NO ARMED INTERVENTION--WILSON

SOLDIERS ARE DISSATISFIED OVER RULING

Decision to Start All Enlisted Men of 2d Foot in Class B Proves Unpopular

COLONEL FRENCH MAKES UNSATISFACTORY ORDER

New Department Regulation Will Call for Protests from Rank and File

The men of the 2d Infantry are "up in the air" over a decision reached yesterday by Colonel French and his officers, relative to the classification of enlisted men under the new order, and officers not connected with the regiment, while very guarded in their criticism, say that they fail to understand the ruling which discriminates against the men of the Second Foot.

Two weeks ago General Funston promulgated a plan whereby the men of the Oahu garrison were to be divided into Classes A, B and C, the first class being specially privileged to leave post at any time, and to be excused from certain military duties, the second to leave post only on pass, and the third not to be permitted to leave post at any time. The order was issued a day or so ago, the regimental commanders being expected to see to the division of "the sheep from the goats."

Yesterday afternoon the commanding officer at Fort Shafter called all organization commanders together at 2 o'clock to discuss the plan, with a view to obtaining uniformity in putting its provisions into effect. After a lengthy discussion, the officers unanimously agreed that all men should be put in Class B, and promoted or demoted from that class, and it was so ordered.

This action works an indisputable hardship on men of sterling worth and unblemished record, who are unquestionably entitled to Class A rating, with its attendant privileges. It is cited that there are many privates and noncommissioned officers in the 2d who have won a mark against their records, and that to deny them the added privileges of Class A is an injustice. It is segregation, not classification, say soldiers, and as such is not carrying out either the spirit or the letter of General Funston's order.

It is not unlikely that the department commander will interfere if this wholesale round-up of Class B is made in the 2d Infantry. In another instance, a regimental commander who announced that all his men were good enough for Class A, was given to understand that more judgment would have to be used in classification, as otherwise the plan would defeat its own ends.

The announcement yesterday that Class A men would likely be permitted to wear civilian clothes on occasion, is another thorn in the sides of the responsible and well-behaved element in the 2d who see themselves debared from this privilege, for a time at any rate, by the sweeping Class B classification.

MEMBERS TOO BUSY TO SERVE AS CHAIRMAN

Fred L. Waldron Finally Is Induced to Accept the Responsibility

Former Governor George R. Carter, president of the Honolulu chamber of commerce, will be asked to deliver the opening address at the second annual convention of the civic and commercial organizations of the territory, which convenes in this city September 22. This decision was reached by the joint committee on arrangements at a meeting this morning in the rooms of the chamber of commerce. The committee further voted to ask Dr. Harold B. Elliot of Hilo to respond to Mr. Carter's address.

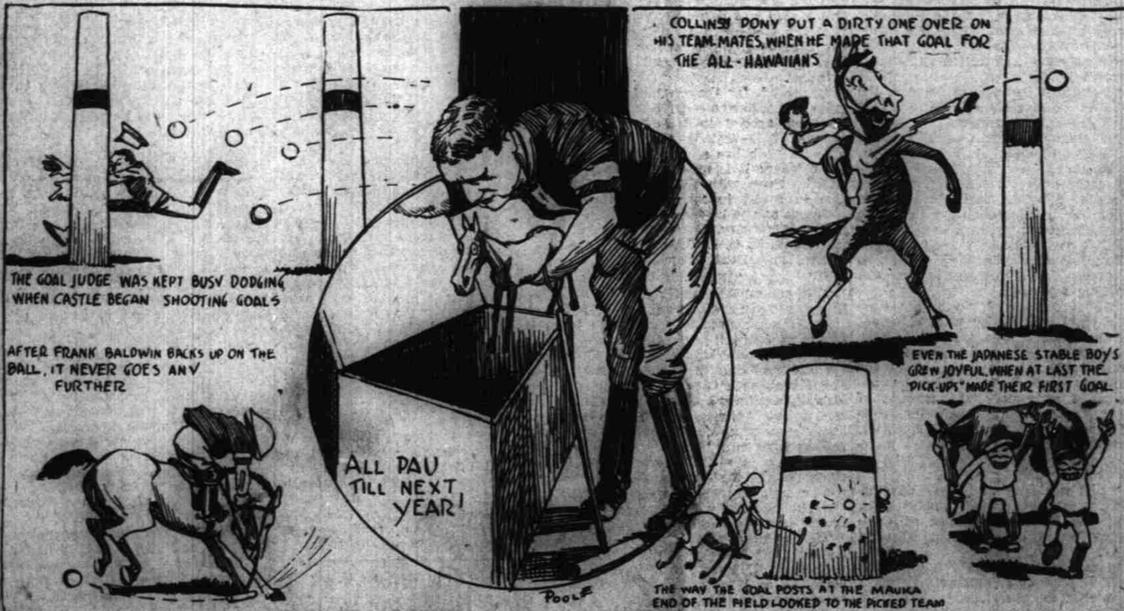

Humorous complications arose at the meeting this morning when C. C. von Hamm, who has been acting as temporary chairman of the committee, informed the members that, on account of pressing business affairs, it would be necessary for him to resign. As the entire committee was

PRETTY NURSE AND DAN CUPID CAPTURE HEART OF HONOLULAN

S. S. Paxson, former manager of the Singer Sewing Machine agency here, has won the heart of an Oakland nurse, according to the San Francisco Examiner of August 19, and the wedding presumably took place on the evening of August 23. The Examiner, under the headline: "Hawaiian Planter to Wed Pretty Nurse; Romance Begun on Ocean Vacation Trip," publishes the following:

"After Sumner S. Paxson of Honolulu, member of the Hawaiian house of representatives, wealthy planter and clubman, convinced Miss Esther Kelly, pretty municipal nurse of Oakland, that he would make a good husband, Miss Kelly said that he would have to convince her mother that he was as nice as she thought him.

"Paxson took her at her word and arrived in Oakland shortly afterwards. That he succeeded in impressing Mrs. Kelly was proved yesterday when it was announced that the wedding would take place Saturday evening. "The romance began on shipboard and ripened during the summer vacation in Hawaii a year ago. They met aboard the steamship Mongolia, outward bound from San Francisco. Miss Kelly was accompanied by Miss Gertrude Courtright, superintendent of an Oakland sanatorium. She Had a Good Time.

"It all began right then, smilingly admits the charming bride-to-be, 'but I really didn't fall in love with this perfectly good sweetheart of mine until after we reached Honolulu, and she showed us girls such a good time. He made our visit so pleasant for us that I immediately decided I'd like to go back again.

"By the time our little vacation was over I had come to love him very much indeed, and when he asked me to marry him, I said I would if he could convince my mother that he was as nice a man as I knew him to

WISE LEAVES; WILL ANSWER ANY CHARGES

Senate Clerk Says He Cannot Wait Indefinitely for Coke to Press Complaint

After ten days of waiting for Senator Coke's charges against him to be pressed, John H. Wise, clerk of the senate, left this morning on the Mauna Kea for Waimea, Hawaii, to resume his management of a home-stead project. Wise was at Waimea when news reached him that Senator Coke had charged him with grafting in connection with the compilation of the senate journal, and he came immediately to Honolulu to answer the charges.

"I have been here for ten days to answer everything that Senator Coke said, and I have done so," said Wise this morning. "I replied to every item of his complaint in the Star-Bulletin and I further stated that I held myself ready to answer anything else in connection with the matter.

"I have been ready to go before the territorial grand jury if that body should wish to take the matter up, but I cannot learn that it intends to investigate Senator Coke's complaint, and I am going back to the work I dropped.

"What I said has been upheld by the facts that came out after the charges were made. William J. Cook's statement, showing that I had to pay a large amount of money for proof-reading in addition to the $150 paid to Hinkel, confirms my reply. Senator Brown says there's nothing in the charges, and there seems to be no disposition to bring them to the proof.

"I shall be at Waimea for a number of weeks, and will answer any further charge, or any legitimate question regarding my work. Until I return I do not expect to pay any more attention to these complaints unless they contain more than they have so far."

Senator Coke, for his part, having made his charges openly and emphatically, and since then repeatedly backed them up, will probably not take any further action.

"There are the facts that I have stated," he says. "I showed the waste of money, and what I consider the suggestions of funds. I stand by what I said. I do not care how the matter is taken up, but I do not consider that there is any further action for me to take now."

C. J. MAJOR DEFEATS O'DOWDA AND WILL PLAY IZARD TODAY

C. J. Major, the eastern tennis crack, who recently took up his residence in Hilo, won his first match in the Hawaiian tennis championship tournament this morning, defeating John O'Dowda, 6-3, 6-3.

The match was a marathon, O'Dowda making the visitor extend himself to win, and most of the points being won after long rallies. It was played at the Beretania courts at 10 o'clock.

Major will play against IZARD at the Pacific courts at 4:15 this afternoon. This looks like the best match of the tournament to date.

F. Augustus Heintz, the copper magnate, has been sued for more than a million dollars by Edwin Gould and William Nelson Cromwell.

DOUGHERTY SAYS DUKE STILL IS ONE BEST BET

Parcel Post Committee Report Is Adopted by the Ad Club

"I don't care what you say or what may be proposed in other lines, Duke Kahanaomoku is the greatest advertising medium that Hawaii has today."

This is the opinion of Director J. D. Dougherty of the mid-winter carnival, who gave a brief and very interesting talk at today's meeting of the Honolulu Ad Club.

"Everyone knows Duke. It is remarkable the people who talk to you of the world's greatest swimmer, when they learn you are from Hawaii. They have come to know Hawaii through his reading of his great swimming feats," said Dougherty. "And the boys who traveled with Duke on his recent trip to San Francisco conducted themselves in a manner that is an everlasting credit to the town and the territory. I walked down Market street one day with the Duke and one or two of the boys, and the party with Duke was the center of attraction all along the line.

"I tell you we have the material for one of the greatest carnival weeks that has ever been known. I can't make public my plans now, because I don't know how far the people here are willing to go in carrying out the program. But I can say this much. If the people of the city and the other islands will give us as much money as they gave last year, we can put on a magnificent carnival week, with something doing all the time; we'll do it all and have $1,500 to hand over to the next year's committee to work with. This of course with the one proviso of wind and weather permitting."

At the close of Mr. Dougherty's talk the Ad Club on motion of Mr. Child voted unanimously that "Every member of the Honolulu Ad Club be and hereby is appointed a committee of one to boost the Mid-Winter Carnival of 1914, and assist Mr. Dougherty."

Much business was done at today's luncheon of the Ad Club. The membership committee reported a good

STREET CAR TIRES OF CONTINUOUS TRIP ALONG KING STREET

Rapid Transit Car No. 55, on the Kalih-Waikiki run, furnished crowds with some excitement for noonday crowds by going off the track at Alakea and King streets shortly before 1 o'clock today. The front trucks of the long car took the closed Alakea switch, and continued on King street all right but the switch opened a little and the rear trucks somehow managed to get on the Emma street line and start up Alakea.

The car was stopped half on one line and half on the other. Attempts to get the rear trucks back to King street resulted in running them off the rails altogether. Traffic was held up and a crowd gathered. The Emma and King street cars continued carrying passengers by running to the Alakea corner and then turning back on each side of the stationary car.

The car was finally maneuvered back on the track and traffic proceeded after a delay of half an hour.

MRS. SANCHEZ TO ACCOMPANY HUSBAND HOME

Woman Insists That Man Represented Himself to Be a Wealthy Filipino

Mrs. Carlos Roberto de Sanchez, the petite companion of Sanchez, alias Rosario, who is held in detention here awaiting the departure of the Pacific Mail liner Siberia, for Shanghai, where the young Eurasian declares he is willing to face his accusers who allege embezzlement and forgery, held a conference covering a period of an hour or more with the man who she claims as husband, at the office of Chief of Detectives McDuffie this morning.

"I will accompany Carlos to Shanghai," admitted the little woman between sobs, when told that the young man would be returned to the far east in custody of Chief McDuffie. "Arrangements have been made for my passage in the Siberia. I have many friends in that city and along the China coast, who I do hope have not learned of the present difficulties in which Carlos has become involved.

The woman insists that Rosario represented himself as a wealthy Filipino, though she admitted this morning that before he proposed marriage he had told her much concerning his past life while a resident of Macao. Easy Sailing for McDuffie.

McDuffie is in hopes that he will have no difficulty in turning over his man to the authorities at the International Settlement at Shanghai. In taking his departure in the Siberia Tuesday morning, McDuffie will probably continue with that vessel until reaching Nagasaki, Japan. The Siberia omits a call at Shanghai on the outward voyage and for that reason the officer believes that it will be best to transfer his prisoner to one of the many Japanese or other foreign coasters that daily ply between Nagasaki and Shanghai.

The local officers are inclined to favor Rosario to an extent that he be permitted to receive visits from the little woman who still clings to him despite all the trouble and notoriety that has followed their arrival at Honolulu.

"They came and took everything of value I had. They took the diamond ring he gave me, and everything else I valued," cried Mrs. Sanchez. Yesterday, after the local police had received a cable from Shanghai asking that Sanchez be returned, an officer of the force called on the bride of the prisoner, and when he left, she says, he had all her valuables, including a large diamond ring, the gift to her from Sanchez before they were married.

"Why did they take that? That was mine. It was given me, and has nothing to do with this money he is accused of stealing. I will never see the ring again, that is sure. If I had thought they would have taken it from me, I would have hid it in some hiding place and never have told them where it was. But it is too late now," sobbed the little Russian bride.

The young bride is attempting to make cable arrangements for her return to Kobe. She hopes to be able to sail for that port the first of the week, and if she does she will probably resume the job which she gave up to marry.

"When I married I didn't think I would have to do any more work. But I was mistaken.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE IS READ; ALL AMERICANS ARE URGED TO LEAVE MEXICO

Gravity of Situation Admitted—Huerta's Attitude Makes Public Statement Necessary—Moral Pressure Relied On To Clear Way to Peace

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 27.—Before the houses of Congress assembled in joint and solemn session today, President Woodrow Wilson read the first message on foreign affairs that has been personally delivered to Congress since Washington was the president of the United States.

The gravity of the Mexican situation, the failure of Lind's mission to accomplish what was hoped for it, the danger to American life and property in the troubled republic to the south, called forth the special message, which was heard with great solemnity.

"SITUATION STEADILY WORSE." In his message, President Wilson declared that the situation has been and is steadily growing worse. He says that it has now reached the point where it is incompatible with civilized development, with the fulfillment of international obligations, and with the maintenance of tolerable political and economic conditions in the sister republic.

EXPLAINS LIND'S MISSION. The president went into details in explanation of the mission of his personal representative and envoy to Gen. Huerta, ex-Governor John Lind of Minnesota.

He said that Lind had asked for the immediate arrangement of an armistice between the warring forces, and for the assurance that an early presidential election would be called, at which Huerta would not be a candidate for the presidency.

Part of the assurances that Lind asked was that all parties would abide by the result of the election. Huerta's refusal to accede to the plan conveyed to him by Envoy Lind made a public statement necessary of Uncle Sam's policy, the president went on. That policy, declared the president must be "no armed intervention and no partition." All Americans should be urged to leave, he said, and the policy of the United States will be to protect those who are unable to leave. Uncle Sam will also refuse to sanction the exportation of arms to either side.

The friendly offer of mediation is to be repeated. Meanwhile, he says, he is relying upon the "steady pressure of moral force to break down the barriers of prejudice and pride."

Taking up Huerta's answer, it is stated that Huerta's rejection of Lind's suggestions soundly declared that Wilson was laboring under serious delusions, and that his proposals were humiliating and unwelcome. Huerta suggested as an alternative plan that America should send a new ambassador, should recognize Huerta and strictly preserve neutrality.

Thaw Wins Victory; May Go Free In Short Time

SHERBROOKE, Quebec, August 27.—Harry K. Thaw and his attorneys won an important legal victory today.

Justice Globensky this morning refused to permit William Travers Jerome, the attorney representing the state of New York, to intervene in the case. He decided that Thaw "may remain in jail definitely to be dealt with according to law."

Inasmuch as the commitment charging that Thaw was an escaped convict from Matteawan penitentiary is admittedly faulty, the decision is a big victory for Thaw. The crowds cheered Thaw wildly and the young man bowed with flushed cheeks and shining eyes. The judge later denounced the scene as the most disgraceful he ever witnessed.

Yuan Called on to Answer

PEKING, China, August 27.—The city is under martial law, and the frequent arrests and number of summary executions have led the parliament to ask President Yuan Shih-Kai whether he desires to rule with his assistance. President Yuan has replied that he is ignorant of the arrests, and will investigate.

Caminetti Trial Begins

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 27.—The trial of Drew Caminetti, son of the commissioner-general of immigration, on virtually the same charges as those that ended in the conviction of Maury I. Diggs, began today in the federal court. The jury includes Ben Dibble, the former Harvard football captain, and Francis Carolan, the millionaire polo player.

COMMITTEE WILL RECOMMEND LEASE ON THE PLAYGROUND

The road committee of the supervisors will recommend in a report to the board at its next meeting that a lease for one year be entered into with the Bishop estate for the property known as the Beretania street playgrounds, it was learned today. The question of whether the city and county should lease or purchase this property came up at a meeting of the board three weeks ago when Spencer Bowen, representing the playgrounds, appeared and urged that the supervisors either buy outright or obtain by lease the property that the playground work may continue there. The matter was referred to the roads committee, which will report out recommending that a lease for a year be entered into with the Bishop estate.

ing to a cablegram received here today from Shanghai. Martial law is being enforced by the federals and the city is quiet.
