

SUGAR SOARS; FAILS TO MAKE A HIGH RECORD

Touches 6.53 Yesterday With War Time Prices of 16.6 as Mark to Shoot For Raw sugar on the Hawaiian basis in New York yesterday reached 6.53c in price. A higher figure may be reported at any time. As it stands, though, it is yet some distance below the record even in comparatively recent years. Hawaii had 8-cent sugar in 1889. That, again, was far below the record of sugar values in the United States, as will be seen by a few figures here presented.

Twenty-cent sugar. What would happen on the stock exchange and in the streets of Honolulu if the price of sugar went to the altitude of American war times? In 1865 the price of refined sugar was 20.1c a pound. The next year it dropped to 16.3c, and with 10.4c and 14.1c respectively the following two years there was a recovery to 15c in 1869. Not until 1877 did the price go below 10c and not until 1892 did it drop below 6c.

However, the price of raw sugar is not had as recorded yesterday, and there is considerable of a portion of this year's Hawaiian crop which will have benefited by the advance of the past two weeks. Questioned this morning about the situation as affecting the Alexander & Baldwin plantations, Joseph P. Cooke, president of that corporation, gave some facts and figures as follows:

A. & B. Sugars. "About one-fifth of our sugars had not reached market on August 1. On that date about 5,000 tons of Punene, 6,000 tons of Maui Agricultural, 7,500 tons of Hawaiian Sugar, 5,350 tons of McBryde, 800 tons of Kahuku, had not reached market. Since then 1,900 tons of Hawaiian Commercial (Punene) and 1,800 tons of Maui Agricultural reached market on the basis of 4.25—that was on Monday last, August 10—and more than 300 tons of Kahuku has been marketed on the basis of 5.22.

Two Fortunate Companies. "Of McBryde there are still 5,350 tons to arrive, representing about one-third of the crop, of which 990 tons are due in San Francisco tomorrow in the Hyades. Hawaiian Sugar has 7,500 tons still to arrive, of which 537 tons are in the Hyades. It will be six or seven weeks before all of McBryde and Hawaiian Sugar crops have reached market. It is fortunate that these two companies had such quantities to ship when prices began rising. On July 31 the price was 3.26c, today it is 6.53c. It looks as if these sugars will get the latter figure or better.

"Up to August 1 most of our sugars cars and hotels throughout the mainland will serve the fruit. And, lastly, large wholesale and retail grocery concerns in every state will make special window displays of the fruit, both fresh and canned.

Here are a few of the projects the Promotion Committee is engineering in order that pineapple day may be properly observed locally:

The grocery stores are going to make special window displays, and make fresh and canned pineapples a sales feature.

Hundreds of postal cards depicting pineapple fields and pineapple recipe books are being sent to all steamers in this port.

Benson, Smith & Co., are being supplied with postal cards and recipe books which will be distributed free by that firm tomorrow.

Reports are being received by the committee from all the steamship lines that Pineapple Day will be observed aboard.

The steamers Mongolia, Niagara, Sonoma and Marama are laying in supplies of pineapple and are planning to treat their guests with different pineapple preparations.

J. J. Richards, chief steward of the S. S. Mongolia, who is visiting this port after an absence of seven years, is a strong booster for Hawaii and consequently for the Hawaiian pineapple. Tomorrow's bill-of-fare on the big liner will be well filled with the pine in all of its various forms. With the hot cakes at breakfast the passengers will be served pineapple juice.

At dinner the pineapple will predominate, while the evening meal will prove a most elaborate exemplification of the art of preparing and cooking pines.

Other transpacific vessels will serve pineapple and it is anticipated that the homes of all residents of Hawaii will have boards well filled with the fruit that is becoming famous as a product of these islands.

The county supervisors yesterday authorized a call for tenders for construction of the following bungalow schools: Moiliili, four buildings; Manoa, two; Kailhi-waena, two; Aiea, three; Waipahu, three; Ewa, three school buildings and one teacher's cottage; Wahiawa, one; Waihiwa, four; Kahuku, two and Kailua, one.

that arrived had only an average of 2.90c, and McBryde's only 3.17c. Restricting Speculation.

"A very good thing is that refiners east and west are restricting sales, thus not allowing speculators to load up at low prices."

CLOSE FRIEND OF MRS. WILSON SEES HONOLULU

Georgia Editor Says She Gave Her Strength Freely to White House Visitors

"Mrs. Wilson gave of herself and her strength so freely that thousands of visitors at the White House saw that she sacrificed her health," says J. Linday Johnson, editor of the Daily Tribune-Herald of Rome, Georgia, the old home of the wife of the president and the spot where she was buried three days ago.

Mr. Johnson, who is one of the best-known newspaper men in his section of the South and prominent as an educator as well as in politics, is a passenger on the transport Logan. He is going out to the Philippines as director of the census for the islands, and is accompanied by his daughter. Both are delighted with their brief stay in Hawaii.

Mr. Johnson, who is a trustee of the University of Georgia, was much interested in investigating experimental agriculture in Hawaii, visiting the local stations. He also inspected sugar growing conditions casually. He will write a series of articles to his paper, which has a wide circulation in Georgia, and said this morning that he expected to say some pleasant things about Honolulu.

A personal friend of both Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Mr. Johnson was deeply shocked to hear of Mrs. Wilson's death. He is a staunch Democrat, but he is not in favor of removing all of the tariff from sugar.

"I am not a protective tariff man but I believe in tariff for revenue and think some tariff should be retained on sugar," he said.

THOMAS IS REAL HONEYMOON SHIP ON THIS VOYAGE

The transport Thomas, which sails for the Philippines at 5 o'clock this afternoon, is a honeymoon ship this trip, there being several bridal couples aboard.

The newest newlyweds on the troopship were married under most romantic circumstances on the even of the departure from San Francisco.

The San Francisco Chronicle has the following to say of the affair:

Bright lights in an uptown cafe and a merry dinner in honor of the recent marriage of a classmate and chum for years proved too much last night for Horace W. Pillsbury, ensign in the United States navy and son of Rosecrans W. Pillsbury, foremost Republican of New Hampshire and present candidate for governor of that state. Almost as the clock struck the midnight hour, he succumbed to the charms of Miss Harriet Prewett, his vis-a-vis, and after an impassioned pleading in which he was joined by his friends, he succeeded in persuading her to become his bride.

Telephone wires were kept hot for a time and finally the services of Deputy County Clerk Milton Davis were secured and the necessary marriage license issued. Then came a search for a justice of the peace which ended in finding Judge Bernard J. Flood at his residence, 333 Sanchez street, who obligingly agreed to perform the ceremony.

Was Awaiting Transport.

Ensign Pillsbury is on his way to the Asiatic station and has been stopping in this city for the past three weeks awaiting the departure of the transport Thomas. Shortly prior to his arrival here his friend and classmate, Ensign Neil Henry Gelsenhoff, who had been stationed on the training ship St. Louis at Yerba Buena Island, started his brother officers by his sudden marriage to Miss Thomas Ray Kemp, a moving picture star, and it was the celebration of this marriage prior to the departure of the bride and groom for the Philippines which was responsible for Pillsbury's matrimonial venture.

Sisikoff, a Russian, is an inmate of the Queen's hospital today as the result of a quarrel which he had last night with a fellow-countryman named Biguloff. According to a statement the former gave the police, the two had some words at a tenement house at Camp Two, at the conclusion of which Biguloff pushed Sisikoff off the veranda, three stories above the ground. Sisikoff suffered cut about the head and internal injuries and was conveyed to the hospital. Biguloff is in jail charged with assault and battery.

Charged with having been drunk and otherwise disorderly, John Lingman and George Kahikina both were fined $3 in the police court this morning. Kahikina said that relatives had given him the liquor which he consumed and that he didn't have the heart to refuse it. Lingman's plea was that he hadn't been in police court since last May.

When Otumi, a Japanese woman residing in Iwilei, got angry with her servant this morning and commenced chasing him around the premises, brandishing a broken hatchet and a hair brush, the latter sent in a hurry up call for the police. The woman was arrested on a charge of assault and battery, preferred by the servant, and later released on her own recognizance. The case will be heard in district court tomorrow morning.

FRENCH, GERMAN AND AUSTRIAN OFFICERS HERE

French, German and Austrian officers returning to take up arms in defense of their respective countries, are passengers on the Korea, the Pacific Mail liner which arrived this morning from the Orient.

They plan to go direct from San Francisco to New York and from there to Europe as best they can. Among the officers returning are: Captain Paul Allehrli, French; Ulrich Govers, German; Hans Kubne, German; Captain Raymond Martinie, French; Dr. Ernest Ohse, German; Konrad Winternitz, Austrian; Georges Bonnard, French; Lieut. Paul L. Gumbis, German; Baron Eugene Haunscheidt, German; Lieut. Alois Kremser, Austrian; 'Apteln Gaston Mantras, French; W. Neumeister, German; Maurice Bloch, French; Max de Bellecour, French; Chas. Dufour, French; Richard J. Herzog, Austrian; Col. Henry Le Rond, French; Wilhelm Solger, German; Oscar Steiner, German; Robert Sellier, French; Captain Rascul Voruz.

POLICE SIFTINGS

A haul of crapshooters, comprising eight Hawaiians, Chinese and Filipinos, were rounded up in the police dragnet at Iwilei yesterday afternoon and this morning were baled before District Magistrate Monsarrat. Sam Kealoha, who does a little sleuth work for the detective department now and then, was called on the witness stand to testify regarding the personnel of the haul. Three of those present pleaded guilty. However, Judge Monsarrat assessed fines of $5 each.

On the blotter at the police court this morning appeared the name of E. W. Webber, said to be a marine of the U. S. A. T. Thomas, who was arrested shortly after 8 o'clock last night, charged with having stolen an automobile. G. Schaefer who, while visiting the national guard armory last night, left the automobile on Miller street. Marine and machine were found later on Bishop street, the former being taken to the police station and the latter restored to its owner. The case was dropped in the district court this morning with the understanding that Webber leave the islands on the Thomas.

SHERIFF LOSES FIRST FIGHT ON POLICE BOARD

Supreme Court Holds Appointment of Jack S. Kalakiela to Be Without Authority

County Sheriff Charles H. Rose has lost a decisive battle in his war with the civil service commission and his trusted lieutenant, Jack S. Kalakiela, has sustained a loss of salary, perquisites and all other emoluments accruing to the office of deputy. The supreme court today handed down its decision in the suit brought by Kalakiela against County Auditor James Bicknell, and says: "Under section 2 of Act 51 of the laws of 1913, the appointment of a clerk to the deputy sheriff by the sheriff of the city and county of Honolulu without the approval of the civil service commission is void and a person so appointed to be appointed is not entitled to the salary of the office though he has performed the duties thereof."

The decision, written by Chief Justice A. G. M. Robertson and concurred in by Associate Justice Quarles and Acting Associate Justice Whitney, the latter sitting in place of Justice Watson, continues in its syllabus: "It is the duty of the civil service commission, under said Act, to classify the positions in the departments to which its functions relate and to adapt the examinations to which applicants are subjected to suit the different classes of positions to which appointments are sought. The appointing officer is not required to make an appointment from the list of eligibles furnished by the commission where it does not appear that such eligibles were examined with reference to their qualifications for the position sought to be filled."

As in the recent case of Kamahu, whom Sheriff Rose elevated without the civil service commission's approval, the supreme court holds that the sheriff "was justified" in refusing to select for the vacancy a person from the list of eligibles submitted by the commission for the reason that the positions had not been classified and it did not appear that any of those whose names were on the commission's eligible list were applicants for the job or had been examined with reference to their competency for such position.

It says, however, that the appointment of Kalakiela having been made without the approval of the commission, was in contravention of section 2 of the statute, and void. "It was the duty of the sheriff to notify the commission," says the decision, "that the vacancy existed, and request that an examination for applicants for the position be held. The sheriff was without authority to make the appointment subject to the subsequent passing by the appointee of such examination as he would be required to take. Presumably the commission could be compelled, in a proper proceeding for that purpose, to hold an examination for applicants for the vacant clerkship, but the attempted appointment of the plaintiff being void he is not entitled to receive compensation as here claimed. Judgment may be entered for the defendant."

WANTING TO YOUR DREAMS—MAKE THEM REALITY

ASPIRATIONS make the world go round. Of that we all feel sure, and no one ought to criticize a kind of dreamer. It is a good thing, or women to look forward to the day when their position will be in every way better than it is today. It is a good thing for them to plan in their minds the part they will take in the great social movement that is going forward now.

But while the young housewife sits in the living room dreaming of the coming age when housework will be free from drudgery, when a woman can be a perfect wife, mother, housekeeper and still have time and energy left so that she can be president or queen, congresswoman or financier, perhaps her potatoes are burning or the baby's crying itself into a state of nervous unhappiness or the weekly mending is being unattended to.

Let modern woman dream on. Of dreams realities are made. But while the dreams let her do the work of the present. Perhaps an age of drudgery-less work is coming, but it is still far away. Every one respects the woman who puts her shoulder to the wheel after making it as smooth and well oiled a wheel, of course, as she can, and pushes ahead in the work of the world.

EXIT THE SUIT.

THE strongest suit season in years has drawn to a triumphant close, or, while cloth costumes and suits are necessary adjuncts to the wardrobe for all seasons, the summer months demand admittance to the fashion world for frocks made of delicate and lightweight materials.

Dance frock styles are responsible for the introduction of frivolous and luffy effects in other departments and have cast the spell of their influence over the designs which govern the modes for summer costumes. Consequently we are being shown frocks made of mulla, tulle, net, organdy—a newcomer among materials—and lace and other graceful and delicately woven fabrics.

MANY SORTS OF SANDALS

POSSIBLY as summer advances the more daring of women will adopt the Cleopatra sandals for the street—so many, however, though they might be adopted for the house. Consider a loose flowing white Grecian gown on a hot day and bare feet, save for the sandals which protect milady's tender soles. Well, that sort of costume might be revolutionary, but it would without doubt be comfortable and becoming. The sandals illustrated beside the Cleopatra is suitable for the tango or the maxixe, while the two above of white buckskin with trimmings of patent leather would be just the thing to complete dainty summer gowns.

COLUMBIAN'S CARGO UP $210,000 BETWEEN HAWAII AND N. Y. MARKET

War's effect on sugar increased the value of the cargo of the American-Hawaiian freighter Columbia by more than $210,000 from the time the steamer left Hawaii until the cargo got to New York. The Columbian cargo, 10,800 tons, got to New York Monday, the price being 4.35c. When the cargo left Hawaii sugar was standing at 3.25c. If the cargo had reached New York today many more thousand dollars would be in the pockets of the sugar men.

The next big cargo due at market on the Atlantic is that of the steamer Georgian, which should arrive about August 22 or 23, according to estimates today by Manager A. M. Nowell of the Sugar Factors' Company.

The Georgian has 7500 tons, and when last reported in Magellan straits, was making about the same time as the Columbian did.

Sugar is now arriving on the Pacific coast under the increased prices. The Lurline arrived on August 12 with about 2500 tons at 5.22. The Matsonia reached the coast on August 24 when sugar was still at the low price of 3.20.

The bark R. P. Rihet, making an unusually long voyage—34 days—reaped a fortune for sugar men by her slowness in getting to market. When she left sugar was at 3.29; when she arrived the price had jumped to 4.97. She carried about 650 tons, an increase from about $44,000 to $65,000.
