CARNIVAL WEEK OF PHOTO PLAYS IS BILLED FOR POPULAR THEATER

"A grand photo-play festival week," is the way the advertisement for the Popular Theater is talking about the bill for the period commencing with next Monday's matinee and ending with the performance of the Tuesday night of the following week. Of course it is more than a week but impresario Blair wants to give good measure along with a crackerjack bill.

The opening offering, besides a further thrilling instalment of the "Perils of Pauline" and one of those down-to-date Pathe Weekly news letters will introduce Lyda Borelli to Honolulu, her vehicle being "Love Everlasting." Miss Borelli is one of the foremost Italian actresses, whose fame has traveled all over Europe and jumped over to America. She is a finished artist and must be seen to be thoroughly appreciated.

'AT BAY' FOR LAST TIME AT BIJOU TONIGHT

Tonight will be the last performance of "At Bay," the thrilling melodrama of society blackmailers by the Players All-Star Company at the Bijou Theater. This recently New York sensation has proven a big hit here and Mr. Webb is seen to great advantage as the young Irish captain who keeps the prosecuting attorney and police force at bay. The drama is well constructed and contains many thrilling and intense situations, with big dramatic scenes. Commencing with Monday evening the Players will present one of Cohen & Harris' biggest comedies, "Officer 666," a melodramatic farce. The play is crisp in humor and played with a speed and vim that puts the punch in every moment of it. The story is of a millionaire who returns unexpectedly to find another man impersonating him in his own house and already involved with a couple of burglars. He takes the character of an officer and the comedy begins, which brings every one witnessing it to the whirlpool of uncontrollable laughter. George Webb will be seen as the young millionaire and Miss Oakley as the sweetheart.

U. S. CHAMBER KEEPS BUSINESS INFORMED ON WAR

[By Latest Mail]
WASHINGTON.—Through close cooperation with departments of the federal government here, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States is keeping virtually the entire business community of the country fully informed of all developments of the European war that reflect directly upon the commerce of the United States, domestic or foreign.

The national alliance of more than 600 commercial organizations was created early in 1912. The membership of the chamber stretches into every nook and corner of the country. Included in its 600 allied organizations are great and small chambers of commerce in every state and every commercially important city of the Union. Their total individual membership passes the quarter million mark and every line of industry in the country is represented.

With the outbreak of the European war the need of specific information as to its probable and actual influence on business conditions was very urgent. Under the direction of Elliott H. Goodwin, general secretary of the National chamber, the clerical force already organized here to form a clearing house of national and international information on business conditions, was augmented and its energies directed to meeting the emergency. The bi-weekly bulletins sent out to members were increased in scope. They took up subject by subject problems of neutrality regulations, contraband proclamations by warring powers, congressional enactments to meet war emergencies as they developed, the banking situation, the cotton crisis and every new factor affecting business, brought up by the war. Twice a week members were advised specifically of developments in each case. The chamber has a force of trained men at work among the departments following up every clue to information and they are meeting with ready assistance from department officials. Some of the information sent out is of a very confidential character and to protect it publication of the bulletins is forbidden.

Now a systematic study of the foreign commerce of the belligerent powers to determine where openings lie for increasing American foreign trade has been begun. Additional bulletins are being prepared, country by country, showing, for instance, just what articles comprised Germany's trade with her present enemies or with neutral countries now cut off from her markets. Exhaustive investigation of American, British, German and other statistics for preceding years is being made and lengthy comparative tables have been issued. The work is still going on and as it progresses manufacturers of any article will be able to see at a glance just what opportunities await them in any country.

Paralleled almost day to day with presentations of the financial situation in foreign countries, showing where monetary exigencies and their variations, what embargoes on exportation have been declared and to what extent war operations have interfered with commerce in any direction, the charts are said to have proved of a most illuminating character to the American business world. They bring down to specific details the broad inquiries of the government.

For the first time in the history of the Naval Academy, its midshipmen will make their annual cruise to the Pacific Ocean in 1915.
A bid of $99,000 for a New York Cotton exchange seat was reported, a gain of $2000 over the price paid for the last seat sold.

COPPERFIELD WELL RECEIVED AT YE LIBERTY

David Copperfield has served to revive a host of pleasant memories with patrons of Ye Liberty during the past few days, when Charles Dickens' matchless work, cleverly dramatized, is offered in seven parts, the production being presented by an all-star cast. The picture will be shown for the last time on next Tuesday evening.

Little David Copperfield touches a sympathetic cord when viewed by the spectators before the silent stage. His early life filled with trouble is admirably depicted by an exceedingly bright child actor. The tribulations of David are carried through the play showing his apprenticeship to Lawyer Spewlow, his meeting with the villainous Uriah Heep and the assistance given him by his friend, Mr. Micawber.

All the familiar characters in the work, which did much to place the name of Dickens upon the highest pedestal of fame, are flashed before the screen. The story is faithfully followed while excellent photography adds much to the production.

After three days of hard fighting, a fire believed to have been started by hunters was brought under control at Penn Swamp, New Jersey.

FORTUNE'S CHEST BIG WAR DRAMA AT THE EMPIRE

There is about as much difference between a Jesse James nickle weekly and a Bret Harte classic as there is in the gap that serves to separate the ordinary detective story and the late production, "The Chest of Fortune," a two-part dramatic offering at the Empire theater this afternoon and evening. Played by characters including Earl Williams, Anita Stewart and a well selected cast, the play is one that has created a profound impression during its run along the mainland and the coast. "The Chest of Fortune" deals with an all-absorbing mystery, the many little details pertaining to the story being assembled but a few minutes before the end of the picture. The plot is based upon the civil war.

Featuring J. W. Kerrigan, patrons at the Empire today will be given a decided treat in the presentation of a sterling comedy drama called "Master of Himself." The pointed comedy acting by the principals is ably seconded by a clever cast.

Another of the famous and highly amusing "Andy" series will be shown in "Andy the Actor," which has to do with the trials and tribulations of Andy Clark, the boy actor. "Love Sickness at Sea" is a comedy where opportunity is given Sydney Chapin and Mable Normand to do their best.

SUFFRAGETTE SAYS BRITISH WAR OFFICE BARS WOMEN DOCTORS

Mrs. Pethick Lawrence, English suffragette, formerly a militant, arrived at New York on the Minnehaha. "I have come here to open my mouth; it has been sealed for these months," she said. "I am here not to espouse the cause of any nation, but to tell the facts. I want to let the world know that not one woman doctor has been permitted to go to the front under the British flag, because the war office has announced that the field is no place for women. Every other nation has its women doctors in the field.

"We have women doctors at the front by the score, but these doctors have all been forced to go under the French flag or the Belgian flag. I could name you a dozen of them who are now under the French colors among my personal friends.

"As the financial organizer of the Women's Emergency Corps, which has for its treasurer the Duchess of Marlborough, I have had reason to come into contact with the red tape which denies the women not only the honor and glory but the chance to serve. We had in the ranks 50 women who were expert cooks, with certificates as skilled teachers of their trade.

"They had taught the men on the South African field and in various parts of the world cooking in the open air. We offered the services of the 50 cooks free of charge to the war office to instruct the men on the battle line. The war office promptly declined the offer, with the comment that women would be utterly out of place at the front.

"The Women's Emergency Corps, which aims to help the young seamstresses and milliners and girls of that class by providing them employment, set in motion the Nation Food Fund. The government approved the plan to feed the needy by the help of the households of the different communities and took it over, but in issuing the official writing paper on which they asked contributions they declined to give credit to the Women's Emergency Corps.

"They offered, however, to use our name if we would consent to drop the word 'women's' and call ourselves simply 'The Emergency Corps.'

Mrs. Lawrence has taken twelve children whose fathers are at the front, and she provides for them in a cottage near her country place. The Women's Emergency Corps has started industries for its clients. Because one girl who applied for help said she could make a gollywog—a goblin doll, now the rage—a toy factory was begun. They were the first to meet refugees, a task now taken over by the government.

Seven girls of the Women's Political Union in a homeback parade advertised Mrs. Lawrence's meeting, to be held Friday night in Carnegie Hall.

Thomas Van Norstrand, a New York egg dealer, was fined $300 for having 9,000 bad eggs in cold storage.

The Hamburg-American liner Macedonia, has been interned at Las Palmas, Canary Islands.
