KOREAN WOUNDS MAN HE THOUGHT GAVE HIM AWAY

Yee Yo Keuk, Who Escaped From Jail Last Month, Re-arrested, While His Victim, Okasaki, is in Hospital With Bullet Wound in Abdomen

SATURDAY NIGHT CHASE BY POLICE SUCCESSFUL

Missing Prisoner Arrested Early Sunday Morning After a Fight With Detectives; Going to Hilo in Packing Case

Yee Yo Keuk, alias Yee Kee Lee, a Korean, now facing two charges of assault with a weapon with intent to kill, his last victim a Japanese lying seriously injured at Queen's hospital, held by the police as responsible for five burglaries committed in Honolulu in the last three months, is locked up in a cell at the central receiving station after a desperate fight with city detectives and police officers who spent Saturday night in the recapture of the man who escaped from prison the latter part of May.

Cluding the pursuit of Captain McDuffie, Sergeant Kellett, and Detectives Woo, Swift, Berglin, Belmont and Ocampo, and engaging in a desperate fight with Police Captain Fred Hauke, the Korean was not re-arrested until after he had fired two shots early Sunday morning at K. Okasaki, one of which lodged in his abdomen and the other in his right hand.

Okasaki is now lying dangerously wounded at Queen's Hospital. The bullet which entered his abdomen is being probed for today, and if it is located and can be removed he will probably recover.

Captain McDuffie received a "tip" early Saturday that Yee Yo Keuk had planned a meeting with a Korean, who was to supply the fugitive with a quantity of liquor. It was arranged that the intoxicant be "drugged."

Officers from the detective department took a station near the rendezvous. At a given signal they descended upon the place, but the Korean fled through a rice field in the direction of Liliha and School streets.

McDuffie and his men continued the search until early Sunday morning before returning to headquarters.

At daylight Captain McDuffie was notified that a Korean had entered a house in Kelleit lane. Captain Fred Hauke and a squad of police in the early watch visited the place and found Keuk asleep on the lanai. The officers recognized the Korean and attempted to take him, when he flourished a gun. Hauke and his men engaged in a desperate fight for possession of the weapon and the Korean was overpowered and brought to the station.

While hastening to Kelleit Lane to assist Hauke, McDuffie and the detectives were attracted to a crowd that had gathered on Parker lane. They found Okasaki, lying stunned from the effect of two shots said to have been fired by the Korean. He told the police that he was called to the door by the Korean who insisted the Japanese had given information to the police concerning his movements. A few words were exchanged, then Keuk drew the gun and fired.

A reward had been posted for the apprehension of the Korean. He admitted today to the shooting of the Japanese. He further stated he had intended leaving Honolulu for the island of Hawaii. It had been arranged that he be shipped to Hilo in a packing case.

The officers found a new revolver and a gold watch on the Korean when he was searched. He was charged with several burglaries and with an assault with a deadly weapon when he escaped from the receiving station. Since that time Keuk is alleged to have made threats that he would take the lives of McDuffie, several detectives and also Japanese and Koreans responsible for his apprehension.

The man was readily identified by the injured Japanese as the one who did the shooting at the Parker Lane house. Several Koreans belonging to the local mission recognized the watch as one taken from that place some weeks ago.

Keuk says he has been hiding near Kahuku plantation. The police believe that he has spent much of the time since his escape from jail in and about Honolulu. A number of burglaries have been traced to him.

CATHCART AND BROWN ARE OUT AFTER BARTLETT?

Grand Jury to Take Up Scandal—Brewery Sends Letter to Commission

If Charles G. Bartlett, former president and manager of the Honolulu Brewing & Malting Company, committed embezzlement and forgery, as indicated in H. Gooding Field's report of his financial transactions, the city and county attorney's office will endeavor to secure his indictment by the territorial grand jury, and his return to Honolulu to face the charges.

In the foregoing manner A. M. Brown, deputy city and county attorney, today summed up the part which the city and county attorney's office intends to play in the airing before the liquor license commission of Bartlett's alleged misappropriations. Mr. Brown's statement is confirmed by City and County Attorney J. W. Cathcart.

Mr. Brown added that the city and county attorney's office must not be taken as an "agent" of the liquor board or of the Anti-Saloon League. Any work in the Bartlett matter which may be done by the city and county attorney's office will be on its own initiative, he declared. Attorneys Cathcart and Brown say that the investigation will begin when the grand jury meets in the judiciary buildings at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Whether the investigation will be completed on that day is a matter of question.

It is understood that the city and county attorney's office has a long list of persons who will be called as witnesses before the grand jury.

Another meeting of the board of liquor license commissioners will be held in the senate chamber tomorrow afternoon, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. Secretary Carlos Long said today that action on the petitions for renewals of licenses will be taken at an evening session to begin at 7:30 o'clock.

The protests against the renewal of licenses to P. F. Corryn (Dick Sullivan) of the Fashion saloon and T. A. Marlowe of the Kentucky saloon will be taken up tomorrow afternoon. The protests were made on behalf of the Anti-Saloon League on the ground of "undisclosed interests."

Brewery Makes Statement to Commission.

A brewery director today told the Star-Bulletin that a letter had been written late last week to the license commission. He would not say what the letter is about, but it is pretty well understood that it denies emphatically that the brewery has any money invested in saloons or participates in any profits from saloons. This is the verbal contention of the directors, and both President Schuman and Manager Sayres said last week that such a letter would be sent to the commission.

The Star-Bulletin tried to find President Schuman today but could not locate him to get a copy of the letter. Chairman Lowrey of the license commission declined to admit that such a letter had reached the commission but said if one had been sent it would be taken up at the commission's meeting tomorrow afternoon.

The case of the Oahu Railway & Land Company vs. Kalohana Kalil, first circuit, was argued and submitted in the supreme court today.

Two bicycles ridden by H. Pareau and R. Matsumoto collided near the intersection of King and Liliha streets yesterday afternoon. The riders escaped serious injuries.

Lloyd Smith, whose auto driven by him to a lina in upper Manoa valley was alleged to have been taken by Solomon Kupahu, a Hawaiian boy, declined to prosecute the case when it was called at district court this morning. Smith and Albert H. Lucas left the machine standing on the side of the road while they attended the festivities. A few hours later they learned the car had been driven away. The automobile was found near the Robert Shingle home in Makiki. Young Kupahu was in a penitent mood when confronted with the misdemeanor. A settlement for damage done the car had been arranged.

CONSIDER SHIFT OF P. M. VESSELS TO ATLANTIC RUN

Great Liners Now Calling at Honolulu May Carry Munitions of War to Europe

SOUTHERN PACIFIC MAY GIVE UP COMPANY STOCK

Panama Route Trade With New York Talked of While La Follette Bill is in Effect

The Pacific Mail liner Mongolia, filled with a record cargo, which left Honolulu for the Orient late last week may be making its last trip over the transpacific route before going into an Atlantic service during the continuation of the European war.

That the Manchuria, Korea, Siberia and China would follow in a similar trade until such time as Congress can meet to ameliorate conditions alleged to have been produced by the passage of the La Follette shipping bill, was the prediction made during the stay of the Mongolia at Honolulu.

Officers in the Mongolia do not appear worried over the outcome. They view the statements contained in an interview with Vice-President and General Manager R. P. Schwerin with unconcern.

When the Mongolia left San Francisco the belief gained considerable credence in Pacific coast shipping that the Pacific Mail crisis would be met by one of two methods.

Southern Pacific ownership will cease and the large steamers Manchuria, Mongolia, Siberia, Korea and China will go on the Panama canal route to New York.

Or else the five large steamers will be used in the transatlantic service during the European war, in the hope that the next Congress will ameliorate the conditions of the La Follette law. The fate of the smaller steamers of the Central American trade is uncertain.

R. P. Schwerin was in New York when the Mongolia steamed to Honolulu. He is reported to have said: "If you had struggled for 20 years, as I have, taken a line that was $1,250,000 in debt, doubled its traffic by building four 37,000-ton ships to put into the trade from New York to the Philippines and you were defeated by Congress through the canal bill and the seaman's act, I think you would be a little discouraged."

"I have given 20 years of my life, morning, noon and night, to see the American flag on the ocean, and if those four ships had been built I would have had four more for the

JAPANESE MUST FIRST BECOME GOOD CITIZENS

Then the Japanese-American Question Will Solve Itself, Says Los Angeles Editor

Not by educational campaigns on the so-called misunderstanding of the American-Japanese question but by proficiency in acquiring American standards of citizenship on the part of the Japanese lies the solution of the difficulties between Japan and the United States.

K. Oishi, former editor of the Japanese Los Angeles Times, thus summed up the conclusions he has reached after years of investigation of the question in California.

Mr. Oishi spoke to a crowd of 1000 Honolulu Japanese in the Asahi theater last night. He will spend several months studying the Hawaiian phase of the question and then proceed to Japan.

"All this talk about misunderstanding is bosh," said Mr. Oishi to his Japanese audience. "Japan understands America and America understands Japan. The question is simply one of policy. The anti-Japanese feeling prevails throughout the coast states and can not be changed at present. There is no way to stop this feeling of the American people save by increasing our own proficiency. Learned professors may talk and still talk, but the fundamental difficulty will still be there. Let us build up the Japanese capacity for citizenship, and then the question will solve itself in a peaceful quiet way."

LEO M. FRANK'S LIFE SAVED BY GOVERNOR'S ACT

Death Sentence Commuted to Life Imprisonment By Georgia Executive

SAYS CRIMINAL IS NOT POSITIVELY IDENTIFIED

Accused Man Hurried From Jail to Prison Farm Before News is Given Out

[Associated Press by Federal Wireless] ATLANTA, Ga., June 21.—The last hope of Leo M. Frank, the young Jew accused of the murder of little Mary Phagan many months ago, was crowned with partial realization today when Governor Slaten of Georgia commuted his sentence from death to imprisonment for life.

Announcement of the governor's decision was made after Frank had been secretly taken from the jail where he has been incarcerated for several weeks and hurried to the state prison farm near Edgeville, away from the Atlanta crowds which are alleged to have dominated the jury when it found the young factory manager guilty of the brutal murder of the girl employe.

Although crowds gathered on the streets as soon as it was learned that Frank's sentence had been commuted, and lingered for hours, there was no excitement. The police closed the "near-beer" saloons and 100 policemen were kept on extra duty all day.

In his statement explaining the commutation the governor said: "Feeling as I do about the case, I would be a murderer if I allowed Frank to hang. The murder was a most heinous one and the offender deserves death. It is only a question of identifying the criminal."

The governor's action was the only thing that stood between Frank and death. The supreme court of the United States had refused to interfere with the progress of the Georgia courts in dealing with the case, though without passing on the merits of Frank's defense. In May Frank was given a hearing by the Georgia prison commission, the question being whether the death sentence should be commuted to life imprisonment. The commission declined to interfere, after which only the governor could change the sentence or pardon Frank.

The Frank case awakened extraordinary interest in the country over. Petitions with hundreds of thousands of signatures asking that Frank be not executed were sent to the governor and other Georgian officials.
