TOKIO, Japan, Oct. 19.—The Japanese cruiser Takachiho was sunk last Saturday by a mine. Twenty-eight officers, 54 non-commissioned officers and 189 members of the crew were lost.

The Takachiho was evidently sunk in the vicinity of the port of Tsingtau, Kiaochow, though the announcement from Tokio, probably censored, gives no particulars. The Takachiho was a comparatively small cruiser, of 3700 tons, 300 feet long and with a complement of 357 men. She was built in 1885.

TURKEY SHOWS SIGNS OF WAR ACTIVITY; IS DEFIANT

[Associated Press Service by Federal Wireless.]
CONSTANTINOPLE, Turkey, Oct. 19.—Breaking its repeated promises, the Turkish government has declined to repatriate the crews of the German cruisers Goeben and Breslau, which interned here. It has informed the Allies that the question of their status is one for Turkey alone to settle, of purely domestic concern.

BOME, Italy, Oct. 19.—A despatch to this city from Bucharest says that Roumania has seized 150 German trucks laden with ammunition and consigned to Turkey.

HEAVY RUSSIAN LOSS IS CLAIMED BY AUSTRIANS

VIENNA, via Amsterdam and London, Oct. 19.—The Austrian general staff estimates that the Russians lost 40,000 men in their attack on Przemyel.

Allies Advance in Face of Hot And Stubborn Fight, Says Paris

PARIS, France, Oct. 19.—Official announcement today says: "The enemy's heavy artillery has bombarded the Belgian forts but its efforts were fruitless. "The Allies, repulsing the attacking German forces, have now advanced to Roulose. Also between the River Lys and the canal of La Bassée we have advanced toward Lille. "From La Bassée to Ablain and Saint Lazare we have advanced from house to house against a stubborn opposition."

Berlin Says Enemy's Attacks in Neighborhood of Lille Repulsed

BERLIN, Germany, Oct. 19.—Army headquarters says that the enemy's attacks west and northwest of Lille have been repulsed by the Germans with severe losses. The eastern arena, says headquarters, shows no change in the general situation.

Government Can't Confirm Story German Mine Planter Disguised

LONDON, England, Oct. 19.—The Central News Agency today says that the British cruiser Undaunted and two torpedo boat destroyers captured a German mine-planter in the North Sea disguised as a hospital ship. The government cannot confirm the report.

MILL ENGINEERS OPEN 2D ANNUAL MEETING TODAY

Questions of Vital Importance to Industry Now Discussed By Many Experts

R. Renton Hind, chairman Hawaiian Engineering Association now in its second annual convention in this city.

There was an attendance of about 70 sugar mill engineers at the opening of their second annual convention, which took place at the Library of Hawaii at 8:30 this morning. R. Renton Hind, chairman of the Hawaiian Engineering Association, called the convention to order and delivered the following opening address: Address to Visiting Engineers. "At our last convention the chairman, Mr. J. E. Sheedy, welcomed you as guests of this association. It affords me great pleasure to know that today nearly every mill engineer and his assistant in the territory is a member of this organization, and I welcome you, not only as mill engineers, but as fellow members. "The first convention certainly was not without its good results, and I am sure that this second one will surpass that of last year. Undoubtedly you have all had a share in the benefits which resulted from the interchange of ideas of our meeting a year ago. The memory of it has certainly

SPECIAL PANEL NECESSARY FOR MCCARN TRIAL

Five Jurymen, Challenged for Cause, are Dismissed by Judge W. L. Whitney

FORMED OPINIONS AFTER READING THE NEWSPAPERS

Eleven Veniremen Passed for Cause—Case Continued Until Tomorrow

The dismissal of five jurymen by the court, following their challenge for cause by counsel for the defense, principally because they stated they had formed opinions regarding the guilt or innocence of the defendant from reading newspaper accounts of the initial trial, necessitated the calling of a special panel of 15 names from which the jury for the re-trial of United States District Attorney Jeff McCarn, which commenced this morning in Judge William L. Whitney's court, will be completed.

The jury, now stands composed of 11 persons who have been passed for cause; namely, Sidney T. Carr, Adolph F. Gertz, Edward B. Friel, John A. Borfield, Robert M. Corbaley, C. W. Macfarlane, James Guild, James G. Kelley, Edmund Swan, George F. Campbell and A. E. Gear. These persons were drawn out of the special panel by George H. Cowan, S. S. Steinhauser, St. C. Sayres, Ben T. Lee, George E. Schrader, Robert M. Clarke, Frank Godfrey, Archibald McPhail, Charles F. Loomis, Henry K. De Fries, Claude E. Kellogg, Ralph B. Irwin, F. T. Cleghorn, Henry C. Vida and David A. Nelson. The panel is returnable at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, at which time the re-trial of the district attorney will be continued. Those jurors who were excused upon being challenged for cause are Benjamin K. Asam, W. H. Stuart, W. W. Chamberlain, Ernest E. Lyman, and F. K. Archer.

Veniremen Closely Questioned. Political affiliations, religion, acquaintance with counsel and the prosecuting witness and the newspaper accounts of the first trial were the subjects upon which both the defense and prosecution touched upon this morning in the examination of the jurymen for cause. Sidney T. Carr said that he had read the newspaper accounts of the first trial, but had formed no fixed opinion regarding the guilt or innocence of Mr. McCarn. He said, when question-

DETAILS OF BOMBARDMENT AT PAPEETE BROUGHT ON SIERRA

Further details of the bombardment of Papeete by the German cruisers were brought to Honolulu today from San Francisco, the steamer Moana, having reached the coast by way of the French port carrying much news of the bombardment. The Chronicle of October 8 says: "Shattering the tranquil quiet of the tropic South seas, the German cruisers Scharnhorst and Gneisenau bombarded the French port of Papeete on September 26th, killing two persons, sinking the French gunboat Zelle and the German tramp Walkure, and devastating a good portion of the little island town. News of the German raid was brought by the British liner Moana, arriving here yesterday from Australia. The Moana had a narrow escape from falling into the hands of the Kaiser's sea warriors. "Details of the bombardment of Papeete, the port of the French island possession of Tahiti in the South seas, on September 26th by the German cruisers Scharnhorst and Gneisenau were related yesterday by travelers from the antipodes on the royal mail liner Moana. "The little French and native Kanaka settlement, with its warehouses and buildings and humble thatched homes, of this fair isle of the South Pacific, which has often figured in fiction, was laid waste by the guns of the German warships. Two persons were killed, a Japanese chauffeur and a native boy; the antiquated French gunboat Zelle was sunk, and the German tramp freighter Walkure, by a strange freak of fate, suffered the same doom, and hundreds of the inhabitants were made homeless as a result of the raid of the two powerful Germans. "It was upon a scene of devastation and ruin and upon a simple people, terror stricken, that the officers and passengers of the Moana gazed as the British liner steamed into the usually peaceful little port not long after the German shells had exacted their tribute. The corrugated warehouse on the lone wharf was a mass of ruins and back of the line of palm trees which waved upon the surf-lashed beach, the huts of the native inhab-

ANTICIPATES HIS MAIDEN SPEECH BEFORE PUBLIC

Foolish Questions Greet Visitor to Big City—Geography of Pacific Incomplete

The European war and the war alone, with its resultant demoralization of the eastern financial markets, is responsible for Hawaii's failure to sell the latest territorial bond issue in New York. This is the report brought back by Territorial Treasurer David Lloyd Conkling, who returned home on the steamer Sierra this morning. "Hawaii is not the only commonwealth to suffer that at the hands of the European cataclysm. Conkling says that the state of Tennessee and the city of New York have been forced to pay a price for loans along the great war program and other bond issues are showing a similar fate. Had the territorial issue been ready for flotation at the time the war broke out, or just a few days prior to August 1, the entire issue would have been taken; as a matter of fact, the treasurer says, he had buyers who wanted not only the entire $700,000, but were urging that they be given the whole amount authorized, $1,400,000, and were ready to pay a highly acceptable price for them. "But the war altered all that. "To show what I had to contend with in the latter part of my stay in New York," said Conkling, "I was kept constantly busy allaying wild war rumors affecting Hawaii. Came the report that the Japanese had taken the island of Yap. 'What part of Hawaii is that?' they asked me. Came another report that the Japanese had taken a German possession in the Carolines, and still another that they had taken the Marshall Islands. 'What part of Hawaii are these places?' investors asked me. 'Then came that interview in a Seattle newspaper with the returning German ambassador from Japan, wherein he said the 'Mildred's people' were prepared to strike at the United States at any moment. That story was picked up and published throughout the country. Of course the German ambassador denied its authenticity when he reached Washington, but the effect on the public was retained. These features, brought to the notice of men who were being asked by us to place three-quarters of a million dollars in the islands, caused them to look askance at the money-lending proposition so far as Hawaii was concerned. "Conditions bad on mainland. The treasurer did not bring any of the bonds home with him, consequently the $60,000 worth which were bid for by local investors at an acceptable figure must be sent for. It is likely that an additional lot will be ordered sent with them, and that the additional bonds will be placed on the home market. "I guess Hawaii is one of the best-fixed communities financially in the

BRAVES' GREAT 12-INNING WIN WAS DECISIVE

Broke Hearts of Athletics When Boston Pulled Third Game Out of the Fire

Following is an account of the great 12-inning game of the world's series played October 12. This game made the series three straight for Boston, and broke the heart of the Athletics defense.

(By I. E. SANBORN.)
BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 12.—Absolutely refusing to be licked even after being apparently hopelessly beaten, Boston's Braves fought Philadelphia's Athletics to a standstill for 11 innings today then in the twelfth won their third straight victory in the world's series of 1914.

Three different times Stallings' men came from behind and tied Mack's veterans, who were making the most desperate battle of their lives to avert the most disgraceful defeat a team ever suffered in the big event. Twice the Braves overcame a one-run lead, established by their rivals in the earlier rounds. Then with the score tied at 2 all they went into extra innings without a break.

Philadelphia scored two runs in the tenth and seemingly had the victory safely in their pockets, but back the Braves came with unbeatable determination and evened up the score in their half of the tenth. It looked then as if darkness would terminate matters in a draw but the Braves pressed so hard in the last half of the twelfth that they ran the fading world's champions off their feet and under the shadow of gathering twilight scored the run which put them within one game of the big prize.

Hank Gowdy, the unknown, was the hero of this game, as he was of the first. The big catcher whaled out three hits, and each of them cleaved a warrior somewhere. Two of them went into the temporary stand in short left field, where ground rules entitled him to only two bases. The other was a home run into the center field bleachers. Gowdy's first whiff, fielded the score in the second inning. His second led the magnificent rally which averted defeat in the tenth inning, and his third awed paved the way to victory in the twelfth.

More than 35,000 rosters went bug-house over the rapidly changing fortunes of war. Even the case-hardened

TRAVELING ALL-CHINESE BALL PLAYERS BACK

May Play Games Here if the Fans Are Not Tired of Baseball

Twelve Chinese baseball players returned on the Sierra this morning after seven and a half months of barnstorming on the mainland. The men were mighty glad to see Hawaii again, for, although receiving the best of treatment and having a good time, it has been a hard schedule, and as most of the players have been over twice before, the novelty has worn off. The team left here March 3 under the management of Sam Hop. The 1914 record is 96 games won, 61 lost and 4 tied. This is not as high a percentage as last year, but the team has met with more hard luck and also had stronger aggregations to face.

"If Foster Robinson had been right we would have brought back 115 winning games," said Sam Hop this morning. Foster hurt his pitching arm in May and hasn't been able to work since. Apau and Kekoa pitched fine ball, but they couldn't do all the work. Apau pitched swell ball all the time, and has a great strikeout record. Kekoa went better all the time and has a no-hit game on his record. This was against Camden City, in Philadelphia. Apau had shut the team out 1 to 0 in 12 innings one week, and on the following Saturday we sent Kekoa at them and he shut them out 6 to 0, without a hit.

"We saw a lot of big league ball, and all of us liked the Braves to win. They have more pep than any other team. Our team drew best in Philadelphia. We got a lot of publicity, and some games we outdrew the Athletics."

Asked whether the traveling All-Chinese would stick together and try for games here, Sam Hop was non-committal. "That's up to the players," he said. "I think there has been too much baseball in Honolulu, but if there's a chance to pick up some money, I think the team will play." The men who returned today were Sam Hop, D. Markham, W. Apau, Apau Kau, C. Moriama, Kan Yin, En Sue Pung, Ping Keng Pung, Kekoa, Foster Robinson, Alvin Robinson and Vernon Apau. Albert Akana, captain of the team, and Tan Lo returned a couple of weeks ago.

LEADERS OF GANGS MAKING WAR ON SOLDIERS BELIEVED UNDER ARREST

With the arrest of Elia Lono and G. P. Victor last evening, in conjunction with the careful watch kept by a greatly enlarged provost guard, under command of commissioned officers from Fort Shafter, the police believe they have struck at the cause of friction between the enlisted men on Oahu and certain gangs of hoodlums in the city.

The two men, placed under arrest by Captain of Detectives McDuffie, are alleged to be the ringleaders of the Dowsett Lane and Palama gangs that have carried on an intermittent warfare with the soldiers visiting that section of the city for some time past and whose activities are said to have reached pedestrians in and residents of that section not connected with the military.

It is the belief of Captain McDuffie that the entire membership of the gangs will shortly be under arrest following information secured from Lono and Victor. What threatened to become a general free-for-all fight, closely border-
