HAWAII IS IN CENTER OF FAIR

Island Displays in Tropical Building Star Attraction to Exposition Sightseers

150,000 PEOPLE VISIT BUILDING ON FIRST DAY

Hawaii Exhibit of Pineapples at Palace of Horticulture Also Much Liked—Social Events Begin—Many Islanders Register at Headquarters

BY KAMAANA.

(Under this nom-de-plume a well-known Honolulu woman will write for the Star-Bulletin special articles about the Panama-Pacific Exposition and its events, particularly those concerning Hawaii. Special attention will be paid to such events in which Hawaii folk figure.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb. 22.—It is a great exposition, this mammoth display to the city of San Francisco, and Hawaii has high place in its world-drawn attractions.

On the opening day of the exposition the swinging glass doors under the colonnade, which forms the entrance to the Hawaii building, admit of about 150,000 visitors who, passing to listen to the quaint conceits in the center of the building in a variety of hawaii, tree ferns, palms, ferns, and other tropical plants, seated on the hillside of the entrance of the Fair and Waikiki to form a solid mob—eager, expectant, enthusiastic, almost incredulous—at the entrance.

Somehow, occasionally away to bring their friends, some left the last look to see the mob at the other end and see it all over again, some were professing in the commendation and admiration of our wonderful tropical display, and one woman openly confessed to believe their colors were real, remembering faintly that Hawaii's exhibit was a shameful one and that the humane society of San Francisco must be inactive indeed to allow painted fish to be confined and displayed.

But Hawaii's "painted fish" are proving to be the star attraction in the exposition grounds, and daily the crowds press forward to get a glimpse of them. And daily their popularity is increasing. In fact, everywhere in the grounds, as someone in charge in strict care the question is asked, "Have you seen the wonderful colored fish?" One man was heard saying that he had traveled the world over, that he had seen fish in every quarter of the globe, but that he had never thought it possible that living fishes could display such vivid hues. "You don't want to miss it," he said to a group of friends on the way to the Hawaii building. "You will find them in the Hawaii building." Hawaii's fish is the greatest advertisement that Hawaii has ever had.

The Pineapple at the Fair.

There is another Hawaiian exhibit in the Palace of Horticulture, where Mr. Lloyd Childs, representing the Hawaiian Pineapple Packers' Association in doing a pleasing business service, showed pineapple and Kona coffee for 10 cents an order, and where, on the opening day of the exposition, out of 100,000 who passed through the building 8000 orders were served. Mr. Childs' exhibit, although incomplete, embodies many features which attract the attention of the passers-by and increase their interest in this great Hawaiian industry.

The entrance to the exhibit, which is itself a compelling attraction, is in the form of a miniature pineapple field on each side with ripe fruit on growing plants; is approached through a vista of gorgeous spring blossoms and tropical ferns flourishing under the gigantic grass dome of the Palace of Horticulture. Within, seated at 100 tables and served by 20 attractive Hawaiian girls wearing lilac leis, samples of every nationality may be seen from 11 till 5 o'clock partaking of Hawaii's fruit, while 16 pick-up musicians, wearing leis, sing the old melodies for which they are justly famous. In the center of the refreshment hall a fountain, surrounded by every variety of tropical plant and fern, falls softly in a crystal veil mingling with the music and adding charm.

ANARCHIST PLOT TO KILL RICH MEN, POLICE CHARGE

New York Detectives Say a "Reign of Terror" to Start With Dynamiting Church

NEW YORK, March 2.—An alleged anarchist plot to kill John D. Rockefeller, Andrew Carnegie, the Vanderbilts and other millionaires and to dynamite banks and other financial institutions was disclosed by the police today after the arrest of two men in a purported attempt to dynamite St. Patrick's Cathedral.

According to the police the conspirators planned to inaugurate a reign of terror in New York, armed bands appearing simultaneously throughout the city and shooting, pillaging, dynamiting and robbing. The dynamiting of the cathedral was supposed to be the signal.

The two men arrested today were taken by detectives who say they have affiliated with them for months, living among them and aiding them in making bombs. When the alleged "bomb-thrower" entered the church it was filled with detectives in all imaginable disguises.

JACK LONDON ARRIVES FOR VISIT TO KAUALI

Jack London, author, playwright and navigator, today arrived in the Matsonia to spend some time on the island of Kauai, which he says is the only spot not visited by him eight years ago when on his famous cruise in the ship Shark.

"I am down here for a rest, recreation and work," he said. "I brought Mrs. London along also, a fountain pen and a typewriter. I presume that the usual literary output will continue during my stay in the islands. I have always wanted to visit Kauai. I regretted not going there when I was last here in the Shark."

London was greeted when he left the liner by Mrs. E. S. Goodhue of Kona, Hawaii, at whose home the Londones will visit before returning to the coast. Secretary A. P. Taylor of the Promotion Committee placed the services of that department at the disposal of the novelist.

"I am now writing dog novels," said London, who fairly radiated good cheer as he became the center of a group of friends made on his former visit. "I expect to stay in the islands for about a month."

London will remain on the Matsonia on his trip to Hilo, leaving the vessel for an overland auto trip to the home of Dr. and Mrs. Goodhue at Kona. His stay on Hawaii will be brief. It is his present intention to return to Honolulu in the Matsonia early next week. He then plans an extended motor tour of Kauai. The writer expressed much surprise when told by Secretary Taylor that the finest roads in the territory are to be found on the island of Kauai.

CHINESE SHOOT GIRL, WOUNDS SELF FATALLY

Jealousy is said by the police to have prompted Tong Yung, a young Chinese, to fire several shots at Kamaloo Keokohu, a pretty Hawaiian girl, this morning, wounding her in the right arm and later to slash his throat with a razor.

Tong Yung was found by Detectives Apana and Hutton lying in a pool of blood in Kamaunui lane, some distance from the scene of the shooting. The young woman is said to have divided her attentions between Tong Yung and Lee Sia, at which Tong is alleged to have manifested intense jealousy.

He called at the room of the girl in a Beretania street lodging house shortly before nine o'clock this morning. A stormy scene followed. Tong pulled a 32-caliber revolver and fired. One bullet penetrated the right arm making an ugly flesh wound. Several bystanders had a close call from injuries from flying lead.

Officers Hutton and Apana set out in pursuit of Tong. He was trailed to the narrow alley off Beretania street, where he was found with throat slashed from ear to ear. Physicians at Queen's hospital said he would die.

After the shooting the woman fled from Yung to the home of Lee Sia, Deputy Sheriff Asch is today making a complete investigation of the affair.

Bubonic plague appeared in Cuba. There was one death in Havana.

ALLIES ARE DENIED RIGHT TO CHANGE RULES OF WAR, IS PRESIDENT'S ASSERTION

HOLDS SHIPMENTS TO GERMANY IS NO VIOLATION OF NEUTRALITY—WILL ASK ENTENTE WHAT STEPS IT WILL TAKE TO ENFORCE BLOCKADE

[Associated Press Service by Federal Wireless.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 2.—The government today made it known that the United States will stand firm by its rights as a neutral nation. England and France will be asked directly what means they intend to take to enforce the policy of a rigid blockade on Germany as generally outlined in yesterday's declaration.

President Wilson made it clear that it is his view that American ships sailing to Germany involve no violation of neutrality. The changed methods of warfare, the president said, do not empower any nation to change the recognized international rules for the conduct of war, both as to belligerents and neutrals.

The minister from the Netherlands today inquired of the state department what action the United States would take in the matter.

PARIS, France, March 2.—The French war office denies the gains claimed by Germany and says all the German attacks were repelled.

LONDON, England, March 2.—Both French and German official reports agree that there has been violent fighting around Champagne with unusually heavy losses.

'CIVIC CENTER' MESSAGE MEETS VARYING OPINION

Strong Sentiment in the Upper House Against Taking Sides in Federal Site Controversy

Governor Pinkham's message to the legislature yesterday, urging the "civic center" scheme and the Irwin site for the federal building just authorized by Congress has stirred varying feelings in the breasts of the senators.

There is now a strong movement afoot among the lawmakers to take no stand for any one site but to urge the treasury department to make its own choice as quickly as possible with the building.

On the other hand, Republicans and Democrats both would like to support the governor's message, the spirit of which they hold is admirable. There is no denying that the governor has strong support among members of the Republican majority, though he is a Democrat.

A leading Oahu Republican senator expressed himself today as follows:

"I'm with the governor on his general proposition of a civic center but I rather hesitate about taking any stand in the controversy over the site for the federal building. Many of us fear that if we start taking sides the whole matter will be up in the air again. The businessmen of Honolulu by a vote decided to let the treasury department make the choice. I think the legislature ought to do the same. We can, however, urge the treasury department to start actual work as soon as possible."

An influential Democratic senator takes this view of it: "The governor's message was broad and to the point and I believe he should receive the support of the legislature unless it should appear that our action would imperil the building. I don't believe it will. The legislature should have said its say in the first place, not the customer of Commerce. We like to support the governor and unless there is actual opposition to the Irwin site, I don't see why we should not endorse his message."

Some of the senators are anxious for a public hearing on the question. President Chillingworth said today that the (Jaun) delegation, to whom the message was referred in the upper house, would probably attend a chamber of Commerce meeting to-morrow afternoon and see what discussion would bring forth there on the building site. "I understand the chamber is going to take the matter over," he said, "and we will not hold a meeting until after we hear the arguments of the businessmen. Perhaps we may be able to make up our minds then."

Senator Chillingworth is among those who are rather averse to taking sides in the site controversy.

It was learned from another source today that a memorial to the treasury department is being prepared which does not put the legislature on record for any site but simply expresses the hope that speedy action will be taken in Washington in the direction of the department officials. It will probably soon make its appearance in parliamentary form in both house and senate.

"JAPAN NOT CURBING CHINA"

REPORT OF ORIGINAL DEMANDS MADE BY TOKIO INCORRECT, SIR EDWARD GREY TELLS BRITISH PARLIAMENT

[A. P. by Fed. Wireless.]
LONDON, England, March 2.—Sir Edward Grey in the house today branded as incorrect the reports of several of the demands made by Japan on China. He said it was untrue that Tokio had demanded that if China engaged foreign advisers they must be Japanese, and that all other foreigners should be barred from railroad, mining and dock concessions on the Shantung peninsula. Grey refused, however, to discuss the question whether Japan had encroached on the integrity of China.

ROCKEFELLER JR. DENOUNCED IN STRIKE REPORT

[A. P. by Fed. Wireless.]
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 2.—Vigorous criticism of John D. Rockefeller, Jr. was made by the house subcommittee today in its report on the Colorado strike. The report declares that Rockefeller did nothing to improve the conditions of the employees of the companies in which he is a director. He has done much to uplift the condition of people elsewhere with the money he made by unfair treatment of labor in Colorado, it says, while the interests and demands of 6000 miners have been disregarded.

"He may win the strike by starvation under the false banner of liberty," the report goes on, "but we do not believe peace can be maintained under these conditions."

C., also have declared a boycott on all Japanese merchants of that city. Information from an authentic source is that the Japanese of Vancouver are preparing to boycott all the Chinese of the city and to extend the movement along the Pacific coast to include Seattle, Tacoma, San Francisco and Los Angeles.
