SALE OF THE POLAND CHINA BREED CATTLE. The litigation over the hog that Council sold to a syndicate as the famous pocker known as Kiever's Model, was not Kiever's Model at all, but just a plain, every-day "ringer."

Springfield, Ill., April 25.—George C. Council has begun a suit in the Sangamon county circuit court to recover $30,000 from Charles A. Kiever because Vigil has said the hog that Council sold to a syndicate as the famous pocker known as Kiever's Model, was not Kiever's Model at all, but just a plain, every-day "ringer."

There have been suits and cross-suits. The litigation over the hog already has cost over $10,000. The last time Council sued to recover on the notes the jury declared him in the right and gave him judgment. Now he has started after the man who said Kiever's model was a plain hog in disguise and has begun by suing Vigil for $30,000.

The story of Council, the syndicate, and the hog is a long one, but every child in Sangamon county knows it by heart. It began in 1897 at the state fair grounds in Springfield. Council decided publicly to auction off a famous hog he owned, known as Kiever's Model. The hog came of an ancient and highly respected race and his name was known in the country through, so when he was put up on the block on September 8 he was sold to the highest bidder, stockmen from all over the country were there anxious to secure the prize.

The bidding rose higher and higher and finally Kiever's Model was sold to a syndicate for $15,000. The syndicate was composed of James A. Heil and A. M. Caldwell of Washington, D. C., who escorted Kiever's Model home in triumph.

All was serene until Council's hired man whispered about the country a horrible secret. He was a Swede, named Arthur Thielander. He said his conscience troubled him so that he felt he must speak. He declared the big Poland China hog that went under the name of Kiever's Model was not Kiever's Model at all. The real Kiever's Model, he said, had died nearly a year before the auction sale of one of the pestilence peculiar to the hog race.

The hired man said he had been with Kiever's Model when it lay down and died, had been chief mourner at the funeral, and had acted as undertaker for the deceased pocker. He related how at the dead of night, by the sickly glare of a barn lantern, he had laid Kiever's Model in its grave. The next day, he said, Council built a straw stack over the grave and put the low born hog Columbia Wilkes in the place formerly occupied by Kiever's Model. This degraded hog was introduced around as Kiever's Model, so the hired man alleged, and finally sold as the original animal.

When the members of the syndicate heard the hired man's tale they were greatly exercised. They sent a man to exhume the remains under the straw stack on the Council farm. The grave was opened, but instead of finding the skeleton of one hog they found all that remained of two. Council had denied the existence of hog bones under the straw stack, but said they were those of two hogs that had died of cholera and he had buried them to prevent the disease from spreading. Neither of these hogs, he declared, was Kiever's Model, which he insisted he had sold to the syndicate.

The syndicate men, however, were not satisfied. They took the hired man over to see the remains of the dead hog and the hired man pointed his finger at it and said, like a melodramatist, "I know you now." You are not the aristocratic Kiever's Model, but the base-born Columbia Wilkes!

So the syndicate men started off to Springfield and put the hired man in the grand jury room, and the hired man told the grand jury his story. Council was indicted. The case came up for trial and the state's attorney was preparing to wage a vigorous prosecution against Council and the false Kiever's Model, when he received an affidavit from Thielander stating that he had sworn falsely before the grand jury and that the real Kiever's Model was alive and was moldering in the lonesome grave under the hay stack.

The state's attorney thought this setled the matter and dismissed the case, but it was not so. Here, the syndicate members claimed Thielander had been bribed, a position in which they were enthusiastically sustained by the versatile Mr. Thielander himself during the trial.

Over eighty witnesses were examined, and the jury were so puzzled as they had been at the first trial, when Council won his suit by checkmating a move of the defense. The defense had exhibited to the jury the hog which they had bought as Kiever's Model, but which they said was Columbia Wilkes. Council went out to his farm and came back with a hog that he proved to the satisfaction of the jury was the original Columbia Wilkes.

With Columbia Wilkes now proved to be the real Kiever's Model, Council was more than satisfied.

HAVE YOU TRIED SWAMP-ROOT?

THE WONDERFUL NEW DISCOVERY. As Proof of Its Marvelous Merits Every Reader of the "Eagle" May Have a Sample Bottle Sent Absolutely Free By Mail.

Statistics prove that more people are brought to the grave by diseases of the kidneys and bladder than by any other disease.

For years medical science has been trying to discover some remedy that would positively overcome these dangerous troubles. But not until recently was the discovery made. Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, after years of study and research, and after test on test that never varied in the grand result, announced the discovery of Swamp-Root, which has proven itself a most wonderful cure for all diseases of the kidneys and bladder.

The immediate symptoms and first proofs of weak kidneys are pain or dull ache in the back, rheumatism, dizziness, headaches, nervousness, heart trouble, pain in the limbs, bloating, swollen complexion, purty or dark circles under the eyes, bladder irritation, suppression of urine, obliged to pass water often day and night, worn-out, tired feeling, lack of ambition.

If your water, when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settling, or has cloudy appearance, it is evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

Swamp-Root has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief, and has proved so successful in every case, that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of the Eagle, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent absolutely free by mail. Also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and containing some of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women who owe their good health, in fact their very lives, to the wonderful curative properties of Swamp-Root. Be sure and mention the Wichita Daily Eagle when sending your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Birmingham, N. Y.

The great modern discovery is for sale at most drug stores in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. Don't make any mistake, but make a note of the name, SWAMP-ROOT, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and
