Letters of credit and bills of exchange have their merits, of course—but when traveling, positively the best way of carrying funds is through the medium of TRAVELERS' CHEQUES.

Stores and hotels all over the world are glad to accept them at par; even if you lose the actual cheques their value may be recovered; your counter-signature makes them negotiable; they are inexpensive.

Established in 1859.

SOCIETY

Masquerade at Eleele.
 The masquerade dance of the Maile club at Eleele Saturday evening proved one of the real big, social successes of the season. Visitors from neighboring towns (including Lihue), who had not been apprised in advance of the elaborateness of the plans of the Mailes for the evening were amazed at the elegance and beauty of the scheme, and the splendid precision with which the features of the program was carried out.

The Waimea orchestra supplied music, it being seated on a platform which was elaborately decorated with green maile and choice plants. The veranda posts and railings, doors, windows and much of the side walls of the building were also decorated in the same tasty fashion with maile.

Grape juice and punch were on "tap" throughout the evening, and about 11 o'clock sandwiches, cake, etc., were served.

Dancing began at 9 o'clock and was kept up by the merry party until a late hour.

The costuming ran largely to yama yama and clown effects. Of the Lihue bunch, Misses Purvis, Lottie Jordan, Lulu Weber, S. E. Hannestad, Judge Dole, Harry Vincent, E. Mann, Judge Dickey and Dr. Derby all drifted to the yama yama style. F. Morrow and Mrs. Dean made up classily as Chinese; Mrs. Thurtell was a little girl again, while Mr. Thurtell essayed as a clown; Miss Strayne was charming as a cowgirl, while Dr. Glaisyer as King Omar and Mrs. Gleisyer as a witch were equally fetching. D. W. Dean made up well as George Washington.

The costuming of those from Koloa, Eleele, Makaweli and Waimea was much more varied and included a number of very clever schemes.

W. Eklund, as a clown, was easily the most conspicuous on the floor and the make-up of the following came in for special notice and most favorable comment: Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Silva, a school boy and flower girl, respectively; K. Roendahl as a French dancer; Carl Bayer as a German burgo-master, Miss Marion Hastie as "folly," Walter McBryde as a clown, C. H. Alsbaugh as a German officer, Mr. Robbins, as a clown, and W. G. Pillar as sugar bags, Miss Blue as a cowgirl, Mr. Morse as George Washington, Miss Esther Ing. as a flower girl, Miss Grace Ing, hibiscus; Miss Mable Hastie, Grecian affect; Miss Janet Has-
