"I am not so much concerned about keeping men out of hell as I am about getting hell out of the people."—Evangelist Ostrom in Berkeley, Cal.

"FIRM IN THE RIGHT"

Memorial Day, dedicated to the revered memory of those who have fought and fallen in the service of the Stars and Stripes, finds in this year of 1914 an American army on foreign soil, an American navy investing foreign ports. It is a solemn occasion and one to stir the pride and kindle the patriotism of every true American.

There may be sincere differences of opinion as to the Mexican policy of the administration but there can be no difference of opinion as to the honesty, the high ideal and the unwavering purpose of Mr. Wilson in his effort to free the Mexican people from the thralldom of bureaucracy and dictatorship. It is a source of pride to every American worthy of the name that there sits in the White House a man of Mr. Wilson's moral caliber.

That short but scorching ordeal of fire at Vera Cruz added new names to the long list of heroes who gave their lives to attest their devotion to country. It proved that the American military force now occupying Vera Cruz is made up of men of the same dauntless fiber as those of Valley Forge or Gettysburg or San Juan Hill. No American on home or foreign soil but heard the news from Vera Cruz with a quickening of the pulse, a stir of the blood, a deep-glowing warmth of patriotism.

The men of Gettysburg and the Wilderness and Antietam and Appomattox are passing away, but their spirit will not pass. Their ranks each year grow thinner, and their step more faltering, but their courage and character are carried on by the younger generations. It needs but the opportunity and the word of command for this spirit to be revealed again.

The flowers strewn today over countless graves are symbols not only of reverence for the dead but of pride in the living soldiers and sailors of the republic. The great wars—happily few—of this nation were fought for the highest ideal in the mind of man and the highest devotion in the heart of man, the ideal of justice for a weaker people, the devotion to humanity. America's greatness is founded on principles of religious, social, economic freedom for those within its ample, welcoming shores, and it is for these principles that our country has sent its soldiers and sailors south of the Texan border.

Memorial Day, 1914, finds the American land forces and marines occupying Vera Cruz with lines flung outside the city to hold the waterworks. American battleships and cruisers are investing Tampico and Mazatlan. The grip of our military is fixed; it needs only to be tightened for Mexico to be made helpless.

Were this a war of aggression, the grip would have been tightened long ere this. But the progress of military operations has halted upon the hope of successful mediation, a hope in which every American devoutly joins. And even should mediation now end hostilities and the American forces be withdrawn, the sacrifice of many lives has not been in vain. The men who made this supreme sacrifice gave to the world another shining example of unquestioning devotion to duty, kindling anew a solemn and a sacred pride in the hearts of their millions of countrymen and countrywomen.

Wreaths of mortal flowers laid tenderly today over silent stones; fragile blossoms strewn upon the green sod; martial music and slow; the measured march of veteran, regular and volunteer; these are symbols of reverence not alone for the material sacrifice laid upon the nation's altar, but for the abstract idea of human right for which that sacrifice was made.

Never in all the glorious history of this republic has a keener sense of social justice, a truer appreciation of human right, governed the actions of the American people. And in this Memorial Day we are found engaged in sanguinary conflict, it is the more a matter of national pride that our contention is for the larger aspects of justice to a people suffering from the exploitation of overlords and economic tyranny.

PULL TOGETHER FOR KALIHU HARBOR

Unless Honolulu wishes to be handicapped at the outset in the race for commercial benefits from the Panama canal, plans must go forward for the opening and improvement of Kalihii Harbor.

The United States government is not convinced that the project should go through, but for the space of 60 days will receive arguments on the subject. Those arguments should be immediately forthcoming. There are plenty of them—arguments of increasing tonnage and decreasing wharf space in Honolulu harbor now, arguments of the territorial harbor board's plans for the future, and of private plans for industrial development along the zone.

The Advertiser pertinently suggests that the new Chamber of Commerce should take up the campaign at once. To this we would add the suggestion that this campaign is in reality the campaign of the whole territory. As the Honolulu bodies have readily indorsed and worked for harbor and breakwater projects for Hawaii, Maui and Kauai, on the theory that what helps the individual islands helps all the territory, so now, we feel confident, will the commercial bodies of each island join in working for Kalihii Harbor.

PUT THE FACTS BEFORE THE LICENSE BOARD

Vigorous and detailed complaints are accumulating against the "Volcano House," the saloon on the edge of the Leilehua reservation conducted by Clifford Kimball, manager of the Haleiwa hotel. Mr. Kimball denies that there is any such ground for the complaints as has been alleged by the writers of two recently published letters.

If conditions are as disgraceful at this saloon as has been charged, the place should be closed. If it is run in an orderly manner, as Mr. Kimball alleges, he is entitled to have the exact truth known.

The Star-Bulletin suggests that final action on the matter rests with the liquor license commissioners of the county. The license board has published the following official notice:

The board of license commissioners for the city and county of Honolulu will hold a meeting at the Executive Building on Wednesday, June 17, 1914, at 2:30 p. m., to consider the application of Clifford Kimball for a renewal of the second-class saloon license now held by him, to sell intoxicating liquors at Upper Honolulu, Leilehua, Oahu, under the provisions of Act 119, Session Laws of 1907. All protests or objections against the issuance of a license under said application should be filed with the secretary of the board not later than the date for said hearing.

Such protests against this saloon as are now being voiced should by all means be brought before the license board officially. What is wanted is testimony from people who have first-hand knowledge of the conduct of the place and the conditions surrounding its operation and whose evidence can be substantiated.

HILO AND THE CARNIVAL

The new Mid-Pacific Carnival organization has got ready for work again, doing the logical and proper thing by persuading James D. Dougherty to take up again the work of director-general, in which capacity he showed splendid ability last time. Would it not be a good thing for Hilo to plan to take a larger part in the next carnival? Why not have a Hilo day in the capital city? It could be a day on which the whole program was a Hilo and Hawaii program, arranged and managed by our citizens, and with the proceeds to go to a Hilo association formed to plan and manage the exhibit. The carnival is a Territorial affair. There is no better way of adding variety to the program, and interesting the island of Hawaii to do a larger share in getting up the show, than some such arrangement as this. Nor is there any better way to add to the attendance from what Honoluluans call "the other islands."—Hilo Tribune.

"Hilo Day" has the right ring. The Mid-Pacific Carnival of 1914 came nearer being the carnival of all the islands than any of its predecessors. The suggestion of the Hilo Tribune is a good one and Director-general Dougherty will doubtless give it consideration at once.

PLAYGROUNDS AND RACE PROBLEMS

Honolulu's playgrounds are increasingly recognized as of prime importance in the life of thousands of alien-blooded children who are being brought up as citizens of an American community. It is interesting to see that idea now found in San Francisco, where race-prejudice has sometimes been unfortunately exhibited. From San Francisco comes the following statement, as told in the Christian Science Monitor:

The interest manifested by men in the weekly baseball matches has been found to result in a marked contribution to order in the vicinity. It is the aim of the commission to form social centers in the neighborhoods served by the playgrounds, located as they are for the most part in outlying districts among the alien population, and gradually to assume features of settlement work, in view of the task before the city in assimilating and training in American citizenship the many aliens whose arrival after the opening of the Panama canal is anticipated. The board realizes that the leisure received by the children is carried into the homes, and the holiday plays and pageants enacted on the grounds are intended to be a means of education.

The playground movement in this city is young, but it is strong. Among the definite factors for maintaining the reputation of this community as the blackboard where many troublesome racial problems are worked out in plain terms, count the playgrounds as important.

CONVENTION OF EPISCOPALIANS WELL ATTENDED

siding, and Rev. W. H. Fenton-Smith or Hilo and Rev. F. A. Saylor of Kaimuki acting as epistolator and gospeller respectively, the 12th annual meeting of the convocation of the missionary district of Honolulu opened in St. Andrew's cathedral at 10 o'clock this morning. Episcopal clergymen and delegates from churches throughout the islands to the number of more than 30 were in attendance and, as there are still others to arrive, the present indications are that the convocation will be one of the largest of its kind ever held in this city.

Prominent among those who attended the opening services this morning were the bishop, Rev. Canon William Ault, Rev. D. D. Wallace, Kona; Rev. W. H. Fenton-Smith, Hilo; Rev. F. N. Cullen, Paauilo; Rev. F. Merrill, Kohala; Rev. F. A. Saylor, Kaimuki; Rev. J. C. Villiers, Wailuku; Rev. J. K. Bodel, Lahaina; Rev. Woo Yee Bew, Kohala; Rev. Leopold Kroll, Honolulu; Rev. Kong Yin Tet, Honolulu; Rev. Canon Potwine, Honolulu; Rev. Canon Osborne, Honolulu; and Rev. Henry Peters, Honolulu. Following the services in the cathedral the clergymen and delegates adjourned to Davies Memorial hall for organization and the initial business meeting.

Bishop Henry Bond Restarick presided at the meeting, making the announcement that the session was purely one of organization. Following the roll call of clergymen and delegates, it was announced that a quorum was present. The committee on privilege reported that, after examination, it had found the certificates of delegates and clergy to be in order. Rev. Canon W. E. Potwine was elected secretary of the convocation, and appointed William Thompson his assistant. The inspectors of election chosen were Rev. F. N. Cullen and E. F. Melanphy for the delegates and Rev. J. K. Bodel and Rev. Joseph Zane for the clergy. A resolution was presented and passed to the effect that Chaplain Oscar J. W. Scott of Fort Shafter and J. E. Baird, a distinguished churchman of the diocese of Pennsylvania, be welcomed to and accorded seats in the convention.

Prior to the reading of reports of committees, Bishop Restarick read a brief address to the convocation, stating that throughout the islands the past year has been one of steady success and progress in all the Episcopal churches and missions. Never before has a convocation been so well prepared for speedy dispatch of business, he said, owing to the excellent manner in which the various committees have performed their work. Following a brief report from the secretary, the report of the committee on Christian education was read which proved highly interesting. According to the report, the church has 1750 children under instruction in Sunday schools, with 69 teachers; there are 125 in the night schools and 525 in the day schools. As most of the oriental Christians are those who have in some way been connected with the schools, it is plain to be seen that the work that is being done in the territory must count for something in the future as it has in the past, says the report. The business of the convocation this afternoon will include largely the reading of committee reports.

Following is a complete list of the clergy and delegates:

- The Clergy.—Bishop—Rt. Rev. Henry Bond Restarick.
- Priests—Rev. Samuel Henry Davis, Rev. Canon W. E. Potwine, Rev. F. W. Merrill, Rev. D. D. Wallace, Rev. Canon John Osborne, Rev. W. H. Fenton-Smith, Rev. Canon Wm. Ault, Rev. Y. T. Kong, Rev. Leopold Kroll, Rev. Woo Yee Bew, Rev. F. A. Saylor, Rev. J. K. Bodel, Rev. F. N. Cullen, Rev. S. Y. Chin, Rev. J. C. Villiers.
- Deacon—Rev. P. T. Fukao.
- Lay Delegates.—St. Andrew's Cathedral—Robert Catton, H. M. Von Holt, Thomas Sharp, T. Clive Davies, A. D. Cooper; alternates—Capt. E. H. Cooke, Dr. James A. Morgan, Dr. W. L. Moore, J. W. Podmore, John Effinger.
- St. Clement's—John Cullid, W. A. Wall, Harry Bailey, William Thompson, H. W. M. Mist; alternates—Edward Newcomb, H. Blackman, G. W. Smithies.

- St. Peter's—Yap See Young, Mon Fah Ching.
- St. Elizabeth's—Chang Hong, E. T. Young; alternates—Clement Panz.

LITTLE INTERVIEWS

—HUGH HOWELL: Everything is O. K. on Maui and the voters are ready to decide the bond issue matter.

—REV. FENTON SMITH: I may stay in Honolulu till next Saturday. I feel much better and hope to soon be all right again.

—CHARLES R. FRAZIER: "Boost" is going to be my middle name when I am up in Toronto, Canada. With plenty of Hawaiian literature, some leis and a lot of pineapples I ought to get in a little good promotion work.

—LIEUT. A. L. BUMP: After a month spent in Schofield Barracks Honolulu appears as a little village. I had to come into the suburbs of Schofield on business yesterday but will leave for the big city again just as soon as possible.

—GEORGE R. CARTER: I hope Dr. Pratt will inform the members of the mainland medical fraternity that Hawaii is not a possession, but a territory. The doctor will have an opportunity to do so next month, when he goes to the coast.

—JIM QUINN: There will not be much good road built on the windward side of the island with $5000, or as much of that amount as is used for road building, but at the same time a makeshift can be thrown up that will be better than none at all.

—MALIHINI: A few more of those "Hawaiian Night" concerts, say one a month, would not only delight tourists while they are here, but would cause them to again visit the islands. There is a charm about Hawaii's music that one cannot get away from, and to hear it once is to hear it again.

—TOM MERLE: Rio de Janeiro, Titanic, Empress of Ireland, gone to the bottom, taking 2612 persons unprepared into eternity. Cause: Speeding through a fog. There is a maritime law against anything over half speed during thick or foggy weather. How many more lives are to be snuffed out before this law is observed?

Epiphany Mission—W. C. King, S. H. Webb; alternate, A. F. Clark. St. Mary's—Reynold B. McGrew. St. Mark's—None. Holy Trinity—Paul Yoshikawa, S. Urata.

Holy Innocents—L. M. Vetlesen, A. N. Hayselden. Good Shepherd—Stanley Richardson, J. N. S. Williams. St. John's—En Fu Chung, Harry von Sue.

St. Augustine's—A. G. Smith, E. C. Merrill; alternates—D. Howard Hitchcock, Walter Beakbane. Paauilo Mission—E. F. Melanphy, H. G. Winkley.

St. Paul's—Joseph Zane, Harry Kong. Papaaloo Mission—Dr. W. L. Moore, W. H. Sperr.

Church of Holy Apostles—H. Gooding Field, James Wakefield. Christ's Church—Capt. E. H. Cooke, G. H. Butolph.

Tomorrow will be a noteworthy day for the Episcopal church in Honolulu. At 11 o'clock at the St. Andrew's cathedral nearly all the clergy of the islands will be vested and in the chancel. The bishop will deliver his annual address and charge. In the evening there will be a special service where the three choirs of the cathedral will render the service. There will be short addresses by the Rev. F. N. Cullen of Paauilo and the Rev. J. Charles Villiers of Wailuku. Both of these men are known as attractive speakers. Reginald H. Carter, will give a short organ recital. This will be one of the last occasions to hear Mr. Carter on the organ as he shortly leaves on an extended vacation to England. All are invited to these services.

Following is the program for Monday: Meeting from 2:30 to 4:30 p. m. in the Memorial hall. Conference on Christian education. This conference should be of deep interest to all, especially to teachers and parents. Come prepared to discuss briefly the questions presented. Following are the subjects:

- "The Purpose of the Church Sunday School," Rev. Leopold Kroll.
- "The Bible in the Sunday School," Rev. J. K. Bodel.
- "Difficulties as to Teachers," Rev. J. Chas. Villiers.
- "Difficulties as to Indifference of Parents," Rev. Canon Wm. Ault.

Convocation will meet in the evening if there is unfinished business. Rev. Akaiko Akana, president of the Young People's League, will be the speaker at Kaumakapili church at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow evening. There will be a special musical program.

O. SORENSON and Mrs. Sorenson from the Parker ranch on Hawaii were arrivals in the steamer Mauna Kea this morning.

PROFESSOR T. A. JAGGAR of the Kilauea volcano observatory is a visitor at Honolulu today, being an arrival this morning by the steamer Mauna Kea.

CHESTER J. HUNN, horticulturist of the Hawaii agricultural experimental station, will leave here in August for the University of Porto Rico, where he has been appointed professor of agriculture. Mr. Hunn has been with the station since 1908.

W. H. C. CAMPBELL, representing the Volcano Stables Company in this city, returned from a tour of Hawaii as a passenger in the steamer Mauna Kea. He was accompanied by a party of mainland travelers who paid a visit to the volcano and other points of interest on the big island.

A marble bust of Luiz de Camoes, author of the Portuguese epic classic entitled "The Luslads," has been presented to Court Camoes No. 8110, Ancient Order of Foresters, by George Canavarro of Washington, D. C., the only son of the late Portuguese consul-general, Antonio de Soiza Canavarro. The bust has been placed in the sessions hall of the order on Vineyard street.

THE VETERANS

By FRANK GODFREY.

Do you note their ranks are thinning? One by one they disappear; And, at each succeeding roll call, Fewer voices answer, "Here!"

Still, the remnants, they are marching— Many march with noiseless tread For no bugle sounds "assembly," In the bivouac of the dead.

Glorious deeds of gallant service Behe still on every hand, Charge, and siege, and bitter hard ships; Comrades lost, on seas and land.

Now, a reunited nation, Join to bless the honored dead, Mayhap, thoughtless of the living Who have also "fought and bled."

Hats are reverently lifted To the heroes lying here; Lift them to the living heroes! Hail them all, with cheer on cheer!

Not today; for drums are muffled, And the flag at half-mast waves Keeping green dead veterans' memories As the grass above their graves.

To the supreme court calendar has been added the following case: Kapo luh Paha vs. Helemano Land Co., et al. Appeal from circuit judge first circuit. L. Andrews for plaintiff appellant; Castle & Withington for defendant-appellee.
