BOURBONS TO ENDEAVOR TO GET TOGETHER

Meeting Called for Friday at Which Effort Will Be Made To Unify Democrats

CANDID POWWOW OVER PARTY MATTERS PLAN

Brotherly Love Spirit Said to Be Object of Gathering of the Clans

Leading Democrats of Honolulu, impressed with the necessity of uniting the present half-dozen or more factions and of getting down to a basis where "party indorsement" will mean the backing of the Bourbons generally, have called a meeting for next Friday night at the office of Lightfoot & Lightfoot, Kapoian building, and will try to work out some plan of organization to meet their ideas.

All factions as well as Democrats identified with no faction, are included in the invitations which were sent out yesterday and today. Attorney C. W. Ashford is chairman of the committee which is sending out the invitations, which read as follows:

Honolulu, T. H., Sept. 16, 1913.

Dear Sir:—At a meeting of Democrats held in this city last evening, a committee was appointed consisting of the undersigned as chairman, together with Hon. Arthur A. Wilder, James L. Coker, Joseph J. Fern, Charles G. McCarthy, and A. V. Gear, Esq., with power to add to their numbers, and with instructions to consider and report to a future meeting, some plan for the improvement of the Democratic organization of the territory, and of this city and county, to the end that party harmony may be restored, and party efficiency insured, especially in view of the fact that recent legislation concerning primary elections calls for the material amendment of the party rules.

In accordance with the resolution mentioned, I respectfully invite you to be present at a meeting of said committee, at the office of Lightfoot & Lightfoot, in Kapoian building, at 7:30 p. m. on Friday evening next, the 19th inst.

You are urgently requested to make this proposed meeting a previous engagement, as the committee desire the benefit of your advice and suggestions.

Very truly yours,
C. W. ASHFORD,
Chairman.

Mr. Ashford said this morning that the invitations state the purpose of

Rudolph Berger Loses Life on His Motorcycle

Rudolph J. Berger, who lost his life yesterday. The above is said by his relatives to be the only portrait the young man ever had taken.

DEATH OF SON OF BANDMASTER UNDER PROBE BY CORONER ROSE

The instant death of Rudolph J. Berger, son of Captain Heinrich Berger, bandmaster, at 6:20 last evening on Kalakaua avenue at a point where it passes the home of W. G. Irwin, caused by his colliding with the rear end of a Rapid Transit car while riding a motorcycle, will receive a thorough investigation tomorrow afternoon, at the inquest to be conducted by Deputy Sheriff and Coroner Charles Rose.

The coroner will summon A. Lovens, motorman of Rapid Transit car number 49, and A. Frier, conductor on the car. F. W. McKinney, said to have been a passenger on the street car, will add his testimony.

The accident, which resulted in the death of the young man before he could be removed to the hospital, followed a preliminary meeting of a number of motorcyclists at Kapoian park speedway, where trial runs were made during the afternoon, preparatory to the races to be held there on Saturday.

Berger had completed a number of circuits of the track at high speed,

HERTSCHKE HAS FOUR SITES FOR NEW HOTEL

Leaves for Mainland Saturday and Will Make Known Plans Upon His Return

W. G. IRWIN ESTATE MAY BE PROPERTY

Former Manager of Local Hosteltories Contemplates Magnificent Edifice on Beach

Ready now to leave for San Francisco to secure capital with which to build what he declares will be one of the most beautiful hotels in the Pacific, J. H. Hertsche, former manager of the Hotelis Young, Moana and Royal Hawaiian, stated yesterday afternoon that he had four valuable pieces of property under consideration as sites for his proposed hostelry. Hertsche will sail Saturday by the steamer Sierra for San Francisco, and will be gone a month, he says.

One of the pieces of property he says he has under consideration is the W. G. Irwin estate at Waikiki. Rumors have been current for a number of days that Hertsche is negotiating for the purchase of the beautiful James B. Castle property at Waikiki, but efforts made this morning to confirm this failed, as none of the parties interested were willing to discuss even the possibility of such a deal.

Hertsche stated that until he returned he would be unable to disclose more of his plans than that he proposed to secure capital on the mainland with which to erect a splendid beach hotel here, and that he had four pieces of property to choose from for the site of the hostelry.

POSTAL BANK TO OPEN HERE ON JANUARY 2

Honolulu's postal savings bank will be opened January 2, 1914, according to information received by Postmaster J. G. Pratt from the department in Washington. At the same time the ten other postal banks in Hawaii will be opened, possibly under the direction of a member of the department.

It is the belief of the postmaster that the institution of this bank will mean a great deal of new work for the local office as he is of the opinion that it will be largely patronized by foreigners and by enlisted men. It is probable that the present postoffice accommodations will not permit of the bank being installed in the post office, in which event an effort will be made to secure the Honolulu hale which, with some repairs, would make a desirable location.

According to the men in charge of the savings bank department, as communicated to Postmaster Pratt, it was feared that the government saving institutions would work a hardship upon the commercial banks. This, however, is denied. In fact, the opposite is pointed out as the result. When funds in the postal savings banks reach the deposit limit they are removed to commercial institutions.

The system was established January 1, 1911, with one bank in each territory and state on the mainland. Today there are 12,000 offices with deposits aggregating $35,000,000 besides $3,500,000 that have been invested in postal bonds. The total number of depositors is 350,000.

These banks have proved especially popular with foreigners who have been accustomed to using them in their own country and on this ground Postmaster Pratt bases his ideas of big local business. In the case of the enlisted men he is of the opinion that many will withdraw their deposits from mainland banks with the establishment of local institutions, owing to the fact that it is not permissible to have accounts at two different postal savings banks.

REQUEST FOR HULA PERMIT INOPPORTUNE

Madame Puah's request for a license to run her hulahula resort at Kapoian park turned up at the supervisors' meeting last night after having unaccountably disappeared for several days. So far as the woman is concerned, the request seemed to have appeared at a rather inopportune time, for it happened that it was read aloud immediately after the city fathers had heard a resolution of the Kapoian Improvement Club, a resolution

DAVIES & CO. WIN DECISION IN HORNER CASE

Estopping Robert Horner from claiming $17,809.58, now in the possession of the court, and awarding the entire amount to Theo. H. Davies & Company, Circuit Judge W. L. Whitney handed down his decision this morning in the involved suit by Robert Horner to obtain an accounting from his brother Albert and H. Hackfeld & Company. Before the actual hearings, which continued for many weeks, began last spring, the name of Hackfeld & Company was withdrawn by mutual consent, and that of Davies & Company inserted as substitute, co-defendant with Albert Horner.

The court also orders the dissolution of the firm of J. M. Horner & Sons, and assesses the costs of the litigation against the plaintiff.

The suit was brought to determine the disposition of the sum already mentioned, which was dividends of the Kukui Plantation Company held by H. Hackfeld & Company as agents when Robert Horner sold his interests in the plantation to Theo. H. Davies & Company. It is stated that the existence of these dividends was entirely unknown to either Davies & Company or Robert Horner when the sale of the plantation was perfected.

The court's decision reviews the entire affair of the sale and the difficulties encountered, to the extent of forty pages of typewritten matter. In closing the ruling is as follows:

"It is therefore ordered and decreed that in the accounting between the co-partners it is found that the sum of $17,809.58 was due to the plaintiff herein as his share of the claim of J. M. Horner and Sons against H. Hackfeld & Company, and it is further ordered and decreed that the said sum be forthwith paid to Theo. H. Davies & Company, the substitute defendant herein; and it is further ordered and decreed that the firm of J. M. Horner & Sons be and is hereby dissolved; and it is further ordered and decreed that the plaintiff herein do pay the costs of this suit as the same shall be taxed."

WOMAN CONFESSES TO AIDING ASSASSINS

(Special cable to the Nippu Jiji.) TOKIO, Japan, Sept. 17.—Ai Awata, a Japanese woman, has confessed to the police here that she was an accomplice of the two assassins who stabbed and fatally wounded Moritaro Abe, director of the political bureau of foreign affairs. One of the assassins has been captured, but the other has thus far eluded the police.

JULIUS ASCH SAYS HE GOT $250 FROM KIM

Jailor, When Accused of Borrowing from Prisoner, Admits the Transaction

PREVIOUSLY HAD STATED THE STORY WAS UNTRUE

Jailor Called as Witness and Grilled on Stand by Attorney Brown

Julius Asch, city and county jailor, confessed this morning to having been in need of money, and having borrowed $250 from W. S. Kim, a Korean, while Kim was a prisoner at the institution during the earlier part of the present year.

The admission was made with much reluctance upon the part of jailor Asch, who when called to take the stand in the district court today, proved an interesting witness under the grilling cross examination of Prosecuting Attorney Arthur Brown.

According to Asch, he found that he required $250 and mentioned the matter to Kim, who was then completing a sentence of several years for gross cheat. The Korean told Asch that he stood ready to supply the needed money, and an interview was arranged with a Japanese friend.

A few days later, Asch said that in company with Kim, he drove to the Waikiki ranch of the Japanese. The money was given Kim by the Japanese, who then and there turned the sum over to Asch.

Through an understanding reached between Asch and his prisoner, no receipt or note was given as security for the return of the money.

ZENO K. MYERS IS INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Zeno K. Myers, well-known businessman who was the victim of an auto accident this morning.

With the bones in his foot crushed from an automobile accident which occurred while he was attempting to crank his machine, Zeno K. Myers, manager of the Home Insurance Company, was taken to the Queen's Hospital this morning. After an examination of his foot it was found necessary to amputate a part of it.

Physicians at the hospital stated this afternoon that the operation was entirely successful. They said that only a small part of the front of the foot had been taken off, that a second operation would not be necessary, and that it was believed he would recover soon.

The accident occurred when Mr. Myers was attempting to crank his machine before leaving his home for his office.

As he drew up the crank, the machine is said to have lurched forward, crushing his foot. Several of the small bones were broken and the flesh badly cut and bruised. It was at first thought that it would be necessary to remove his entire foot. Not until a careful examination had been made was it decided that only a small portion of the foot need be removed.

How long Mr. Myers will be confined at the Queen's Hospital could not be said this afternoon. It was stated, however, that he was resting easily with every indication of his speedy recovery.

The reason given for the sudden lurch of the machine is that Mr. Myers had failed to throw out his gears when attempting to crank the car.

DIGGS AND CAMINETTI GET MODERATE SENTENCES; JUDGE GIVES REASONS FROM STATUTE

Federal Justice Says Statute Not Originally Meant to Cover 'White Slavery' Except for Profit—Lays Downfall of the Young Men to Drink, Roadhouses and Dives—Appeal To Be Taken

(Associated Press Cable)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 17.—Convicted of violating the provisions of the Mann "white slave" act, Maury I. Diggs, former state architect, was sentenced in the U. S. district court today to two years' imprisonment in San Quentin and to pay a fine of $2,000.

His chum and partner in the violation of the law, F. Drew Caminetti, son of the United States commissioner-general of immigration, was sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $1,500.

Neither man was given the full penalty possible under the law. Federal Judge W. C. Van Fleet, in pronouncing sentence, said that the author of the statute did not originally intend to cover offenses of the kind in which gain was not an object. In other words, the original intent of the statute is held to apply to "white slavery" for profit. Congress amended the act, the court added, to include all interstate expeditions or journeys which might result in the debauchery of women.

As Diggs and Caminetti were found guilty of transporting Marsha Warrington and Lola Norris from Sacramento to Reno, Nev., for an immoral purpose, they are liable under the statute as it now stands, but the sentence of the court, much less than could be given, is taken as evidence that the two young Californians are held not to have violated the law to the limit of its meaning.

Diggs, whose trial and conviction occurred prior to that of Caminetti, was found guilty on four out of six counts. These counts had to do with the elopement and transportation of Marsha Warrington and Lola Norris. The two counts on which he was not found guilty were those of persuading, advising and inducing the two girls to go to Reno.

Caminetti was convicted on one out of four counts. He was found guilty of transporting Lola Norris to Reno for an immoral purpose, but he was not found guilty of being an accomplice in the taking of Miss Warrington, or of inducing or persuading the girls to go to Nevada.

The verdicts in both cases held to the theory that the girls shared in the guilt of their lovers and were willing to take the trip that has resulted in one of the most sensational cases in the history of coast jurisprudence. Diggs was liable to a sentence of twenty years and $25,000 fine, while the limit for Caminetti would have been five years and $5,000 fine.

Counsel for both men announced their intention to carry the fight up to the United States circuit court on appeal.

Judge Van Fleet in pronouncing sentence blamed lax family control, dives, roadhouses and drink for the downfall of the two young men.

England Threatened With 'Greatest Strike in History'

(Associated Press Cable)

LONDON, England, Sept. 17.—According to the Laborites, England is now threatened with the greatest strike in its history, in which all of the laboring classes will be united. The strike has started with the dock-workers of Dublin and spread to Liverpool and Birmingham, tying up three midland railways and several Liverpool franchises, unless all the workers are idle. Recognition of the labor unions and a "closed shop" or employment of unionists only, are the principal demands of the strikers.

"Rev." Schmidt Tricky Criminal

(Associated Press Cable)

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 17.—That Hans Schmidt, the pseudo-priest and alleged murderer of Anna Arnold, stole $400 from the Easter collection of St. Joseph's church, of which he was assistant pastor, is a new revelation in the already famous case made by the police today as a result of their work to unravel the many clues on hand.

It is declared also that Schmidt robbed the priest of a visiting factory the same night.

Schmidt, confronted with the evidence of his counterfeiting, said that he made the bogus coins "to solve the social question by creating money for all poor people."

HANDSOME CASTILIAN MAIDEN IS WITH CAPTURED BAND OF PIRATES

Estella d'Ortez Tells of Atrocities of Brigands—Has Relative in Honolulu—Captain Tapham Will Take Prisoners Direct to Mainland, Where He Expects Execution of 25

Federal officials and waterfront habitues are wildly excited at the wireless news received from the revenue cutter Keokuk to the effect that the pirate band of "blackbirds" that has terrorized the small islands which dot the South Seas finally has been captured. It is believed that the remaining members of the "Bully" Hayes gang may be known to a number of the old-timers on the waterfront.

Additional wireless advices received this morning lend a touch of pathos and romance to the story of the capture of the brigands. Captain Tapham reporting that a beautiful young girl in among the captives and that she has been a member of the brigand gang for the past ten years, having been captured as a child of five when her father's trading schooner fell foul of the outlaws of the deep. During her years of captivity, says the wireless, the child has grown into a remarkably beautiful young woman and is the adored of all the rugged band of outlaws.

Estella D'Ortez is the young woman, her father having been the captain of the trading schooner Santa Maria, which left Manila some ten years ago and which has never been heard from since. Miss D'Ortez has informed Captain Tapham that her father had a sister living in Honolulu, whose maiden name was Inez D'Ortez. Captain Tapham requests the local authorities to make an effort to locate the missing relative.

The young woman, advises the Keokuk's captain, is pure Castilian and has made numerous efforts to communicate with passing vessels without success, notwithstanding the fact that her roving, robbing companions
