

ZOPHER TUTTLE DEAD

Born in Camden New York, 82 Years Ago.

THIRTY YEARS A KANSAN

How He Made His Great Fortune.

Mr. Zopher Tuttle, one of the best known residents of this city and of Sedgewick county died last evening at 9 o'clock, aged 82 years. He lived at 90 North Topeka avenue. The funeral will occur at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon from the home.

For many years Mr. Tuttle has been one of the most respected and recognized citizens of not only Wichita, but of Sedgewick county, and the southern part of Kansas as well. Of vigorous integrity, unquestioned honesty of dealing, and public spirited citizenship, he has always remained one of the earliest elements which have made for the best in the history of this city and the territory which pays tribute.

He was born December 27, 1817, near Camden, N. Y., Oneida county. He received only a common school education, and by working in a mill and hardily attending school in winter he worked at odd work, and was employed on the Erie canal. His father died while he was quite young. He was married April 23, 1848. He removed to La Salle county, Illinois, in 1850, and began life on his own account by breaking prairie, thereby saving enough money to buy a few head of cattle, which was the foundation of the fortune which he has steadily increased. The bought lands in La Salle county through the assistance received from the Bank of Ottawa, Ill., often improving this land. He then sold it and moved to Grundy county, Ill., where he bought more land and was able to send his children to school, and at the same time to have a better home than he had in his native land, which has been his hobby in life and has always been a success. During the war of the Rebellion he was a heavy contractor of beef. In 1868 he sold out in Grundy county and moved to Livingston county, where he bought 6000 acres of the then Illinois railway lands, which the family still owns. In 1873 he quit the cattle business on account of not being able to compete with western cattle raising. He and his son, E. C. Tuttle, then started the freight bank, which they continued until 1873, at which time they disposed of the bank at Dwight to S. T. Tuttle, who now lives at Caldwell, Kan. Mr. Tuttle came to Kansas and to Wichita, and opened a loan office, which was under the immediate management of S. T. Tuttle. This was discontinued in 1883, at the leasing of the Cherokee strip. He purchased the Turkey creek ranch of Mr. Secore of Texas, along with 2000 cattle and a breeding herd of 1500. Mr. Tuttle was the second man to fence in the Cherokee strip. This ranch was the cream of the Strip and comprised 21800 acres, enclosed by sixty-four miles of wire fence. At the expiration of the lease he bought several thousand acres of land in northeastern Butler county, where he moved the unused cattle. Old men and the limited pasturage out his career as a cattle raiser off. In 1883 he bought the home where he lived and died, at 90 North Topeka avenue.

His life has been an open book always. He was ever doing as he would be done by. His word was as good as his bond and he did as he had lived, in a quiet, peaceable way, honored and respected by all men. Those who knew him best can speak his praises the most. He leaves a wife who is now an invalid, two sons, Samuel T. and James L. two daughters, Mrs. E. W. Barker of Burlington, Kan., and Mrs. W. R. Throckmorton of 1817 North North Topeka avenue. One daughter, Mrs. James T. Purshaw, who is in the city seven years ago. The sickness of which he died has continued over a period of about seven months, and was a complication of several maladies but whose primal cause was old age. He was just worn out, and the advancing years weighed down heavily upon him and the latest energy and the reserve strength in these last trying days were not adequate to sustain his drooping vitality.

Mr. Tuttle has left this life of ever recurring experiments and testing in the life of the daily world's activity. He has tasted the bitter and the sweet, and commingled in the cup of life's golden wine the full measure of both. He has lived his life and no man can say but he is every day doing their duty with his fellow men. He was honest and his influence to a degree, and his influence for good in this community will be felt long after his personal remembrance may have been forgotten. He was a learned man, a seeker after truth as he recognized it. He knew no god but honor, and never devoted a fellow man. He used a duplicity in his daily commercial dealings, and was ever fair and upright in his transactions with those who had occasion to meet with him in business. He, Mr. Tuttle, who sleeps so quietly amid the sorrows of heart rendered friends and relatives believed that the religion of humanity was the only real religion. His willingness to give to every man the same mercy has been for himself. He believed in a challenge of body, a fearless brain. He was the master of self-control, the friend of man. He believed in nature, and not in priests. He believed that one act of kindness, one loving deed, added more to the joy of our race than any theology ever did. He believed that humanity was the wisest of wisdom—the great oak stood which all the other virtues cling. His home was his cathedral, his shrine his altar. He chanted no hymns but those of the head and brain. He took from the pain of the world; he added to the sum of human joy. He passed the supreme test of which man is capable. The world is the better for his having lived. To wife and children he is the gentlest memory of the world. He never mistook any one. He was never questioned in integrity of character or fair dealing. His fondest hopes were realized in the time-honored eulogy, "He hath done what he could." His posterity extend to him the heartfelt eulogy, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant." His friends in business circles simply say, and that is enough, "He was always just, honest and true." "If there's another world, he lives in bliss. If there is none, he made the best of this."

DEATH OF JOHN HAMMOND

Once State Architect and Superintendent of State Normal. John Hammond died yesterday morning at 11 o'clock at the Masonic Home. He was formerly an architect and superintendent of the State Normal school building at Emporia, and at one time a member of the state board of public works and also held the office of state architect. He was 59 years of age. The remains will be taken to Emporia to the 10:40 Santa Fe train today.

CITY IN BRIEF

Thomas Howard Gilbert, who will sing the offertory, "A Dream of Paradise" at St. John's Episcopal church this morning, has just finished a four years' course in vocal music and will start to Europe soon to get the finishing touches for a musical career. Mr. Gilbert has a rare tenor voice.

Mr. H. S. Kéles of Chicago comes to Wichita in June to examine the work of the Wichita branch of the Kéles School of Music and map out a course of study for the coming year. He has been prevailed upon to devote a short time to teaching a few earnest students and teachers who will meet in Wichita for that purpose.

MORE STOLEN GOODS

Found in a Haystack by C. J. Miller of Maize.

BALLARD KNOWS ABOUT IT

Several More Lots of Goods in Similar Hiding Places.

Another development has come to the surface in connection with the many, already found to be true, and revealed to the officers working on the Ballard expose, of the deeds and crimes committed by the Algood gang. This time it is the finding of another lot of harness and other material that was once in the possession of the Algood gang and concealed by them for some future disposal.

There is quite a story connected with the discovery of this lot of stolen property. It was some time ago that Sheriff Simmons and Officer Freeman were out by Alvin Ballard where they could go to a particular place, not more than a half mile west of Maize, Kan., and at a certain location in an old hay stack would be found, or a place where one had been, and down under that hay, Ballard had told the officers, they would find a large amount of property that once belonged to the gang. The officers made the trip to the place, but claimed they did not find anything. The matter dropped out of mind until yesterday, when C. J. Miller, a well known farmer living near Maize, drove to Wichita yesterday and told the story of an experience he had. He said he had burned a stack on his place of some old hay that had been standing for nearly two years, and when the fire had burned down to a certain place in the stack, he discovered several sets of harness and two saddles that had been placed there unbeknown to himself. The other articles said to have been discovered looked like counterfeit moulds and other things equally as interesting. Mr. Miller made known his discoveries upon reaching Wichita yesterday, and a reporter for the Eagle called upon Alvin Ballard at the county jail last night and asked him if he would say whether he knew anything about the goods and he said: "Yes, I guess I know a little something about a hay stack and some goods that was hid there, but in the absence of Sheriff Simmons and Freeman, I do not know as I want to say anything."

Ballard changed the subject to something else, whenever the hay stack was mentioned, but after awhile he finally told the Eagle man that he could go right to the place and that he knew C. J. Miller and where his place was, as he had been there often. In relating some of his experiences he mentioned old man Stunkel, who lives about fifteen miles from Wichita, and how the gang used to drop around there and drive off cattle. Ballard says he can tell a whole lot more than he has, but unless the officers are successful in getting some kind of an assurance that he will be pardoned by Governor Stanley, that he does not intend to give up anything more.

MRS. BIERMAN A MANIAC

Became Suddenly Insane Last Night at St. Francis' Hospital. A woman named Bierman was taken suddenly insane at St. Francis hospital last night and became so desperate that the police had to be notified. She was taken to the county jail at half-past 2 o'clock this morning. The woman was a raving maniac when she arrived at the jail and her screams and cries were pitiful. She is a German lady and but little of her talk could be understood. None of the policemen had inquired her name at the hospital, but a reporter for the Eagle, who was awaiting her arrival at the jail, managed to tell her sufficiently to get her to talk and tell her name. She said her name was Mrs. Bierman and that her home was near St. Mark. It required the combined efforts of Sheriff Simmons, Jailer Dodd and Deputy Sheriff Doug Simmons to get her from the police wagon to a cell in the jail, and after being incarcerated she eluded and beat the bars and gave vent to fearful yells, sometimes praying to be taken back to the station. Sheriff Simmons says the woman went out to St. Mark on the same train with him last Friday, and it is thought she has been a patient here for some time, and got well enough to visit her home, returning to the hospital yesterday.

One Table

The front one in our store, is 26 feet, 8 inches long, 5 feet, 9 1-2 inches wide. We think it is the largest single table in the state, with the exception of its two companions—of exactly the same size—also in our store. On it are stacked, as high as they can be readily handled, 33 piles of men's clothing, averaging 48 separate and distinct garments to the pile, each and every one of which is absolutely all wool and thoroughly well made especially for us for the spring season of 1899—there's not a carried-over-from-last-year garment among them. We have 8 other tables, 8 feet long and 5 feet wide that contain each 11 equally as large piles of men's clothing, besides the 3 monsters already mentioned, and we have 3 tables 40 feet long, 29 inches wide containing 60 piles of odd pants and 8 tables of the same width holding 33 piles of odd pants, and then the piles upon piles of boys' and little chap's clothing in our best lighted children's department in the world, to say nothing of the tons of furnishings under the weight of which our shelves and counters are groaning, and the thousands of stylish hats in and on our 124 feet long crystal hat case or the beautiful plate glass prisons, aggregating 80 feet in length and filled to overflowing with up-to-now neckwear for all mankind—countless combinations of rainbow hues enmeshed in finest silk. All this and more you can find in the "good clothing store." Don't you think we have a right to claim, if you can't get suited here, there's small hope of your being suited in any other store in the state? You run no risk in buying here. We sell at the same price to all, guarantee everything exactly as represented and give back your money without a question if you are not satisfied.

TAILORS DON'T LIKE US

Only a few years ago it was the height of many men's ambition to have their clothes made to measure; but hundreds of them have learned that having their clothes made to measure is not having them made to fit. That our Stein-Bloch Clothing is equal to the best made-to-measure clothes, and cost just about half as much, besides having the advantage of a greater variety to choose from, and only one try-on--no guess-work. You know exactly how your suit looks; how it fits; how it is finished; the style. They're made to fit perfectly the slim man, stout, extra stout, and regular sizes. Our new Spring styles are of more varied designs and handsome patterns than ever, and our plan of small profits and great volume of business makes it possible for every man to wear good clothes. We invite inspection of goods and comparison of prices.
