ASLEEP TO THE ISSUE

An investment in political alarm clocks would pay a hundred per cent. to voters of Honolulu just now.

There are many conflicting issues in the campaign, as in any campaign, but there is no conflict of issues on the question of good government, efficient government, and bad government.

There will be as candidates businessmen of the very highest ability and most sterling integrity, and there will be money-seeking, wire-pulling, office-grabbing politicians of the very lowest ability and the most brazen selfishness.

And yet the voters are not awake to this issue. They are not awake to the fight for efficiency in office that will fail unless they do wake.

That's why political alarm clocks are needed.

CHINA'S DISCONTENT

Cable reports of the internal strife developing in China may be exaggerated, but there is no question of growing discontent under the iron rule of Gen. Yuan Shih-Kai and growing demand on the part of the new republic's leaders that the president shall step out of office.

Yuan Shih-Kai is a great military strategist—great, at least, in his limited circle of activity; he is considerable of a statesman and as an administrator of a well-ordered government he would probably have success, but he does not appear to be the man needed to bring struggling China out of her present position.

The republic was founded on ideals of social and economic freedom, as every republic has been founded. It was established as a rebellion against the domination of the Manchus, their greed, their selfish government; their corruption and indifference to modern progress.

Yuan Shih-Kai is said by all who know him to be devoted to China, but his devotion has taken the form of stern repression for anything but his own ideas and aims. The failure of the present administration to finance China in a period of severe distress, has reflected on the president. The climax came in his orders for the execution of Gen. Chang Chen Wu, accused of complicity in a rebel plot.

DRIVING OUT "DAGO RED"

In the campaign against "dago red", the vile concoction which drives its victims to temporary madness and is responsible for much unspeakable crime and degradation in this community, it has been found that many of the cheap wines are mixed with absinthe here, and part of the campaign is therefore directed against absinthe, too.

By an order from the secretary of agriculture, dated July 12 last, absinthe is declared tabooed under the food and drugs act. Part of that order is here quoted:

"It is generally recognized, in countries which have had experience with the sale and consumption of absinthe that this beverage is dangerous to health. Importations of absinthe into the United States are prohibited both because they come from countries which forbid or restrict its manufacture or sale and because these products are injurious to the health of the people of the United States.

A great part of the terrible effect of "dago red" in Hawaii is declared to be due to the mixture of absinthe in the cheap and "young" wines. After October 1 there ought to be no excuse for this mixture. Absinthe can be kept out of the territory. This is one step toward driving out the vilest form of booze with which law and order here have to contend.

DRESSING UP OUR DIPLOMATS

Americans are not greatly interested, as a rule, in what sort of garb their official representatives see fit to clothe themselves, but most Americans resent the idea of any garb that carries the air either of lackeyship or pomp.

Now comes Hon. John G. A. Leishman, not long ago a humble citizen of Pittsburg and a seller of steel, who has revived the question of the proper dress for American diplomats abroad. Rather, he has settled it, so far as he is concerned, for Leishman has designed a dress for himself and his secretarial staff that is glitteringly impressive with gold braid and plumed hats.

It is an old story that the first American diplomatic uniform was that of an American ambassador at St. Petersburg who protested that he was tired of being mistaken for a waiter or a butler. Nobody believed this man; his anxiety to break into the gold-braid class was taken as evidence of his conversion to European ways.

Hon. Mr. Leishman may please himself with his incursion into the realm of personal adornment, but it is not typical of his nation, and let us sincerely hope it never will be. America has never needed pomp and display, nor does our country, for this reason, fail to bear its part in the court of nations.

Charley Notley, the Home Rule leader, is not the only man who is surprised and chagrined at the apathy of local voters. This apathy is helping to injure the chances of good government in Honolulu at a time when the city is given a matchless opportunity to shake off the encumbrances of incompetency and neglect that have clogged its progress in a shameful and baneful way.

A mainland divine says that women's dress grows more immoral each year because American styles are designed in France, forgetting that the scantiest costume on record was designed long before there was such a city as Gay Paree.

Now that Commissioner of Immigration Clark is touring Russia on a search for laborers, he might grab a few of the Czar's sailors who have quit work at Cronstadt. The territory has sampled most of the other varieties of Russians.

The European powers are again engaged in the agreeable duty of carving slices off Turkey.

Col. Roosevelt has forgotten to include both Beverly and Seagirt in his campaign tour.

Is that suspension of the presidential salary designed to discourage Gov. Wilson?

LETTERS ON TIMELY TOPICS

FOR THE DECENT MAJORITY. Honolulu, August 18, 1912. Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin, Sir:—I would like to have you print the following article in your paper if you would be so kind:

Tonight we had Mlle. Camille Cameron, the singer, at the amusement hall at this place, and just after she had started to sing, some men in the back of the hall started to hiss and make fun of her. It was a very funny thing, but nobody tried to stop it until Mlle. Cameron spoke to them herself. There were close to eight hundred people in the hall, and about seven hundred and fifty people wanted to hear her sing and just on account of those few people who hadn't any manners, were classed with these people.

I am speaking for the decent people of the post that like a good show and enjoy every bit of it, but on account of the few indecent people, the theatre people do not like to come out here, as they think they will be insulted, but, as you know, all soldiers are judged by what a few soldiers do, so we really can not expect much.

Thanking you for your kind attention to this letter, I remain, Yours very truly, SCHOFIELD. Schofield Barracks, Aug. 18, 1912.

NOT IN HULA DANCE.

Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin, Sir:—In justice to my sister, Miss O. K. Franca, who was a passenger to San Francisco by the last Sierra, I wish to say that, according to letters received here from her and other passengers, the article which appeared in the morning paper on the 15th inst., headed, "Hula Hula Costumes Startle Passengers," was erroneous. Miss Franca did not appear as a hula girl at any social function held on the Sierra.

The falsity of the article in question constitutes a wrong and an injustice against Miss Franca and her comrades. Publicity of this nature should never be permitted without a word of contradiction by the steamer's officers, for, unless facts are told, the names of passengers may easily be smirched by such stories, even though they are, in most cases, told as jokes. Thanking you for space, I am, truly yours, MARY F. CASTRO.

BUILD THE ARMORY FOR COMFORT

Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin, Sir:—I think the superintendent of public works should be heartily thanked for refusing to approve the plans for the armory as submitted by Col. Jones and the architect. It is too often the case in planning for buildings here that the fact that this is a warm, tropical climate is not taken into consideration. Let one go to the opera house of a warm evening, or to the Bishop hall at Punahou college and sit through an evening's entertainment if he wants to know what a sweat-box is like. It would be the height of folly to make a public hall in the center of a building surrounded on all sides or three sides by closed rooms. Public comfort should be considered in this structure, and it is to be hoped that that part of the building to be used either as a public hall or a drillroom, should be open on all sides if possible; three sides anyway. This is a tropical country, colonel, and give us fresh air—not a HOTBOX.

FIRST OF FOURTH REPUBLICAN CLUB

At a well-attended meeting of the Republican club of the first precinct, Fourth District, last night it was decided to open club headquarters for the entire time from now to the election. A store belonging to Kaimuki Mercantile Co., at the end of the carline, was accordingly taken for headquarters and the first important use to which they will be put is that of a central place for enrollment of members. This was the principal business done last night, action being taken to make a new roll.

President A. F. Clark reported forty-five names on the present roll which are also on the roll of the Democratic club of the precinct. These will be required, according to the club's decision, to renounce that connection or have their names left off the roll. It is understood that the Democratic club will take similar action to purge its roll of voters of dual allegiance.

An enrollment committee was appointed, consisting of Daniel Logan, chairman; Henry J. Freitas, E. A. Douthitt, Ben Hojlinger and H. T. Mills.

A presiding bishop of the Mormon church in Mexico declared that the property to be abandoned by Mormons in that country will amount to $8,000,000.

LITTLE INTERVIEWS

SHERIFF JARRET—No, I haven't worried about politics lately. We have been too busy over here and the weather is pretty warm, anyway.

PAUL SUPER—Captain Josselyn is a very interesting man and his lecture will undoubtedly be a treat to all who come to hear him. Final arrangements have not been completed, yet, but it is not likely that the date will be set later than next week.

JAS. A. RATH—We have inaugurated a series of Sunday evening discussions at Palama Settlement participated in informally by those who attend the meetings, which are held at 6 o'clock. Last Sunday the subject under discussion was "The Right Use of the Ballot," in which I directed the train of thought. The Sunday before, Spencer, Bowen spoke upon "Gardening." Mr. Bowen chooses the subjects for each Sunday evening.

A. V. GEAR—I am willing to lay a wager that the Senate will elect the next President of the United States, as an outcome of the deadlock that will happen in the electoral college. The House cannot do it, because it is the House as at present constituted, not the one to be elected this year, and the House is evenly divided by States, 22 to 22, with four States each evenly divided between Republicans and Democrats in representation, so that as each State has only one vote when it comes to electing the President, there will be a deadlock also in the House. Then it will be up to the Senate to elect the Vice-President, who will become President of the United States to fill the vacancy in that office according to the Constitution. The present Senate is Republican and will elect Taft.

MOTION TO QUASH IN ANDREWS SUIT DENIED

Attorney Andrews' motion to quash the order asked by Mrs. Andrews No. 1 to compel him to show cause why he should not be compelled to pay her the alimony of $75 per month, as stipulated in the divorce decree, was denied by Circuit Judge Whitney this morning. Argument on the order requested by the attorney's former wife will be heard Thursday morning.
