ARRIVE WITH VENTURA TO ISTHMUS IN ARIZONAN THANKS IN REAL AD CLUB STYLE COMMISSION IS NOT EVIDENT LAND AT BEACH

Frozen meat from Australian packers, and representing one of the largest shipments to enter the territory since the enactment of the new U. S. tariff law, will arrive here on Friday morning in the Oceanic liner Ventura, which is now nearing the port from Honolulu, N. E. W.

The vessel is reported today as having 70 tons of cold storage meats from the colonies destined for local importers. The refrigerated space in the vessel declared to have been filled to its utmost capacity before clearing from the Australian port. The Ventura will bring one cabin passenger for Honolulu, the list of through travelers to the Coast representing a fair number.

In addition to refrigerated supplies, the Ventura has about 35 tons of freight of a general character to be shipped here. C. Brewer & Co. hope to be able to dispatch this vessel for San Francisco about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The vessel was 807 miles off port at 8 o'clock last evening and is predicted to arrive here at 8 o'clock Friday morning.

William T. Donnelly, who designed the Inter-Island steaming drydock hood, and has remained in this city during a series of tests, will depart for the coast in the Pacific Mail steamer Mongolia. Before returning to his home in New York, Donnelly will visit Prince Rupert, British Columbia, where a new floating dock designed by him is nearing completion.

The only activity in the Inter-Island circles for Thanksgiving Day will be the dispatch of the steamer G. Hall for regular Kaula ports at 6 o'clock in the evening. A few passengers will be carried. The steamer returned from the Garden of Eden this morning, bringing one of 20 crates of plants, 53 bins of eggs, 35 packages of sundries and several crates of poultry. Strong northeast winds with choppy seas were the rule at Kaula ports of call.

AD CLUB GIVES THANKS IN REAL AD CLUB STYLE

ing good fellowship and Thanksgiving sentiments. Seated at the head of the long table, flanked by four guest tables on each side, the Ad Club president directed what might be termed the business Thanksgiving of Honolulu. Not only were the local interests represented and represented by sentiments from which all sordid business considerations were entirely divorced—but friends of Hawaii living away from the territory also added their good wishes through the mails, so that the meal was washed down with a steady flow of holiday good wishes which lent the zest of good fellowship and good feeling to the gathering.

President Farrington opened the meeting with a short and to-the-point talk, in which he pointed out that at least one day of the year should be set aside for the special appreciation of gifts received. He regretted that it was not possible to call on all the clergy of the city to set forth the religious side of the occasion, and suggested three cheers for the pastors of Honolulu and the cause which they represent, which were given with a will.

One by one, in rapid succession, wishes and spoken words of cheer and good fellowship were received with enthusiasm, a long list of contributors to the spirit of Ad Club-biness being run through with. Among those who brought messages of good cheer and good wishes to the club was Judge Sanford B. Dole, who contributed the following lines in greeting to his fellow members: "We thank Thee, Lord, for peaceful shores Where sweep the snowy breakers in With all the harvest of the seas. We thank Thee for the ancient hills, The lovely mountains, range on range; For Lanialani's purple heights; For sunset glow on Waianae. We thank Thee for the yield of earth For corn and wine from fertile fields, The golden pines from upland farms, The promise of the sugar cane, That decks the land with lilac bloom. We thank Thee for the brotherhood Of men—choice flower of human growth. And most of all for Thy good will, That blesses all in this, Thy world."

Among those who sent thanksgiving messages, or rose to voice them personally, were: Chuck Hoy, Chief Justice Robinson, Joel Cohen, Ed. Towse, D. A. Robbins, E. A. Berndt, George R. Carter, James A. Wilder, J. M. Riggs, John Effinger, W. H. Thompson, D. G. May, Henry A. Giles, A. W. Van-Velzenburg, Tom Sharp, Charles E. Frazier, H. E. Hendrick, Charles A. Cottrell, C. E. Duncan.

Patterson Awaits New Blade. The United States coast and geodetic survey steamer Patterson, which added to the contribution of bronze to Neptune's coffers, through the loss of a propeller blade, is awaiting a new part to the equipment now under construction at the Honolulu Iron Works, before taking up the work along the coast of Maui. The Patterson will await its turn to go on the floating drydock. The vessel is expected to go into commission within a week.

Marama Will Be Late. From Australian ports by the way of Auckland and Suva, the Canadian-Australasian liner Marama, is today reported by cable as having sailed from Fiji one day behind the regular schedule. The Marama is now due to arrive at Honolulu on next Wednesday. T. H. Davies & Company have been advised that the steamer will have ample accommodations for a large number of cabin and second-class passengers to the north Pacific coast. Less than a score of travelers have been booked for British Columbia at the local agency. A small cargo will be discharged at Alakea wharf.

Falls of Clyde on Brief Call. The ship Falls of Clyde, an arrival from Gaviota this morning with fuel and supplies for the local branch of the Associated Oil Company, will make a very brief stay at the port. Captain William Smith reported some rough weather on the voyage. The ship was brought into the harbor at 10:30 this morning with 18,000 barrels of oil and 400 drums of distillate. It is the present intention to dispatch the vessel for the coast this evening, the ship taking ballast only.

The Japanese steamer Nippon Maru from Hongkong by the way of Japanese ports is due to reach the port at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and is listed for dispatch for the coast at midnight. The steamer is bringing a small number of Asiatic steerage passengers.

In sailing for San Francisco at 5 o'clock last evening the Matsou Navigation steamer Lurline carried eight cabin passengers, and a light cargo of island products. There was no sugar shipped in the vessel.

WOMAN TAKES STAND BUT EVIDENCE FAILS TO BOLSTER UP CASE AGAINST KELLETT

An unscheduled surprise happened this morning in the hearing of the charges against former Detective John R. Kellett before the civil service commission. While the commissioners were in tune for a surprise, the one which really occurred was not the one expected.

The surprise came in the person of Mrs. Paakani Kauwal of Puuloa, wife of Sam Kauwal, who was brought to the senate chamber this morning by Deputy Sheriff Rose to testify against Kellett on the "brutal" treatment he showed the Korean opium fiend, Kong Eung Do, while they were at the woman's house about a year ago.

Yet in place of the woman stating that the officer treated his prisoner inhumanly, she testified on cross-examination that the blows struck were very light and without force enough to do injury to the Korean. And in place of Kellett maliciously and cruelly kicking Kong, the woman went on record as saying: "He didn't kick him hard. If he had the Korean would have fallen over."

She had explained before that at the time Kellett kicked Kong the latter was sitting down by a basket of clothes. The woman showed, by demonstration on the arm of E. C. Peters, attorney for Kellett, the strength of the blows she said the officer struck Kong—and the blows were so mild and ladylike that the commissioners could not resist smiling.

The woman occupied the witness stand the greater part of the morning session. When her testimony was concluded, Choy Chung Young, a Korean, convicted of theft, took the stand. He has charged that Kellett refused to return to him a ring he had at the time of his arrest, 14 months ago. Choy had not advanced far on his direct examination before noon. He took the stand again at 1:30. The commission will probably be engaged all afternoon on his charge.

It will take at least another day to finish the sheriff's case, according to the forecast of Deputy Attorney-general Smith. The commission have agreed to adjourn this afternoon at 4 o'clock and not convene again until Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

At one time on her direct examination the woman said: "Kellett struck him with a stick," indicating with her hand that the Korean was struck on the right upper arm.

This "stick" she later tried to identify as a regular police club, a club, she said, Kellett drew from his back pocket. Smith, after an argument against it, presented the witness with two police clubs of different sizes, and asked her if either one was similar to the one she thought she saw Kellett use.

"This is the most outrageous proceeding," broke in Peters. "Just imagine trying to force this witness to identify one of these clubs after she has said that she didn't see the club plainly, and after she has been unable to properly describe it."

Peters' objection was overruled, the woman indicated the longer one of the two clubs. But she afterwards made it up with Peters by testifying that though Kellett had used the club, the few blows he struck with it were inconsequential and more in the way of a caress than a beating.

CAMPBELL HEIRS SELL PIECE OF LAND AT BEACH

That piece of property at Waikiki beach, near Diamond Head, next to the Beckley residence and known as the Schuman lot, which was a portion of the homestead of the late James Campbell, has just been sold to Mary B. Lyman, wife of Fred S. Lyman, for $15,000. It had recently been awarded by the courts in fee simple to the heirs, in a case submitted for construction of their father's will, and they are the grantors in this sale, namely, Princess Kawana-naka, Mrs. Robert Shingle, Mrs. Walter Macfarlane and Mrs. George Beckley. The deal was negotiated through the agency of Henry Waterhouse Trust Company for the heirs, and that of J. W. Pratt for the purchaser.

There is an area of somewhat over half an acre in the lot, which has 130 feet of frontage on the beach and 66 feet on Diamond Head road, with an average depth of about 400 feet. It will be incorporated with the Lyman property of 3 1/2 acres adjoining and will be generally improved for revenue purposes. Improvements on the new addition are inconsequential. On the original Lyman premises, it will be remembered, a retired capitalist from the Coast named Hodge, under an agreement of purchase, made improvements to the value of $2000, besides paying a part of the agreed price, before leaving for his old home in California, where he died. As his heirs did not elect to fulfill the agreement, the property reverted to Mrs. Lyman, as reported in this paper some months ago.

With a change in administration pending, and with no one in the territory who can act for the governor, no extradition papers can be perfected. Consequently, it is feared that Medeiros may make good his escape. If cables could be sent to San Francisco that Medeiros had been indicted here and extradition papers were being sent on, the San Francisco police would probably hold the man, but there is no governor here to apply to the governor of California for extradition of the fugitive.

It was thought possible today that Attorney-general Thayer might cable the facts in the case to Washington and secure some sort of an order on which extradition proceedings might be based. Medeiros leaves a wife and nine children to shift for themselves.

A note to his wife is all he is known to have left behind him in the way of a farewell message. According to Mr. McChesney it was simply stated that he was on his way to the coast, leaving an address there for her to write to.

"If the friends of Medeiros are only willing to prosecute him, any number of indictments can be returned on the charge of gross cruelty," said Mr. McChesney. "I have felt for some time that the man was getting ready to skip out."

J. Alfred Magoon, the attorney for Mrs. Welsh, when seen today, said that he had not heard of Medeiros' disappearance. He said that he knew nothing about it, and that as far as he knew it would not alter the case against Mrs. Welsh for perjury.

While Attorney-general Thayer cannot sign the extradition papers for the governor, he is inclined to believe that they can be sent to E. A. Mott-Smith at Los Angeles and that he can sign them as acting governor. The Organic Act does not make this point very clear. It provides that in the event of the death, disability or absence of the governor, the territorial secretary shall become acting governor, remaining such until the governor returns or his successor qualifies.

So far as could be found today, there is no clause which relieves the secretary from his duties as acting governor when he himself leaves the territory, and it would seem that Mott-Smith is still the acting governor.
