TOOTHsome PINE TEMPTS PALATE OF SAMMONS

Preserved Hawaiian pineapples have won favor with United States Consul General Thomas Sammons, who represents Uncle Sam at Yokohama, Japan, and he simply can't get enough of the toothsome delicacy.

"Last May, I passed through Honolulu and then acquired the 'pineapple habit' which I find after many months has assumed proportions that may cause me to go into the wholesale importation of this product, if some of our wide-awake business men on the other side of the pond do not rise to the occasion."

Consul Sammons was met with an invitation to participate in an auto trip to points of interest during his brief stay at Honolulu. He is returning from a business and pleasure tour of the mainland, a goodly portion of the time having been spent at Washington, D. C.

Consul Sammons was keen to learn the late news concerning the warlike situation throughout Europe.

Stimulating trade relations between the United States and Japan was the prime mission of the consular representative during his stay on the mainland. He visited many commercial bodies with this end in view.

Consul Sammons is entering upon his fourth year as the representative of the American government at the Japanese city.

On matters pertaining to Japan and Korea, Consul Sammons is rated as a highly informed official. His reports to Washington abound in matters of vital interest.

Before leaving San Francisco he is credited with having made the statement: "In 1880 the exports from the United States to the Orient totaled 11,500,000. Now they are about 118,000,000."

"During that period the United States' importation of Oriental goods increased from $65,000,000 to $225,000,000," Sammons continued. "The United States has but a small percentage of the total commerce of the Far East, but the exports are increasing, particularly to Japan. The United States' share is increasing with great rapidity. The display to be made by the Japanese government at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition in 1915 will prove of great benefit to that country."

"The reliability of the goods shipped from here to the Far East is proving of the greatest importance in building up trade and in the advancement of our foreign commerce."

Sammons will report officially upon the request made that the tariff on products from Japan be reduced.

Consul and Mrs. Sammons have crossed the ocean four times in going and returning to their post in the Far East.

During the stay of the consular representative, he was shown every courtesy by commercial and promotion bodies here.

M'CULLY TRACT NOT SOLD, SAYS JUDD

Asked regarding a rumor that the McCully tract had been sold, A. F. Judd, manager of the real estate department of the Guardian Trust Co., said this afternoon:

"There is no change in the situation. We are still holding the land. No action has been taken regarding it."

According to the rumor, the Guardian Trust Co., which recently bought in the property for the Queen's Hospital under foreclosure, had sold it for a sum away up in five figures.

BEET SUGAR MEN

made at the request of Senator Lodge. It is being sent broadcast under congressional frank to all sections of the country. The chief trend of the arguments advanced is covered by this subtitle: "Concerning national economy and the high cost of living as affected by the increased yield of other crops when grown in rotation with sugar beets."

The 42 charts contained in the pamphlet have also been launched together in a large map which is being sent to all desiring it.

The entire document is devoted to furthering the interests of beet sugar and nothing is said to advance those of the cane growers. Copious extracts are given from the sugar speech delivered by Senator Lodge on July 27.

Hawaii is credited with having produced 514,232 tons of sugar in 1910-11. This line occurs in comment on the chart giving "world production of cane sugar, 1910-11."

"The increase in cane sugar production since 1890 is more apparent than real."

Hawaii is credited with sending 489,574 tons of sugar to the United States.

The claim is made that the United States could produce sufficient beet sugar in one year to supply the entire world for two decades. It is asserted that 500,000 acres are now planted in sugar beets, producing 600,000 tons of sugar annually. It is computed that it would be necessary to plant 1,671,000 acres to furnish sugar equal to that now purchased annually from foreign countries.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson is then quoted thus:

"We are therefore justified in saying that the total area having soil and climatic conditions adapted to the production of satisfactory sugar beets is at least 274,000,000 acres."

It is on this estimate of Secretary Wilson that the claim is based that enough sugar could be produced in this country from beets to keep the world supplied for 20 years.

A chapter is devoted to "The blighting effect of Cuban reciprocity on the development of the American beet sugar industry."

The extreme activity of those in charge of the beet sugar propaganda would indicate that the cane growers of Hawaii and Louisiana should say something in defense of their own interests. The near approach of an extraordinary session of congress, called to revise the tariff, including the duties on sugar, seems to make it imperative that cane sugar should have an equal chance with the beet product.

As the situation exists Louisiana has two senators always ready to lift up their voices and say something in behalf of their constituents who produce cane sugar. Hawaii has no representative in the senate and must abide by whatever plea is advanced for the people of Louisiana.

Consul General Sammons, en route to Yokohama, called on the Governor this morning with the feminine members of his party. The consul and his party were accompanied by James McCandless, who took them on a sight-seeing tour during the morning.

JAS. WILDER BUYS A FINE VALLEY SITE

James A. Wilder, artist and boy scout chief, has acquired a splendid piece of scenic land up Nuuanu Valley, large enough for a baronial estate. It contains nine and one-half acres, is situated above the Afong Place, and commands a magnificent view of the Palu on the one hand and the city, harbor, and ocean on the other. The premises are two of the old homesteads in that locality, and consists of a strip 400 feet wide extending from the road to the top of the mountain on the Ewa side of the valley.

The purchase was effected through the agency of James W. Pratt, from R. Rahim, an East India gentleman living in Vancouver. Mr. Rahim bought the property when visiting Honolulu in 1909, and its sale to Mr. Wilder was for $7000 net to the buyer. It is probable that the purchaser will erect a mansion or villa on the land befitting the scene and location. At least it may be expected to be artistic in every respect.

Another important sale of city property was concluded today by Mr. Pratt being that of the Dayton homestead on Liliha street. This contains a little over one and one-half acres and has been bought by Mrs. Percy M. Wood for $7000 net to the seller, Mrs. David Dayton.

machine shop," because, he alleged, it ground away with the relentless system that the principal had devised and which he enforced to the letter and minute.

Aiken created a sensation a moment later when he declared he believed "there was a nigger in the woodpile" that was not exposed, even by Attorney Lightfoot and the two school teachers during the hearing.

"I have been told by a certain prominent business man, whom you all doubtless know personally, that Professor Wood went to him last year to get him to intercede with the Governor to the result that the latter should use his influence to prevent this hearing of the cases of the two school instructors," declared Aiken.

"Why Professor Wood should have been so anxious to suppress the hearing I am unable to understand. It looks like there must have been a nigger in the woodpile somewhere. If there was, it was not exposed, even by Lightfoot and the young ladies."

"I am not at liberty to give publicly the name of my informant, but if any one of you want verification of what I have told you, I will lead you to the man himself."

The discussion led nowhere this morning, however, as no resolution on the subject was adopted or even proposed.
