TIGERS WILL PLAY PICK OF LOCALS NEXT

All-Oahu Team Is Scheduled to Meet Venice Coast Leaguers on Thanksgiving Day

With Barney Joy in the box, the Oahu League picked team will try conclusions with the Venice Tigers next Thursday afternoon. The local combination is about the strongest that can be brought together, and certainly should give the visitors more of a rub than any one single organization in the league. Joy has been waiting for a long time to get another chance at a big league outfit, and he has been working faithfully to get himself in condition. He has pitched some nice games of late and not only his hurling but also his hitting should help the Picks along. Henshaw of the Puns will likely start the game behind the bat, but there is a chance of Elliott going in to catch Barney, it being figured that his pitching would improve considerably with a more experienced man to hold him.

There will be a big hole in the Tiger outfield from now on, owing to the departure of Charley Reisberg, the speedy left fielder. This morning Reisberg received the bad news of his father's death in San Francisco and he at once made preparation to return to the coast on the Lurline, sailing this afternoon.

Reisberg's absence will necessitate a switch in the team, and probably Fitzgerald will be shifted to left, and either Kennedy, "Toots" Bliss, or one of the pitchers put into right.

Jim Scott is slated to pitch Thursday's game with Jack Bliss at the receiving end. This combination was strong enough to beat the New York Giants in London last year. In the famous 13-inning game played before the king and some thousands of expatriated Americans, Scott and Bliss came as near to the perfect baseball battery as can be imagined, and it is a pleasure just to see them work together.

Henry Chillingworth is captain of the All-Oahu team, and he has been doing some real work with his men, getting them out for regular practice and trying to get them together as a team as well as individuals. The result should be a rattling good game and a big crowd will undoubtedly take advantage of the holiday day to attend.

The probable line-up:
Venice Tigers: Pos. All Oahu
Kennedy ..... Yamashiro
Kane ..... Argabrite
Fitzgerald ..... Lang Akana
Derrick ..... Fernandez
McArdle ..... Sadler
Orr ..... Chillingworth
Rader ..... Lal Tin
Bliss ..... Elliott
Scott ..... Barney Joy

WEAK BACKFIELD LOST GAME FOR CALIFORNIA 15

SAN FRANCISCO.—With five points scored after the pistol had marked the close of the second half, Stanford on November 14 completed a 26-to-8 score over her California rivals at rugby. It was a brilliant ending to a brilliant spectacle, in which the final outcome, for a time in doubt, gradually became as sure as fate.

With the lowering sun a shadow crept across California field from the Stanford bleachers on the west. It was a portentous shadow, and as with the lengthening periods it moved surely on the eastern stands hope died in the hearts of the California host masses there.

For a time California sat in the sun. For the first minutes after the opening pistol crack the game looked far from hopeless to the friends of a team counted beaten before it went on the field. The Stanford backfield could not get into action. The brave California forwards broke through and smothered almost every attempt. The forwards not only blocked off the enemy, but they took up the burden of the backs and took the ball ahead through the Cardinal ranks.

For a time it looked as though California's forward superiority, with its defense that was more than a defense because it was a smashing offense, might be able to hold the Stanford backs, and, favored by the breaks of the game, score themselves.

But the forwards could not play the whole game, though they tried their best. Led by McKim, they broke through the Stanford ranks everywhere and stopped the Stanford forwards before they could start. Led by McKim, they carried the ball many times down to the Stanford goal line. But there they stopped. The California forwards could do everything to pave the way for a try, but the California backs could not score.

The California forwards could smother the Stanford plays nine times out of ten, but on the tenth time, bound to come in the chances of the game, Stanford backs got away and the California backs could not stop them.

That is the story of the game. The California forwards were always brilliant, always doing more than their share in the battle, the California backs never able to put the finishing touches on the splendid work of their front rankers.

As long as the forwards were able to carry the game alone there was always a chance for California. At the end of the first half the score was but 10 to 5 for Stanford, and hope was still strong for California. But with the second half the Stanford backs began to get away more and more frequently. The blue and gold's stout forwards rallied and time and again carried the attack down into Stanford's last defenses, but with one dazzling exception their backs could not get the ball across.

INTERMEDIATES OPEN BOWLING SERIES AT 'Y'

The opening match of the Y. M. C. A. intermediate bowling league gave the P. B. C. I. a victory over the Hawaii club in two out of three games last night. The intermediate club members are practically all new to the bowling game but went at it last night with great enthusiasm.

The first game went to the P. B. C. I., 570 to 534. The Hawaii took the second with a total of 518 to 461. The final game was hard fought throughout but the P. B. C. I. went to the front in the last two frames when Rosa and Rodriguez scored double strikes.

Feix Rodriguez was high man for the evening with an average of 145 and high score of 155. Captain Louis Silva led the Hawaii team with an average of 118 while David Keliipuleole came a close second only one pin behind. Clark Soares took second honors for the P. B. C. I.

Tomorrow evening the Olympics and Washingtons will bowl the second match of the intermediate league. Next Monday the XX club will break into the schedule against the P. B. C. I. Last night's scores:

ANCIENTS HAVE A CHANGE TO LAND IN SECOND PLACE

The closing match of the Club Bowling League will be rolled tonight on the Y. M. C. A. alleys. The Triangles and Ancients will meet in the match that will settle second place for the series.

Should the Ancients win two out of three games they will tie the Triangles for the place. The latter team will endeavor to repeat their star performance of a week ago Friday when they rolled 2533, and if they are in good form the Ancients will have to hustle to win.

The second series opens Friday evening with a match between the Moderns and Triangle clubs. Matches will then be played every Tuesday and

Friday night until January 5, except on holidays. The league championship will go to the Alerts if they can win the second series. Otherwise a special championship match will be arranged between the winners of the two series.

THANKSGIVING DAY FOOTBALL IS VERY POPULAR

The announcement of a Thanksgiving day football game has aroused a great deal of favorable comment. This final big game is a post-series game to be played the morning of Turkey day at 10 o'clock on the Kam field, between Punaou and Kamehameha.

It has long been the custom in Honolulu as in most mainland centers to have a good old game of football on Thanksgiving day. Because of this there was much regret expressed when it was passed around that there would be no game after the season this year.

There is another reason why the game will be popular with the fans. They want to see the season closed with a good, clean, hard game of football that will leave a clean record for the team and a pleasant taste in the mouths of the sport supporting public.

This game is not a championship game. Punaou already has the championship cinched. But it promises to be a fine game and it will doubtless be largely attended by Honolulu fans and by the friends of the schools.

Friday night until January 5, except on holidays. The league championship will go to the Alerts if they can win the second series. Otherwise a special championship match will be arranged between the winners of the two series.

ATHLETIC NOTES FROM GARRISON AT SCHOFIELD

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence] SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, Nov. 24.

The 25th Infantry is rightly indignant at the attitude of the other regiments at Schofield toward the 25th Infantry baseball team. This team exclusively, has furnished the garrison amusement in the way of classy baseball games since the close of the Army League, bringing to Schofield the best teams that Honolulu affords, often requiring such large guarantees that the gate receipts were not sufficient to pay expenses. Even during the Army League series it was the 25th Infantry games that drew the crowds, and more than 50 per cent of those who paid admission were from the 25th Infantry.

The agreement between the four regiments at Schofield was that the regimental team that stood highest in the Army League should represent the garrison in the post season games with the teams of the Oahu League and Venice Tigers.

Has the 25th Infantry team, as the representative team of Schofield Barracks, received support or even courteous treatment from the baseball fans of the three other regiments? Decidedly no. They have bunched together in the bleachers along the third-base line, and rooted their heads off for any and every team that has opposed the 25th. It has not been that clean, wholesome rooting that applauds good baseball, independent of partisanship or attempts to make the visiting team feel welcome. The rooting and remarks from the east bleachers has often shown antagonism and jealousy and a strong tendency to belittle the 25th Infantry team, which is, without doubt, one of the very best in the army.

No wonder the 25th Infantry is contemplating having a baseball park of their own where they can have their games without this unsportsmanlike annoyance.

It is true that the 25th Infantry has gained a monopoly on outside baseball, crowding out the other regiments, but the 25th Infantry deserves all that it has attained. The team has received better support from the officers and men than any other regimental team. They have been given more time to practice and better opportunities for developing a first-class team. It is a conservative statement to make that the other three regiments could not at present get up a team that could in any way compare with that of the 25th Infantry.

All other questions aside, the agreement made before the Army League series has made the 25th Infantry team the representative team of Schofield, and as such they should receive Schofield's support.

(Written by a member of one of the other regiments.)

The football team of Battery B, 1st Field Artillery, smashed the team of Company F, 25th Infantry, with a score of 41 to 0. This was Sunday morning on the cavalry gridiron.

It was the first game for Company F, and their unfinished team had no defense against the forward passes and end runs behind a perfect interference of their opponents.

Fouquette and Miller were the ground gainers for the wagon soldiers, but the star of their team was Norris, the right end, who was nearly always at the receiving end of the forward passes, and who on the defense seemed to be in every play. For Company F, quarterback Gabourel was the star, and often got away from the field artillerymen for substantial gains.

Referee—Cleverly. Umpire—Dupel. The Battery B team has shown some remarkable development during the past week. The players purchased their own uniforms and put up a fine appearance in their new suits of gray and maroon. They are going to stack up against the strong cavalry team next Saturday afternoon.

Battery C was defeated 8 to 6 by Battery A in an exciting game of baseball Sunday. Nevertheless, C Battery had the satisfaction of knocking Burnett out of the box, the one-time regimental team pitcher. Picen took his place on the mound and finished the game in fine style.

It was a pleasure to see Sergt. Albert Miller of C Battery back in the game. It will be remembered that Miller broke his arm in a game between the 1st Field Artillery and Keio University in Honolulu last May, and it was feared for some time that he would never be able to play again. Miller came from the Tri-State League and was the mainstay of the field artillery team. After Miller's accident the artillery team seemed to go to pieces and never won another game.

YALE GIVEN A SCARE BY THE PRINCETON 11

Tigers Put Up a Spectacular Finish After Being Badly Smashed

[By Latest Mail] PRINCETON, N. J.—The Yale football team defeated Princeton eleven here November 14 by a score of 19 to 14 in a game which for thrilling climax rivaled modern stagecraft at its best.

Beaten back and scored upon with apparent ease during the first three periods of play, the Tigers tore loose with a smashing attack in the final 15 minutes of the game and fairly riddled the Ellis' line. Twice the orange and black swept across the blue goal line and were fighting desperately for the third touchdown, which would have given them victory, when the timer's call ended Princeton's chances and Yale's apprehensions.

No similar situation has developed in the annual game between these two university teams in many years, and from the spectators' standpoint, at least, the contest, with its thrilling moments of spectacular play and gripping uncertainty, formed a most fitting dedication of Princeton's new Palmer Memorial Stadium, where in seasons to come the eleven of Yale and Harvard will be entertained under the playing conditions which prevail in the Yale bowl and the crimson stadium.

The setting for the Tigers' dying rally of the season of 1914 was perfect. A gathering of 40,000 spectators invaded Princeton from all points of the compass, bearing the flags and emblems of the rival institutions. The weather man's donation to the day's contest was perfect weather overhead and a turf unsurpassed for football.

The great gray horseshoe, with its innumerable tiers of seats, was filled, with the exception of the curve at the north end, forming a picture new to Jungledale.
