PEKING HINTS REBELS GIVEN GUNS BY JAPAN

Arms Taken From Shanghai Leaders Found to Be of Japanese Make

Hints that the Chinese government looks askance at the continued refuge afforded Sun Yat Sen in Japan, and that the Japanese government is under suspicion of winking at the preparations being made for revolution in China, are contained in the following despatch from Peking, printed on December 8 in the Japan Advertiser of Tokio:

PEKING, Dec. 8.—That Dr. Sun Yat Sen, now in Japan, was behind the uprising at Shanghai Sunday, is shown by papers that have come into the possession of the Chinese government. Among the documents and correspondence that the government discovered as a result of the dispersal of the revolting force at Shanghai were five papers in which Dr. Sun, as leader of the revolutionists, appoints five Chinese naval cadets as naval officers. These cadets are Chen Ko-chun, Yang-hu, Tsung Chi-tang, Li Chu-chao and Chen Tso-mai. It is alleged in the marine court that two of these five men were captured at Shanghai.

Engages Hirelings. Foreigners in Peking and throughout China are greatly surprised that Japan continues to harbor Sun Yat Sen when it is evident that he is openly using the protection of Japan to engage hirelings to raise disturbances in China. Foreigners believe that Japan will act promptly to dissociate herself from the foolish and criminal adventure that was brought to naught at Shanghai.

It is believed in Peking that Japan will be especially glad to take steps to show that her sympathies are with the Chinese government in its efforts to maintain order in China, since it is reported from good sources that the captured arms were of Japanese make. Besides, the recent discovery that Japanese were smuggling dynamite into China and the bomb explosion in Shanghai in which Japanese were killed, it is said here, will also influence the Japanese government to take decisive steps.

The bandits in Mongolia have now been dispersed by the Chinese troops, who have secured information showing the source from which the arms and ammunitions with which the bandits were armed came. It has been alleged by some correspondents that unpatriotic Japanese have sold large quantities to one of the bandit chiefs.

Friends of Japan in Peking believe that such an impression will be removed at once by the Japanese government in order to prevent wrong ideas prevailing among the Chinese, who, after all, are such good customers of the Japanese traders.

HAWAIIAN BAND TO MAKE MUSIC FOR BIG LUAU

There will be music galore tonight at the big native luau to be given from 5 to 8 o'clock on the grounds of the Pleasanton hotel. From 4 to 6 o'clock the Hawaiian band will play on the grounds of the hotel.

At 5 the luau will be opened, and the roast pig and roast fish, which will have been 24 hours in the ground, will be served. All members of the Stanford Glee Club will attend, and the college boys will sing a number of songs during the feast, which will be held in a big circular tent, the sides of which will be raised if there is no rain.

In addition to these features there will be three young hula dancers, and four women mele chanters with their gourds to chant for the hulas. Mayor John T. Lane will be a guest of honor, and it is expected that Jack London and Mrs. London will attend.

At the place of each guest there will be a bottle of Dole's pineapple juice as a distinctively Hawaiian beverage.

John Vivichaves, twice convicted on charges of usury, pleaded guilty in Circuit Judge Ashford's court yesterday to the third of 14 complaints all charging him with a similar offense. Sentence on the three charges will be pronounced some time after the first of the year. It is understood that the prosecution will drop the remaining charges.

REVOLUTION IN CHINA COMING SOON, SAYS DAI

Punahou Graduate, Returning After Year in Orient, Predicts Grave Trouble

Mandarins and officials in Canton, China, who are in sympathy with Yuan Shih-Kai's party, are circled by armed guards whenever they make their appearance in the streets, because of their fear of assassins or bomb-throwers affiliated with the revolutionists.

This is one instance of present-day conditions in China, as outlined by Henry Apau Dai, former student at Punahou, who recently returned to Honolulu after a year's visit in China, where he was married. Dai brought his bride back to Honolulu with him, and the couple intend to make their home here.

Dai declares that throughout China, and especially in the southern provinces, there is a strong feeling of opposition to the monarchy and to the placing of Yuan on the throne.

"From what I was able to learn," he says, "members of the revolutionary party now are in the South Seas, Borneo, Canada and the United States collecting money for a fund for a great revolution. There is no doubt that a revolution is pending, and that it is likely to break forth at any moment."

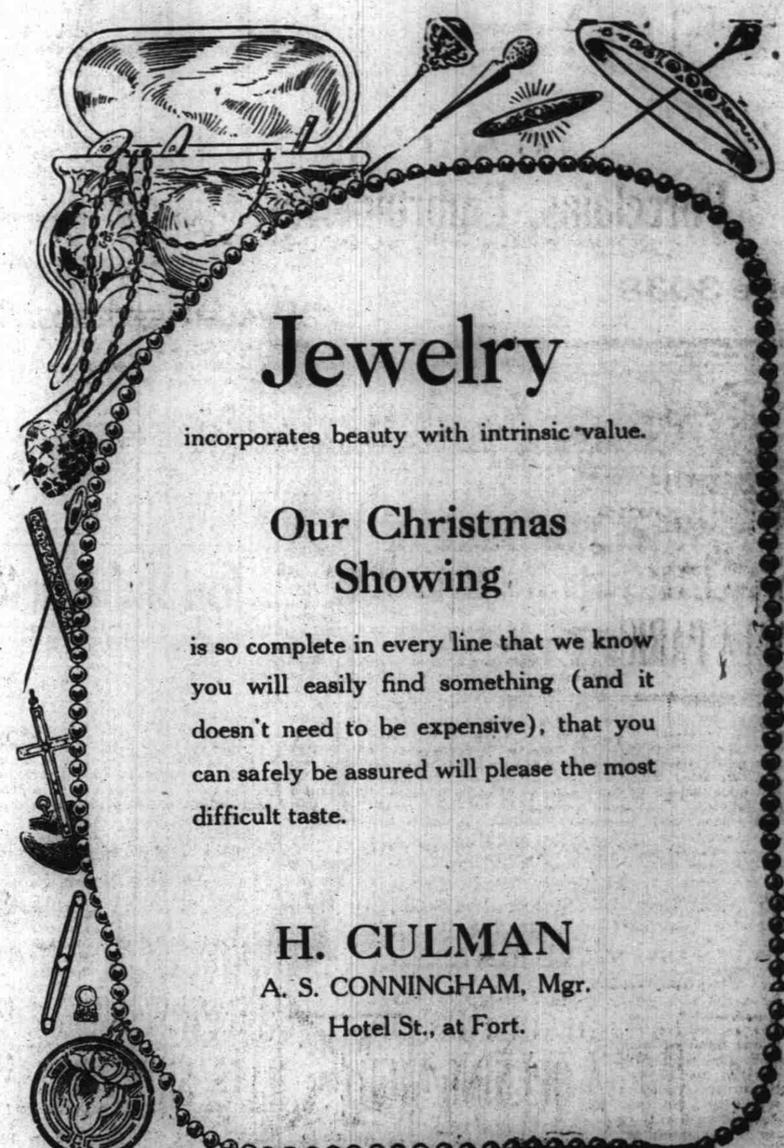

Majority Oppose Yuan. Dai says that in his opinion a majority of the Chinese in China are in favor of and would support a revolution. But there is very little sentiment expressed, he adds, and those who seem to favor a revolution are keeping still about it.

"All the German clubs in Hongkong have been confiscated by the British and are being used as army headquarters," says Dai. "A majority of the Germans in the city are in a concentration camp at In Hoong Hum, near Hongkong."

"The Chinese are staunch supporters of the Germans, and want to see the armies of the kaiser emerge victorious from the war. There are only a small number of Englishmen left in Hongkong, and those Chinese who were born in Hongkong have been placed in the British service either as guards or night watchmen. The city is now under martial law."

"The Germans in the concentration camp are living in grass huts. There are no women or children in the camp."

Dai says that in China the people as a whole do not think much of Yuan Shih-Kai or his policies, and it is largely for this reason that they desire a change of government.
