Rumor Says Delegate Supports McCandless for His (the Delegate's) Benefit

By C. S. ALBERT
[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 15.—The Hawaiian governorship has struck a period of stagnation so profound and unbroken that a double charge of dynamite would have no perceptible effect. Friends of the three avowed candidates appear to be hustling around a circle with all possible rapidity, but accomplishing no tangible results. They make the rounds and return to the same old starting point. Secretary Lane adheres to his suggestion that nothing be done in the way of an appointment until next winter. The president gives no indication as to whether or not he will abide by the recommendation of Mr. Lane. In the meantime, members of congress and all those supposed to have influence, continue to visit the interior department and urge an early

Would Accept the One Cent a Pound Rate for Three Years and Then Make Effective the English Revenue System, with Variations, Which Allows for the Importation of Two Pounds Free for Each Pound Produced at Home

By C. S. ALBERT
[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 15.—The question of free sugar is being much discussed but without perceptible change in the situation. Although three-fourths of the finance committee membership is undoubtedly opposed to placing sugar on the free list it is realized the influence of President Wilson is sufficient to force acceptance of the house provision as carried in the Underwood bill. It is equally self-evident that if any change is possible it must be accomplished when a final vote is reached in the senate many weeks hence. A solution of the perplexing problem has been offered by Senator Shafroth of Colorado, whose constituents are interested in beet raising. He will propose accepting the one cent a pound rate for three years and then make effective the English revenue system, with some variations. The English plan provides that two pounds of sugar may be brought in free for every pound produced at home. Mr. Shafroth figures that by some modifications of this system a

'SUNNY JIM' WON SHRINE POSITION AGAINST EIGHT

"Sunny Jim" McCandless, whose election to the coveted position of imperial outer guard was the sensation of the recent big Shriner convention in Dallas, Tex., has written to his brother, John McCandless, something about the good work done on his behalf by other temples. From Los Angeles "Sunny Jim" writes: "Well, we beat the eight other Nones who wanted to be Outer Guard. Lou B. Winsor nominated me, and he paid me a very high compliment and said some beautiful things about me. "We were sure we were going to win before the voting began on the first ballot. I received 147, several being thrown out because they had written "Sunny Jim" on them. The next highest (2) was Jones of Oklahoma, 72; next (3) highest was Daly of Chicago, 69; O'Flaherty 49, Bristol 30, and so on down the line, with Bilger at the bottom. Not a one withdrew his name. So at it for the second time. I had 201, lacking only five of having a majority; then Daly started the ball by withdrawing; then Jones, and then they all followed, and someone made the motion (I forget) that Lou B. Winsor cast the unanimous vote of the council for me, which he did and I was declared elected Imperial Outer Guard, and received a great ovation. I was called to the stage and made my little speech, thanking

WATSON DENIES RUMOR THAT HE INTENDS TO WITHDRAW

Health Much Improved And Candidate Expresses Opinion That He Will Be In The Fight To The End—Confident Of Victory

[Special Star-Bulletin Cable]
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 26.—E. M. Watson, today, emphatically denied the rumor, that he was contemplating withdrawing from the gubernatorial fight in favor of Judge A. A. Wilder, which has been prevalent on the streets of Honolulu for several days. On the contrary, Mr. Watson stated that he had every intention of remaining in the fight to the end and declared the opinion that his chances are very good for victory. The candidate's health is greatly improved and he has taken on a very optimistic attitude, expressing himself as very hopeful of the appointment.

METZGER REACHES WASHINGTON

[Special Star-Bulletin Cable]
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 26.—Senator Delbert E. Metzger, a declared candidate for the governorship of Hawaii in case Watson is not chosen, has arrived here. He saw Secretary Lane this morning and has been promised an interview with President Wilson.

duty of between 46 and 47 cents per 100 pounds will remain on sugar. Senator Bristow has announced his intention of presenting his bill of last session as an amendment to the Underwood sugar schedule. He has changed the graduation so it will cover a six-year period. This plan will be supported by the solid Republican minority of 45 and the two Louisiana Senators. Explains Substitute. The substitute is thus described and explained by Senator Shafroth: "The amendment which I offer to the sugar schedule of the tariff bill provides a duty of 1.52 1/2 per hundred pounds on refined sugar for three years, when the duty is then reduced to $1.40 per hundred pounds, which duty stands for three years and at the end of that period it is then reduced to $1.27 1/2 per hundred. "The duties on 'Ninety-Six Cuban Sugar,' which is the real protective tariff duty on sugar, under this amendment, will be $1.14 for the first three years, $1.056 for the next three years, and then the duty is reduced to $0.972. The amendment takes out

DAMON'S NAME IS URGED UPON SECRETARY LANE

That the name of S. M. Damon has been brought before Secretary Lane for appointment to the governorship and strongly indorsed by at least one mainland congressman, is known to some of those who are on the inside of political developments. What mainland congressman is urging Mr. Damon's appointment was not revealed, but there is no doubt that Secretary Lane and probably President Wilson have had before them for consideration the appointment of the Honolulu banker. Mr. Damon himself declines to discuss the governorship question and many of his friends doubt if he would accept the appointment for the reason, they say, that he is carrying heavy business responsibilities and might not feel that he has the time to devote to public affairs that the governorship demands. L. E. Pinkham's name was brought into the limelight again over Sunday by a cablegram from Washington that Pinkham was hurrying to the national capital, but even his most intimate friends here profess to know nothing about his plans. If he has a gubernatorial bee in his bonnet, he did not let it buzz while in Honolulu. Representative William Kent of California, it has been known for some time, has paid considerable attention to Pinkham as a gubernatorial possibility. The part that Kent, an avowed Progressive, is playing in a Democratic administration is not clear to those here who know him and are following the situation, but for many months it has been accepted fact Kent is pretty close to both Wilson and Lane and it is believed that he is doing some impartial and non-partisan scouting. The Waller element in local Democracy is silent these days, appearing

CHINESE HANG UP NEW COURT RECORD

Those who have been following police court proceedings for the last few years were struck with surprise this morning when the calendar was read and it was found that it did not contain the name of a Chinaman. It was said by old-timers at the court that today is the first time in twenty years that a Chinaman has not been brought before His Honor to answer to one charge or another on the first judicial day of the week when the over-Sunday cases are heard.

MRS. KAUPALOLO LEAVES FOR HER DESERTED BABE

Sight of Another Child Serves to Remind Kahului Woman of Her Own Infant

The strange flight of Mrs. Emma Kaupalolo, who left her little infant crying on the doorstep of her home in Kahului, Maui, to come to Honolulu where she wished to preach to her people, took a new turn Sunday. Searching over the city for a Bible, to be used in her ministering, she came upon an infant playing on the grass of a private lawn on Beretania street, and running up to it, she took it in possession, claiming it as her own, and threatening to sacrifice it to God. The woman arrived in the city Thursday on the Claudine. Her husband did not know where she had gone or why. Her brother-in-law, Kauilo, a resident here, and whom she met by accident, was unable to persuade her to go with him to his home, or to abandon her incoherent preaching. Convinced of her insanity, when she kept doggedly to her determination to preach, lobs left her to call upon the authorities to keep the woman under surveillance. But when he returned she had disappeared, and it was believed she had gone to Ewa, in keeping with her plans, to herald the message of the Bible. The woman was not seen again until Sunday, as she wandered along Beretania street, muttering stray bits of Testament quotations to herself. It was as she walked along this thoroughfare that she came upon the infant playing on the grass, which brought about a singular change in her, and did what the arguments of her brother-in-law failed to do. She ran on the baby and caught it up in her arms, before the nurse guarding it could interfere. As she held it she declared she would slay it as a sacrifice to God. The baby, held near the face of the woman, looked into her eyes, unconscious of its threatened fate—and smiled. "Mudder," it exclaimed, "mudder." A cry, that was the cry of a mother, escaped from the lips of the woman. A light of understanding seemed to have swept across her brain. She looked bewilderingly around, saw herself in Honolulu, far from Kahului, where her own baby awaited her. As the nurse took the infant gently from her hands, the woman turned, looked down at the torn Bible which she held. With a motion of resentment, as if it was responsible for her insane flight, she threw it away. "My baby," she cried. "I must have been crazy." Mrs. Kaupalolo hastened to the Inter-island dock, and is now on her way to Kahului.

DISPOSITION OF TROOPS PLANNED BY GEN. FUNSTON

Message Received Saturday Gives List of Companies Now En Route

Definite word as to what troops are now on the way to Oahu on the transport Thomas, has been received at department headquarters, and the disposition of the two companies of coast artillery and one signal corps company at present on the high seas has been tentatively decided by General Funston. A cable message received here last Saturday afternoon stated that the 104th and 143rd companies of coast artillery, Company E of the signal corps, and 900 recruits for the infantry, had been dispatched on the transport, which is due to arrive here next Saturday or Sunday. The coming of the new companies of coast gunners will make something of a shake-up among the organizations already here. "The 55th was recently designated as a mine company," said General Funston this morning, "but one of the two now on the way, the 104th, is a regular mine company, and will act as such here. The companies already here can man existing coast fortifications, so the plan is to make the 55th and 143rd companies into siege gun organizations. One of these will be stationed at Fort Ruger and the other at Fort Kamehameha, and they will of course have to go under canvas for the time being." The plan, as outlined by General Funston, will necessitate the transfer of the 55th company from its present station at Fort De Russy to either Kamehameha or Ruger. It will become a siege gun company, and be drilled with the 5-inch siege guns and the howitzers with which the 105th and 159th companies had target practice at Schofield Barracks last year. It is the intention to send the signal company to Fort Shafter for the present. "I haven't heard whether the company is bringing its horses and heavy wire-stringing reels and equipment along," said General Funston. "If it is it will complicate the problem of finding a proper station. Much of the equipment of a signal company would be needed only for work over a very extended territory, where many miles of telegraph and telephone lines have to be laid. Not all of this is needed on Oahu, and I rather hope the company has left its heavy stuff behind." Eight Companies Now. With the arrival of the 104th and 143rd companies, the coast defenses of Oahu will be garrisoned by eight companies of coast artillery, this being only two less than called for by the plan of the general staff for the permanent garrison of Hawaii. The big gunners will be distributed

NAUGHTY PARROT TEACHES MISTRESS TO USE CUSS WORDS

When Lilia Kolau entered the police court this morning to answer to the charge of profanity, she did not come without a defense. And though she was fined three dollars, it should be added that her unique defense stood in mitigation of the offense. Parrots, before this, have been accused of being profane, and defenses have been offered for them that they caught the habit from the masters. But it is something new for a master—or in this case, a mistress—to catch the profane habit from a parrot. As Miss Kolau was waiting for her case to be called, she stated that her parrot was such a profane creature that she had involuntarily caught the habit of swearing from it. The versatile bird, she professed, can cuss in four languages, which accomplishment she has, in turn, acquired.

CHINESE IS EN ROUTE TO THE MAINLAND TO NEGOTIATE BIG LOAN

With a view of negotiating a large loan for the Republic of China, and to complete arrangements for a bank note issue, Lias Ngantow, prominently identified with the life of the new republic, is a passenger on the Pacific Mail liner Siberia, from the Far East, enroute to the mainland. Prior to his being commissioned on this important mission, the Chinese official was for some years stationed at Havana, Cuba, where he served in the capacity of Imperial Minister. A currency reform is in progress throughout China, and Lias Ngantow will, while away, take steps for the issue of paper currency more in conformity with the prevailing system now adopted by the republic. Prior to the downfall of the monarchy, China was afflicted with currency problems that are said to have greatly retarded material progress of the country.

Wilder, the tax assessor. Judge H. E. Cooper of the first circuit court is sitting in the chief justice's place. Robertson will resume his chair, however, in the argument on the suit of the Oahu Plantation Company against the tax assessor, which also is scheduled for hearing this afternoon. The attorney general appears for the tax assessor in each case.

President Says Bureaus Working for Modifications of Various Items on the Schedule Are About the Most Industrious and Insidious Washington Has Seen

WILSON HITS AT LOBBIES RESENTS TARIFF FIGHTS

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 26.—President Wilson today made a vigorous attack on the various lobbies that are trying to secure modification of the Wilson-Underwood tariff bill. In his denunciation of them, the president said: "Extraordinary efforts are being made to gain recognition for certain alterations in the tariff bill. Washington has seldom seen so numerous, industrious or insidious lobbies. One of the announcements made by the president today is that he is in favor of government railways for Alaska, the plan advocated by former Secretary of the Interior Fisher and indorsed by Secretary Lane.

MAYOR MAY ABIDE BY RULING OF THAYER

Mayor Fern tentatively announced today that he will abide by the opinion of the attorney general on the point of whether a legislator is qualified to hold office as a member of the municipal civil service commission. The attorney general, in his opinion submitted Saturday, strongly recommended that, though the law did not expressly declare such an appointment to be illegal, public policy was against it. "I don't wish to do anything which is against public policy," said Mayor Fern this morning, after reading the opinion of the attorney general. "I regard the opinion as a very good one, and though I cannot say at this time what action I will take in reference to it, that is whether or not I will carry out its recommendations, I feel safe in saying that I will do nothing against public policy. As for the appointments, I have really not made any. I only suggested the names of two members of the legislature as members of the commission, but I did not appoint them. Circumstances being as they are now, I shall wait until the first of July before making the appointments. By that time I can satisfy myself on the points passed upon by the attorney general."
