HOW A FARMER BOY MADE A FORTUNE AND A NAME

R. H. INGERSOLL, Inventor of the 'Dollar Watch.'

Born on a Michigan farm just as the Civil War broke out, R. H. Ingersoll managed to save up $25. With this carefully concealed he boarded a cattle train and dropped off in New England. It wasn't long until he was in the rubber stamp business, selling stamps and novelties, mostly by mail. A common alarm clock gave Ingersoll the idea for the Dollar watch—the first one being huge affairs. Gradually the watches were made smaller and finer. And as the watches were made better the advertising was increased, until last year over 3,000,000 watches were sold! Wherever you go you find the Ingersoll watch made by the man who, as a boy, saved $25 and then went to work to make it earn money. That is your ambition? The way to realize it is to start a savings account here.

LIVE PIG IS STOLEN; JIE FERN PLEASE NOTE

"Lost from wagon, one live gray pig."
 That's the way it reads in the advertisement that appears elsewhere in this issue and the loser is willing to take a "luau" back provided it can be located—whether it is desired dead or alive is not stated.

Anyway the man who stole this prime feeder the payment of an election bet—his presumed that the pig had been stolen by His Honor for this purpose—had better get busy, feel the pangs of remorse, and send the delicatray morsel back to its home.

There is a special law against stealing of live pig, but the hog who would steal a pig will be made to pay the costs proved he is found out.

XMAS OR BELGIUM

The Christmas Cheer Committee wish to announce that until New Year all contributions to Miss M. Canton, P. O. box 4, treasurer, will go direct to the strapping children of Belgium.

It is hoped that many who would otherwise spend money on needless presents among relatives and friends will remember the children of Belgium, who are in such dire need.

CABLEGRAM AND PETITION URGE 'RETAIN McCARN'

and would regard his removal as a victory for the elements of vice that are fighting him."

A cablegram, signed by W. A. Bowen, Rev. W. D. Westervelt and C. H. Dickey, yesterday afternoon was sent to the attorney-general at Washington, D. C., informing that official that a movement in the form of a petition has been started in Honolulu asking the retention in office of United States District Attorney Jeff McCarn.

The text of the cablegram was not learned this morning. The Star-Bulletin succeeded in securing a copy of the petition, but the names so far signed in most cases are not given out for publication.

The authenticity of the statement in the Star-Bulletin yesterday to the effect that such a petition now is being circulated among the local friends of Mr. McCarn, was confirmed this morning when several businessmen and church workers gave the information that they are back of the movement, and have either signed or will sign the petition.

Sentiment For M. A. Thomas. Meanwhile there is growing a strong sentiment in favor of M. A. Thomas as the successor for the district attorneyship. Mr. Thomas's work here since he was sent from California to take charge of the office while the McCarn trials were on has been such as to win him esteem in the community that is already being frankly expressed.

From many quarters there has come the opinion that Thomas should be appointed district attorney for Hawaii to succeed McCarn.

While it is not likely that the Bar Association will take any formal action as a body, it is believed that many of the members, without reference to political faith, would like to see Mr. Thomas appointed, believing that he is capable and the sort of man to have in the office.

Dr. Wadman Signs Petition. Dr. John W. Wadman, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, is among the signers of the petition. He is not, however, on the petition as an official of the league, he emphasized today, but as an individual.

It was learned this morning that officially the league decided to take no action, but left its members free to act as individuals. This action was taken several days ago, when the league leaders were informed that a petition for the retention of McCarn might be signed in case he were acquitted.

Asked for a statement as to his attitude, Dr. Wadman said: "I look upon this as a great moral issue. If Mr. McCarn leaves the territory, the forces of vice, already having gained some victories, will be encouraged. It is on behalf of a righteous cause that I support Mr. McCarn and when it is an issue between righteousness and vice, I shall line up with righteousness. I am supportive of Mr. McCarn as an individual, not as superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League."

Petition Circulated Immediately After Jury Action. The petition was drawn up several days ago, but was not circulated until yesterday, after the circuit court jury had acquitted the district attorney.

William F. Gaynor of the Hawaiian Trust Company and Jack Milton of the Trent Trust Company each stated today that he is interested in the circulation of the petitions, but each emphasizes, as does Dr. Wadman, that this is a movement purely of individuals, and not of organizations or firms.

The Star-Bulletin asked both if the names of the signers to the petitions could be secured and each stated that perhaps some of the signers might not consent and until their permission was given their names could not be made public.

Among those who are known to be interested in the movement are W. Bowen, Dr. John W. Wadman, C. H. Dickey, Theodore Richards, Rev. W. D. Dickey, George Castle, Rev. D. C. S. William F. Gaynor and Jack Milton.

It was stated this morning that there are no real "fathers" of the movement, as the movement has been spontaneous since its inception. John W. Wadman, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, said that while the Anti-Saloon League has decided not to enter into the movement as an organization, this does mean that the members of the league cannot become signers of the petition. George W. Paty, secretary of the league, informed the Star-Bulletin yesterday that Mr. Wadman was interested in the movement, but did not say that the Anti-Saloon League was an organization, was so interested.

Those who are interested in the movement have stated that there is no organization, nor any individual or

'GIVE THE HOME A CHANCE', ASK ANTI-SALOONISTS

"The average American family spends $91 a year for drink; this food displayed represents what $91 will buy in Honolulu."

This is the text of a sign displayed over a mound of groceries in a show window in the Model block on Fort street, placed there by the Anti-Saloon League as one of the phases of the campaign which now is being conducted locally by that organization, and bearing a striking tale.

The pile of groceries includes everything from flour to jam, even candies and kerosene oil—sufficient food, it would appear, to keep the average family for many weeks. And the entire layout costs just $91, avers Dr. John W. Wadman, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League.

The sign says that the average American family spends $91 each year for drink—meaning intoxicating liquor—and the groceries in the window represents what that money would buy in the way of food.

The message which the display intends to convey is set forth in another sign which says: "Close the saloon and give the home a chance."

Bulletin boards on the street serve to call the attention of the public to the display.

"I bought those groceries myself," said Mr. Wadman this morning, "and if any liquor man says that it is a fake I will sell the groceries to him for $91.00."

organization, back of the movement. It is spontaneous, they aver.

"As far as I know, a cablegram is going forward to Washington announcing the fact that Mr. McCarn has been acquitted," said W. A. Bowen today, "and suggesting that the deferring of any action might be contemplated until the judiciary department has heard further from Honolulu, it being my thought that 'further' from Honolulu might mean a petition. I am responsible for my willingness to have my signature attached to such a cablegram."

In connection with the movement it has been intimated that a plan to interest the women of Honolulu in the signing of the petition has been disposed of by those interested in the matter. "If 50 men sign the petition it represents 50 families," was the statement, "and the fact is being realized that as much time as possible must be saved in completing the petition."

Jeff McCarn said this morning that he has received no direct information regarding the existence of a petition.

"I am in the hands of my friends on that point," he said, "and I will abide by the wishes of my friends."

It is understood that a number of petitions are being circulated and signed and that later those names will be combined into one principal petition.

M. A. THOMAS WILL STAY ON JOB UNTIL ORDERED TO QUIT BY THE CHIEF

M. A. Thomas, special assistant to the attorney-general of the United States, who has been in charge of the local district attorney's office pending the disposition of the case against Jeff McCarn, stated this morning that he will continue with those duties until the receipt of orders from the attorney-general's office.

Mr. Thomas' instructions were to remain in Honolulu "until further orders," he says, adding that he shortly may be in receipt of a communication from the attorney-general's office from the fact that Mr. McCarn yesterday was acquitted of the charge of assault with a deadly weapon against Claudius H. McBride.

It is now generally believed that, in response to a request from the attorney-general, Mr. McCarn has filed his resignation in Washington, although he is non-committal regarding the authenticity of the report that he has resigned. Mr. Thomas is continuing with the work of the district attorney's office.

JAPAN'S POLICY IN SOUTH SEAS TO BE WATCHED

man government offices, and accepted the surrender of the Germans there. This official news was cabled from Yap Island telegraph station.

It is reported that when the Japanese marines landed at Yap the German officials were alarmed and the telegraph operator was ordered to cable the news hastily to Shanghai. As he finished telegraphing the telegraphic station was seized by the Japanese marines.

The Nichi Nichi reports the manner in which the South Sea Islands have been occupied for military purposes by the Japanese fleet, as follows:

After our fleet occupied the Jaluit island, a certain warship has occupied the Saipan (?) island. At the same time, a section of our fleet occupied the other islands. The marines landing have found about 10 German officers in each government building. They all surrendered. So the military defenses have been destroyed, and the war provisions and materials have been confiscated. On one island was found 12,000 marks in German gold.

In another there was a store house covering 100 tubs, in which were stored war materials to fill three-fourths of it. All the crew of one of the surveying ships, numbering 38, raised the white flag, and their surrender was accepted.

Bullion Confiscated.
 A despatch from Saseho to a Japanese paper states that at each of the German government offices in the islands recently taken by the Japanese fleet in the South Pacific, there were over 10 German officials and these officials have all surrendered to the Japanese fleet. All the military equipment at each island has been destroyed, and the gold bullion and some other treasures at these German government offices were confiscated. It is reported that one German surveying boat which sank at Marshall Island can be easily refloated. The despatch adds that in the islands it is easy to get food.

Comment by Yorozu.
 The Yorozu has a short comment on the Japanese military occupation of further German possessions in the South Pacific. The paper says:

"These German islands in both the Caroline and Mariana groups were bought by Germany from Spain in 1899 for 2,400,000 yen. They, like the islands in the Marshall group, all consist of coral reefs. The total population of these islands put together is 55,000 natives and about three hundred white people. The principal products from these islands are cocoputs, sulphates, etc., but the annual value of imports into these islands is 1,400,000 yen and exports from them 4,000,000 yen.

"How long the Japanese fleet will continue occupying these islands, we cannot tell. But it is certain that the Japanese occupation of these islands insures the safety of the South Seas, and even the United States cannot deny it. The only thing to be regretted is that even after the occupation of these islands the whereabouts of the enemy's warships are still unknown. And we hope that the United States will not dare to protect the enemy's warships by breaking her neutrality."

Would Retain Islands.
 The Osaka Mainichi, reviewing the record of the doings of the Japanese navy, in so far as the navy has been acting in the South Seas, says in part:

"The three groups of islands, the Mariana, the Marshall and the Caroline, form a triangle, and inside its north to south line lies the American possession of Guam. The American possession of the Wake (?) island on the northeast of the Marshall group seems to be isolated. The Caroline group and the Bismarck group which the British navy has already occupied, hold a very important relation north to south. If we could hold the Carolines in the future it would not only give us a very profitable base for our South Sea expansion but also greatly help to strengthen the Anglo-Japanese control of the sea in that direction in co-operation with Adstralia. America might object to our permanent occupation of the islands. But when she realizes the propriety of our occupation of the German possessions and also the fact that we are at peace with her and have no wish but to be friendly to her, then she may not stick to her objections. That is where our diplomats should exercise their faculties. Even if there were some Americans who are anti-Japanese in sentiment, yet they may not go to such an extreme of unreasonableness as to try to rob Japan of the result of victory over the Germans."
