HUNDREDS OF HONOLULANS ENJOY HOSPITALITY OF JAPAN'S CONSUL; GOVERNOR OF TERRITORY PAYS TRIBUTE TO ISLAND KINGDOM EMPEROR

Formal Dinner at Young Hotel, Followed by Reception and Ball at Which Mr. and Mrs. H. Arita are Hosts, Attended by Many Representatives of Official, Service and Civilian Circles of City—Entertainment is Lavish

"To him who inherits such an empire are due the congratulations we can here tender. I therefore propose a toast to His Imperial Japanese Majesty Yoshihito, Emperor of Japan."
Having summed up the history of Japan, the accomplishments of the nation and the characteristics of her people, Governor Lucius E. Pinkham, after paying high tributes to Emperor Yoshihito and his subjects, closed his address last night at Consul Arita's banquet with the foregoing toast.
As a climax to the day of celebrations held by the Japanese of Hawaii in observance of the coronation of Emperor Yoshihito, the dinner and ball given on the roof garden of the Alexander Young hotel last evening came as a fitting climax. Acting Consul-General and Consul H. Arita and Mrs. Arita entertained at the dinner a score of guests representative of the territorial government, the judiciary, the army, the navy and the city. Governor Pinkham and Consul Arita were the only speakers at the dinner, each toasting the ruler of the other's country. Dance Follows Reception.
After the dinner hour a reception was held from 8:30 until 10 o'clock, which was attended by many hundreds of Honoluluans, despite the torrential downpour which turned many of the city's streets into veritable rivers. A dance, which lasted until midnight, followed the reception.
Both the mauka pavilion, where the receiving line stood, and the makai pavilion, which was converted into the ballroom, were lavishly decorated, with the usual Japanese artistic success. The roof garden between the two pavilions was enclosed with canvas and was embowered with palms and flowers, and made gay with many strings and garlands of lights, covered with Japanese lanterns. During the hours of the reception the Hawaiian Band played at intervals, and soon after the dance began refreshments were served.
In the receiving line stood Mr. and Mrs. Arita and Vice-Consul and Mrs. Smith, with A. J. C. Anderson acting as master of ceremonies.
Governor Pinkham's address, delivered at the dinner follows, in full:

KINDLINESS OF PEOPLE MENTIONED IN SPEECH
November 10, 1915.
Honorable Consul General Arita, and your guests.
As the representative of the President of the United States of America, of his army, of his navy in the Territory of Hawaii, I respond to the toast of the President of the United States of America, and I may here, as Governor and in behalf of the people of these islands, on this Coronation Day, pay honor to His Imperial Japanese Majesty, Yoshihito, Emperor of Japan, and congratulate his people on the unity and progress of the Japanese Empire so wisely fostered and guided by His Imperial predecessor, and His Majesty, this day crowned.
President Wilson has sought peace and amity as few rulers have sought, and with a patience, persistence and self-restraint almost limitless, for less than that would mean unseen complications.
As he seeks and desires peace and amity with honor, so does this distant division of his domain.
The representatives of the various countries and races do themselves, as well as the President, honor in the toast just given.
This gathering and event has peculiar significance in that the United States of America, then the leading maritime nation of the world, first looked Japan to begin to enter upon her career as a factor in modern civilization, commerce, manufactures and world influence, and that here in the Territory of Hawaii the reflex of America's penetration is most pronounced.
The old empire had an acute civilization with arts and equipment suited to her self-imposed isolation, and vigorous enough to maintain the mental and physical vitality on which to build her present national structure.
Her rapid transition and adaptation is easily comprehended by those who visit the historical museums of the capitals of Japan, Nara, Kioto and Tokio, and then turn to the great, recently established, commercial museums in those cities.
Once started on her career, an intense impulse of application and a wide search for knowledge seemed to take possession of her people.
Mental acquisitions and attainments were promptly transmuted into factors of material advantage, almost aggressive in eagerness.
The keynote of educational enthusiasm, within the Empire, has been nowhere more strikingly illustrated than among the young women attending the Girls' Higher Normal School at Nara, the recollection of which will never leave me.
I should fall if I omit to pay deep respect to the scholarship of Japan, notably to the attainments of those students who have attended the greatest universities and technical schools of Europe and America, and, by closest application, been enabled to carry to their own country stores of most advanced knowledge and skill.
To them does Japan owe not only rapid material, and possibly political advance, but her position among the intellectual forces of the world.
Certain professional altruists, upon many occasions, endeavor to claim a notable and fundamental part in the modernization of Japan.
I fear this is a narrow and specialist's point of view that overlooks the innate capacity and initiative of the Japanese people.
To a degree Japan has neglected no means that tend to the realization of her varied hopes and ambitions.
She has, in her progress, deeply studied and then adopted what has seemed to her the wisest and most effective experience and highest development, irrespective of affiliations, sentiment or nationality.
Japan desired a navy and a merchant marine. The United States have been driven from the high seas, she logically took Great Britain as the most notable and brilliant example, imitated it, and, so successfully did she push her merchant marine, she forced a differential in her favor in competition in the carrying trade to England's main home ports.
The ultimate attainments of her merchant marine and navy cannot now be predicted.
She desired an army and organization of highest mobility and effectiveness, hence, she could not and did not fail to turn to Germany for example and training.
The result need not be here reviewed.
Japan has realized the vital importance of trained diplomats and consular organization.
Today her diplomacy is in evidence in every principal in the world. Her ambassadors and ministers are not silent in whatever concerns or possibly might concern the Empire of Japan.
She realized the fact conventionalities are a powerful lever, hence her equipment to all capitals impress observers with her importance.
The consulate in Honolulu is an illustration of Japanese appreciation of the value of dignified official surroundings.
I can testify to the thorough and effective organization and work of His Imperial Japanese Majesty's Consulate covering this city and these islands.
That the Japanese people keenly seek expansion and appropriate to themselves opportunity when within their reach, singly or in association, ceases to surprise when the pressure of numbers within the Empire is realized.
Here, not opportunity for the immigrant but for all maturing island-born children of whatever nationality, causes local official anxiety.
Hardest pressed, Japan's imperial solution of this problem may direct other nations as they too contend with over-population.
It is for me, on this occasion and celebratory, to delve into the mysteries of international politics or problems or to speak as one knowing international purposes.
I am here to speak in behalf of the Territory of Hawaii, of its people, of its local government, and of their kindness toward the Japanese people, whom we invited here to make their homes, share a greater prosperity than possible in their atherland, and to increase and multiply, as the Creator planned, and, having invited them, have shared with them every advantage we possess.
Mere words, written or spoken, (which almost daily flood us and you) mean little. Acts accomplished, not promised, and things provided, that enter deeply into every day existence and welfare, are the proof of true friendship.
Impatience of normal and safe growth of race assimilation seems to be the only discordant and dangerous note, sounded by the body of the Japanese people, but by self-constituted patrons and guardians.
I doubt if even the Japanese realize the practical friendship that has been extended to them in these islands.
It is unparalleled in the history of peaceful relations among mingling races.
In the brief coming four years, if the ratio increase continues, the Japanese race will outnumber all other races, combined, domiciled within this Territory.
Over fifty-four per cent of annual births are Japanese and another one per cent is of their claimed subjects.
In education alone the Territory returns to the Japanese forty per cent more in money cost than the total taxes paid by them.
In one form or another none enjoy more than the Japanese—the use and profit of our limited area of arable land and the fisheries of our shores.

In Honolulu and Hilo the number of Japanese places of business outnumber those of all others combined, save the Chinese, in the ratio of three to one.
Thus a peaceful alien population conquest has taken place within the Territory of Hawaii.
This is a momentous day for the Japanese Empire and the apaspe people.
No longer are they in the age of tutelage. They stand complete for the prosecution of their own purposes, within and without their Empire, controlled solely by their own ethics, conscience, and power.
To have brought a nation in a few decades to a commanding position in commerce and international affairs demands the respect of the world.
To him who inherits such an Empire is due the congratulations we can here tender. I therefore propose a toast to His Imperial Japanese Majesty, Yoshihito, Emperor of Japan.

NEW CAMPAIGN AGAINST MOSQUITOES DUE SOON
"After the rain comes the sunshine," a poet once sang; but "After the rain comes the mosquitoes," is the parody which has been adopted by the Board of Health.
As soon as C. Charlock, chief sanitary inspector, returns from Hilo he will instaur the forces of the mosquito bureau in preparation for a vigorous campaign against the winged pests which it is reported, will visit Honolulu in squads, tribes, battalions, swarms and regiments after the rainy season has passed.
The little pools, ponds, and swamps left by the rain will form excellent breeding places for the mosquitoes, and the board is planning to destroy these places.
The board reports that Honolulu is an unusually healthy city at the present time, having a slight run of measles, which has invaded all the islands.

Rev. Gerhard Schafhirt Has Been Three Years in South; Services Begin Sunday

The ranks of Honolulu's ministers have been added to within the past few days by the arrival of Dr. Gerhard Schafhirt, who will fill the pulpit at the German Evangelical Lutheran church on Beretania street. This pastorate has been vacant since the departure for Germany of Rev. Engelhardt early this year.
The new pastor comes from Muskan, Silesia, Germany, and has until recently been head of the German Evangelical Lutheran congregation at Charters Towers, Australia. He will hold the first regular service next Sunday at 11 o'clock. Fuller announcement of details will be made on the church page of the Star-Bulletin next Saturday.
