

SENATE PASSES TAX EXEMPTION FOR RAILROAD

Three Dissenting Votes After Financial Status of Railroad is Set Forth

With only three dissenting votes, House Concurrent Resolution 24, a memorial to Congress asking for woman suffrage in Hawaii, will be taken up for discussion in the senate this afternoon.

The senate yesterday decided to adjourn at 5 o'clock this evening and then meet with the lower house until about 10 o'clock, at which time the legislature will adjourn sine die.

Representative Williamson's House bill 97 to prohibit members of the boards of supervisors from being employed with concerns doing business with the municipalities was tabled in the house yesterday on recommendation of the county affairs committee.

Representative Maheka's resolution to direct the board of health not to use the lance for purposes of examination at the Kalihi receiving station without the consent of the patients was tabled in the house yesterday on recommendation of the health committee.

The veto of the governor on the bill providing for special county elections to fill any vacancy on the board of supervisors does not mean that hereafter vacancies cannot be filled, as was stated this morning. In the first place, vacancies can be filled by appointment and in the second place the bill did not affect the city and county of Honolulu. In case of a vacancy on the Honolulu board, the mayor will fill it by appointment, with the approval of the remaining supervisors.

Representative J. H. Coney's bill to regulate the use and operation of vehicles upon the highways and elsewhere in the territory went to a sudden death in the senate yesterday afternoon, following a motion by Senator Rice to table the measure. Senator Rice explained that, while undoubtedly there are many good features in the bill, it came to the house too late for adequate consideration. On the other hand, he added, there have been complaints against the bill from residents of the other islands. He also pointed out that the passage of the bill would decrease county revenues.

"Deep-Sea Diving" will be the subject upon which Chief Gunner Stillson in charge of the salvage of the F-4 will talk at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow night. Mr. Stillson thrilled the members of the Ad Club at a recent luncheon by his graphic description of a diver's work. Great interest has been manifested by Honolulu people in what is actually being done to recover the sunken submarine. The secretary in charge declares the meeting will be the best opportunity ever offered Honolulu to know something about the perils of the government divers. Mr. Stillson will start to speak at 8 o'clock sharp.

Six true bills were returned by the federal grand jury at noon today. Marshal Smiddy had four of the six indicted persons under arrest early this afternoon. Those arrested are William Garzia and Caruito Perez Reyes, Frank Gomes and Mrs. Lee Tai, all on statutory charges.

COLLEGE WON'T BE INVESTIGATED BY COMMISSION

House Tables Lyman Resolution, Though In Sympathy With Its Real Object

On the ground that the College of Hawaii authorities are working on the problem of increasing the attendance and also fearing that any action towards reducing the standards of education at the College of Hawaii might cause the United States government to discontinue the federal appropriation for the institution, the house of representatives yesterday tabled the Lyman resolution to appoint a commission to devise a system of reducing the educational standards of the college.

In its report to the house, the education committee says that it was in sympathy with the real object of the resolution, but Chairman Clarence H. Cooke said today that it was feared that reduction of the standards might jeopardize the federal appropriation. The report of the committee is as follows:

"Your committee on education, to which was referred House Concurrent Resolution 25, begs to report thereon as follows:

"The real object of the resolution is to devise some plan in order to make available to a larger number of students the advantages offered by the College of Hawaii for advanced instruction in agricultural and mechanical subjects. The resolution seeks to accomplish, or at least make some progress toward this end by securing a report from a commission, to be appointed by the governor and directed to look carefully into the plan of lowering the standard of admission to the college, lengthening its course of study, and establishing a boarding department and dormitory in connection with the college where students from the islands other than Oahu can live at a cost to them of not exceeding $60 a year.

"With the real object of this resolution your committee is in entire sympathy. The same idea was embodied in the suggestion for the establishment of an agricultural high school in close connection with the college, made originally by the holdover committee of the senate on education, and endorsed and recommended by the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce. Your committee, upon inquiry, has, however, found that the cost of such a school would be very great, that the present equipment of the college is not sufficient, nor could much of it be used for that purpose since it had been acquired from federal funds; and that it would appear more logical that such a school should be under the department of public instruction rather than the college, since when established such a school should, within its field, stand in the same general relation to the entire scheme of public instruction as the present high schools occupy within the especial fields now covered by them. Your committee has further found upon inquiry that both the department of public instruction and the president and regents of the College of Hawaii are proposing to formulate and submit to the next legislature some more concrete and detailed suggestions along these lines than have been made to the committees on education during the present session.

"Your committee believes that this subject can properly be left with the superintendent and commissioners of public instruction and the president and regents of the college, since it is a part of their duty to study, perfect and extend in every practicable way the system of public instruction of the territory, and to bring it within the reach of as many as possible, especially since it appears that the question is now receiving their careful attention.

"Under these circumstances your committee is of the opinion that the appointment of a commission to consider this matter is unnecessary and would merely lead to duplication of work. Accordingly your committee recommends that the resolution be tabled."

Shipping Illustrated, one of the recognized authorities on merchant marine and shipping topics, published at New York, contains a readable review of work done at Honolulu harbor, entitled "Port Improvements at Hawaii." The article is accompanied by a number of illustrations showing several ocean-going steamers entering and leaving the harbor. Another picture gives a good idea of the extent of the coasting fleet. The letter-press deals with the march of improvements and the recent installation of equipment to take care of the constantly increasing tonnage entering the port.

CONGRESS PARTY PLANS AROUND ALL TERRITORY

Mayor's Luau Tuesday Night Will Be One of Gayest Affairs

A new seal for the mayor and city and county of Honolulu, designed by Mayor Lane himself, embellishes in medallion form the invitations being sent out for the big luau which is to be given on Tuesday evening of next week in honor of the party of congressional visitors.

"Seal of the Mayor, City and County of Honolulu," is the border legend within which is a round allegorical design depicting a maiden on the beach holding toward an incoming steamer a lei, in token of welcome and hospitality. Over her head is a star, symbolical of the territory's aspiration for statehood.

Cocunut palms and a banana tree, typifying abundance, shelter a warrior with a grounded spear, who stands for stable, good government. The Royal Hawaiian coat of arms, the crown, and a scroll bearing the motto to "Aupuni Puhonua," meaning "the government good," completes the attractive design.

Only guests will attend the monster luau at the public baths, Waikiki. Only native foods, prepared in native styles and products of the soil and waters of the territory will be served.

Postoffice to Care For Congressmen's Mail.

Following the steps of the Ad Club, Chamber of Commerce, legislature and other organizations, the Honolulu postoffice is making extensive plans to care for the members of the congressional party during their stay in the city.

At the instance of Postmaster William F. Young and Superintendent of Mails Frank T. Sullivan, arrangements have been made whereby the congressmen and the members of their party will receive their mail but a short time after the steamers from the mainland arrive at port. The first delivery will be made while the Sierra is in quarantine next Monday. Already a large amount of mail, addressed to senators and representatives, is in the local office, and this will be taken out to the Sierra and promptly delivered.

The local office also will ascertain the Honolulu addresses of all the members of the party in order that their mail may be forwarded to them without delay. It is understood that the majority of the visiting congressmen will stay at the Moana hotel.

Mail addressed to members of the congressional party in Honolulu will be assorted by the Hawaii clerks in the San Francisco office and placed in separate bundles and in separate sacks. This will insure its arrival in Honolulu in good order and little or no delay in delivery.

The Ad Club is making plans for entertaining the congressional party at a big and informal luncheon on May 4. The plans are briefly outlined in the following letter sent out to Ad Club members:

"The Ad Club has the opportunity—and the responsibility—of being hosts to the congressional party, consisting of about 125 people, at a luncheon Tuesday, May 4. Following is the plan:

"A simple lunch will be served on the roof-garden of the Young hotel at a cost of $1 to each Ad Club member. The dollar will cover the cost of your own and your proportion of the visitors' lunch.

"Seats will be reserved. You are privileged to bring ladies and other guests and may reserve your seats beforehand.

"The gathering will be the biggest, most enthusiastic and most important ever held by the Ad Club—if you do your part. COME. We need you—must have you. Help the committee to make this entertainment the success it deserves to be.

"Secure your seat tickets AT ONCE from the Ad Club treasurer, Charles R. Frazier, Kerr building, Alakea street."

It has been understood that a number of the visitors will be privately entertained here. As some difficulty is being met in placing all of the expected congressional party guests at the Moana hotel, it is suggested by the management that those who will entertain congressmen or others should inform the management as early as possible.

Kauai Is Hospitable.

That the people of Kauai also are engrossed with plans for the entertainment of the distinguished visitors is made evident by the following item, published in the current number of the Garden Island:

"The sub-committee appointed on entertainment of the congressional party have been diligently at work in the past few days, and the details of arrangements are being rapidly whipped into shape. An advertisement in this issue, calling for tenders for supplying 25 autos for the two days, indicates that the transportation committee has its chief problem down to a very fine point.

"Another sub-committee has been hard at work on the special pamphlet concerning Kauai, which will be printed and made available to both hosts and visitors while the congressmen are here. This pamphlet will answer many of the thousand and one questions which it is assured will be asked by the guests of the island.

"The ladies of the Mokiiana Club have also begun work on plans for the mid-day luncheon at Niumalu, and it is understood that the details for taking care of 250 people are well in hand.

"At the Waimea end of the island the work has also been taken up with

SALVAGE WORK MUST BE BEGUN ALL OVER AGAIN

Rough Weather Plays Havoc With Gear For Raising Sunken Submarine

Calmer winds and a milder sea made it possible to resume salvage work on the F-4 this morning. The present spell of rough weather accomplished the undoing of nearly all the work of the past three weeks, and even before a new start can be made it will be necessary to spend some time clearing away the debris.

Of the four lines that were finally placed around the sunken boat and then passed with infinite toil and trouble to the lifting screws, only one remains intact. The big wire cable secured from Hilo still holds, but the other three have been chafed apart on the hull of the submarine by the constant buffeting of the waves.

It will be necessary to clear away this mess of twisted wire before new holds can be taken with wires provided with chain inserts, which will bear directly on the submarine. This, and the splicing of the 15-fathom of chain in the center of each wire cable will take considerable time. It will then be necessary to drag again, to secure good holds on the hull. It is not known just how much the one remaining cable has been damaged, and this may go when a strain is put on it. The navy men are hoping that it will hold until the others can be put in place.

The tug Navajo went to the scene of operations early this morning, and is ready to resume dragging as soon as the clearing-up process is complete.

There will be no diving today, and probably not for several days, until the new lines are in place and the submarine again secure to the screws, will under-water workers be sent down to experiment with the salvage hose, and try out the plan of getting some buoyancy into the F-4 by pumping compressed air. The diving light is still inside the harbor alongside the navy dock, but the gear has been carefully overhauled and put in perfect condition, so that diving can be resumed on short notice.

The big floating crane has been shifted to slip No. 2 to give the Maryland a berth at Navy Dock No. 2, next to the Geier, when the cruiser comes in again. This is a better berth than the one at slip No. 1, and is also easier to get in and out of. The Maryland's former position at slip No. 3 was a difficult one from which to handle such a large ship, especially one fitted with in-turning screws, as is the Maryland, on account of the narrow water space between the dock and the marine railway.

While navy officers are much put out by the succession of delays and hard luck happenings, there is no talk of giving up the attempt to raise the F-4. In fact, every setback makes those in charge of the operations more determined to win out, and the only thing that could stop the work would be a cast iron order from the navy department.

FINER BEAUTIES OF HAWAII URGED ON THE AD CLUB

E. L. Parker Suggests "Rain-bowland" Can Be Made Even More Attractive

"Rainbowland"

That is what E. L. Parker, who was the Ad Club's champion speaker at today's luncheon, suggested, called Hawaii. And it seems likely that this composite of the island's charms will become in time a permanent designation. Certainly it met with the favor of the businessmen who professed to know more of advertising than of art, and who listened with great interest to a talk that dealt far more with the arts and letters of the old world than with the art of advertising and the letters of display.

Mr. Parker, whose adopted home is Italy, and who has been a sojourner in Honolulu for about seven weeks, said that when he was told to talk on a combination of Italy and Hawaii, he had to search for some time for a connection between the two. He finally decided that the two countries were tied together with rainbows, for nowhere, he said, were so many of nature's garlands hung from the sky as in these two favored lands.

Mr. Parker's talk was quite different from the usual hammer-and-tongs Ad Club discourse, and for this very difference was particularly enjoyed. The speaker sketched with a light hand the beauties of Italian civilization—art, literature, science and music—and left it to his auditors to infer what lessons could be learned by the people of Hawaii.

Coming down to the present, Mr. Parker said that he thought it would be a good thing for those who had the real good of Hawaii at heart to exploit its finer things to the world in general. According to the speaker, the islands are known in the United States and abroad mostly for surf riding, polo and hula dancing. He thought it would be a good thing to put before the world in general some of the delicate charm of Hawaiian literature, folk lore and graceful dancing.

Under the head of helpful hints, which he said every Ad Club speaker was expected to hand out, Mr. Parker advised a more strenuous campaign against the mosquito, and the beautifying of the city of Honolulu, which, he added, could be safely left to the women of the community, and the landscape architects who were supposed to know more about it than the businessmen.

Ready for Congressmen.

Judging by committee reports, the lunch to be given on the roof garden next Tuesday for the congressional party will be the biggest thing ever attempted by the Honolulu Ad Club. Pigger in more ways than mere attendance.

This entertainment will give us a chance to meet face to face the controllers of our bread and butter," said Chairman Garza of the committee. "It will be the biggest and best to date, because the opportunity is the biggest."

There will be a number of stunts pulled off, regarding which the committee is maintaining dark secrecy. Seats are being reserved, and members who haven't already secured theirs had better get in line.

Another speaker to day was Arthur M. McClure of Siam. He talked of industrial training in that country, and gave an interesting and amusing account of how he started a college paper there.

The music feature, on which the Ad Club is always strong, was supplied by A. E. Larimer and Ben Jensen, who lived up to expectations.

CONFERENCE ON COMPENSATION IS O. K. BY SENATE

Senator Castle's workmen's compensation measure, senate bill 2, relating to compensation for employees injured while in the performance of their work, was finally agreed upon by the senate yesterday afternoon upon the recommendation of a conference committee of both branches. The only solon not concurring with the report was Senator Metzger, who introduced a minority committee report in which he sought to have the bill amended. Metzger's complaint to the bill was that, in fixing the amount of compensation, an employee receiving $6 a day was classed with the employe receiving $4.41 a day. Metzger's amendment limited the application of the act to employes receiving $50 a week or less. It failed to pass.

MANY BILLS ARE KILLED OFF IN SENATE CHAMBER

In rapid succession the senate yesterday afternoon tabled 15 bills and resolutions. Nine house bills, two senate bills, one senate concurrent resolution and one house joint resolution were killed.

Bills and resolutions tabled were as follows:

House bill 268, relating to the opening of roads to homestead lands.

Senate concurrent resolution 2, relating to homesteads.

House joint resolution 5, providing that the executive building hereafter be known as the palace.

Senate bill 98, relating to prohibiting the transportation of women and girls for immoral purposes.

Senate bill 135, regarding making Hawaii a military department.

House bill 241, regarding compulsory school attendance.

House bill 230, regarding use of school funds.

House bill 156, relating to the salaries of public officers.

House bill 160, regarding control of the system of accounting.

House bill 314, relating to payment of liquor licenses.

House bill 302, relating to child labor.

House bill 321, providing for the regulation of automobiles.

House bill 70, relating to a closed season for amaama.

House concurrent resolution 27, a memorial to congress to provide for the dependents of the victims of the F-4.

House bill 159, relating to the keeping of books showing the assets and liabilities of the city and county of Honolulu.

Mitsue Sakamoto yesterday filed in circuit court a bill to declare a trust and for equitable relief and injunction against Kawahiko Kude and the Yokokana Specie Bank.

JURY VERDICT IN SILVA CASE NOT 'WHITE SLAVERY'

A published report that Manuel G. Silva was found guilty on a "white slavery" charge by a federal jury on Monday night is in error. There were three counts against Silva, two relating to the so-called "white slaves" offense and the third a less serious statutory charge. The jury did not find him guilty of "white slavery," but of adultery. Silva was sentenced to 15 days in the Oahu prison and forced to pay the costs of this third and last trial, which amounted to $50.80.

The Inter-Island steamer W. G. Hall returned from Kauai yesterday bringing 5000 sacks of sugar, a quantity of molasses, 20 packages of sundries and crates of poultry. Purser Huestace reported strong northeast wind and rough sea.
