SOCIETY

Something about Mrs. Fritz Henshaw. The Oakland Tribune devotes a bit of space to Mrs. Fritz Henshaw and one of the latest fads. Mrs. Henshaw is well known to Honoluluans, having resided here for over a year.

Mrs. Fritz Henshaw followed the fashion of scattering table decorations at her tea, yesterday into corsage flowers for her guests. The latest way to dispose of decorations that used to be left for when guests departed.

Mr. Raphael Weil, who is one of San Francisco's famous hosts, has always sent the flowers from his dinner parties home with his guests. With him it was a gracious informality to gather up the roses or orchids from some feast and fill the arms of the women when they said good night.

Concert by the Stanford Glee Club Tomorrow Night.

Regardless of the fact that this is Christmas week and that there are countless things to do, every one is looking forward to the concert to be given by the Stanford Glee Club at the Opera House tomorrow night.

The members of the Glee Club will be kept very busy during their brief visit to the islands.

There will be a big Christmas dinner given for the songsters and it is likely that they will take at least one out-of-town trip. As they leave for the mainland in the Great Northern Sunday evening, their college brothers here will have little opportunity of doing much for them socially.

Society Represented At Children's Plays.

Society was much interested in the performance of the children players yesterday. Children representing more than five nations participated in and made a successful performance of "Christmas Gold," a little playlet yesterday afternoon at the Opera House. The children were coached for this by Mrs. Francis R. Day, a lover of children and one who has their interest at heart, and Miss Evelyn Cunningham, one of the settlement workers at Palama Settlement and a particularly talented woman.

A second playlet was "Snowed In." It was a situation not quite comprehensive to the children of Hawaii, but seemed so different and unusual that they gazed with breathless interest upon the travelers who were snow-bound on Christmas eve, and clasped with keen delight when the little orphan boy found a mother and a home through the incident.

An amusing movie was put on between these two plays. Another performance will be given tonight.

Chicago University Men Entertained.

The Tenyo Maru's 24-hour stopover in Honolulu the first of the week gave the members of the University of Chicago baseball team an opportunity to renew old acquaintances in this city.

There were a number of informal affairs given for Mr. and Mrs. "Pat" Page and their "children," most of them being dinner parties, while a "rush" dance was arranged at the Outrigger Canoe Club, to which a number of guests were invited.

Exposition Folk Coming.

Mrs. Adolph Karpen, wife of the chairman of the Illinois commission to the exposition, gave a luncheon at the Palace hotel on Wednesday. Kar-pen arrived in San Francisco the first of the week and plans to accompany his wife and Mrs. Margaret Moegen, hostess of the Illinois building, on a trip to the Hawaiian Islands and the Orient. The Karpen party will be joined by several members of the Chicago smart set in this city. The Illinoisans plan to be in Japan during the cherry season.

Mrs. Mabel W. Castle and her daughter, Eleanor, are expected to return to Honolulu in the Matsonia arriving on January 4. Mrs. Castle and her daughter have been in Chicago for some time. With them are Prof. and Mrs. Herbert George Mead of Chicago University and their son, Henry, and ward, John Neff. The party will be the house-guests of Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Westervelt.

Mrs. Paul Withington, formerly Miss Constance Restarick of this city, was among the incoming passengers in the Wilhelmina yesterday morning. Mrs. Withington will spend the holiday season with her parents, Bishop and Mrs. Henry Bond Restarick. Mr. and Mrs. Reynold McGrew (Margaret Restarick) were also home-coming passengers in the Matson liner.

Misses Lillian and Mary Allen are being extensively entertained by their San Francisco friends. They arrived on the last steamer from Honolulu and are at the Cecil Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Berg returned to Honolulu yesterday, after spending some time in San Francisco and other California cities.

After spending a few weeks in California Ernest Podmore returned to Honolulu in the Wilhelmina.
