Germany Claims This for the Samoan Question.

CRUSADE ON GAMBLING

William Hooted by a Crowd of His Subjects.

(Copyright, 1899, by the Associated Press.) Berlin, Fe. 4.—The German government claims to have received advice from Samoa which dispose the ministers to in no wise acquiesce in the view that the German representatives there are entirely to blame for the recent troubles.

"Our representations from Samoa this week narrate in detail the events preceding the bursting of the storm in consequence of the royal election. We begin to see more clearly into matters. There has been for some time past serious friction between Chief Justice Chambers and the German consul at Apia, arising from mutual recriminations as to the conduct of official business and personal differences. Mr. Chambers appears to have been engaged in promoting much agitation in favor of the Malietoa party. If this is confirmed, we shall ask for an explanation, as such conduct is a direct contravention of the Berlin treaty, which expressly provides that the supreme judges shall not meddle with national elections but shall remain strictly neutral on such occasions. It seems, however, that Mr. Chambers joined in the intrigues of the English missionaries, who feared that Protestantism would suffer by the ascension of the Roman Catholic Malietoa. The German government does not go to the length of claiming that Mr. Chambers did so, but if the reports are confirmed we shall ask for an explanation."

"Possibly on the American side facts may be adduced tending to show that our representatives also exceeded their proper powers. If complaints are made they will be impartially and thoroughly investigated. No formal complaints of requests have yet been made by either government and there is evidently a desire on both sides to settle the whole difficulty in a friendly way. Repeating the latest incident, it seems undeniable that a German created a disturbance, smashing windows, passing, etc., but we fail to see how Mr. Chambers deemed it his duty to place the offender under his jurisdiction instead of leaving him to the consular jurisdiction, as the Samoan acts prescribed. This action upon the part of Mr. Chambers will also need an explanation."

"The incident, however, is trifling. Our reports indicate, generally speaking, order now reigns at Samoa."

The correspondent of the Associated Press spoke to the United States ambassador, Mr. Andrew D. White, on the subject, and he said the above talked with his own information. Mr. White added that he had not received fresh instructions from Washington, and he had no doubt that the troubles would be amicably adjusted by the three powers interested.

AGRICULTURE IN THE DIET. The debates in the Prussian diet this week were of special interest, as they brought out the full extent of the agrarian demands and showed that the Prussian cabinet is unanimous on the agrarian question.

The agrarian party in the diet is much stronger than in the Reichstag, and the speeches showed that even the National Liberals support the Agrarians on many questions.

Herr Wallbrecht, National Liberal, assured the government that there was a deep feeling of dissatisfaction caused by the agricultural depression in Western Prussia, as well as in the east, and that the sugar crisis had severely hurt the Rhine provinces. He also expressed the belief that Cuba, under the Americans, will quickly become a dangerous competitor with the German sugar industry and recommended the government to form a sugar trust and raise home prices.

The Agrarian leaders Mendelstehns and Von Wimpfen were more violent, calling on the government to abolish the commercial treaties and exclude American, Russian and Austrian agricultural products.

SECRETARY OF THE BALLOT. There was an interesting debate in the Reichstag on the bill introduced by Herr Reibnitz for the protection of the secrecy of the ballot. Two Conservative factions for the first time openly avowed their intention to abolish the secrecy of the ballot, and Emperor William's friend, Baron Von Stumm, plainly declared that sooner or later secrecy must be abolished, at which the whole Reich loudly applauded. The bill, however, was adopted by a large majority, composed of the Center and the whole of the Left.

GERMAN TARIFF FEARED. The official Reichsanzeiger has published most of the new German tariff regulations, and the German press is greatly dissatisfied with them, claiming the regulations are so framed as to favor American products at the expense of German and other European imports.

The Bremen chapter, the leading commercial organ, dwells particularly on the fact that German staple exports, such as textiles and wines, are not unfavorably treated and concludes an article on the subject with saying: "The tariff regulations made by the United States for Cuba know nothing of the open door." Surely something will have to be said about them in the future."

GERMAN-AMERICAN CABAL. The establishment of a company to lay a direct cable between Germany and the United States now seems definitely assured. The capital, 20,000,000 marks, has been furnished by a number of banks and private capitalists, including the Duke of Saxe. The German government is understood to be favoring this and other cable enterprises, and the Reichstag will be asked to take various appropriations in return for pre-emption privileges.

The Deutsche Zeitung concludes an article on the subject as follows: "Thus the first step is taken to free Germany from the British cable monopoly, which, in the event of war, might become fatal to us."

CRUSADE AGAINST GAMBLING. With reference to the gambling debate in the Reichstag, a story is told showing the emperor's intense hatred of gambling. When he was crown prince and in command of the Garde du Corps, he strictly prohibited it and old Emperor William punished him to withdraw his orders. But the gambler replied: "As long as you entrust me with the com-

ECZEMA ON FACE

Condition Such Could Not Go Out. In Physician's Care Five Months. CUTICURA Cured in 1 Month.

I had eczema on the face for five months, during which time I was in care of physicians. I could not go out. It was going from bad to worse, when a friend advised me to use CUTICURA. After I washed my face with CUTICURA SOAP and used CUTICURA OINTMENT and CUTICURA RESOLVENT it changed wonderfully, and in a month my face was as clean as ever.

CUTICURA RESOLVENT, greatest of blood purifiers and humor expellers, purifies the blood and circulating fluids of ECZEMA, and thus removes the cause, while warm baths with CUTICURA SOAP, and gentle applications with CUTICURA OINTMENT, prevent the return of the disease, cleanse the skin and scalp of crusts and scales, slay itching, burning, and inflammation, and thus soothe and heal the most torturing, disfiguring humors of the skin, scalp, and head, with loss of hair, when all other remedies fail.

Sold throughout the world. Preps. Dr. J. C. CUTICURA, Boston. Beware of cheap imitations. CUTICURA SOAP, CUTICURA OINTMENT, CUTICURA RESOLVENT. CUTICURA CURE. CUTICURA SOAP. CUTICURA OINTMENT. CUTICURA RESOLVENT.

SAVE YOUR HANDS. The debate showed that in spite of the emperor's efforts to make the army march in step with the officers of the German army.

BISMARCK'S LETTERS. The Leipzig Neueste Nachrichten says a lot of private letters from the late Prince Bismarck to General Von Manteuffel, then governor of the province, containing spicy items of court and political gossip, were sold on Von Manteuffel's death to a Berlin banker having profitable business relations with the emperor and court.

The banker, it is added, paid $200,000 marks for the letters. The Leipzig writer recently wanted to use the letters for a historical work and the banker at first proposed to lend them. Later, however, he refused on the plea that it would cost him his valuable clientele, having received an intimation from the court chamberlain to that effect.

The Bismarck press chronicles this regretfully and admits that third volume of Bismarck memoirs really exists, giving sensational information regarding the present reign. The manuscript, it appears, was sent to England before Bismarck died.

CROWD HOOTS THE EMPEROR. Emperor William this week ordered that the park and gardens surrounding Mon Bijou chateau, in the center of Berlin, be closed to the public. This is due to a startling incident which has only just become known. Last Sunday the emperor and empress left the church opposite the palace and walked towards the carriage which was waiting for them just inside Mon Bijou park. An enormous crowd had assembled and was so dense that their majesties had great difficulty in reaching the carriage. When they succeeded in doing so the coachman was unable to drive off, being hemmed in on all sides. Thus the emperor and empress were obliged to listen to the personal comments of the populace and it is claimed that insulting epithets were flung at the imperial couple. Finally reinforcements of police made a line through the crowd and their majesties drove off amid hooting and cat calls.

WILLIAM THE MEDDLESOME. The colonel commanding the Ninety-seventh regiment married an English woman and was induced by the latter to introduce the British fashion of officers wearing civilian clothing, which she claimed was more becoming to the regiment. He lately invited the officers of his regiment to dinner, prescribing black evening dress. This reached the ears of the emperor, who reprimanded the colonel and forbade the regulation.

BEAUTY BEHIND BARS

as she sat in the corner of the court room. She was well dressed and well formed. Her face is pretty, notwithstanding the devil that peeps out from the corner of her eyes. Her teeth are white as an animal's and her hair is strong, suggesting a determined will. She must be a very headstrong woman, with many good traits, however.

Not a frown spoiled her face during the long wait for her arraignment. On the contrary, she smiled quite often. It was a sunny smile, too. She said she was used to smiling because she is "a good fellow." She talks quite fast and there is a musical ring in her voice.

If she is spoken to in a cross manner she resorts to it and becomes ugly, but if talked to kindly she is smiling, communicative and pleasant. For the want of humility, no doubt, her life is wrecked.

"I won't tell you where I live," she said with a smile. "What's the use? It would only worry my brothers, and I guess it would kill my mother. I live in Canada; that's all I'll say on that subject."

She unbuttoned her large fur cape and after remarking that it was dreadful warm in the room, she talked about her life in the house of correction: "God," she said, "I hate to go back there. I can see my finish if I get two years. They had me in the dungeon nearly all the time I was there. There is what I call a liberal jail. The matron's name is Hess, and you can see this down in your mind."

A TEACHER'S DUTY

Extends to Food and Drink.

I noticed two of my little pupils, brother and sister, when reaching up for a book or any article that I desired to hand to them, crumpled morsels from the papers in the gutter.

I finally concluded this was not abstinence, but was really some physical trouble, and upon inquiring, I discovered that they were in the habit of drinking coffee every morning for breakfast. I warned the children to leave off the coffee, for I knew it was the cause of their trouble, and would ruin them if continued in. I always urge children to use Postum Food Coffee, for I know that to be healthful, strengthening and a perfectly natural food.

A short time thereafter the little folks spoke of were entirely well of their slight pain.

It is a distressing state of affairs where parents permit children to use ordinary coffee. Many cases have come to my notice where the taste of Postum was not liked, but in all such cases, the dislike arises from the failure to properly brew it. It is a very laxative liquid when under-brewed, and a very delicate, strong, rich, satisfying coffee when boiled long enough to bring out the flavor and food value. Her. Helen Cox, 267 W. Our Embroidery Sale This Week

Will be distinguished on account of its superb qualities at littler prices, than are usually asked for common qualities. Many hundreds of yards in these three lots for this week's choosing are manufacturer's short lengths—from 5 to 8 yards—neatly done up in "bolt" packages, and for this reason they'll come to you at half their worth and allow us a reasonable profit. Many hundreds of yards in these three lots are full size bolts, put into the sale with profits almost dismissed, as a supply reserve to accommodate all who come. No Special Sale is ever allowed to "run short" at The Boston Store. No skimpy lots are ever offered our patrons, and the words "Special Sale" are never attached to a movement here unless it is genuine—unless the goods are really and noticeably under priced. We cannot afford to break confidence with you. Germany, Switzerland and America contribute to this assortment of embroideries, and divided into three lots the selling will begin tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock sharp. The prices will be in accord with "The Boston's" modern methods of doing things bigger and better than less ambitious shops.
