The pictures on this and the next page are of the bride and her attendants in the brilliant wedding last Tuesday night, when Miss Margaret Frances Restarick and Mr. Reynold Brodie McGrew were united in marriage. The wedding ceremony took place at St. Andrew's Cathedral and was attended by a notable gathering. The photos of the bride, maid-of-honor and bridesmaids are by Perkins. The ceremony brings together two young people of Honolulu who have been lovers since school days and who are extremely popular in the younger set.

BRILLIANT in every respect, yet marked with a daintiness that charmed the beholder, the wedding of Miss Margaret Restarick and Reynold Brodie McGrew, on Tuesday evening, was the most important event, not only of this but of many weeks. The sharp showers which blew in from the south at intervals during the day did not dampen anyone's ardor, apparently, as the cathedral was crowded to overflowing with the friends of the young couple. The church decorations were of an exquisite simplicity. The altar rail was laden with maidenhair fern, as was the altar itself. Palms and potted plants were arranged in the rear, while high overhead was a feathery bank of maidenhair. Two brass vases filled with dusty pink asters were placed on the altar. Beside these stood two tall candles, like white sentinels at the gates of happiness.

The wedding ceremony was on time to the minute. Promptly at 4:30 the notes of the marriage hymn were heard as the choir took its place. The music changed to the significant strains of the bridal march from Loheinein and the wedding party entered. First in the procession were the four ushers, Messrs. Alfred Cooper, Watson Ballentyne, Edmund Melanphy and Vernon Tenney. Next came the little flower girl, Miss Frances Cooper, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Cooper, who looked like a golden-haired fairy as she walked up the aisle, strewing rose petals before the bride. She wore a sweet little frock of soft white silk over pink with trimmings of filmy Valenciennes lace and sash and hair bows of pink ribbon. She carried a quaint leghorn hat filled with Duchesse roses and pink and white petals.

Following the flower girl and walking together came the two pretty bridesmaids, Miss Helen Spalding and Miss Daphne Damon. They were dressed alike in French little gowns of apple-green charmeuse and pink chiffon. The skirt was draped modestly and made with a short, wired overdress of shadow lace. The bodice of pale pink chiffon, caught here and there with lace, had also a standing Medici collar of lace. Butterfly bows of pink chiffon caught the draperies in front and back. On their heads they wore dainty little caps of pink tulle, caught with rosettes and fastened with a bow in back to veils of shadow lace. They carried graceful bouquets of pink roses and tulle.

Immediately preceding the bride was the maid of honor, Miss Myrtle Schuman, beautiful in her crown of pink brocade charmeuse. The skirt was made on a train and draped fetchingly into a girl in front. The waist was veiled with white shadow lace and caught in back with a bow of green tulle. She carried a shower bouquet of pink roses, fern and tulle.

Surely there has never been a daintier bride in Honolulu than Margaret Restarick, with her ethereal beauty and red gold hair. And never did she look more charming than on Tuesday night. Her gown—made by New York's most fashionable modistes—was of beautiful white brocade charmeuse, draped and slit as the latest Parisian styles demand, and made with a long pointed train. Falling beneath the hips and caught in the folds of the skirt were panther-like draperies of crepe chiffon. Collar and angel sleeves of the same filmy material were draped upon the waist, which was further embellished with trimmings of Duchesse-rose point lace—a wedding gift to the bride—and pearl passementerie. Butterfly bows of tulle caught the draperies in front and in back, where the train hung from the shoulders. Her veil of silk tulle was fastened to her hair with orange blossoms and a strip of rare old lace, formerly the possession of the groom's great-grandmother. Her shower bouquet was of white orchids—the gift of Mrs. E. D. Tenney—and lilies of the valley, knotted with tulle. She wore a strand of Teels pearls, the gift of her godmother, Mrs. Dalton, and an exquisite platinum necklace with a pendant of rubies and diamonds, the gift of the groom.

The bride was met at the altar by Mr. McGrew, attended by Mr. Allan Renton as best man. The marriage service was read by the Rev. Canon

About forty people in all were present at the supper. Mrs. Restarick, the bride's mother, wore a beautiful gown of violet rose chiffon brocade with white lace. The brides were draped with cream colored shadow lace, caught at the waist with a gold rose. On her head she wore a becoming hat of black chantilly lace with plumes.

Mrs. C. B. Cooper, an aunt of the groom, wore a handsome frock of white embroidered pina, draped with chiffon and embellished with chantilly lace.

Miss Eva M. Stevens, the house guest of Bishop and Mrs. Restarick was gowned in black chiffon, over white satin with princess lace. On her head she wore a black hat with white plumes.

Those at the wedding supper were Bishop and Mrs. Restarick, Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Young, Mr. and Mrs. A. Berg, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Withington, Mr. and Mrs. Paul, Drs. Fred and Charlotte Baker of San Diego, Canon and Mrs. Ault, Miss Eva M. Stevens, Misses Gillette, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Melanphy, Miss Bers, Mr. Reginald Carter, Miss Pauline Young, Miss Frances Cooper, Master Cooper, Miss Myrtle Schuman, Miss Beth Woods, Miss Daphne Damon, Miss Helen Spalding, Mr. Allan Renton, Mr. Vernon Tenney, Mr. Alfred Cooper and Mr. Watson Ballentyne.

For the beautiful decorations in the church, credit is due to Misses Mary Gaton, Rennie Gaton, Beth Woods and Ruth Soper. Those in the house were in the charge of Mrs. C. B. Cooper, Mrs. A. A. Young, Mrs. Arthur Berg, Mrs. R. C. Stackable and the Misses Gillette.

Mr. and Mrs. McGrew were the recipients of many congratulatory cables, and quantities of handsome presents. Among the latter was the entire flat silver service, the gift of Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Cooper and Mr. Tara McGrew. The bride's gifts to her maids were dainty blue-enameled friendship circles set with pearls. The groom's gifts to his ushers were scarlet pins.

After a honeymoon spent—they say on Tahiti—Mr. and Mrs. McGrew will make their home with the Restaricks until a little later when they plan to set up their Laves and Penates in a house of their own in Nuuanu valley. They will be at home to their friends on the Fridays of January at the Bishopric.

Both Mr. and Mrs. McGrew are of families of great prominence in Honolulu, and are immensely popular in the younger set in which they move. A rare, school-day romance ended thus happily on Tuesday for the young couple who have been sweethearts since childhood.

General and Mrs. Funston's Dinner. One of the prettiest affairs of the week was the dinner given by General and Mrs. Frederic Funston on Thursday evening at their home in Manoa valley. An Oriental scheme of decoration was used on the table. The centerpiece was of deep yellow chrysanthemums and, in turn, was surrounded by quaint Chinese flower pots filled with maidenhair fern. The place cards were fascinating little Egyptian affairs, very appropriate to the far eastern idea. Included among General and Mrs. Funston's guests were General and Mrs. Montgomery Macomb, Major and Mrs. William Wooten, Capt. and Mrs. Edward Carpenter, Mrs. E. W. Babbitt and Lieut. W. Ball.

Island Girl to Marry. Prominent among the island people to sail on the Manchuria on Tuesday was Miss Kaul Wilcox of Kaul, who goes to San Francisco to wed Mr. Archibald Andrew of Edinburgh, Scotland. The marriage is the culmination of a romance begun on shipboard when Miss Wilcox was crossing the Atlantic bound for Europe, traveling with Mr. Andrew who was returning to Scotland for his vacation. The marriage, which will take place in San Francisco—the future home of the young couple—is the happy result of the two years' friendship. Sailing with Miss Wilcox on Tuesday were her sister-in-law, Mrs. Gaylord Wilcox, and Miss Margaret Waterhouse, who will be present at the wedding, though returning to the islands shortly after.

Birthday Dinner. An interesting event which took place on Thursday was the dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hopper in honor of the latter's father, Mr. J. M. Templeton, whose eightieth birthday it was. The guests, numbering 25, were limited to the children and grandchildren of Mr. Templeton, one grandchild, Master Billy Livingston being included in the list. The affair was entirely informal—an expression of loving esteem for the man who has so happily achieved his four score years. Mr. Templeton is one of the best known kamaainas in the islands.

Mrs. Rumsay's Social Evening. Between 80 and 90 members of the Christian church gathered at the residence of Mrs. Rumsay, on Sixth avenue, last evening, for a social evening. During the first part of the evening numerous games were played on the lawn in the moonlight. Later, in the house, there were games with prizes for the winners. This was supplemented with instrumental selections on the piano and violin. Late in the evening refreshments were served. It was close to midnight when the party disbursed.

The Worthington Concert. The date for the second Marion Dowsett Worthington concert has been changed to Tuesday evening, December 2. Among those on the program with the talented singer will be Mrs. Ernest Ross, who will give violin obligatos, and Miss Glenna McCracken, pianist. Mr. Vernon Tenney will accompany the singer.

A Gala Chinese Day. One of the most picturesque sights imaginable, typical of the Orient, will be seen three weeks from today, when the Chinese Students' Alliance of this city will hold a bazaar. This promise to be one of the most elaborate functions of the year judging from Mau Social Notes. (Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence.) WAILUKU, Nov. 14.—Over 200 people were present last Saturday night at the big bazaar and dance given at the Armory by the Catholic Ladies' Aid Society. The rain had been disagreeable all day, and it was feared that the evening affair would not be very well patronized. That it was a social and financial success was due to the splendid support given by the church and townspeople. The dance was greatly enjoyed. The newly organized Pala brass band and also Joo Namaka's string band played excellent music which was so much enjoyed that when James Dougherty at midnight paid the musicians for overtime, the dance kept up for an hour and a half longer. The sum cleared was a handsome one and was devoted to the new school upon which there remains somewhat of a debt.

The Woman's Aid Society of the Union church met on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. R. B. Dodge. The meeting was on cooking. A souvenir booklet was presented each member with the favorite recipe from among all the members of the society. This was the first of the three meetings during the year on cooking. After the business and social program was over, tea was served.

Southern Club to Welcome McCarn. A reception and possibly a dinner will be on the program for the welcome that the southerners will extend to Hawaii's new U. S. district attorney, Jeff McCarn of Tennessee, when McCarn arrives here in the near future. The southerners will meet next Thursday evening in the makai pavilion of the Young hotel at 7:30 o'clock to complete organization of their society and to make arrangements for welcoming Mr. McCarn and his charming family.

Me. and Mrs. Chillingworth's Poi Supper. A very brilliant affair—though without that stiff formality which marks large functions as a rule, was the poi supper given last Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chillingworth. Their pretty home on King street was abloom with wild ginger and other yellow flowers. The guests were seated at one long table on which was placed a graceful bowl of chrysanthemums. At each place was a long lilima lei while tiny yellow leis on white cards were used as place markers. Kaal's quintet played throughout the supper, and after the repeat of Hawaiian edibles, the guests devoted the time to ragging and playing bridge. Among those present were Prince and Princess Kalaianole, Dr. and Mrs. Sandow, Major and Mrs. Edward Timberlake, Judge and Mrs. A. G. M. Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. Morton Riggs, Major and Mrs.

An Indispensable and Necessary Article for Particular Women who Desire to Retain a Youthful Appearance.

Every woman owes it to herself and loved ones to retain the charm of youth nature has bestowed upon her. For over half a century this article has been used by actresses, singers and women of fashion. It renders the skin like the softness of velvet leaving it clear and pearly white and is highly desirable when preparing for daily or evening attire. As it is a liquid and non-greasy preparation, it remains unnoticed. When attending dances, balls or other entertainments, it prevents a greasy appearance of the complexion caused by the skin becoming heated.

Gouraud's Oriental Cream cures skin diseases and relieves Sunburn, Removes Tan, Freckles, Blackheads, Moth Patches, Rash, Pimples and Vulgar Redness, leaving a delicately clear and refined complexion.

Wedding to Come. The invitations to the wedding of one of Honolulu's most dashing young society girls were received this week, reading as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. J. Alfred Magoon request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter Emeleen Marie to

L. Orville Norris Tyler Fourth United States Cavalry on Wednesday evening, December the third.

Nineteen hundred and thirteen at half after eight o'clock at their residence Honolulu, Hawaii.

Arrangements are about complete for this interesting event, which will be novel to Honolulu, inasmuch as it will be a double wedding. Mr. John H. Magoon will be married on the same evening to Miss Juliette Garrol of San Francisco.

Mrs. Cochran's Luncheon. One of the prettiest affairs of the week was the luncheon given yesterday on board the U. S. S. G. Thetis by Mrs. C. B. Cochran, wife of Capt. Cochran of the revenue cutter service. The table was adorned with a graceful gold basket filled with ragged lavender chrysanthemums and ferns, while at each place were violet orange pieces, knotted with malina of the same shade. Places were marked with gold created cards for Mrs. Walter Frear, Mrs. Montgomery Macomb, Mrs. Alfred Hocking, Mrs. Edward Timberlake, Mrs. Francis Hinkle, Mrs. W. Ault, Mrs. John Johnston, Mrs. F. B. McStocker and the hostess.

Quoth the "Maiden," "Neremora"—and such a tired quoth as it is, too. All week maid and matrons of society have trudged the highways and byways of town bearing their burden of Red Cross stamps through the rain and slush, waving the red and white envelopes beligerently beneath the noses of helpless buyers, demanding their money or the reason why. Such an ungrateful growl as has been set up over sellers who "crabbed" on other people's territory, or started before the time appointed—the same troubles as last year and the probable troubles of next, as long as there are persons who put personal achievement before the good of the cause. Everyone is tired now—be very merciful of a Red Cross stamp makes their feet ache. They fervently ever that they will never do it again—some other poor fool can scour the town, talking, pleading, cajoling, arguing, coaxing, threatening, authoring in the shakels as they roll reluctantly in. But they do not mean this really. They will presently revise and consider the case more calmly, recalling the worthy cause which no doubt many have lost sight of in the excitement of the chase. And the satisfaction of duty done more than compensates for momentary weariness. A week to charity working—then on with the game with everyone happy. Who would begrudge it?

Reception at Punahoa. The faculty and trustees of Oahu college were hosts last night at a very pleasant reception at Castle hall for the members of the senior class. The evening was spent informally with music, Miss Clark reading an impromptu poem introducing the new teachers at Punahoa. Among those present were President and Mrs. A. F. Griffiths, Miss Susan Clark, Miss Margaret Clark, Miss Cadwell, Miss Dodge, Mrs. Mildred, Miss Bettison, Miss Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Schmutzler, Miss Martin, Miss Folsome, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Bettis, Miss Ethel Damon, Miss Winnie, Miss Johnson, Miss Croson, Miss Brocklebridge, Judge Dole, Mr. F. C. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pitts, Mr. Howland, Mr. Rickoff, Mr. Chase, Mr. Midkiff, Mr. Barwick and senior class.

Morning Bridge Club. Mrs. William Wooten entertained the members of the Morning Bridge Club on Wednesday at her home on Anapuni street. After a number of interesting rubbers of auction, the guests partook of a most delicious luncheon. Among those present were Mrs. Richard Cutler, Mrs. George Jamerson, Mrs. E. Jones of Fort Kamehameha, Mrs. M. Leinhan, Mrs. M. Macomb, Mrs. F. W. Phisterer and Mrs. E. W. Babbitt.

Mrs. A. G. M. Robertson has issued invitations for an informal tea on Friday next in honor of Mrs. W. B. Lymer, Mrs. F. C. Emmons and Mrs. Walter Kendall.
