GERMAN ASIATIC FLEET REPORTED BOTTLED.

TOKIO, Japan, August 7.—Reports have been received here that the German Asiatic fleet is bottled up at Tsingtau, the German naval base on the Chinese coast.

GERMAN STEAMER CAPTURED BY FRENCH

PARIS, France, August 7.—A French mine-planting ship yesterday captured and towed to Cherbourg a five-thousand-ton German steamer.

AMERICAN ARTIST ARRESTED AS SPY

SUNDERLAND, Eng., August 7.—Henry Aaron Mathes, an American artist, was arrested here today on suspicion of seeking information as to the movement of British troops. He has been remanded to custody for a week pending further investigation.

CRUISER TENNESSEE SAILS FOR EUROPE

NEW YORK, August 7.—The cruiser Tennessee sailed at nine-forty-five o'clock last night for European ports carrying six million dollars in gold for stranded Americans in Europe.

SCOUT CRUISER AMPHION SUNK BY MINE

LONDON, Eng., Aug. 7.—The British scout cruiser Amphion, while operating in the North sea early this morning, struck a floating mine and was destroyed. Of her crew of three hundred and twenty men, one hundred and thirty were lost. The Amphion distinguished herself on Wednesday by running down and sinking the German steamer Koehlgan Luise, engaged in planting mines.

The Amphion was one of the modern scouts of the British navy, of the active class, completed in 1912 with a designed speed of 25 knots. She carried 10 four-inch guns. For the sake of speed the cruisers of this class are not armored.

HOSTILE FLEETS IN ACTION IN CHINA WATERS

MANILA, Philippines Islands, August 7.—Authentic reports received here this morning announce that the German squadron mobilizing at Teling Tau has been engaged by the British fleet. A report received from Tokyo last night stated that German war vessels yesterday captured a ship of the Russian volunteer fleet in the Far East.

Germans Disbelieve News of Reverses in the North Sea

Local German residents are inclined to doubt a number of the news items being sent from the mainland and relative to the European situation. Especially are they skeptical of the truth of the report of heavy German losses in the North Sea, their doubt in this instance being borne out by the speech of Winston Churchill, Lord of the Admiralty, before the House of Commons today, in which he denies any naval battles or losses except those "officially" announced.

The reason assigned by the Germans for the "coloring" of press despatches is that Great Britain controls all cable communications between the United States and Europe; the direct lines to Germany having been severed near the Azores by British vessels.

Considerable wonderment is expressed by Germans who are in close touch with conditions in the Old World over the fact that no wireless news is being sent out from Germany by wireless from the giant wireless tower and masts at Naunburg. This tower is but slightly shorter than the famous Eiffel tower of Paris and in trial work has forwarded messages to German South Africa and to the central section of the United States.

It is contended that this apparatus must be out of commission at the present time otherwise, it is asserted, more detailed news of internal action along the frontiers of Germany, France and Russia would be forthcoming.

Plain English or French Only Tongues For Foreign Messages

The following orders have been issued to all offices of the Federal Telegraph Company and the Commercial Pacific Cable Co: The prohibition of code language in European messages is now extended to code addresses.

Under current regulations all messages must be fully addressed, must be signed with full name of sender, and must be written throughout in plain English or French language. This applies equally to transatlantic wireless messages and to messages for points in the West Indies beyond Cuba. It does not apply to Central or South America except British Guiana. All messages are accepted at sender's risk, and if destined beyond London or Liverpool are subject to indefinite delay.

FEDERAL TELEGRAPH COMPANY. Strict censorship is in force to and from all the following countries. Messages must be in plain English or plain French, sender's signature must be signalled, addresses must be written in full, including street and number, no code addresses permitted as either address or signature.

Great Britain and Ireland and all traffic in transit; all countries in continental Europe; all West India Islands except Cuba; British Guiana; Hongkong and all traffic in transit; Newfoundland, Australia, New Zealand, Dutch East Indies.

There is no communication with Germany or Austria. Switzerland will accept plain French only.

The only parts of the world with which communication is unrestricted are the United States and its insular possessions, Canada, Cuba, Japan and North China.

All traffic at sender's risk only. Heavy and increasing delay to all points except United States and Canada. THE COM. PAC. CABLE CO.

CHRIS EVANS IS NOW AN AUTHOR

[By Latest Mail] SAN FRANCISCO, Cal. — Chris Evans, the bandit, who was pardoned three years ago after serving 17 years in Folsom prison, has turned author and booster for Theodore Roosevelt for President.

In a volume that he calls "Eurasia" the former stage coach robber and companion of Ed Morrell and George and John Sontag, sketches the foundation of an ideal form of government. In some respects the book is suggestive of Edward Bellamy's "Looking Backward," as the mythical republic described by Evans is supposed to have been reached by him after he had drifted out to sea in an open boat while he was asleep.

Everyone was attentive to the visitor from the United States after he arrived in the new country, the story goes, and he met all the people of note from the President down.

Campaigns for Roosevelt. Toward the close of the book Evans turns campaigner for Roosevelt. He is supposed to be having a parting conversation with the President of "Eurasia," who says to him: "Your people had a President who gained world-wide fame not only by the vigorous way that he wielded the big stick, but also through his undaunted courage and inflexible honesty. Place him again in the presidential chair and he will open the way for a government of the people, for the people and by the people."

Evans describes in the volume what he thinks would be an ideal way of managing prisons and other institutions of the State. The prisoners in "Eurasia," he tells his readers, were garrisoned in company quarters and were supervised by non-commissioned army officers.

Convicts Divided into Grades. "The prisoners were classified in twelve companies," Evans writes. "Four companies formed the first grade, consisting of Companies A, B, C and D; four companies formed the second grade, consisting of Companies E, F, G and H, and four companies formed the third grade, consisting of Companies I, K, L and M. The first grade received 15 cents per day and the third grade 5 cents per day, and no pay was forfeited for violation of prison rules and regulations; but prisoners received 50 per cent more pay than privates and sergeants and company clerks 100 per cent more. Prisoners were required to work eight hours each day, Sundays excepted, commencing at 8 a. m., with an hour for dinner, and ending at 5 p. m., and to attend night school from 6 p. m. until 8 p. m. five nights a week.

A portrait of Evans adorns the frontispiece of the volume, which is published by the James H. Barry Company of San Francisco.

AIMS OF GIRLS WHO ARE SOON TO ENTER BUSINESS WORLD

After having their diplomas from grammar school, high school or college carefully framed and hung upon the wall, thousands of girls all over the country are thinking and planning about making their bow to the great business world which seems to be holding out a beckoning hand to them. In a way this other world about which they have heard so much but really know so little is a land of mystery around which they have woven a glamour of roseate hue, and from which they hope to gather in abundance the shining coins that seem so desirable. But the girl who enters the arena knowing that there is no royal road to success and that she must give full value for every dollar received is liable to gain the greatest victory.

Influence may secure a position, but hard work is what holds it, for in this age of competition it is a "survival of the fittest," and every one must stand on his own feet. In the drawing room one may expect favors, because one is a woman; but in business it is strictly ability which counts, as a woman is competing with a man, and it is the one who does the work best that advances. There is no depending on others to help one over the rough places, for it is the worker herself who can smooth them out, and, if this seems a bit harsh at times, after one has reached another sailing there is a satisfaction that it has been accomplished through one's own effort and because the work was done right.

When the young girl enters this new world in the fall she will find it crowded; there may be scarcely elbow room where she is located, and it will rest with her to gain more space, for the higher she climbs the more room she will have. It is just doing her work, however monotonous and humdrum it may seem, in the best way possible and in a little different way from what it has ever been done before, making it stand out separate from the others, that will attract the attention of those higher up and lead to advancement. To devise a new way, a shorter, quicker or better method for doing the simplest work may seem to the newcomer impossible, but there is little work which is so perfect that it cannot be improved upon, and the one who can succeed in finding a better way will discover that there is a distinction about her work that has

NEW CARRIERS FOR HONOLULU POSTAL SERVICE

A communication from the city delivery division of the postoffice department at Washington, D. C., has been received by Postmaster Young, authorizing him to appoint two additional mail carriers, each to be equipped with horse and wagon, for the Honolulu postal service.

This authorization closes the second chapter of Postmaster Young's plans to increase the efficiency of the local service, which plans were announced shortly after his arrival here and following an investigation of Honolulu's postal conditions. At that time he stated that he would recommend the appointment of two extra clerks and two additional carriers. The clerks already have been appointed.

The letter of authorization regarding the additional carriers follows: "In view of statements contained in your letter of the 30th ult., you are authorized to appoint two additional carriers, effective August 17, 1914. These carriers should be used to relieve congestion, as outlined in your letter."

In another communication, your allowance for horse hire will be increased in order to permit each of the additional men to furnish a horse and wagon, which should conform to the regu-

NOMINATION OF ASHFORD UNDER SENATE FIGHT

Bench Vacancies Will Not Be Filled Until New Opposition Is Cleared Away

A fight made in the senate against the confirmation of C. W. Ashford as first judge of the first circuit court is also holding up the confirmation of W. S. Edging, named to the Maul bench vacancy, according to news from Washington.

The man or men behind the fight and the details of opposition are unknown. One conjecture made this morning was that former Governor Frear may have entered some objection to the bench. It is said that Mr. Frear has never agreed with the proposal that Ashford be made a judge.

The news of the opposition to Ashford came in a letter to an unnamed local man. The man is a friend of Palmer P. Woods, but Mr. Woods is not at liberty to divulge his name. The fight against Ashford was not thought to be a very serious one, but it appears to have been involved in some patronage-trading in the Senate and finally has turned out forcible enough to hold up Senate action on President Wilson's appointee. There is said to be no opposition to the appointment of Judge Edging, but pending the settlement of the Ashford appointment, the Maul position will not be settled.

It was predicted this morning that Ashford will be confirmed as soon as the Senate can get down to business in the next few days.

The letter states that the appointments should take effect August 17, 1914. Mr. Young said this morning that it would probably take a little more time than first expected to make the necessary arrangements for the additional carriers, and that the additional service will become effective not later than September 1.

On the other hand, the way of the transgressor frequently seems to be pretty smooth.

It probably never occurs to an 18 year old boy that he'll be a man some day and know as little as his dad.

PROF. W. R. CASTLE, JR., TO ADDRESS MEMBERS OF UNIVERSITY CLUB

The University Club has arranged with Prof. W. R. Castle, Jr., of Harvard University, who now is visiting in this city, to give an informal talk during the luncheon hour at the club Friday noon, August 14, upon the subject "Some Tendencies in Eastern College Life."

Professor Castle has had a great deal to do with forming policies relating to the advising and handling of freshmen at Harvard. His experience along this line, as well as his general knowledge of eastern college conditions, will make this luncheon talk unusually interesting. Cards notifying the members of the club have not as yet been sent out, but the Serious Tropic committee has completed its arrangements with Professor Castle.

John D. Beardall, of Brooklyn, N. Y., aged 82, claims to be descendant of Robin Hood of Sherwood forest fame.
