frank was a very powerful man and Warnholt was a very small man. At this stage of the drama the wife went to the house, seized a gun, and while Frank was still striking her husband over the head and arms with the board, fired the shot which resulted in the death of Fred Frank the next day.

The defense is self-defense. The deceased had been previously notified not to pass through the yard, and it was in evidence that the deceased was a quarrelsome man, powerful, and that he had frequently abused and threatened defendant and husband.

SPEAKING OF CANDIDATES

Kingfisherites want to know what's the matter with Kingfisher.

Kingfisher, O. T., Dec. 24.—(Special)—There seems to be a controversy between snail and arid counties regarding the organization of the council and house of representatives, which convene in Guthrie on Tuesday, January 26, as to who shall be president of the council, and speaker of the house, each county claiming the honor.

Kingfisher county has not said a word as to what she would like in the premises, because the time has not arrived for her to assert herself.

This county has never had or sent any better material to Guthrie as her representative than Dr. F. L. Winkler, who is mayor of Kingfisher City, and who by his wise management of the affairs of the city, succeeded in bringing it out of debt, so that now the city pays cash and her scrip is at par.

And Kingfisherites think that in this gentleman there is excellent material for president of the council.

Judge Walter C. Stevens, representative of the Sixteenth district, is a fine specimen of the progressive young man of the territory. He is the impersonation of energy and push. His knowledge of the bar laws on the statute books of the territory and the needs and wishes of the people, recommends him most highly for the speakership of the lower house.

D. H. Yankirk, of the Eleventh district, also of this county, has once been a member of the lower house. He is a man of sterling worth and has a good knowledge of parliamentary law.

It can be readily seen that Kingfisher county will be heard from.

Guard duty is light. One post of three men is maintained at the railway station and another is at the Globe hotel, where General Davis stops. No other guard duty outside the camp is required. The men expect to be replaced by regulars in the spring and allowed to go home.

STRANGE STORY OF MRS. JOHNSON

apparently to clear the docket at this term and, working to that end, he has forced the attorneys to set up sight preparatory cases for trial.

The case of the Territory vs. Frank Covey, for seduction, was called for trial today and will probably occupy the court for several days. An indictment was found against Covey at a former sitting of the grand jury and his friends were so ardent in his behalf that two of them were fined heavily for contempt. The case will probably be of a sensational nature. The prosecuting witness, Cora Conner, and her father, John Conner, disappeared suddenly at the beginning of the session, and no one supposed the case would be tried. But the judge, acting with his usual vigor, when the circumstances were made known to him, ordered bench warrants to be issued, and both have been arrested and are now in custody of the sheriff.

The grand jury adjourned after sitting eight days, during which time eleven indictments were found, among them, one against John Rowder, a farmer and occasional prospector, who lived a few miles east of McAdams in this county, for committing a robbing and nameless crime upon the person of his 12-year-old step-daughter. He was promptly convicted and will probably be sentenced next week.

Upon closing his labors the grand jury, which was a fairly representative body of Grant county's prosperous citizens, paid Judge McAtton a high and deserved compliment, and expressed the hope, unanimously, regardless of politics, that he might sit long upon the bench in the first judicial district.

WARSHOLZ MURDER CASE

Given to the Jury at Perry After a Five Days' Trial.

Perry, O. T., Dec. 24.—(Special)—The Warnholtz murder case has been on trial before the district court for five days and the final verdict was made this afternoon and the case given the jury. The case has attracted much attention from the first and the court house has been crowded, particularly since the arguments of counsel, beginning all yesterday.

County Attorney W. M. Boston has been aided by J. B. Edgar and the defense was done by the best ally represented by A. R. Mussel, Judge Hierer and Henry Rucker.

The defendant is the wife of Marcus Warnholtz and is only seventeen years of age and lived with her son upon the farm in the middle part of the city.

On June 1st last, Fred Frank, the deceased, and his brother-in-law, Jacob Irving, had been cutting wheat on the Warnholtz farm, which they had leased, and had secured some in the morning with some oats in their wagon, passing near the house of defendant's son-in-law.
