JAPAN DECIDES ON ULTIMATUM

China's "Maximum List" of Concessions Is Considered Entirely Unsatisfactory in Tokyo, and Negotiations Will Be Broken Off Unless More Concessions are Made Soon

[Associated Press by Federal Wireless]
 TOKIO, May 3.—The Japanese government, after a careful consideration of the latest diplomatic note from China, has decided to send an ultimatum to the Chinese government, threatening to break off all diplomatic negotiations unless the latest list of 24 demands, described as Japan's "minimum list," is agreed to at once, says an extra edition issued this morning by the Tokio Jiji Shimpo.

This drastic action follows a careful consideration of the reply of the Chinese Republic to the submission of the list of 24 demands made by Japan. China's reply was a "maximum list" of concessions, which, from the first, it has been prophesied Japan would find unsatisfactory.

HUGE ZEPPELIN HEADING NORTH TOWARD BRITAIN

German Aircraft Passes Over Dutch City; Scouting Aeroplane Draws Fire Near Folkestone

[Associated Press by Federal Wireless]
 LONDON, May 3.—Another Zeppelin is expected before tomorrow morning, for early today a big Zeppelin, making speed to the north, was sighted flying over Vlieland, Holland.
 As a probable forerunner to the Zeppelin's arrival a German aeroplane scouted over Folkestone and Dover this morning, but was soon driven off by fire from the coast guns. No damage was done by the aeroplane, which showed no fight, but was seemingly merely on a scouting expedition.

ARREST PURSER AS ACCOMPLICE IN JEWEL CASE

[Associated Press by Federal Wireless]
 SAN FRANCISCO, May 3.—F. V. F. Baker, purser of the Steamer Ventura, was arrested here today, charged with complicity in the attempt made by Mrs. B. J. Francis of Sydney to smuggle $18,500 worth of gems into the country. Mrs. Francis was arrested here May 1, on her arrival on the Ventura. Baker, according to W. H. Tidwell, special agent of the treasury department, has made a full confession.

Baker is well known in Honolulu. He has been purser on the Ventura for more than four years.

124 CONGRESSMEN, FAMILIES AND DISTINGUISHED GUESTS DECKED WITH LEIS ASS. S. SIERRA ARRIVES

Met off Port by Welcoming Committees and Many Friends, Visitors Are Again Greeted at Dock and Then Taken to Hotels—Afternoon to be Spent at Waikiki Beach—Governor's Reception and Ball This Evening—Journey Across Country and Voyage Marked by Many Pleasant Incidents

Hawaii gave the congressional tourists a smiling welcome this morning. Almost cloudless skies and summer seas prevailed, and amid really tropical surroundings members of the party got their first taste of island hospitality. It was all new to the great majority, and the few that have been here before had been able to give their less-traveled friends only an inkling of what to expect, according to the enthusiastic testimony that was freely offered when the greeters boarded the Sierra off port.
 Ten United States senators and 39 members of the house of representatives, together with the families of visiting congressmen, and several distinguished guests, bring the total to 124, all of whom are looking forward with the keenest anticipation to the program of sightseeing and entertainment promised. Everyone is sincere in wanting to know the real Hawaii, and from the outlook this wish is likely to be gratified before the band speeds the departing guests with "Aloha Oe."
 It was 8:45 before the Sierra was off port, this being about an hour and a half later than schedule time. However, the delay worked to the advantage of the passengers, as they had plenty of time for breakfast aboard, and weren't hurried in their landing preparations.
 As soon as the quarantine officials had completed their inspection, which, with three doctors, was done in record time, and the customs men had finished their routine work, the gangway was lowered and press representatives and members of the Kulanuanu II, scrambled a reception committee, who had come overboard. In a jiffy the visitors were decorated with carnation leis, presented by some of Honolulu's fairest daughters, and everyone was busy getting acquainted.

A jolly and sincere crowd are Hawaii's guests. There was no formality or stiffness about the welcome, and its acceptance was equally as free from restraint. Delegate Prince Kaho, as chairman of the general committee, was everywhere at once, greeting old friends and conducting a rapid fire introducing campaign. The chairmen of the various sub-committees were all on hand and did their part toward making the guests at home.
 From the deck of the launch Maakaia, even before the Sierra picked up the quarantine and revenue officers, the Hawaiian band made music across the waters. Patriotic airs, interspersed with Hawaiian melody, delighted the steamer's passengers, who, not to be outdone in musical greeting, rendered, "It's a Long, Long Way to Honolulu," their own version of Tipperary.

When the Sierra docked every guest had been provided with a card showing the number of the automobile in which he or she would be taken to the hotel. There was no confusion ashore, and in a remarkable short space of time the entire party enroute to the Moana.
 On the Oceanic dock another rousing reception greeted the congressional tourists, the band having doubled back in time to once again greet the visitors, while hosts of friends and well-wishers lined the gangplank, greeting friends and acquaintances.
 Nearly the entire party will return direct to the United States, but there are a few who have announced their intention of going through to the Philippines and the Far East. This party includes Senator and Mrs. Shafter, Representative and Mrs. C. B. Miller, Representative and Mrs. Austin and Miss Austin, Representative and Mrs. Brumbaugh, Representative Slomp and Miss Slomp. With the exception of the Smoot party, which will travel on the Mongolia, these congressmen and their families will go to Manila on the army transport due here in about 10 days.

JOURNEY IS MARKED BY CAMARADERIE

BY JOSEPH A. BRECKONS.
 (Member of the Congressional Party.)
 It's a long, long way to Honolulu, it's a long way to go.
 It's a long way to Honolulu and the fairest land we know.
 Good bye, Albuquerque, Good bye our land so fair—
 It's a long, long way to Honolulu, But Desha will get us there.
 Thus sang the guests of Hawaii as they journeyed across New Mexico, Arizona, California and the Pacific Ocean, the air taking on a more hopeful tinge with each day of the journey. This adaptation of "Tipperary" was the inspiration of Rep. Conroy of New York City, who, when he is at home, beats the tom tom and chants the war songs of the Tammany tribe of good Indians, with Representative Riordan, chief medicine man of the tribe as his assistant.
 Nor was "Honolulu" the only song which cheered the pilgrims across the long stretches of the Arizona deserts and the wild waves of the Pacific. Under the leadership of Jack Desha, whose guitar was the accompanying orchestra, the musical members of the party crowded nightly into the observation car on the Santa Fe de luxe train and learned to sing "Aloha Oe," "Like no Like," "Pua Mohala," "Hone Kaula Wiki Wiki," which interpreted is said to be "kiss me quick," and that very popular song, "One, Two, Three, Four." To these were added the American repertoire of "Old Black Joe," "Swanee River," "Old Kentucky Home," "Old Heidelberg," "Taking Nellie Home," and scores of other old-time melodies, in which at times every one, including Uncle Joe Cannon, joined with enthusiasm, if not with harmony.
 The impresario of the songsters was Representative Stafford, of Wisconsin.
