NO MILLION DOLLAR LEGACY IS LIKELY FOR E. FAXON BISHOP

Entire Estate of Late Philanthropist Will Scarcely Total That Much, Say Associates

The estate left by the late Charles R. Bishop, who died in San Francisco June 7, instead of approximately $10,000,000 is probably not worth at most one-tenth of that amount, according to the opinion of Honolulu business men. Unless the estate of the late philanthropist is many times larger than close business associates in Honolulu believe, the share of E. Faxon Bishop of Honolulu instead of amounting to more than $1,000,000 as reported in a newspaper this morning will scarcely run to six figures. Mr. Bishop is to receive one-sixth of three-fifths of the residue after $103,400 has been paid out for specific legacies to relatives, friends and charities.

The statement printed in the Star-Bulletin at the time of Mr. Bishop's death to the effect that he had really seriously curtailed his resources by large gifts and endowments, is, I think substantially correct, was one opinion advanced this morning. San Francisco newspapers of June 18 and 19, referring to the filing of the will for probate, refer to the estate as being worth "between $9,000,000 and $10,000,000," but no authority is given for the estimate and no mention is made of corporation or realty holdings which would justify such a valuation.

Bonds for Punahou. The terms of the will, argue Honolulu friends of the dead philanthropist, argue against so colossal a value for the estate. In addition to specific bequest of $10,000 for the trustees of Punahou Academy, 29 West Sacramento bonds of an assumed par value of $1,000 each are bequeathed to be sold and the proceeds used for improving the Bishop hall of science at the college. Had Mr. Bishop been a multi-millionaire it is thought unlikely that he would have named a specific security to the value of $29,000 for the institution.

A new department in science, some specialty to be selected later, is the proposal for the use of Punahou's bequest. At the alumni dinner held recently speakers urged that a new chair be provided in the department of science, but owing to a lack of funds, no hope for the immediate establishing of such a chair was generally entertained. The endowment of another $39,000 by Mr. Bishop would enable the trustees of the college to create the new department with the interest earned.

This plan met with the favor of two of the trustees today, but owing to the fact that no definite information concerning the amount of the bequest has been received, they were reluctant about speaking on the question of how to use the money. The trustees are planning to conduct a campaign in the near future in the hope of raising $250,000 for new buildings and chairs at Punahou.

The Bishop bequest of $5000 for the Leahi home came in the "nick of time," according to Dr. A. N. Sinclair, superintendent. The home is soon to be presented with a new tubercular ward, the gift of the Alexander Young estate, but the institution has no money to care for any more inmates, so the new building might be vacant of patients on this account. Dr. Sinclair estimates that the $5000 at interest would earn $25 a month for the home, and he says that it will "help some."

The home does not need any more buildings at present as it has no money to care for any more patients, the superintendent reports.

Special Bequests. George L. Bishop and Mrs. Emma Bernice Dunham of Oakland, a nephew and niece, are each given an undivided fifth in the estate. The others besides E. Faxon Bishop who each get a sixth of the residue of three-fifths are Edgar Bishop of Oakland, a cousin; Corey Brayton of Berkeley, a cousin; Edna L. McCaffery, a grand niece; Charles B. and Leland Dunham, grandnephews.

Among the individual legacies named in the will are the following: Mrs. Cordelia Alderson, $5000; Frances E. Bishop, a cousin, $5000; Corey C. Brayton, $15,000; Linus Brayton, $3000; Eben F. Bishop, $15,000; Harry C. Rumsey, $2000; Raymond B. Bishop, $5000; Orville Patterson of Pennsylvania, $10,000; Bertha Rumsey of Kansas, $5000; Alice B. Blood, $2000; Charles B. Blood, $2000; Mary A. Breen of St. Louis, $5000; Helen K. Kinney of Honolulu, $2000; Laura Hodges of Lake Como, Italy, $500; and Annie G. Lyle of San Francisco, $500.

The $19,400 for charities is divided as follows: Berkeley Day Nursery, $200; Canon Kip Mission, San Francisco, $200; Girls and Boys' Industrial Home at Lyton Springs, $500; Boys and Girls' Aid Society, San Francisco, $3000; San Francisco Associated Charities, $1000; First Unitarian Church of Berkeley, $1000; Maud Booth Home for Children, San Francisco, $500; Leahi Home, Honolulu, $5000; Kamehameha Alumnae Association, Honolulu, $2500; Oahu College trustees, $10,000, with proceeds from 29 West Sacramento Company bonds to improve Bishop Hall of Science at the college.

Bishop provided that should anyone try to break the will he shall lose his portion. He asked a simple funeral—a quick one—and requested that his body should not be exposed to public gaze. "Twenty-nine West Sacramento bonds are set aside for University of California scholarships.

was through the eastern press, but as yet, none of my clippings give any satisfaction along these lines.

"I would therefore request you to prepare and present to the commission between June 1 and 5 as comprehensive a report as you may be able to prepare, covering your work for the months of March, April and May, 1915, and outlining your suggestions as to future activities. Upon receipt of this, I will submit the same to the commissioners for their consideration, for to use a phrase commonly employed by you, we must protect the taxpayers in every way, cutting down expenses where possible and advisable."

Doyle, in a letter of the same date, wrote to the Star-Bulletin in part as follows: "At no time since I was a candidate for this position, has my candidacy ever been received with much favor by Mr. Wood. Although he has repeated on many occasions to me, prior to my appointment, that I was the only logical candidate for the position, his attitude since my arrival here has been one of marked friendliness with a string to it. I have tried to avert all friction with him, nor have I taken any part in the fight that was made for his removal in Honolulu recently. What has caused this attitude at this time towards me is as near as I can figure out the following:

"There has been in the employ of the Hawaiian Promotion Committee, for several months here, a young part-Hawaiian by the name of Carl Nieper. This young man has been employed by the Promotion Committee at a salary of $75 a month. He asked for more and was turned down by the last Promotion Committee. Mr. Wood has him out here in the building to give out folders and information to inquiring prospective tourists and to meet steamers upon their arriving at the dock, and secure passenger lists on arriving Honolulu steamers. According to Nieper, Wood guaranteed Nieper that as soon as Commissioner Williams arrived here there would be three members of the Hawaiian commission present and at that time he would be voted a salary of $75 a month by the Hawaiian fair commission.

"A meeting was held here last Friday, May 14, at which time Commissioner Williams, Rivenburgh and Wood were present and the matter of Nieper's salary was taken up. Williams strongly opposed any payment of salary to Nieper and the result was no action was taken. Following this meeting Nieper was apprized of the action of the commission and a stormy scene ensued between Wood and Nieper, portions of the conversation which took place could be plainly heard outside of the office and on one or more occasions I heard Nieper roundly curse Wood.

"Following this stormy scene Wood immediately dictated a hurried letter to the Hawaiian commission in which he strongly urged that Nieper be paid $75 a month out of the commission. "Regarding my own status I would state that as far as the leaflet which good criticisms is concerned, I enclose it for your perusal. In this connection

I would state that Wood asked me to draw up something along these lines. I had such a pamphlet prepared, probably not quite as elaborate as this as my imagination does not go so far, and then he requested that I incorporate in this the descriptive matter regarding the so-called friezes. The material for this description he told me I could secure from Gordon Osborne. I was two weeks in trying to locate him, as was also Mr. Wood, and when I had found him I discovered that Mr. Wood had already gone ahead and gotten out this leaflet as enclosed. "Let me also add that it was through my efforts and my efforts alone that there was a representation of prominent Honoluluans then in San Francisco present to meet and mingle with the congressional party which arrived here last month. Perhaps this has no value—I was under the impression that it had."
