AD CLUB FIRES OPENING RECORD ACCOUNTING SYSTEM "DOLLAR GIRL"

Even politicians left their campaign labors last evening to join with other business and professional men in attending the special Ad club dinner in the dining room on the sixth floor of the Young hotel building, which was followed by a public discussion regarding the need in Honolulu and the territory of public accounting in conformity with the system of accounting advocated by the United States bureau of census. The meeting was presided over by President W. R. Farrington, the feature of the meeting being an address by H. Gooding Field, late auditor of the Hawaii county investigation committee, on the subject, "Uniform Accounting, Auditing and Reorganizing in Our Public Offices." The adoption of a resolution and the naming of a committee to carry it out were the results of the gathering. The resolution calls for the outlining of a scheme for the unification of the accounting systems of the different counties of the territory and the committee which will work with the governor and the secretary of the territory in outlining a plan of action is composed of J. Morton Riggs, H. Gooding Field, John Gullid, John Emminger and John T. Warren. The resolution adopted reads: "Whereas, this club, having, unanimously resolved that changes be made, without delay, in our present public accounting methods, to conform with the uniform classification of public accounts advocated by the United States bureau of census, together with an independent supervision over the same; and "Whereas, all the political parties in the territory have adopted planks along similar progressive lines; be it "Resolved, in order to facilitate the installation of such a financial system in our territorial and county offices, that a committee of representatives of this club, be authorized to call on the governor and offer the assistance of the club in making an examination of the bookkeeping methods of territorial offices, to enable the same to be made to conform with the system of public accounting in view. Herewith are presented the following resolutions: "Sausages," "The meeting was a success and the remarks of the speakers were listened to with interest. Besides Mr. Gooding Field, who gave brief talks on the topic for discussion, Mr. Emminger, L. E. Pihl, and Marston also made remarks on the condition of public accounting in Hawaii. WILSON INTERESTED IN WORK OF NEW JAPAN SOCIETY

From Tokio Goes to Washington and Visits the White House [By Latest Mail] WASHINGTON, D. C.—T. H. Kuwahara, director-in-chief of the new Japanese society to interpret for the eastern peoples the civilization of the Orient, particularly Japan, who is showing interest in the organization of the White House today with Secretary Bryan of the State department and had a pleasant chat with President Wilson. After his visit to the White House, Mr. Kuwahara said that the president had expressed himself as greatly interested in the purposes of the new organization, the charter members of which include members of the Japanese nobility and educators, as well as English and American educators residing in Japan. "Mr. Bryan kindly explained to the president," Mr. Kuwahara said, "the purposes of the society which are to bring about permanent world peace through the dissemination among western peoples of knowledge of the peoples of the Orient, particularly Japan. Explained Land Laws. The president was very kind. He took the trouble to explain personally to me the alien land laws of the different states which have been so much under discussion between the people of my country and those of the United States. He asked me to explain the American feeling in Japan, when I returned there, which, of course, I shall do. The majority of us understand that feeling already, but such an explanation personally to a Japanese will be remarked upon in my country, and will bring about a closer understanding. "I told the president that the majority of the people in Japan are fair-minded about the question of the alien land laws in this country, and he said he understood that. I told him that by means of the new society we will try to go away in Japan with the agitation in some quarters here over the alien land laws and that we think the new society can be of great service in this as well as in other respects. "The president indicated the idea of the society and he closed our conversation with a request that I should take to the people of Japan a message from him to the effect that there has always been a kindly feeling in this country toward Japan. He said for me to tell the Japanese people that we, meaning the American people and the administration, will do all in our power to preserve the present friendly feeling, and, if possible, make it more friendly in the future. Mr. Kuwahara is to have a conference this afternoon with Mr. Tamm, secretary to the president, if the latter is in town, to endeavor to arrange that the president will give out for publication a letter Mr. Kuwahara hopes to obtain, embodying an endorsement of the purposes of the society. It is understood today that Mr. Bryan, the Secretary of State is to be asked to become the first vice-president of the new international peace society. Count S. Okuma is the president of the society, which has its headquarters in Tokio, and many former members of Japanese cabinets are on its board of directors and board of advisers. Several prominent Americans now resident in Japan are in the directorate, and Mr. Kuwahara has established a branch office of the organization in Chicago, which is to be headquarters of the organization in the United States. Mr. Kuwahara will return to Chicago in a few days to supervise the beginning of the work of the organization in this country and he will remain in the United States until the late fall or early winter. He intends to return to the city in October and expects to take advantage of at least one, perhaps several, invitations which have been extended to him to lecture here on the purposes of the society. The work of the organization is to be carried on in Europe also. An office is to be established in London and another will be established in Darin, China.

"LID" CLAMPED DOWN TIGHT ON CONEY ISLAND

There was a wall of dismay and sorrow among the thousands who find Coney Island such an alluring place to spend the long hours of the summer evenings when it became known that Mayor Mitchell had decided to make the summer resort even clearer than its own ocean-swept sands. His first move in that direction was to revoke the licenses of the only two all-night licensees in the resort—those of the Villa Penza and the Mardi Gras hotels. No more will the thirsty individual find solace and refreshment in spirituous drinks after 1 o'clock in the morning for Coney will be "dry" after that hour. Revoking the licenses does not prevent the sale of such thirst quenching drinks as buttermilk, grapejuice and other "soft" beverages, but after 1 o'clock that famous "Coney Island collar" will not be seen in the shallow glasses in any places in the resort. Mayor Mitchell took this action after receiving reports from personal representatives who investigated conditions after 1 o'clock and until sunrise. In announcing his decision Mayor Mitchell made the following explanation: "The peculiar conditions which necessitate the all-night licenses in Manhattan and Brooklyn for the benefit of night workers and late travelers do not apply at this pleasure resort. "The police commissioner tells me that this season there have been fewer complaints at Coney Island than in many years and that the reason for this is the non-issuance of all-night licenses. He has conferred with the proprietors of several of the largest restaurants at the island and finds it is practically the unanimous opinion that all-night licenses should not be granted. "One reason is that an undesirable element in the city, turned away from the restaurants and saloons at 1 o'clock, would go to Coney Island to finish the night and disorder would inevitably result."
