HOT BEVERAGES

What to Use in Place of Tea and Coffee. Many drink tea and coffee against their better judgment because they require a hot drink at meal time. They know that by the use of tea and coffee they are only drugging themselves and they struggle along and continue to use one or the other. To these people Postum Cereal Coffee is a great help for many people find well boiled Postum superior in flavor to coffee to say nothing of its great health restoring qualities. The effect upon those who leave off tea and coffee and take on Postum is marked for the old time coffee drinkers such as heart trouble, kidney disease, nervousness and other ills soon disappear as if by magic. The Postum makes new red blood and this is shown in the rich, clear complexion that replace the blotched sallow skin of the coffee drinker. A young school miss of Alva, Okla., says of Postum: "I have used it now for over a year and my complexion and general health show the change. Before that time I drank tea and coffee and my complexion was sallow and muddy. I also had almost constant dull headaches. I realized that I must give up tea and coffee but hung onto them because I felt the need of a hot drink at meal times. "One day I heard Postum so well spoken of I decided to try it and I bless the day I did so. I dropped coffee and took up Postum and now my dull headaches are completely gone, my complexion is fresh and rosy, eyes bright and mind clear. I sleep well now and I owe it all to using Postum in place of coffee. "The matron of the Young Ladies' Boarding House at Alva Normal School has adopted Postum as a standard drink as she is positive the students study and get along better on Postum than on any other drink. "A lady friend of mine had a son who was a nervous wreck, due so his doctor said, to coffee. The lady tried Postum and the young man relaxed so he drank it in preference to coffee and in a few weeks he was like an entirely new person. I know of lots more cases, too." CHAMPION MONEY-FINDER

Over two million dollars found and returned to owners in seventy-seven years.

Only $30 in cash and $55 in goods received as rewards. That is one man's record of honesty and his reward. His largest find was $100,000, and for its return he got not a cent, while from the loser of a $60,000 roll which he returned intact he has never since received anything but studied discourtesy. Such is frail and contrary human nature. The champion money-finder says the New York World, because he was, until pensioned off after fifty-eight years of constant service recently, doorkeeper of the vaults of the Fidelity Trust Company. That is an excellent position to fill to make a record as a money-finder, though seemingly a poor one to have one's honesty appreciated. Not a penny of the $2,000,000 has stuck to Mr. Banks' fingers. For the owners have always been found, for in seventy-seven years for his faithfulness:

Table listing items found and returned: 10 cash, 2 books valued at $5, 5 neckties valued at $2, 7 silk handkerchiefs, 8 pairs of suspenders, 6 pairs of slippers, 2 pairs of gloves, 3 pairs of pulse-watches, 4 boxes of writing paper, 1 watch guard, 5 shirts. Total value $85. For returning $2,000,000 he got $85 in rewards—4 cents, that is to say, for each $1,000 he returned.

In the vaults of the Trust Company are thousands of private deposit boxes, and over 600 depositors a day passed Mr. Banks on the way in to the vaults to examine their boxes. He had charge of the room in which the examinations were made, and in this room nearly all of the $2,000,000 was found. Every cent of it, while not in actual cash, was in paper or valuables as good as cash; every cent of it was negotiable. Had it not been negotiable its owners would not have thought it worth while to keep it there. This is how Mr. Banks explains the seeming lack of appreciation of his promptness in returning valuables: "These rich men, these holders of great sums of money, hold as a rule, positions of trust. There are many persons who regard them as incomparably reliable, careful men—men with whom they can be placed with absolute safety. This reputation for reliability and carefulness is their stock in trade. They guard it jealously. "When they lose, as careless as any school-boy, a big sum, they are tremendously disgusted and enraged, and they desire to keep the matter secret. You, if you happen to be the person who find and returned the lost money to them, are thereafter disliked and shunned for you are the one man that has found for you are the one man that has found for them out. You have a little joke on them. You know they are not the perfectly reliable and trustworthy men they want to be taken for. "Well, it isn't good to have a joke of that kind on a prominent man of affairs. He is apt to stop speaking to you on account of it. "The first find that Mr. Banks made was thirty-three years ago, when the Fidelity Trust Company opened its present building. What he found was a little heap of gold watches of diamond rings and necklaces, and of ropes of pearls. An old man had passed him as he stood guarding the door of the vaults, had taken down a deposit box and unlocked it on a table. "After the unlocking of the box Mr. Banks paid no more attention to the depositor, who in a little while departed. Later, walking through the room, the doorkeeper perceived a heap of jewels upon the table and carried them to the superintendent of the company. Their owner on their return to him gave Mr. Banks $5.

All the money he found was found in the same way. A client of the company would open his deposit box on a table, take out a part of its contents, rummage about till he came upon what he wanted, close and lock the box, forgetting the valuable he had taken out, and depart, leaving them on the table. Or else the valuables

Curious Prediction. Nostradamus, who lived some centuries ago, is well known on account of his curious predictions, and now his admirers claim that in one of his celebrated quatrains he clearly foretold the exact date of the death of Leo XIII. In the quatrain, as M. Henri Duchet, a French occultist, points out, Nostradamus predicted that during the twentieth century a Pope would die on the same day that "a hairy star" vanished from the sky. M. Duchet maintains that Nostradamus had a comet in mind when he wrote and that the prediction has been literally fulfilled, since the Berlin comet, which was discovered at the observatory of Marsoles, vanished from the sky on the very day of Pope Leo's death.

CASTORIA. The Best Tonic. Bears the Signature of Dr. J. C. H. H. H. DEATH-BED THIVES. In France persons who live at the expense of others have discovered a novel and shameful method of life. They practice it only at funerals and hence they are known as "death-bed thives." When they read in a newspaper that a well-to-do person has died, some of them go to the house an hour or two before the funeral takes place, and coolly mingle with the invited mourners. Of course the members of the family do not know them, but they naturally assume either that they were known to the deceased and have come to pay their last respects or that they were invited to be present by some warts or combs, who are unable to stand in bed.

SSS THE BEST TONIC. In S. S. S. Nature has provided a tonic suited to every requirement of the system when in a debilitated, run-down condition. It contains no strong minerals or drugs, but is a pleasant vegetable preparation. You can find no better remedy for toning up the nerves and bringing refreshing, restful sleep when in a low state of health, or sick and worn out with work or worry. S. S. S. improves the appetite, aids the digestion and reinforces the system, and its good effects are seen almost from the first dose. It acts promptly in cases of chronic dyspepsia, indigestion and all stomach troubles, and does away with the uncomfortable fullness, nausea, shortness of breath, drowsiness and dizziness that so often come after eating. S. S. S. is not only the best tonic but possesses alterative or purifying properties, and if there is any latent humor or poison in the blood it searches it out, and removes it. Many times a low state of health is due to a bad condition of the blood and can only be remedied by a blood purifier and tonic combined, or such a remedy as S. S. S. If you suffer from debility, insomnia, nervousness, loss of appetite, bad digestion, or any of the symptoms of a diseased blood, nothing will so soon put your blood in good condition, invigorate and tone up the system as S.
