Honest, Alexander, I was only fooling.
When I sent that fast one to the plate, a groovin',
All last night I dream of,
No one else but you.

—Verses of "Bullet" (not Velvet) Joe.
Alexander the Great. He fans 'em when he's pitching, and he hits 'em when they make a fielder out of him. Yesterday, before the most representative, if not the largest crowd that ever saw a ball game in Hawaii, Mr. Gruber (Cleveland Alexander of Philadelphia, Pa., hoisted one of "Bullet Joe" Bush's offerings over the left center field fence at Moilili, breaking up the tie and winning the game. Incidentally it was his clean single to right in the third frame that drove in the only other run that the All-Nationals scored.

A great game. With "Big Jeff" Tesreau of the Giants and Joe Bush of the Athletics working against each other, and the pick of the National and American leagues behind them, the cosmopolitan crowd that represented the fandom of Hawaii saw something that they will long remember. From all parts of Oahu they flocked to Moilili. Some came from the central part of the island in motor trucks and some came over the Pali in stages, and all milled round the entrance to Moilili to get the choice bleacher seats as soon as the gates opened. Of course the great majority of the crowd came by street car, but anyone watching the exciting might have thought that the whole of Honolulu had turned out in motor cars. There were hundreds and hundreds of them parked round the ground, and the traffic cops had their hands full when it came to despatching them after the game.

Yesterday's game proved one thing beyond a doubt, and that is that J. Pivius is after all a ball fan. A great, black cloud bank hung over Manoa valley all afternoon, scaring players, promoter and fans alike, and occasionally turning on the shower tap just to show what might be expected any minute. It scared Empire Jack, McCarthy into starting the game eight minutes ahead of time, and it scared the fellows in the box office until word came to them that five full innings had been played. Then they emitted a heartfelt sigh in unison, and began to count the cash. But the rain held off long enough to finish the game on a fast field, and everyone went home happy.

The very first inning brought two double plays. The Americans went to bat first and after Eddie Murphy was given life by Snodgrass juggling the throw from Miller, he was doubled at second on the line drive that Snodgrass caught hot off Lewis' bat. In the Nationals' half Dolan fanned and then Carey was hit with a pitched ball. He was nabbed at second on the pitch that made strike three for Alexander.

The second was featured by an assist from center to the plate. With Hoblitzel gone, Chapman singled over second, and stole. Moriarity struck out and then Boone came through with a long hit between second and first. Dolan stopped the ball way out, and winged it to the plate just in time to catch "Chappy." The Nationals got two men on with none out in their half, but a pretty play, Bush to Moriarity, on an attempted sacrifice by Fletcher, slipped Miller at third. Byrne and Killifer fled out. The Nationals came through in the third with the first run of the game. Tesreau hit to right, Dolan singled to the same place and Murphy let the ball get by him, Tesreau getting to third and "Cozy" to second. Carey was out, pitcher to first. Then Alex-

Bunts and Bounders

Carey throws from the outfield in fine shape. At the bat the efforts of the fleet Pittsburgher to bunt safely have generally been foiled.

The attendance yesterday was 4200 paid admissions. This is more than the park will seat, and there was an overflow crowd in right field.

The Rapid Transit Company is furnishing good service from the ball park to Pawaia junction but at the junction there are some long waits for Punaion and Beretania street cars.

Big Jeff Tesreau has a wide break to his "spitter"—sometimes so wide it drops to the ground in front of the plate. When it breaks right, it's almost impossible to hit on a line.

Umpire Jack McCarthy lets the players ease off their minds when they become overheated at decisions they consider unfair, but it isn't noticeable that McCarthy changes his opinion any.

Fletcher, the New York shortstop, was brought up in the school of Johnny McGraw, the scrapping school. Fletcher hates to have a strike called on him and isn't a bit backward about telling the umpire about it.

McAvoy, the St. Louis catcher who worked behind the bat for the Americans on Saturday, is a big youngster who is very alert in watching the bases. He snaps the ball to first from a squatting position, the sort of tactics that will catch a runner napping unless he watoes closely.

There has been a change in the original schedule of big league games. In order to give a number of the players a chance to visit the volcano, the Thursday game this week has been put forward to tomorrow. There is a chance that an additional game will be played Thursday, in which seven local players and the strongest league battery will go against a picked team of the visitors. This should prove very interesting and is likely to take well with the fans.

Ray Chapman is a dashing player who often "gets away with" long chances. In the fifth inning yesterday he slapped a safety to right-field. It ought to have been no better than a single. But Chapman evidently figured that the right-fielder was Alexander, who is a great pitcher but not a fielder, and that Alexander might be a trifle slow in getting up to the ball and shooting it back to the infield. So the speedy Cleveland lad turned first on the full gallop and tore for second. Alexander then put on extra steam after the ball and hurried it into second but Chapman slid into the bag in safety. It was the real stuff.

Cozy Dolan is a natural born comedian and one who can pull a lot of funny stuff without the slightest hint of offensiveness. He kept the right-field bleachers in a roar yesterday with his stunts around Capt. Norris Stayton, who was the base umpire. Once Dolan called Stayton's attention to some mythical happening far in the outfield and when Stayton looked away, the St. Louis comedian went through the motions of slugging Stayton from the rear, delivering furious right and left swings. When Stayton turned back, Cozy was as serious as a judge. Another of his favorite stunts is to walk the coaching-line as if on a tight-rope. Go to it, Cozy, your stuff gets over in Honolulu!

LOW SCORING—When we see reports of record-breaking rounds by experts the average player cannot help but gasp at the marvelous consistency of the performance. No one appreciates the merits of a round down in the early seventies or late sixties more than the average duffer more than the duffer whose average round ranges about the hundred mark.
The man who makes a low score, of course, always refers to it as his class and feels that he is off his game when making very consistent rounds many strokes higher. For the average player it is far easier to make a good round when he is not seeking one than when he really tries in a competition.
Expert players will tell you how difficult it is to hole two and three foot puts on the last five or six holes when they are seeking a record or when one seems almost within their grasp. It takes a high degree of self-control to hold steady under the strain of a low medal scoring.

"THE BULLY OF POTSDAM."

Mr. Percy Illingworth, chief government whip, addressing an audience of 10,000 at a recruiting meeting at Shipley said the terrible atrocities in Belgium were being investigated by a responsible committee in this country, and he had reason to know that when the evidence was made public the whole of mankind would stand aghast. The blasphemous bully of Potsdam would be taught the lesson of his life. Civilization itself depended upon our success.

On the Losing End Yesterday But A Mighty Good Pitcher at That

'KING' COLE TOO MUCH FOR THE NATIONALS

The All-Americans jumped into the lead after Saturday's game at Moilili field. A rattling good Saturday crowd, but not as good as that of the opening Thursday, saw a fast contest in which "King" Cole of the Highlanders pitched against Jim Vaughn of the Chicago Cubs.

The Americans put a man across in the first when Walsh and Lewis hit safely in succession, the former coming home when Miller juggled Chapman's grounder.

The All-Nationals pulled even in the first of the fourth. Carey getting to first on Boone's error, and stealing second. The next two were out on infield grounders and then Fred Snodgrass came through with a hit that brought the run across.

The tie was broken in the other half of the frame when Chapman found one to his liking and put it over the fence. Two hits and an error meant another run for the Americans in the seventh. In the eighth a pass, a sacrifice and a wild pitch put Lewis on third and he scored a minute later on Chapman's sacrifice fly to right. The Nationals didn't get within sniffing distance of the plate in the last four frames.

The game was high-class baseball, but not as exciting as that of Thursday or Sunday. Both pitchers were rather generous with passes and both contributed a wild pitch. Cole had a lot of stuff and was only touched for three singles, which came in the third, fourth and fifth innings.

DUFFY LEWIS OF BOSTON LEADS IN THE HIT GETTING

Batting averages for the three games that the All-Nationals and All-Americans have played in Honolulu to date, compiled from the official score, shows that the team hitting is very light, with a few men at the top of the list doing most of the slugging. The Americans lead in club hitting with 18 hits out of 85 times at bat, for an average of .211, while the Nationals have been 87 times at bat for a total of 16 hits, an average of .181.

Duffy Lewis of the Boston Americans is the real batting leader, having been at bat 10 times and having collected five hits, a .500 average. This includes two three-baggers and a double. Chapman, the fast Cleveland shortstop, is a close second with .444, and Walsh of the Athletics third with .363. Jim Vaughn is in second place, but he has only taken part in one game and been at bat twice, securing one hit.

The batting averages follow:

All-Nationals—Dolan, St. Louis; Carey, Pittsburg; Killifer, Philadelphia; Miller, St. Louis; Snodgrass, Giants; Fletcher, Giants; Byrne, Philadelphia; Clark, Cincinnati; Alexander, Philadelphia.

STAR-BULLETIN NOW TIED WITH KAIMUKI TEAM

Another shakeup occurred in the standing of the indoor baseball clubs when the Star-Bulletin boys again defeated the Korean team, their winning of this game tying them with Kaimuki for second place and cutting down Kauluwaia's lead to one full game.

For three innings Saturday's game between the Koreans and the Star-Bulletin boys was nip and tuck, but after the third frame the Bulletin boys gradually forged ahead inning by inning until the final score was 19 to 6. K. Leong relieved Ayou after the third inning and pitched a remarkable game, striking out 11 men in the six innings he was on the mound. F. Tyau caught a splendid game for the Bulletin boys and Diamond played an excellent game in the field, while the hitting of the rest of the team was hard and timely.

K. D. Cha, the Korean pitcher, did very well under the circumstances, but as he is the only pitcher the team has at the present time he is being overworked and yesterday the breaks of the game most certainly did not come his way.

Deciding Series Tuesday.
On Tuesday night the Star-Bulletin and Kauluwaia meet in the first game of their series and the outcome of these games will almost decide the winner of the Star-Bulletin trophy.

Friday night the Koreans and the Star-Bulletin boys meet in their last game, while on Saturday a double-header will be played between the Kaimuki and Star-Bulletin and the Kaimuki and the Korean teams.
A very unfortunate incident occurred Saturday when the Kaimuki boys were forced to take their last game from Kakaako by default, because the Kakaako team failed to put in an appearance within an hour and a half of the time scheduled for the game to commence.

In fact the entire team with but one exception never showed up at all. Should this Kakaako team develop a yellow streak, however, another team will be immediately substituted to play out their schedule and drastic measures adopted toward the quitters.

STAR-BULLETIN CUP RACE BRINGS OUT BIG CROWDS

Gonzalla Wins Another Leg On Skating Trophy—Previous Record is Broken

A big crowd at the skating rink on Saturday night saw "Speedy" Gonzalla defeat five other fast roller skaters in the special series of match races for the Star-Bulletin cup. Gonzalla covered the 110 laps in 22 minutes 57 seconds, as against 23 minutes 33 seconds for the five-mile course in the first race on Saturday night. The fastest mile was 4:25.

Gonzalla now has two legs on the cup and if he wins next Saturday night it will go into his possession permanently. He won with considerable ease last Saturday night, though W. B. Bolser gave him a good race most of the way. At one time Gonzalla almost "lapped" Bolser, being right behind him but did not pass the other man and later fell back a little and won with about three-quarters of a lap to spare.

The crowd was kept at high excitement throughout the race. Gonzalla arrived at the hail just as the contestants were about to be started off without him. The third race, next Saturday night, should draw another big crowd as a great effort will be made to keep Gonzalla from winning the cup.

ENGINEERS TRIM 2ND INFANTRY ON FOOTBALL FIELD

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]
Engineers 12, Second Infantry 6.
FORT SHAFTER, Dec. 7.—Before one of the smallest crowds since the football season started the strong Engineer team in an evenly matched game with the 2nd Infantry outfit yesterday afternoon outgeneraled and outplayed their worthy opponents and walked off with the high score.

The 2nd Infantry players were slow to get started and wore themselves out trying for short gains through the weaker Engineers' tackles. The Engineers, as usual, got away with forward passes time and again for long gains. Lack of practice is mainly responsible for the downfall of the 2nd Infantry. They were slow at tackling and did not show up well on the offensive. This, however, is due to the loss of some of the best players leaving on the transport. Brinker did not play, being out of form. The Infantry were able to score in the first quarter but after that the team slackened.

Bosworth, Newton, Schlemmer and Friend starred for the Infantry, while the Engineers looked like all-stars.
The lineup was as follows:
Engineers. Pos. Infantry.
Pedersen... C... Hanson
Stout... RG... Jarvis
Thomas... LG... Kester
Hagland... RT... Dean
Stark... LT... Schlemmer
Popplano... RE... Long
