

BIG RAISE MADE IN ROUND TRIP RATES TO MAINLAND

Oceanic, Matson and Pacific Mail Will Give No Reductions on Two-Way Tickets

Honolulu and the tourists are confronted with a marked increase of round trip passenger fares to and from the coast beginning June 1.

To visit the Panama-Pacific exposition and return to the Paradise of the Pacific will mean an additional payment of from $15 to $30 over existing tariffs.

Following close upon the announcement from the Oceanic Steamship Company, through C. Brewer & Co., its local representatives, that after June 1 the company would discontinue the present round-trip rate of $110 and $120 and that first-class one-way rates of $65 and $75 would apply in either direction, the Matson Navigation Company has also decided on a similar advance in passenger fares.

A slump in passenger business beginning early this year, which local steamship men say has continued during the season, may have been a reason for the directors of the several steamship companies boosting the rate.

It is said records kept at the port show there has been a marked decrease in the number of passengers leaving the mainland for the islands, in the case of the Oceanic company its vessels have been coming to the islands practically empty of passengers on many outward voyages. All lines have enjoyed a slight increase in coast bound traffic, probably due to the attractions offered at the exposition.

"We will follow suit" was the comment made at the Matson agency today when attention was called to the increase in fares announced by the Oceanic company.

"We expect to be advised to restore the round-trip rates between the islands and the coast," was an admission coming from the Pacific Mail Steamship representatives at H. Hackfeld & Company.

"Steamship companies engaged in transportation of passengers between the mainland and Hawaii have been operating on a basis which left but a small margin of profit," said a transportation man today.

"The companies have not been receiving what they believe a just return on the large capital invested in the tonnage. The problem has been a difficult one, and weeks were spent seeking a possible solution before the decision was reached calling for a restoration of the former passenger fares."

While first-class one-way rates will apply to all transportation between Honolulu and San Francisco and return, C. Brewer & Company announce that all passage orders already issued will be honored.

At the Oceanic office bookings made prior to today will be accepted at the old rate.

The greatest increase will be felt by the Matson line. On its steamers passengers have heretofore had the option of cabins at $60 and $75 one way or $110 and $120 on round-trip passage.

One well-known steamship man justified the increase by saying, "We need the money."

G. A. R. VETERANS WILL SCATTER FLOWERS OVER LOST SUBMARINE

Tribute to Sailors Who Lost Lives in F-4 By Men Who Fought 50 Years Ago

E. A. Strout, post commander of the George W. De Long post, G. A. R., will confer with other members of the local post, and also with members of the United Spanish War Veterans, with a view to arranging, if possible, for the scattering of flowers and wreaths outside the harbor where the victims of the F-4 lie entombed. The project is to be carried out in conjunction with the regular Memorial Day services, Monday.

In conferring with his post mates Commander Strout says he is following out the suggestion made in an editorial in yesterday's edition of the Star-Bulletin, which urged that there be some sort of a memorial to those who lost their lives in the F-4.

"I am certainly in favor of it," said the commander. "I think it would be a fine thing and as soon as I get the commander of the S. W. V., I will take the matter up with him."

The commander of the submarines and of the cruiser Maryland, as well as others in authority, were "on the job" in the raising of the F-4 today, and could not be seen regarding participation in the contemplated memorial.

The order of the Memorial Day parade Monday, which will include six full bands, has been changed. The parade will start from the Capitol grounds at 10 o'clock. The route lies down King street to Fort, thence to Vineyard and along Vineyard to Nuuanu street. The course then will be direct to the Nuuanu cemetery. The parade will move in the following order:

Mounted police, 2nd Infantry band, 2nd Infantry, U. S. Marine band, detachment from U. S. S. Maryland, National Guard of Hawaii band, National Guard of Hawaii, Honolulu School for Boys, Independent Order of Red Men, George W. De Long post, 45, G. A. R., Spanish War Veterans' band, United Spanish War Veterans, Governor Pinkham and suite, decorated automobiles.

Maj. Michael J. Lenihan, 2nd Infantry, U. S. A., will be grand marshal. He takes the place of Lieutenant Benjamin W. Atkinson, who is ill.

The program at Nuuanu cemetery will be as follows:

MEMORIAL DAY.

Day set apart by our nation. To honor with prayer and thought The memory of our many heroes, Who in Civil war gallantly fought.

Day to decorate with flag and garland The graves of our many brave, Sons of Northland and Southland Who life for their cause freely gave.

Boys under Grant and McClelland, Starved fighters of Jackson and Lee, And other leaders dear to our land Who have made America's history.

Those who fell in the Wilderness, Cied in Vale of the Shenandoah, At Cold Harbor, Gettysburg, and Manassas, Seven Pines, the Crater, Shiloh.

Not a holiday for recreation This glorious 30th of May, But Holy day of consecration To those who wore Blue and Gray.

Sacred to soldiers who are sleeping In the North and north southern sun, Under the Stars and Stripes of many states Now firmly united as one.

So when strewing tokens, step lightly Among these time-honored mounds, For those who lie 'neath you are knightly, You are treading hallowed ground.—H. M. MCANCE.

getting the submarine out of its present position, through the channel and into the harbor.

The cause of the hole in the submarine's bow is not definitely known, but it is believed that the pounding which the huge surf waves parted the heavy wire and chain cables like threads, necessitating the letting go of the one remaining line to save it, would account for the damaged plates. Not until the boat is raised will it be possible to make a careful examination of the aperture.

This morning, when it was thought possible that bodies would be recovered, all preparations were made to take charge of the remains. The navy medics were on hand to look into the identification, and get the bodies into caskets as soon as possible. This work was to have been done at the quarantine station where the diving barge, which has been enclosed in canvas, had been towed.

The diving this morning was done from one of the Maryland's sailing launches, which has been fitted up with the air flasks and gear used by the diving experts for their deep sea work. When the men were going to great depths, making the recompression chamber a necessary auxiliary, the diving was done from a barge, but in only 45 feet of water it is an easy matter to go down and remain for some time without inconvenience, and the launch has proved more convenient and easier to handle.

Gunner Jorgenson is one of the men who has been taking instruction in diving with a compressed air supply, and this morning was the first time that he went down in connection with the salvage work.

FIFTEEN EAGER TO BE CITIZENS

Henry Martin Jacob Conrad Frandsen, a native of Denmark, became a citizen of the United States in federal court this morning by taking the oath of allegiance before Judge Sanford B. Dole. Fifteen petitions for naturalization were on the calendar.

The hearing of Georg Bernhard Vitus Isenberg's petition was continued for a month. Mr. Isenberg, who is a native of Germany, recently requested that the court defer hearing until the close of the European war. The petition of Raival Aitake, a native of Great Britain and a former resident of Fiji, was continued for a month as the petitioner was not in court.

Other petitions pending are those of Herbert Riley, Great Britain; Alberto dos Santos, Portugal; Takao Ozawa, Japan; John Charles Smith, Great Britain; Harold Joseph Anell, Sweden; Edward Desoumes, France; George Godfrey Foden, Great Britain; Frank Rensky, Austriv; Frank Joseph Quinn, Great Britain, and Jacob Kahn, Russia.

The official estimate of the value of the estate left by the late Charles Frohman, who went down with the Lusitania, was fixed at $350,000.

SCORE OF YOUNGSTERS HALED BEFORE JUVENILE COURT TODAY

Twenty-two juvenile court cases, 20 of which charge truancy, were heard and disposed of before Juvenile Judge William L. Whitney this morning.

When it was all over Judge Whitney leaned back in his chair, lighted his pipe, and with a smile, declared, "After all, kids will be kids."

There is nothing glaring in the charges brought against the boys who were haled before the court today. The majority of them, according to Probation Officer John C. Anderson, have developed a habit of playing truant from school to wander about the docks, especially when steamers are in port.

All of the boys are newspaper sellers, and in many instances they are over-enterprising and leave the schools early so that they may secure the afternoon papers in good time. "Johnny" Anderson, who is liked by the boys more than he is feared, started a campaign to round up the delinquents and yesterday afternoon he interviewed 18 in his office.

"One of the youngsters burst into tears when 'Johnny' motioned for him to come up to his desk. The boy held back. Evidently he had visions of a term of life imprisonment.

"Go on, go on," said one of the older boys, pushing the younger one forward, "that fellow no hurt you."

So this morning Judge Whitney heard the cases of all the boys, and all of them were put on probation. Commenting on the work of the court, Judge Whitney said that he has heard 250 new cases since the first of the year. More than 1000 cases are pending which have been taken under advisement.

Honolulu has become distinctly metropolitan as pertains to street gamins, juvenile courts and the handling of trunks and petty larcenists. According to "Johnny" Anderson, very few of the boys who come before the juvenile court are known by their real names. Each boy appears to have a

WEALTHY MANILA WOMAN COMES TO HONOLULU TO DIE

Mrs. Mary Anderson Smith, a native of Edinburgh, Scotland, a resident of Manila, Philippine Islands, for the last 15 years, where she acquired extensive business interests, died at Queen's hospital this morning from a complication of diseases.

Known as "Mother Smith" to thousands of Americans and others along the coast of Asia, Mrs. Smith amassed a competence as the proprietor of Manila's leading restaurant. She left the islands seven months ago because of illness. Her condition improved to some extent while in Japan and she took passage in the steamer Tenyo Maru to Honolulu. Since her arrival three weeks ago her health has steadily declined, the end coming at 11:20 this morning, surrounded by friends she had made during a brief stay in this city.

The deceased woman has a mother and sister residing at Vancouver, B. C. The remains will be forwarded to the Coast in the Shinyo Maru Tuesday morning. In addition to property in the Philippines, Mrs. Smith possessed extensive interests in Rockford, Ill., and at points in British Columbia.

RELIGIOUS WORK WILL BE DIVIDED AMONG THREE MEN

The position of religious secretary of the Y. M. C. A. has ceased to be, for the coming year at least.

The work done by Secretary Lloyd R. Killam last year was divided into three departments at the conference of the Y. M. C. A. secretaries at Moanua park yesterday afternoon.

Secretary Killam, who is now at tending several conferences on the mainland, will be secretary of the Oriental work exclusively, beginning with August, upon his return. The work of Bible clubs in the association will be conducted by the educational secretary, Jay Urice. The religious work will also be taken up by the intermediate and physical departments.
