NAVAL HUSBANDS.
A Reply to "An Officer's Wife."
Editor SATURDAY PRESS.—By. In behalf of the junior officers of the United States Navy, I here state that the "new order," forbidding wives of officers to travel all over the world, etc., etc., is one of the best if not the best ever promulgated. A young lady fresh from boarding school—where she should have remained longer—in one of her promiscuous or pious, meets "an officer" presumably a midshipman, of course they have at once fallen in love; result, marriage. She does not stop to ask about salary, duties, his ability to support her. Oh, no! When too late she finds that $500 a year is barely enough to follow her husband around the world on, and support them both; but, did she stay at home, live economically, and wait for her husband's promotion, she would be better off in pocket as well as health. The principal reason I presume of the issuance of "the order," was something like this: Lieutenant A. being a married man, and attached to a vessel in port, receives an invitation to a party, he has the first watch (8 to 12). He asks B. a midshipman or ensign, to stand his watch for him. B. has an invitation too, but married and wants to go; and, as is his right, declines. Lieutenant A. goes to the Executive Officer and requests that B. stand his watch; Midshipman B. is ordered to do so. Of course B. is incensed and, instead of going to the party, writes to his father, who perhaps is a member of congress from Missouri. The father furthers with the office of the secretary of the navy, and asks his command—why his son, who is a midshipman and not a watch officer, should be ordered to take the watch of Lieutenant A., who is a watch officer, and thus be detached from attending the party. This is an every-day occurrence—in almost every ship in the Navy. Sometimes there is an alteration in the routine; A ship is at a port and is ordered to another. Mrs. A. is to go by rail, of course Lieutenant A. wants to go with her, it will take the cars a few hours, but the ship a week—poor B. comes in for A's watch again. See? Officers below the rank of captain are not expected to entertain in the general acceptance of the term—entertainment is supposed to be on board, which costs little—but to say "every entertainment costs from $15 to $20 each is rather steep—take for example the Lackawanna with say twenty officers, an entertainment given as her officers have given here, which would as nice as could be, would hardly cost $400—but if for example the officers of the Hartford and all her married men—ward room officers I mean—had their wives" traveling 1800 miles in the last year "at a cost of say 2 cents per mile, or say $900 for each one, an entertainment would be likely "to cost $15 or $20 each."
The husband of "the indignant wife" has been in the navy fourteen years, and is only a "sub-lieutenant" (sic) and it is curious that with the education he has acquired gratuitously from the United States Government, that he might do better than to remain in the navy with all its attendant hardships. That officer has been on shore or other duty four years and six months. At sea, seven years and ten months; unemployed, eleven months—not such very hard lines.
The "ration" of officers and men is computed at 30c per day or $9 per month. It does not cost from $15 to $30 per month. It does not cost the officers per month for his mess bill—but the ration as furnished by the government is the best, the most varied, and, the largest furnished by any nation in the world, and no man living can consume his ration—and the officer who chooses "hard tack" at sea or in port does so from caprice, as every ship carries four of the best.
I cannot vouch for "Dead Man's Island" off Panama, "being peopled for many feet under ground by the corpses of officers and sailors of the navy, etc.," but I will venture to say there are not two hundred graves of all nationalities on the island, which has been used as a cemetery for a century or more.
I believe it is the intention of Secretary Chandler to fit out a few of the largest ships, which are to be officered by married men with their wives, and to avoid being obliged to live in the usual small rooms, with "lung holes," every officer will be allowed to build such additions as he may wish. "Wives obey your husbands."
AN EX-OFFICER AND HUSBAND.
Honolulu, September 15, 1883.
"The Prince of New Tacoma."
At one of our hotels, in the capacity of butler, or steward, or caterer or something of the kind, there is a man who is dignified in manner and stately in carriage. The soulful, far-away expression in his eyes; the studied reservation in his intercourse with the "common herd," and the lean and hungry Cassius-like expression of too much thinking deposited in his every feature, tells us that he is of higher rank and nobler lineage than those upon whom he waits. He is the "Prince of New Tacoma" at least the boarders says that he must be such in disguise, from the proud disdain which, in unguarded moments, he flings off. A few days since one of our young men, who is himself of rather lordly mien, suggested to the disguised that a fork would not be amiss in the discussion of his maternal meal. The fork was brought; but the keen observer could see that performance of this menial duty racked every nerve in the sensitive system of the prince, as he flung the fork with hardly contempt upon the table and frowningly muttered: "Next time intimate your orders to a waiter; if my observation pleases not, you are at liberty to leave the hostelry—paying first your board bill."—Seattle Herald.
Said a recent Honolulu bridegroom, who did not wish to offend his bride or die of internal disturbance, "My dear, this cake looks delicious; but it is the first you have ever made. I cannot think of eating it, but will preserve it to show to our children in after years as a sample of their mother's skill and dexterity."
A Harlem miss points because she can't be a real reporter and "go to see the dead bodies in the morgue and things like that."
"Eat onions, six," is the Boston Post's advice to a young lady who wants to know how to avoid having a mustache on her upper lip.

United States and Hawaiian Postage.
On the first of October the postage on single letters in the United States will be reduced to two cents, and that sum prepaid will carry a letter between the two most distant points in the Union—from South Florida to the extreme settlement of Alaska—a distance of about five thousand miles. To accomplish this change in the nation's routine and habit where there are about forty-seven thousand post-offices and a population of over fifty millions of people, a large majority of the business portion of whom must have considerable amounts of the old stamps on hand to be disposed of for the new ones—is no every-day feat, for it amounts almost to a commercial revolution. The revenue of the United States post office for 1882-3 is estimated at over $50,000,000, with a surplus of $3,000,000.
The reduction of one-third in the rate of postage on letters, will not reduce the total receipts for that amount, for experience has shown that every reduction of postage results in an increase of correspondence. So that, if the United States post office revenue for the past year has been fifty millions, as estimated, the loss, arising from the change of letter postage, will probably not be more than six or eight millions for the first year after the reduction, with a very rapid increase in the receipts each following year. And within ten, or at the farthest twenty years—after the postal department has again reached a self-supporting basis—the public are very likely to again demand a further reduction to one cent, which may ultimately become the domestic single letter rate in all countries.
A new series of United States stamps has been issued to come into circulation on the first day of October, of which the following is a list: One cent, Franklin; 2 cent, Jackson; 3 cent, Washington; 5 cent, Garfield; 6 cent, Lincoln; 7 cent, Stanton; 10 cent, Jefferson; 12 cent, Clay; 15 cent, Scott; 30 cent, Hamilton; 90 cent, Peary.
Hawaii, also, is to have new postage stamps. By the next steamer stamps are expected of the denominations of 25, 50 and 100 cents. The smallest denomination will have for its device a picture of the statue of Kamehameha I. The 50-cent stamp will have a portrait of Lunalilo. The largest denomination will be a portrait of Queen Emma. Stamped envelopes have also been ordered, in denominations of 1, 2, 4, 5 and 10 cents. In the right hand corner at the top will be a picture of Honolulu considerably larger than the ordinary postage stamp. The picture will represent the town as seen from a steamer on rounding Diamond Head. The denominations will be expressed in Arabic figures to the right and left of the picture and in both English and Hawaiian in a line above the picture. Nothing so pretentious in the same line has hitherto been attempted by any country, one Spanish American state only employing a similar device. The colors of the pictures will correspond to the colors of stamps of equal denomination. The 1-cent stamp will be for circulars, the 2-cent and 4-cent for domestic correspondence, and the 5-cent and 10-cent for foreign correspondence.
Christianity Past and Present.
A long editorial in the San Francisco Bulletin of August 18th, concludes as follows: "There is another class of facts which invite attention. The statistics quoted by the Pacific Chamberman, and which are attributed to Sharon Turner, do not differ widely from the data derived from other sources. They show the approximate number of christians in each of the eighteen centuries.
Century. No. of Chris. Century. No. of Chris.

10th..... 8,000,000 20th..... 1,100,000,000
The nineteenth century has not yet closed. But the estimates for 1880 represent 410,000,000 of people nominally allied to the christian faith. These figures of course include the outside number. But taken in this way they are as correct as those which are made to represent other religious faiths. One other fact is of leading importance. To-day the numbers nominally represented by christianity represent the leading and controlling thought of the world.
If reference be made to the progress of christianity in our own country, the same authority is quoted for the following facts:
Year. Population. Communicants. Per cent.
1800..... 3,500,000..... 350,000..... 10
1810..... 4,500,000..... 450,000..... 10
1820..... 5,500,000..... 550,000..... 10
1830..... 6,500,000..... 650,000..... 10
1840..... 7,500,000..... 750,000..... 10
1850..... 8,500,000..... 850,000..... 10
1860..... 9,500,000..... 950,000..... 10
1870..... 10,500,000..... 1,050,000..... 10
1880..... 11,500,000..... 1,150,000..... 10
Now when some apostle of unbelief affirms that christianity is on the decline in the world, he might do well to look into the facts. These all point to an entirely different conclusion. The weakening of theological dogmas, the modification of creeds, the more modern interpretation of written revelation, do not signify that what is called a christian faith has less hold of the world than formerly. We see the growth of numbers. The marshaling of all the forces of the new and freshest civilization in this interest. If it were possible to separate what is spiritual, sentimental and non-effective, we shall still have such a residuum of power on the side of christianity as the world has never known before. This evolution of the new from the old, of life from apparent death, is one of the marvels of the times. Looking at the forms of religious faith in Asia and Africa, which have the nominal assent of seven to eight hundred millions, we nowhere find any remarkable agencies enlisted in their behalf. Modern civilization is doing nothing to vitalize their beliefs or to reanimate the nations where decadence has already set its seal.
On the house No. 7 Caven street, London, a circular tablet has been sited, with the words: "Lived here, Benjamin Franklin, printer, philosopher and statesman. Born 1706, died 1790."

Report of Committee of Fire Insurance Experts:
At a meeting of the Massachusetts Mutual Fire Insurance Union, held at Nantucket Beach, August 26, 1883, samples of boxes manufactured by the Magneto-Caloric Fire-Proof Company were shown. An iron box, about two feet long and one foot deep and wide, with lining three-fourths of an inch thick of Magneto-Caloric material, was filled with various documents, greenbacks, and part of a case of ladies' matches. It was then placed upon a bed of hot coals, and in half an hour the fire was extinguished. The box was kept under extreme heat for an hour and a half, notwithstanding the iron cover of the box was so badly warped that the lining was in immediate contact with the flames, on opening it the whole contents were found in a perfect state of preservation. A small bond and note case, designed to be used inside of vaults and safes, and its contents were also found as free from any appearance of fire or smoke as when placed therein.
